MAYOR TOBIN delivers his mid-term address from the podium in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

Another New Office Building Planned

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin indicated Tuesday that the next big push by his administration will be aimed at more efficiency in city government, prodded by the "legitimate impatience of taxpayers."

"Efficiency in government is a must, a must that must be everybody's business," he told an audience of some 150 persons who packed the Council Chamber at City Hall for his mid-term address.

The address leaned heavily on his accomplishments in obtaining new development in the city and he announced that a new office building is being planned for the State Street South complex in North Quincy.

But its theme stressed efficiency in government and the savings to taxpayers that would go along with it.

"For years elected officials have likened the cry of taxpayers for efficiency in government to that of the loud but harmless sound of thunder," he said.

"However, this is no longer the case, and the legitimate impatience of taxpayers has been charged and is beginning to be felt as a bolt of lightning, hitting and cutting randomly as it takes its toll from among the unsuspecting."

One of the first steps, he said, will be to have the various departments in the city government get together and share their administrative knowledge.

"The school system," he said, "has developed some expertise in the area of streamlining management objectives and several city departments have developed expertise in streamlining department objectives.

"It is my intention to have the various department heads share with each other the acquired administrative and managerial expertise and to make recommendations to the office of the Mayor which would be beneficial in further streamlining a most complex multi-million dollar operation."

Ticking off the accomplishments of his first year in office, Tobin noted that progress has already been made in efficiency but "one short year is hardly enough time in which to streamline a $100 million business.

"Nevertheless, a good beginning has been made and much more will be done in the coming year."

"Tax bills have been computerized," he said, "and a system for collecting delinquent taxes has been developed and is presently being implemented. Our inherited $7 million deficit was identified and funded separately."

He noted that the city is being audited for the first time in eight years and a reorganization plan to streamline hospital procedures will be presented to the City Council next Monday.

Tobin compared the promises he made in his inaugural address a year ago to what he called "the more significant accomplishments" of his first year in office.

One of those promises, he said, was to arrest "the slow and gradual withdrawal from our city of business firms, retail stores and industrial plants." He cited these accomplishments:

Harold Resigns From Council

'This Marks End Of Dual Office Holding'

"I'm leaving," said City Councillor Paul D. Harold, "but I'm not really going anywhere."

Harold submitted his resignation from the Council Tuesday, effective at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, when he was scheduled to be sworn in as State Senator from the Norfolk District.

"I feel it is more important for the Senator from this district to serve fulltime and to that end I've submitted my resignation," he said.

"This I believe will mark an end to an era for the city of Quincy of dual office-holding and I think history will show that this will serve the city in the best interests of all concerned."

Harold defeated former Sen. Arthur H. Tobin in the key Democratic primary in September on the two-job issue. Tobin was also mayor of Quincy.

Council President John J. Quinn said the Council will meet in special session Monday, Jan. 8, to select Harold's successor. Indications are it will be either Dennis E. Harrington or Joseph E. Brett, both former councillors who ran fourth and fifth in the 1977 race.

that have been his concern for the past three years.

• Post audit - "I believe it is an important function of this legislative group to make sure money appropriated is properly funnelled into the areas it was intended."

• A set of guidelines for the hiring of consultants by the city.

• Council control of discretionary accounts in the various city departments and serious consideration of the establishment of a reserve account.

• An ordinance specifying [Cont'd on Page 14]

Quinn Unanimously Re-elected President

John J. Quinn was re-elected President of the City Council in absentia by his colleagues Tuesday. The vote was 8-0.

Quinn was in California at the time after watching his son Gary's University of Michigan football team go down to defeat before Southern California, 17-10, in the Rose Bowl on New Years Day.

He will be sworn in at the next Council meeting.

Quinn, in a telegram read to the Council by Councillor Leo J. Kelly, proclaimed Southern California the No. 1 team in the country."

"I think John's predicting a little bit early," said Kelly.

The Council, in a whirlwind session, transacted these items of business:

• Re-elected Josephine Carnali clerk of committees.

• Re-elected Councillors Joanne Condon and Stephen J. McGrath to the Board of Supervisors of City Hospital.

• Re-elected William McDonald and Richard Ward to the Adams Temple and School Fund.

• Nominated Jack McCracken to the Board of Managers of the Woodward Fund and Property. The nomination was routinely tabled for one month.

First Half Real Estate Bills Due Jan. 8

Quincy taxpayers are reminded that all first half real estate tax payments must be received at the Tax Collector's office by 4:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 8 to avoid an interest charge.

Payments received on or after Jan. 9 will incur a ten percent interest charge from Dec. 8, 1978.

Applications Available For National Park Seasonal Jobs

Congressman-elect Brian J. Donnelly announces that applications for U.S. National Park Service, seasonal employment, may be obtained, now through Jan. 15.

The applications are available at the National Park Service office, 15 State St., Boston [6th floor], or by telephoning 223-3774 and asking for Susan Faldez, personnel division.

The applications may include consideration for both clerical and park service aid on a seasonal basis.

Donnelly also said a limited number of information packets are available at his Quincy office, Room 202, 47 Washington St., Quincy, [Quincy Post Office Building] on a first come - first served basis.

Health Hazard Crackdown On

No Mass Round-up Of Dogs, But Problem Pets 'To Get Scooped'

By PETER BARNICLE

Tenants in Germantown's public housing projects have been assured there will be no mass roundup of pets despite issuance of an emergency health hazard order banning all pets from the area.

Leonard S. Purpora, Quincy's principal health code enforcement officer, reluctantly conceded that the order issued by the city health commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon, was "a tool" to be used only against residents who do not properly care for their dogs.

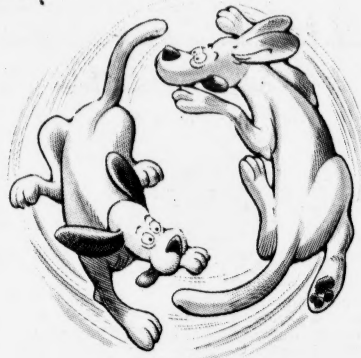

A crowd of 150 attending last week's public meeting at John F. Kennedy Health Center, appeared satisfied with the explanation.

Following the meeting Mrs. Joan Timmons, head of the Pet Task Force for the Harborview Residents Committee, said the statement by Purpora had gone a long way to clear the air and allay fears of dog owners that their pets would be summarily taken away after Jan. 1.

Assistant City Solicitor Dennis Harrington explained that the health hazard order was issued only after inspectors had found conditions in the area of the Harborview and Oceanview projects were a menace to the health of residents.

"Had I not issued the emergency order I would be failing in my duty, which is to protect your health," Dr. Solomon said.

Harrington pointed out that under state law the health commissioner must act when confronted with conditions which constitute a menace to health. "He must act to seek an abatement of such conditions," Harrington said.

He also indicated that if the situation was abated and a workable enforcement code adhered to, the emergency order might be rescinded.

Several in the audience wanted to know how that would help them if their dogs were already evicted.

It was at this point that Purpora took the floor to say that the order was "aimed at irresponsible dog owners."

"With this order we can move against such people without a long and involved process," he said. "We're being forced to bring this out. We would have handled this in a nice, quiet, easy way and acted only against those who were not caring for their pets properly."

"But because of the democratic process we have in our city these meetings have been held and people have been stirred up unnecessarily. We didn't want all this publicity which has caused legitimate dog owners considerable worry."

"There will be no mass roundup," he continued, "but every time we find a dog not being properly cared for we're going to scoop that dog."

Dr. Solomon said Germantown was not being singled out, but that conditions there warranted issuance of the order. He said the area is very congested and has more dogs than other sections of the city. He also emphasized that following abatement of the health hazard, enforcement regulations would have to be strictly adhered to to prevent its recurrence.

Mrs. Timmons presented a "pet rider" which she said her group had been trying to have the Quincy Housing Authority adopt. She charged the housing authority declined to act on it and said the matter was one for the health department.

Harrington said that the health commissioner was empowered to seek a complaint against the housing authority as the landlord, rather than acting against individual tenants in the matter of keeping the property clean.

Ward 1 City Councillor Leo J. Kelly suggested that Quincy might pattern its dog control regulations on the program now being tried out in Weymouth, with the dog owners being held responsible for cleaning up feces.

The residents were cautioned that the clean-up in Germantown might "take months" before conditions would warrant a lifting of the emergency order.

Harrington pointed out that the city's leash law, under the emergency order, now calls for fines of not less than $10 nor more than $500 each day of the violation.

Koch Club Establishes $5,000 Permanent Christmas Charity Fund

The Koch Club of Quincy closed out its 30th anniversary year in 1978 with a series of successful events and accomplished its prime objective, the establishment of a $5,000 permanent Christmas Charity Fund for the City of Quincy.

The City Council accepted the gift at its Dec. 18, regular meeting and the $5,000 check was presented to City Treasurer Robert E. Foy Dec. 22 for investment.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, said the organization and its volunteers will continue to actively engage in providing assistance to the needy during the Christmas holiday season each year. However, the newly created permanent fund will guarantee assurance that the charitable tradition of the Koch Club will continue perpetually.

On the 50th anniversary of the Koch Club in 1998, the permanent Christmas Charity Fund will be activated and the interest accrued between 1997 and 1998 will be used for assistance to the needy and every year following, the same procedure will continue.

The Koch Club or any other organization or individual may add to the principal of the Christmas Charity Fund resulting in a larger amount being available for the needy each Christmas when the trust becomes effective in 1998.

Persons wishing to provide a contribution or memorial donations should make checks payable to the Koch Club Christmas Charity Fund and mail c/o Treasurer Robert E. Foy, Quincy City Hall or Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Avenue, Quincy, MA 02171.

The major portion of the $5,000 total was raised from the proceeds of the Koch Club 30th anniversary year program depicting the history of the organization in pictures and written material.

Some $3,600 was realized from the proceeds of the booklet and the donations of both advertisers and contributors to the printing of the publication.

Recent contributions of $500 received from the Hancock Bank and the Quincy Rotary Club, $200 from Peter O'Connell and $100 each from Missie Grossman and Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, brought the figure to the $5,000 goal to establish the Christmas Charity Fund.

The committee serving on the 30th anniversary year of the Koch Club included James B. Moody, general chairman, Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, dinner dance chairwoman, Thomas Nestor, treasurer and Edward V. Keohane, Memorial Service Chairman.

Other members included Mr. and Mrs. Gary Demole, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghue, John E. Hemphill, Mrs. Simone Koch, Mrs. Mina Scanlan, Richard M. Morrissey, Paul P. Nestor and Richard J. Koch Jr.

Social Studies Job Fair

At QHS Jan. 10

The Social Studies Department of Quincy High School, in conjunction with the Quincy High School Guidance Department, will hold a Social Studies Job Fair Jan. 10, 1979.

It will run from 9 to noon in the high school's William Bradford Library. Purpose is to introduce students to careers which require a background in social studies. It will also provide students with an opportunity to see the ways in which social studies are directly relevant to their lives.

The Guidance Department will provide students with information about the careers being represented. The library will set up a display of their materials on those jobs. Representatives from the following career areas will be present to discuss their work with students:

Law enforcement, psychology, park service, government service, anthropology, archaeology, law, probation and court work, banking, urban planning, museum work, political science, sociology.

The Quincy Heart Saver Task Force is offering a new series of classes in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation to be held at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center, throughout the winter and spring.

The free four-hour classes will be held 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. on Thursday evenings on the following dates: Jan. 18, Feb. 15, March 15, April 19 and May 17.

Vincent Sullivan, co-chairman of the Task Force, has asked all who are interested to call 479-1111 to reserve a seat for one of the sessions.

Sullivan said large businesses and industries in the city will be contacted and offered specialized training for their employees in the more extensive eight hour courses which will include infant resuscitation, the obstructed airway and the Heimlich maneuver.

Heart Saver Task Force Offering CPR Class Series

Company training executives who wish further information about this service are asked to call Carl R. Deyoso of the Quincy Public Schools at 786-8767.

In the past year, according to Sullivan, the Quincy Heart Saver Task Force has trained over 800 citizens. The training has been conducted at the Quincy Masonic Temple whose members also donated four training manikins or "Resusci Annies", essential to practice of the life saving procedure.

In addition to co-chairmen Sullivan and Deyoso the Task Force has others who can provide further information concerning the project. They include: William Souden of Vulcan Tool; David Smith, Quincy High School; Mrs. Rose Mysiak and Mrs. Marilyn D'Allessandro, Quincy City Hospital; Mrs. Janet Springfield, Quincy High School, and James Dow, Atlantic Junior High School.

The Quincy school committee has instituted a program for students. The committee hopes within three years to have every student from grade seven to 12 familiar with the steps necessary to sustain life.

The goal of the Heart Saver Task Force is to train at least 30 percent of Quincy residents in the life supporting techniques.

"Statistics show," Sullivan said, "that a person's chance of surviving a heart attack in Seattle, Wash., which has an intensive training program, is 70 percent better than in cities without a trained citizenry."

The classes are free, but there is a nominal charge for materials.

when children are playing at dressing up as grown-ups they may want to borrow some of your jewelry. If you're concerned about your valuable pieces getting lost, why not make them some trinkets for their own. Here's an idea for a Peeled Pearl Ring. Take a pearl from a costume strand and scrape the coating off with the sharp inside edge of a pair of scissors. The shiny surface bears a striking resemblance in color and texture to a moonstone. Slip a gold pipecleaner through the holes to make a band.

It's a good idea to come to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 for all your jewelry needs. We handle our own repairs on the premises, as well as doing our own diamond setting, designing and remodeling. There is always a fine selection of loose and mounted diamonds for your selection. For greeting cards and unusual gift items, for every member of your family, visit our girls, Ellie and Meryl, next door at "Something Special". Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

HELPFUL HINT:

Cosmetic cremes are often packaged in attractive jars with screw-on lids. Try cleaning and re-using them to hold rings and other light jewelry on trips.

Things You Can Be Sure Won't Happen

This is the time of year when all the so-called experts like to tell you what to expect in the year ahead.

Well, not me—and for two good reasons. First: I don't consider myself an expert on anything. Second: I honestly have no idea what's going to happen in 1979.

But, if you insist, I can probably predict what won't happen during the new year. For example:

You won't see many of those illegally parked cars on Chestnut St. being tagged. Especially the ones right under the "No Parking" signs. Why ruin the reputation of Chestnut St. as one of the nuttiest streets in the country?

You won't hear someone say, "Turn up the volume, I want to hear what Cosell is saying."

You won't see Arthur Tobin with an autographed copy of Joe LaRaia's book—if the book ever gets out.

You might hear a TV weather forecaster explain a wrong prediction like this: "Well, that cold mass that was coming down from Canada took a last minute left hand turn instead of going right as it should have and that's why we're up to our necks in snow today, folks." But you won't hear one say: "I guess I really goofed that one. I really didn't know what the hell to expect, so I tossed a coin just before I went on the air."

You definitely won't hear me saying, "You know, I'm beginning to like rock 'n' roll." [Frankly, I'm worried about the future of the Guy Lombardo Band.] His nephew, Bill, who now leads the Royal Canadians was a rock 'n' roll drummer and he was recently quoted as saying, "this band is capable of playing rock 'n' roll."

You won't see a $30 drop in the tax rate. [But $3 wouldn't be bad.]

Paul Harold won't run for mayor. Neither will James McIntyre. [But Frank McCauley might].

You won't hear much in Quincy this year about people holding two elective offices simultaneously. Arthur Tobin is now Mayor only and James Sheets is now City Councillor only.

Some people still won't know how to park a car in the Hancock and Ross parking areas. They're the ones that straddle two spaces and really don't care where you put your car. You'd like to tell them where to put their's.

Getting back to Chestnut St.: You'll still have to walk between illegally parked cars in front of Quincy District Court to go in and pay your fine for being tagged at an expired meter. But it won't do you any good to complain about the illegally parked cars because you're a meter violator and Quincy's public enemy No. 1.

My daughter, Dolly, won't be able anymore to say, "Dad how come you never mention me in your column?"

You won't hear parents boring their kids with "you should have seen the snowstorms we used to have years ago."

You won't see Woody Hayes winning the Nobel Peace Prize.

The Bruins won't win the Stanley Cup. The Red Sox won't win the pennant. The Patriots again won't make it to the Super Bowl. And the Celtics—why even mention them. Boston just doesn't win the big ones.

There won't be a decrease in the price of anything you are now eating, drinking, wearing or driving.

You won't see me making it to the bottom of the page with this column. I just hate to be so negative.

Quincy Red Cross Director Assisting At Kentucky Floods

Daniel C. Pritchard, executive director, Greater Red Cross Quincy Chapter, has been assigned to assist with the shelter and clean-up operation of the Kentucky floods.

Pritchard was chosen because of his training and experience in handling disasters, the last of which was the Blizzard of '78.

During the first week of December there was flooding in Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio and the National office of the American Red Cross estimates the damages will run around $2 million dollars.

As of Dec. 15 there were 900 registered Red Cross people assisting in the disaster and 11 Red Cross Service Centers were opened. Approximately 3600 clean-up kits were distributed. The American Red Cross has assisted approximately 3,800 families and in the first week distributed approximately 11,000 meals. Thirteen shelters were established and serviced more than 1,000 people. Assistance is continuing in this area to date.

Living Today

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX,

'Why Didn't You Punish Me?

I was privileged to learn of a most beautiful and meaningful conversation between a young mother and her 11-year-old daughter. It is with their permission that I am sharing it with you. It went as follows:

Mother: "Ann, I would like you to vacuum the carpeting."

Ann: "I don't feel like it."

Mother: [after a short wait] "I've asked you to vacuum, Ann."

Ann: "Yes, of course." She made no move to comply.

Shortly thereafter, Ann's mother took out the vacuum from the closet, and began to vacuum. Suddenly, she realized that Ann was at her side crying. She turned off the vac and turned to Ann: "Why are you crying?"

Ann: "Because you never punish me. I was mean to you. You should have punished me. Sometimes I don't think you care about me."

Ann's mother is a very peaceful person...never argues, never sticks up for herself. She says that this pattern comes out of her background...a mother who drank much, a father who in disgust hit her mother, she having to call police to restore peace, feeling unloved and alone.

Ann went on: "You always agree, mommy. Your the nicest mommy on the street, and the prettiest. Some of the kids even want to trade with me for their mommy. I've said 'I hate you'...but I don't mean it. I know you love me."

Ann's mother said that she talked with her husband about this conversation and together they were analyzing its meaning. They concluded that "my kids win with me all the time, I always lose, I'm just not strong enough to carry through."

Ann's father? Wonderful fellow. Cooperative.

Firm but kind. Great father. He speaks and the kids mind. His whole life is wrapped up in his wife and the children. What they're working on is not saving their marriage...it's to improve their marriage. And they are succeeding majestically.

This is a beautiful family. I wish you could know them as I do. As we counsel together they turn to each other and talk with each other as much as with me. In their body language they lean toward each other. [Some of my couples sit at opposite ends of the sofa, with their legs crossed away from each other.] This couple truly "reason together". They're learning. They're growing. They're becoming finer persons...better parents. Out of different backgrounds, they're getting their "marriage act" together marvelously. I'm proud of them.

There is no perfect family, no perfect father or mother. But when a father and mother love each other, respect each other, do not snipe and nag at each other, reason together, make decisions together, have fun together, the children of that home have an example of parenthood for their own adult living, and a far better chance of happiness and success.

I know. I came out of that kind of home. That home gave me stability. I'm sure that I would not have survived my recent trouble and would have gone down to ruin, had it not been for my family background which gave me the ingredients of success and happiness. With the ingredients, it's my job to put them together into the person I want to be. I'm doing it. So is Ann's family.

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Write to Dr. Knox at 326 Washington St., Norwell, MA 02061, or call for counseling, 659-7364.

Police Betterment Association Awarded NARC Citation

The Quincy Police Betterment Association was recently presented a citation by the National Association for Retarded Citizens at a general SSARC meeting at Valle's, Braintree.

The award, presented on behalf of the national association by the

Robert Kennedy Stamp To Be Issued

A commemorative stamp honoring Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will be issued by the Postal Service on Jan. 12 at the Justice Department in Washington.

The 15-cent stamp is based on the single-color engraved design by Bradbury Thompson of Riverside, Ct., who used a photograph showing the senator in a pensive mood with his chin in his left hand.

The photograph, by Stanley Tretick, was suggested by Mrs. Ethel Kennedy. The stamp is blue in color and square in format.

As They See It

Women's Liberation And Mother's Day

By ANNA T. ANDERSON

The subject of women's liberation is an open topic of the present times; which brings us to the theme of "equal rights".

It seems that the female species has been overtaken with an amazing and zealous turnabout of modern affairs. This, however, shouldn't come as a surprise; since life itself is forever changing and moving forward.

There was a time when a married woman more or less took over the womanly duties as a housekeeper, wife and mother. She was always there whenever needed -- so much so -- that she was taken for granted. As time went on, however, some women resented this treatment because they were practically labeled as "servants" in a slavish manner in regards to all these chores. No one likes to be treated as a non-entity. And this particular case in point -- the role of womanhood -- one would like to be treated and recognized as a special person with distinctive qualities.

Later, married couples, because of economical conditions and life necessities, became vitally aware that one breadwinner in the home wasn't enough. So the working housewife helped to solve the budget problem by increased earnings. This solution in turn changed the husband's outlook on things, especially, his wife's role. It made them realize the importance and true definition of the marriage contract. Indeed, it was now a share and share-alike responsibility tie.

Now, women have advanced a step further to their womanly status and that is woman's liberation. My liberal contention on this regard is thus: I think this brand new liberty is a wonderful and useful blessing to all humanity if we treat it with the right perspective; for moderation in all things is the key to life's balance. Too much of anything -- good or bad -- throws you off gear.

In legal affairs and vocational fields this rule of "liberation" should be exercised to its fullest measure. But in the realm of the human race that thrives on humane standards, it is most desirable that she keep her womanly image as God ordained.

Finally, if women stress to be "equal" in all things with the opposite sex; then it could easily happen that men would cease to regard them with the utmost respect and dignity they deserve. This procedure would certainly mar their "diamond sheen" as a Mother ... for they are the ones who bear children into the world with an enduring love and effort; aiming for a cultivation of shining models.

If this statement doesn't ring true, then Mother's Day will be just another day; instead of "one cherished with honor and glory."

Flavin Elected Council President On 41st Ballot

John P. Flavin was elected president of the City Council by a 5-4 vote over Angelo P. Bizzozero on the 41st ballot taken over three Council sessions.

The first 40 ballots showed Bizzozero with four votes, William P. Hughes with three and Flavin with two before Hughes, Clifton H. Baker and Carl H. Leander switched to Flavin on the 41st.

The Council then named Martin A. King as city auditor, ignoring Miss Elizabeth N. Dunn who had been appointed by Mayor Thomas J. McGrath to succeed the late Henry O. Fairbanks a few months ago.

The delayed election of Flavin and the appointment of King overshadowed the inauguration of McGrath for a second two-year term as mayor on his 57th birthday.

TRACK WALKING HAZARDOUS

The Massachusetts Safety Council issued a warning of hazardous conditions on the New Haven Railroad's Old Colony tracks not far from the Quincy station.

"This is the use of the railroad tracks by pedestrians beyond the railroad station in the direction of West Quincy," said the Council's warning.

"On Friday of last week a train was forced to make an emergency stop because five children were discovered walking on the tracks in front of it.

"These are the conditions that, if not corrected, inevitably lead to an accident."

TRADE SCHOOL BOWS

Louis Pellegrini's second period basket was the only score for the Quincy Industrial School basketball team which bowed to Haverhill Trade, 55-2, at Quincy.

The Quincy Trade lineup included: Pappura, MacLeod, Kelleher, forwards; Todd, Malone, centers; Bonus, Post, Clish, Pellegrini, guards.

ATLANTIC PROTESTS

The Atlantic Improvement Association charged that the Victory Terminal Corp.'s only purpose in seeking a 25-year lease on the Victory Plant was to establish oil storage tanks in Squantum.

The Association dispatched a letter of protest to the House Committee on Naval Affairs in Washington in which the proposal was called "a death blow to the community."

Protestant Bureau Has

Emergency Food For 'Those In Need'

South Shore families needing emergency food during the year can look to the Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau for immediate assistance, according to Robert F. Taylor, executive director of the bureau.

The Bureau's "Pantry Shelf" will provide canned and packaged food without charge. The program operates throughout the year.

Nine Quincy churches were in the group which responded to the Bureau's request for additional contributions. The churches include: Central Baptist, Houghs Neck Congregational, Bethany Congregational, Wollaston Congregational, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, St. Chrysostom's, Quincy Center United Methodist, First Church of Squantum and United First Parish. A special food contribution was made by Wollaston Assembly Rainbow Girls.

Taylor reports that some 490 families have been provided with free emergency food over the past year.

Operated by volunteers, the "Pantry Shelf" is directed by Doris Folger of Quincy.

Tobin Puts Accent On Government Efficiency

Protection Association's plan to build a new $10 million headquarters in West Quincy.

- Negotiations in the final stages to build a 10-story office building in the Della Chiesa Parking Area to house the offices of Stop and Shop.

"This development," he said, "will be the first major construction in downtown Quincy in the lifetime of many of us gathered in this chamber today."

- Continuing negotiations for construction of a new mercantile outlet and a 150-room hotel complex.

- The coming of a Garland Corp. retail outlet in the old Gilchrist building in the Ross Parkway.

- A $1.5 million expansion of the Pneumatic Scale Corp. in North Quincy.

- Community development contracts to upgrade and expand the North Quincy and Wollaston business districts.

- A CETA-sponsored skills training center in a newly renovated section of the former Boston Gear Works plant.

- "And I am most pleased to announce to you this morning that although still in the discussion stage, yet another office building is presently being negotiated at State Street South Complex."

"And an additional office building is being discussed to revitalize the site now occupied by and adjacent to the Bargain Center in Quincy."

Tobin's prepared text contained the sentence: "If the latter project materializes, the Bargain Center would relocate its mercantile facility further down town," but it was deleted from his delivery.

He promised: "I shall strive to keep the momentum going, for economic development on a continuing basis is vital to the well being of our city."

In the area of human services, Tobin said, "Quincy enjoys an enviable reputation yet sensitive to the legitimate cry of taxpayers for a cut in municipal spending without curtailing essential services.

"There were no reductions in the delivery of human services in fiscal 1978-79 in this city, in fact, we point with pride and the record shows that under my administration the delivery of human services increased and the tax rate decreased."

Complete Text Of Mayor Tobin's Mid-Term Address

It was just one year ago that I stood before you and the citizens of Quincy and accepted a mandate to restore Quincy's pride and progress, using a theme "A New Beginning."

In my Inaugural Address of January 1978, I shared with you a three point program for moving our historic city forward. In so doing, I reminded you of something that we all knew: that if Quincy, with a fresh spirit, was to launch on a new beginning then all of us as citizens of "this City-Upon a Hill" must be united, for, as I cautioned then, each of us had to realize that the health of our city would be determined by the contribution made to its well-being by all of its citizens.

True to its motto of "Manet" Quincy does "Remain"; however to simply remain is not good enough and never will be.

During the past year, this proud and honorable city has been on the move; progress is evident and pride is being restored. This morning "as a friend who has worked for you and among you for more than a decade", I am proud to report to you on how our collective efforts have contributed to this reality.

On Inauguration Day, 1978, I outlined a three point program which I referred to as three areas of concentration. Progress has been made in each of these three areas, and today, in this mid-term address, I am pleased to be able to share with you some of the more significant accomplishments from among those of our "New Beginning."

The three areas of concentration in which this administration made a commitment to move Quincy forward, were: The Economic Development of our Community, The Delivery of Human Services, and Efficiency in Government.

Let us review commitment number one, the Economic Development of our Community:

On January last, I stated that the slow and gradual withdrawal from our city of business firms, retail stores and industrial plants must come to an end. In addressing myself and this Administration to this most critical of economic issues, I outlined a four point plan of initiatives, namely:

- To take immediate action in formulating plans and objectives for the revitalization of Quincy's business areas, including downtown Quincy as well as the Wollaston and North Quincy business districts.

- To oversee the bringing of new industry into Quincy.

- To recycle existing vacant property.

- To provide jobs for our citizens in industry in our city.

Happily, today I can do more than re-state the four initiatives. I can list for you several major accomplishments in these areas. To set the tone and to assure the business community of Quincy that City Hall meant business, an Economic Development Conference under the auspices of the Director of Planning and Community Development and the City Development Coordinator was held and the march toward revitalization began. These are the results:

- The National Fire Protection Association announced it will construct a $10 million dollar edifice in the city of Quincy. In locating its international headquarters here this prestigious corporation not only will bring employment to people, but also will serve as a catalyst for further development in our city.

- Negotiations are in the final stages for a 10-story office building on the site of the present Della Chiesa Parking Area. This building is to house the corporate offices of a major supermarket chain and should serve as an inducement for additional downtown development. This development will be the first major construction in downtown Quincy in the lifetime of many of us gathered in this chamber today.

- Plans and negotiations are continuing for the construction of a new mercantile outlet and a 150-room hotel complex containing a restaurant, lounge, and long needed function and conference rooms.

- The Garland Corporation has opened a new retail outlet in the former Gilchrist store, thus bringing new life to the Southwest section of downtown Quincy.

- The Pneumatic Scale Corporation has embarked on a $1.5 million dollar expansion at its present location in North Quincy, thus demonstrating its confidence in Quincy.

- Community development contracts have been signed to commit monies for plans and specifications to upgrade and expand the North Quincy and Wollaston business districts.

- A CETA sponsored skills training center offering retraining opportunities for approximately 200 unemployed adults has been opened in a newly renovated section of the former Boston Gear Works plant.

- Contracts have been signed and state construction funds committed for approval for the design of the extension of the Thomas Burgin Parkway to Capen's Bridge.

- And I am most pleased to announce to you this morning that although still in the discussion stage, yet another office building is presently being negotiated at

State Street South Complex, and an additional office building is being discussed to revitalize the site now occupied by and adjacent to the Bargain Center in Quincy. If the latter project materializes, the Bargain Center would relocate its mercantile facility further down town.

Progress of which we can be proud is being made. During the second year of this term of office, I shall strive to keep the momentum going, for economic development on a continuing basis is vital to our well-being as a city.

The second commitment of concentration made in January 1978 was to the Delivery of Human Services.

In my Inaugural Address, I stated that in our city there should not be any strangers, but only friends who have yet to meet. Little did I know, or any of us for that matter, that within one month from making that statement that the fury of a blizzard would be the vehicle for demonstrating the truth of that remark.

The Blizzard of 1978 plunged our city and our region into a state of disaster where the delivery of human services came to mean the sustenance of life itself. The work force of this city responded in so heroic a way that none of us will ever forget. Under the command of our Commissioner of Public Works, Public Works employees, fire fighters, police officers, hospital staff, and school system personnel, joined forces with Red Cross and Civil Defense volunteers as well as National Guard troops in working around the clock, not only to restore our city to normalcy, but also to bring life support systems to thousands of our citizens. During those hectic days and weeks the citizens of Quincy reached out to one another, and, together, we all learned that there were no strangers in our city, but only friends who had yet to meet.

As the snow began to subside and the arrival of spring became evident, this Administration began to press forward on several fronts in order to improve further for all of Quincy's residents, the delivery of human services. Our accomplishments include:

- Restoring command leadership to our Police and Fire Departments.

- Creating, in cooperation with the Office of the District Attorney of Norfolk County, a Domestic Violence Unit bringing needed crisis intervention services to battered women and abused children. This action has received singular praise from the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

- Reorganizing and expanding in cooperation with the City Council, of services to senior citizens, particularly in the areas of transportation, meals, social activities, and health education programs.

- Reorganizing, in cooperation with the City Council, the Park and Recreation Commission so that the new Commission has representation from all six wards, thus bringing services closer to the people in various sections of the city.

- Re-establishing at Quincy Jr. College the Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing. The two-year associate degree, R.N., program will open this coming fall with forty first year students. This action was carried out in cooperation with the City Council and School Committee.

- The elimination of double sessions at North Quincy High School and the working toward the planned opening of the new that "any positions that are not included in the annual budget require the approval of the City Council."

- Serious consideration "to a proposal that the City Hospital should be transferred to a city non-profit corporation. This would be in the best interests of patient care and a way of containing the costs so the deficits would not be passed on to the taxpayers."

Harold assured his former colleagues on the Council that "I'll work to stem the tide of state-mandated programs which has taken local government and made it into local administration."

The retiring councillor presented to the Council two quart water pitchers to be used in refilling their glasses during their heated debates.

wing for the second semester of this current school year. These problems were solved and carried out once again in the spirit of cooperation with the City Council and the School Committee.

And Quincy was proudly informed in August of 1978 that the Boston Herald American Blue Ribbon Study on Education named the "Quincy Public Schools" as one of the eight best school systems in our Commonwealth.

In the area of the delivery of human services, Quincy enjoys an enviable reputation yet sensitive to the legitimate cry of taxpayers for a cut in municipal spending without curtailing essential services. The Tobin Administration has done not only that but more; for there were no reductions in the delivery of human services in fiscal 1978-1979, in fact, we point with pride and the record shows that under my Administration the delivery of human services have been increased while the tax rate has been decreased.

As was demonstrated during the Blizzard of 1978, a community cannot, and indeed should not, depend 100 percent upon its professionals when it comes to caring for neighbors in need. Fortunately, our city does not lack in human compassion, and scores of organizations are dedicated to helping others. I should like to publicly thank them, one and all.

Through the efforts of the hospital auxiliary and volunteers, many generous gifts have been donated to meet the needs of our municipal hospital, fraternal and benevolent organizations care for our poor and needy during the holiday season, Thanksgiving dinners are sponsored for our seniors, and a mini-ambulance and the construction of two Little League baseball fields were gifted to our city this year through the kindness and generous action of organizations who take pride in our community.

The third commitment of this administration made in January of 1978 was a pledge to institute Efficiency in Government.

For years elected officials have likened the cry of taxpayers for efficiency in government to that of the loud but harmless sound of thunder. However, this is no longer the case, and the legitimate impatience of taxpayers has been charged and is beginning to be felt as a bolt of lightning, hitting and cutting randomly as it takes its toll from among the unsuspecting.

Efficiency in government is a must, a must that must be everybody's business.

One short year is hardly enough time in which to streamline the complex operations of a $100 million dollar business; a business consisting of a $94 million dollar budget, the overseeing of millions of dollars in CETA funds, the administration of millions of dollars in community development monies, the funding of a $16 million dollar bond for a high school addition, and other bonding needs which make up the $100 million dollar people's corporation. Nevertheless, a good beginning has been made and much more will be done in the coming year.

It is to be noted that the school system has developed some expertise in the area of streamlining management objectives, and several city departments have developed expertise in streamlining department objectives, and it is my intention to have the various department heads share with each other the acquired administrative and managerial expertise and to make recommendations to the Office of the Mayor which would be beneficial in further streamlining a most complex multi-million dollar operation.

In recognizing that there is more to be done in this area, the conclusion should not be drawn that no progress has been made for that is not the case. In particular, I would like to cite at this time actions taken by my office that have resulted in more efficient operations in various city departments.

• In the Office of the City Treasurer:

a. Tax bills have been computerized, and

b. A system for collecting delinquent taxes has been developed and is being implemented.

• Through the Office of the City Auditor, the first city-wide audit in eight years is currently being performed.

a. Our inherited $7 million dollar deficit was identified and funded separately.

• The Purchasing Agent has streamlined that office for more efficiency and accountability.

• As a result of initiative action taken by the Office of the Mayor, our municipal hospital:

a. Is undergoing for the first time in its history an in depth systems audit by a private CPA firm.

b. The hospital has shifted to a new computerized system in

c. A reorganization plan to streamline systems and procedures will be presented to the City Council on Monday next.

In what has preceded, I have attempted to share with you some of the more significant gains that have been made this past year in favor of our "City-Upon-a-Hill". Needless to say, I haven't shared them all, nor have I troubled you with our every day problems, for these I know only too well and will dedicate my endeavors in the months ahead to meeting the task to provide the leadership necessary to keep our city moving forward.

I have attempted in summary fashion to recall for you the three critical areas of concentration that weighed heavily on my mind in January 1978 as I accepted the oath of office to lead this city of historical progress and pride into a new beginning. I have tried my God-given best to do what is right, and in so doing, I have learned many things:

• I learned that a city without an expanding economic base cannot long endure in the marketplace.

• I learned that a Mayor who fails to respond to the call for human services will soon find himself without people to serve, and

• I learned that an administration that has been dismissing efficiency in government will soon find itself to be among the missing.

As I begin my second year in office as the 26th Mayor of the City of Presidents, I offer no new promises nor new programs. I stand before you today as Arthur Tobin, a fellow citizen, one who has been privileged to serve in public office as Chairman of the School Committee, President of the City Council, Representative to the Great and General Court, Senator, and as your Mayor. Very few people have been so honored.

The accomplishment of the objectives set out in my Inaugural Address of 1978 has been a most rewarding challenge, for it not only renewed my faith in my own personal capabilities, but also has presented a challenge to meet head on the every day problems of running government, and working together with individuals of good faith seeking solutions to make life better for future generations.

During my years in public office, I can point with pride to many accomplishments that have benefited my fellow man, and the same four standards which I enumerated in my Inaugural Address of January 1978 will continue to guide me in the months ahead. The standards of courage, judgment, integrity and dedication will continue to guide me in my decisions. It is against these four qualities of leadership and the three areas of concentration that as Mayor I am ready to continue to move this great city forward, for we are but a "City-Upon-a-Hill", and the eyes of all the people are truly upon us. It is a good city—I am proud to be its Mayor, and I am extremely proud of our accomplishments. It is my fervent wish that you, the citizens of Quincy, and history will be kind in its judgment of my record of public service.

Youth Groups Lead New Year Sunday Service At First Church Of Squantum

Amid brightly colored balloons and led by a special New Year's chorus of children, the congregation of the First Church of Squantum welcomed in the New Year Sunday morning an unusual worship service.

All of the spoken parts in the service were taken by members of the junior and senior high youth groups in the church.

Holly Bumpus and Kathi Fluhr, two other members of the senior high group, preached the two sermons on the theme, "God in Our Past and in Our Future."

The junior choir sang a lively American folk song for the occasion, "Who Built the Ark?" The senior choir, whose members were the only adults involved in leading the service, sang, "Lead Me Lord," by Samuel Wesley.

Sunday School was cancelled for the morning so that persons of all ages could attend. Children were especially encouraged to stay for the full service.

The New Year's chorus was composed entirely of children, some of whom were as young as three years of age. It included Jimmy Bryan, Megan Bryan, Blythe Bumpus, Greg Gale, Tracey Gale, Kerry Galvin, Kim Galvin, Jamie Galvin, Laurie Galvin, Bruce Leggat, Bonnie

SANTA AND HIS HELPERS - Employees at the main office of Quincy Co-operative Bank, Hancock St., Quincy Sq., got into the spirit of things in the days just before Christmas. Customers were greeted by elves attired in red costumes trimmed with white fur. The group included, from left, Patricia Costello, savings supervisor; Jean Leone, head teller; Walter Mason, deputy security officer, as Santa; Joan Ilacqua, savings supervisor, and Kerry Hayes, teller.

Kevin Keating, counsel for Fabrizio, said the judge asked him to file the briefs listing the reasons why he should reverse himself.

S.S. Children's Council Plans Pot Luck Dinner

The South Shore Council for Children invited residents of Quincy, Milton and Randolph to a "New Year's Pot Luck Dinner" Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The dinner will be held at 7:15 p.m., at the First United Parish Church, Quincy Sq., across from City Hall.

Purpose of the dinner is to acquaint interested community people with the ongoing work of the South Shore Council for Children. The Council is a citizen advocacy group, affiliated with the State Office for Children, whose purpose is to improve the quality of children's lives and delivery of children's services in Milton, Quincy and Randolph. Teenage pregnancy, child abuse and neglect, Chapter 766, and legislation affecting children and youth are just some of the concerns the South Shore Council for Children has addressed.

KATHY ANDERSON

THOMAS KAZANOWSKI

Anderson, Kazanowski

Quincy Savings Assistant Managers

Kathy Anderson and Thomas Kazanowski have been promoted by the Quincy Savings Bank to assistant managers of the Quincy Point and South Quincy offices respectively.

Miss Anderson started with Quincy Savings Bank in 1974 in the mortgage origination department and advanced through the bank's management training program to her current position.

Kazanowski, a graduate of Stonehill College, joined the bank as a teller in 1975. He moved to the auditing department and then into management training.

Conrad Gets 3 New Accounts

The Beacon Companies, Telephone Management Systems and Franklin Savings Bank have all named Conrad, Inc., of Hingham, as marketing communications agency.

The Beacon Companies are investment builders and property managers of major commercial and residential complexes throughout the Northeast. Conrad's prime responsibility will be for Beacon's newest project, One Post Office Square, Boston. This new development, in the heart of Boston's financial district, will consist of a 37-story office tower and a luxury, business-oriented hotel on the site of the former Federal Reserve Bank building.

Conrad will launch a theme for the project, with first-year collateral, print and broadcast media, and public relations efforts aimed at supporting an aggressive leasing program for the office building.

The One Post Office Square complex is scheduled for completion in late 1981 and will offer the only choice, new office space in Boston for the next three years. Beacon's other projects in this area include Center Plaza and The Fiduciary Trust Building in Boston, Wellesley Office Park, and Worcester Center, in addition to numerous, multi-family housing complexes.

Telephone Management Systems manufactures and markets hardware and software systems for analyzing, allocating and reducing telephone costs. The Waltham-based firm is growing at an annual rate of 300% in a new industry that is expanding in similar fashion. Conrad will establish a corporate identity for TMS; prepare collateral materials; implement public relations programs; and initiate trade advertising. Franklin Savings Bank is headquartered in Greenfield, MA and has three offices and assets of nearly $100,000,000.

The Agency's first efforts will center on newspaper and radio advertising of a variety of bank services.

Now in its sixth year, Conrad, Inc., is a full-service marketing communications agency, serving a variety of consumer, financial and scientific-industrial accounts with interests around the world.

SANTA CLAUS made many stops during the past week and one of them was at Bab's Coiffures, 254 East Squantum St., North Quincy, where he chatted with youngsters visiting the shop with their mothers. Among those attending the party were [front], James Bradbury, 6, Santa, and Brendan O'Connell, 5; and at rear, Lisa Santo Stefano, 9, and James O'Connell, 3.

Tough Job Replacing Martin And Woods

Coleman, Petrocelli Ready For Challenge As Red Sox Radio Team

By TOM SULLIVAN
[Quincy Sun Writer]

The Red Sox have done nothing so far to strengthen themselves for the 1979 season but they will have two old favorites back with them—in the radio booth.

Radio Station WITS, which dropped the popular Ned Martin and Jim Woods as announcers, one of the most unpopular moves ever, quickly moved to quiet the furious fans by signing North Quincy's Ken Coleman, the Voice of the Red Sox from 1966 to 1974 and Rico Petrocelli, one of the most popular of the Sox infielders.

Coleman, who grew up in North Quincy and graduated from North Quincy High where he was a better than average pitcher, is delighted to be back in Boston.

"I never wanted to leave Boston and it is just great to be back," he said. "After all, I grew up as a Sox fan and watched my favorites from the bleachers as a youngster. My happiest times were announcing the Red Sox games, especially in 1967, the year of the Impossible Dream."

Ken was a high school teammate of Dick Donovan. Dick went on to become a highly successful major league pitcher and Ken was just as successful in pursuing a broadcasting career.

Ken, who has lived in Cohasset for several years, got his first broadcasting job in 1947 after a year in the army and schooling at Curry College then in Boston. He covered the Northern Baseball League in Rutland, Vt., for nine months before coming back to Quincy and to WJDA where he worked from 1947 to 1951 and first became noticed. He announced schoolboy football games and other sports events for WJDA.

Ken went to Cleveland in 1952 and for 14 years broadcast the Browns football games and for 10 years did the Indians baseball games.

He still has many close friends among the former Browns stars including the great Alex Groza, who visits with Ken and his family whenever he is in the Boston area.

His times in Cleveland, with the great Jimmy Brown of the Browns and the outstanding Indians pitching staffs, were very enjoyable, but: Ken's heart was in Boston.

"I was sitting in the Wigwam in Cleveland having lunch with Gabe Paul and Herb Score and it came over the wire services that Curt Gowdy had been hired at NBC," recalls Coleman. "I contacted the Red Sox and talked to them about taking over Curt's job. A week later I told my wife Elaine (who also is from North Quincy) that I had to take the Sox job if all things were equal because I'd wonder about it the rest of my life. As it turned out, it was a better opportunity."

Coleman worked with Ned Martin and Mel Parnell on TV and radio the first year, then with Martin and Johnny Pesky. When Channel 5 lost its license he moved to Channel 4 but he was let go when Channel 38 took over the Sox broadcasts and hired Dick Stockton and Ken Harrelson.

Ken for the last four years has done the Cincinnati Red road games on TV (his good luck continued as the Reds played in the World Series twice) and also has done the Ohio State football games on radio.

His last assignment in Ohio was the big Ohio State-Michigan football game Nov. 25 which Michigan won to clinch a Rose Bowl spot.

Coleman, the veteran, and Petrocelli, the novice, know they are filling a big void and have to calm down the fans infuriated by the dropping of Martin and Woods.

"This doesn't bother me," Ken said. "I came here in 1966 to replace Curt Gowdy, probably the foremost guy in the business. My own feeling about it is that I don't compare myself to anybody else. I just try to do the best job I can and I hope the people will like it."

"I called Ned and stressed to him that I didn't apply for the job until it was definite he wouldn't be rehired. Ned and I are good friends and I certainly wish him the best."

Ken is looking forward to working with Petrocelli. "Any time I had a post-game interview and didn't know who to select, I'd go to Rico. He was always easy to interview."

Rico knows he faces a big job but is confident he will have no trouble, especially working alongside Coleman.

"I'm no Jim Woods," he said. "He's been in broadcasting for 20 years and people will miss him and Ned. I understand all that. But this is something I've been looking forward to since leaving baseball."

Petrocelli has had a sports talk show in Boston and last year did nine TV games in Seattle.

Coleman was recently named general chairman of the Jimmy Fund, succeeding the late Bill Koster, and he intends to keep that position.

Incidentally, Ken's son, Casey, is now broadcasting for Station WCAU in Philadelphia after a stint in Fall River.

North At Brookline, Quincy Hosts Waltham

The North Quincy hockey team, following two frustrating defeats last week, will play at Brookline Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Dexter Rink and Wednesday will host Weymouth North at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy, which suffered its first loss last week after two wins, will host Waltham Saturday at 6:40 at the Youth Arena and Wednesday will play at Brockton's Asiaf Rink at 7.

North, under new coach Kevin Lewis, came out flying against Quincy last week and took a 2-0 lead but Bob Sylvia's Presidents came back to take a 5-3 decision before an overflow crowd at the Youth Arena.

"I figured they would come out like that," said Sylvia, who was Lewis' coach at Quincy. "North plays hard. Kevin played for me and he is the same type of coach as he was a player."

Quincy's first line of Robbie Craig, Scott Richardson and Tom Brennan, all juniors, was the big reason for the win as it scored four of the goals.

Ed Marella put the Raiders ahead at 3:28 of the opening period with assists for Pat Ennis and Paul Cooney and at 8:02 Leo Doyle made it 2-0 with Cooney assisting.

at 9:20 of the period with Dave Campbell assisting.

North went ahead, 3-1, at 3:25 of the second period when Cooney scored on passes from Ennis and Mark Rooney, but the rest of the game was all Quincy. Richardson scored with an assist for Brennan, Brennan tied it up with Craig and Richardson assisting. Richardson scored the winner with Craig assisting and Craig scored an insurance goal with Richardson and Brennan assisting.

"If we could have controlled that line we could have beaten them, but they played super," said Lewis. "Ennis is playing his heart out for us and Doyle has also played well. Cooney is playing fine hockey and our goalie Bob Tierney, has been super."

Later in the week North outplayed Weymouth South by a wide margin in the first two periods but couldn't capitalize on its chances and bowed, 2-0. Weymouth's goalie, Paul Morissette, was the difference, as he turned back every North shot and had many spectacular saves.

Quincy was beaten, 2-0, by Weymouth North last Saturday as Sophomore Joe Bulens scored both goals, the final one with just two seconds left.

Quincy is 2-1-0 and North is 0-2-1 in the Suburban League and 1-4-1 overall.

Bantam B's

Quincy won the North Quincy K. of C. Tournament Bantam B title with a 4-0 win over Newton in the final game at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Paul McCabe, Larry Costello, Dennis Croke and Jamie Doyle scored for Quincy with Kevin White, Croke, Tom Benson, Dennis Furtado, Mike Cullen and Bill Boman having assists.

Quincy had defeated Saugus,

10-3; Dedham, 6-0, and Natick, 5-4, with Tom Corliss and Shawn Cunningham in goal, to reach the finals, while Newton had defeated Dedham, 9-1; Saugus, 4-0, and Weymouth, 8-1.

Other Bantam scores: Braintree 5, Hyde Park 1; Natick 4, Weymouth 2; Weymouth 6, Braintree 4, and Natick 10, Hyde Park 2.

PeeWee B's

Quincy won the North Quincy K. of C. Tournament Pee Wee B title with a 6-2 win over Milton in the championship game.

Bobby Kane had two goals and Jamie Seamons, John Kelly, John McGlame and Mike Hayes one each. McGlame, Phil Sheldon, Sean Barry, Richie Horgan, Peter Furtado, David Cooke, Bobby Reidy and Ted Hohman had assists.

Quincy, with Tim Collins and Bob Flannery excelling in goal, had blanked Hull, 6-0, and defeated Westwood and Stoneham by 3-1 scores to reach the finals. Milton had blanked Westwood, 6-0, and Dedham, 3-0, and topped Hull, 6-1, to make the finals.

Other scores: Dedham 7, Hingham 6; Stoneham 4, Weymouth 2; Dedham 3, Weymouth, 1, and Stoneham 3, Hingham 2.

Squirt B's

Quincy, which has a 23-0 overall record in B competition [14-0 in the league], won the North Quincy K. of C. Tournament Squirt B title at the Quincy Youth Arena with four straight wins.

In the championship game Quincy defeated South Boston, 5-3, its second win over Southie in the tournament. Mark Zimmerman had two Quincy goals and Paul Connolly, Mike Benson and Mark Simonelli one each. Dave Tapper, Billy Murphy and Jon Hayes had assists.

Quincy moved into the title game by topping South Boston, 7-1; Westwood, 12-0, and Brockton, 4-0. Tony Koury and Joe Straughá excelled in goal throughout the tournament.

South Boston, following its first loss to Quincy, had defeated Arlington, 4-2, and Stoneham, 3-1, to make the finals.

In league play Quincy walloped Braintree, 9-3, to remain unbeaten in B competition. Zimmerman, Matt Furtado, Murohy and Tapper had two goals apiece and Simonelli one. Zimmerman had two assists and Hayes, Tapper, Jim Dunphy, Simonelli and Furtado one each.

Applications Available For Men's Candlepin Tourney

The 26th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club will open Sunday, Jan. 21, at noon at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, Quincy Shore Drive.

Applications are now available and may be obtained at the alleys.

Started in 1953 at the former Norfolk Downs Alleys in North Quincy with eight entries, a record number of 48 teams participated in the event last year with the Whittman Merchants capturing the crown in the final week of competition.

The following rules must be complied with by all tournament entries:

- Teams must be from an organized men's bowling league. No pickup teams allowed. Rules governing are the same of league competition.

- Top five bowlers in the league, as of Jan. 12, bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings used as alternates. If, for one reason or another, one of the top seven bowlers cannot compete, the league officials may continue to choose down in the league according to average. First and last name of bowlers entered with averages must be complete.

- Bowlers entered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues and may only bowl for one tourney entry.

- An violation of the rules will forfeit the teams participation.

- All tournament matches will be decided on total pinfall.

- It is an elimination tourney. Each team must win to continue in competition.

Opposition each Sunday is automatic, according to alley number drawn.

● Basketball

Quincy Hosts Newton, North At Weymouth

The North Quincy basketball team found out last week why Cambridge Rindge and Latin, paced by 6-11 sophomore Pat Ewing, is an odds-on favorite to win the Suburban League title.

Despite a determined effort, the Raiders, who couldn't cope with Cambridge's tremendous height advantage, dropped a 76-56 decision as their record dropped to 1-2.

"They are just too big," North Coach Ed Miller said. "Our kids played their hearts out but we had to shoot from outside as we couldn't get inside. Cambridge is going to be awfully hard to beat this year."

Cambridge, in improving its record to 5-0, jumped away to a 39-26 halftime lead and extended it to 61-35 after three periods.

Junior Billy O'Connell paced the Raiders with 11 points, while Jim Holleran and sophomore Mike Miller scored 10 points apiece.

The Raiders returned to action last night (Wednesday) against Weymouth North while Joe Amoroso's Quincy team, with a 4-1 record, also played last night at Brockton after being idle last week.

Friday Quincy hosts Newton and North plays at Weymouth South. Next Tuesday it will be Quincy at Cambridge and Revere at North (Quincy Vo-Tech gym) for a non-league game.

Following its most disastrous season a year ago, Quincy is off to a tremendous start with only a two-point loss to Hingham in the finals of the Hingham Christmas tournament marring its record. The Presidents topped Franklin and Oliver Ames in non-league games and Weymouth South and Brookline in Suburban League action.

ENC Awaits Roger Williams

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team will return to action next Tuesday following the holiday layoff when it hosts Roger Williams College at 8 p.m. at ENC's Lahue Center.

The Crusaders take a 5-3 record into the post-holiday schedule following a heartening December schedule.

Two of ENC's defeats were by two points, one a 92-90 squeaker at the hands of Boston State in the finals of the Codfish Bowl, the other a 59-57 decision to St.

Francis College. The other loss was to Western New England, 87-80.

The Crusaders, following a close win over Southern Maine in the opening round of the Codfish Bowl, romped to cinch wins over UMass-Boston and Curry and also defeated Barrington and Southeastern Mass.

Following the Roger Williams game, Coach Nor Bradley's ENC team will be home to Barrington on Friday, Jan. 12, and play at Suffolk on Saturday, the 13th.

Bob Dacey, former Quincy High standout, is having an excellent season for the Crusaders, scoring well and playing outstanding defense.

Meanwhile, the ENC women's basketball team will also return to action on Tuesday when it hosts UMass at 6 o'clock. On Friday, the 12th, the Crusaderettes will host Barrington at 6 and on Saturday, the 13th, will play at MIT at 1 o'clock.

Junior Boys Season Underway Jan. 16

The Quincy junior high school wrestling and girls' basketball seasons have been under way for a month and the boys' basketball schedule will open Tuesday, Jan. 16, when Point plays Atlantic and Sterling faces Broad Meadows.

The Sterling girls are leading the league with a 5-0 record and are coached by Dave Meehan. The other girls' basketball coaches are Janet Kirby, Atlantic; Debra Hassan, Broad Meadows; Barbara Donelin, Central, and Dan Coughlin, Point.

In wrestling, Broad Meadows is again rolling merrily along with a 5-0 mark under new coach John Perkins. Perkins, who coached the Quincy junior high hockey team before this program was dropped, succeeded John Bogan, who led BM to three straight city titles.

The other wrestling coaches are Joe Caruso, Atlantic; Bob Schiess, Central; Gerry Mulvey, Point, and John Sullivan, Sterling.

When the girls' basketball schedule resumes today (Thursday), Sterling meets Central and Broad Meadows meets Atlantic. Next Tuesday it will be Point vs. Central and Atlantic vs. Sterling.

The wrestling schedule also resumes today with Central vs. Sterling and Broad Meadows vs. Atlantic.

The city-wide tournament will take place at Quincy Army on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 19 and 20.

Sterling Girls Win 5th In Row, 25-10

Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team remained unbeaten (5-0) with a 25-10 win over Broad Meadows.

At the half Sterling had only a 12-10 edge but completely dominated second half action as it scored 13 points and held BM scoreless.

Eileen Morrison had 12 points and Nancy MacDonald nine for Sterling, while Kathy Flynn had six and Mary Kamb four for BM. Kathy Duggan and Janice Burke sparked the strong Sterling defense.

Broad Meadows easily won the junior varsity game, 16-1, as Mary McConville and Stacey Sparks had four points each.

Earlier Sterling had defeated Point, 27-16.

Diane Coska sparked the attack with nine points and Janice Burke and Eileen Morrison had six each. Kathy Duggan and Maureen Flaherty stood out on defense.

Sterling also defeated Atlantic, 34-15, after rolling to a 15-3 lead. Duggan had 11 points and Nancy MacDonald 10, while Morrison, Coska and Darlene Marston played well on defense. Laurie Barba's seven points paced Atlantic, while Jean Petit and Sherri Bruce were standouts on defense.

Atlantic's junior varsity won, 9-8, with Karen Merrigan shining on defense in the final minutes.

Laura Grande, Janet Colclough, Sheila Flaherty and Karen O'Reilly played well for Atlantic.

Central broke a close game open with a big third period to defeat Broad Meadows, 31-16. The score was tied at 8 at halftime but Central scored 10 points in the third period to pull away. Mary Kamb had six points for Broad Meadows.

Broad Meadows won the junior varsity game, 14-9, after a tie at the half. Seven players scored for BM.

Sterling topped Central, 30-23, overcoming an early 10-3 deficit. Nancy MacDonald led the attack with 15 points and Eileen Morrison had eight.

YOUNG DRIVER-SMALL CAR-BAD COMBO

Nearly two-thirds of the motorists under age 25 already drive small cars in the compact and sub-compact classes - and their numbers will increase dramatically as auto manufacturers trim weight to meet tougher gas mileage requirements.

If the present trend continues, the nation will pay for these fuel economies with thousands of additional deaths and injuries. Small, light-weight cars simply do not provide as much crash protection for the occupants as today's heavier vehicles. Particularly dangerous is the combination of small cars and inexperienced young drivers.

Based on injuries reported to auto insurance companies, these statistics show that drivers under age 25 run an 87% greater risk of being injured in a sub-compact sized car than in a full-sized automobile.

Advice - don't buy your teenaged son or daughter a small car. Young drivers have twice as many accidents as older drivers, and the combination of small cars and young drivers send the injury rate soaring.

Time Running Out For Affirmative Action Plan

QHA Faces Possible Shutoff On Federal, State Funds

The Quincy Housing Authority meets Wednesday, Jan. 17, to take up the sensitive and pressing matter of an affirmative action plan.

Deadlines given to the QHA by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Affairs (HUD) and the state Department of Community Affairs (DCA) have come and gone.

"We are under a directive from HUD to come up with a good affirmative action plan or there will be sanctions against us," said Rosemary Wahlberg, chairman of the QHA.

"I am concerned that we are not moving more rapidly. If we don't I am concerned that federal sanctions will harm the modernizing program of our federally supported projects.

"We are under severe time constraints because HUD gave us 60 days on Sept. 1 and the DCA gave us 120 days on Sept. 8. We have run out of time."

The draft of an affirmative action plan was presented to the QHA board Dec. 20 but it was tabled to permit the commissioners an opportunity to study it.

Mrs. Wahlberg, after studying the draft plan, feels that HUD and the DCA might have some trouble accepting it.

"I would like to see some positive goals and timetables," she said. "Frankly, that is not in the plan that I have seen. I'm worried that without them there will be a problem."

The plan is also under study by a task force from the Harborview Residents Committee, the representative of the tenants, which met on it for the first time Jan. 4.

"They should have been involved before," said Mrs. Wahlberg. "I don't know if we gave them enough time to make comments and ourselves enough time to make changes and pass the plan in January."

If the QHA fails to come up with an acceptable affirmative action plan, the federal and state governments could shut off funds to the QHA, whose 2,053 units are supported entirely by federal and state money.

"Then the state and federal governments would have to take over the operations of the housing authority," says Clement O'Brien, QHA director.

"These people have a right to live there. They have a contract with the housing authority. You can't come down and shut off their electricity, heat and light and put them out."

O'Brien and Mrs. Wahlberg agree that such a takeover is unlikely but both fear that modernization funds will be cut off if the affirmative action plan isn't presented soon.

D.A.: 'No Wrong-Doing'

McCauley Cleared Of Conflict In Downtown Project

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt has cleared City Councillor Francis X. McCauley of wrong-doing in connection with the possible sale to a developer of the city-owned Della Chiesa Parking Area.

But, he added, "Councillor McCauley's actions in our opinion reflected a lack of sufficient sensitivity to the important conflict of interest issue."

McCauley, who is president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, disclosed last month that his bank was negotiating to purchase its building on the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.

The building is due to be part of a 10-story office complex to be built on the site of the adjoining parking area to house, among other things, the offices of Stop and Shop.

McCauley, as a city councillor, is a member of the Downtown Development Committee, which has been holding meetings in connection with the proposed development."

McCauley asked City Solicitor Robert Fleming for an opinion and the solicitor cautioned him that he would be in conflict of interest if he participated in deliberations on the subject.

Delahunt said the pertinent section of the general laws that covers the case is worded like this:

"It is a criminal offense for a municipal employee to 'participate' as a city employee 'in a particular matter' in which to his knowledge he, his immediate family or partner, or 'business organization in which he is serving as officer, director . . . or employee has a financial interest.'"

"We agree with the city solicitor's opinion that a violation [Cont'd on Page 17]

Reorganization Recommendations

Assistant Director, 2 Managerial Jobs Urged At Hospital

Mayor Tobin expects to go before the City Council Tuesday, Jan. 16, to take the first legislative steps toward implementing the Touche Ross recommendations for reorganizing City Hospital.

The report by Touche Ross and Co., a Boston accounting firm, of its months-long survey of the Hospital's tangled finances was presented to the Council and Hospital Board of Managers Monday night.

The recommendations, presented by Touche Ross' Thomas Maguire, included:

● Hiring a qualified patient accounts manager. "That's really a business office manager. The person is going to pay for himself 10 or 12 times over in the first year."

● Solving the "easy" problems, such as reversing the upward trend of accounts receivable, which stood at $6.5 [Cont'd on Page 14]

'First Rate Community Newspaper'

Sun Wins Honor As 'National Blue Ribbon Newspaper'

The Quincy Sun has won national recognition as a first-rate community newspaper.

The National Newspaper Foundation in Washington, D.C. has selected The Sun as a "National Blue Ribbon Newspaper."

Peter A. Dragon, president of the NNF informed Sun publisher Henry Bosworth this week:

"Your paper has earned the coveted designation of 'National Blue Ribbon Newspaper. This award is in recognition of the alert and progressive community-minded newspaper you publish."

Dragon said that 165 newspapers met the required standards to achieve Blue Ribbon status. More than 250 weekly and daily newspapers from all 50 states were evaluated in the competition.

To be considered for the Blue Ribbon title, publishers were required to submit a self-evaluation critique of their newspaper, along with three specific issues of the newspaper.

A panel of judges then evaluated the entries on the basis of 25 criteria which measured the newspaper's service to the community against a fixed standard. The panel consisted of publishers of newspapers recognized for their overall excellence.

The criteria categories included:

News coverage of government, law enforcement, schools, business, local sports, youth activities, politics, churches, civic, fraternal and social events, editorials, local columns, feature articles, news photographs, advertising, distribution, promotion, over-all appearance and special service of the newspaper and publisher to the community.

"The number of first-rate community newspapers is continuing to increase," said

Dragon. He noted that 83 per cent of the newspapers in the 10,001-20,000 circulation category evaluated were

2 Licenses Suspended

Licensing Board Cracks Down On Liquor Sales To Minors

In a crack-down on the sale of liquor to minors the Quincy Licensing Commission took action Tuesday against two package stores.

Quincy-Adams Liquors, 41-43 Franklin St., had its license suspended for three days, starting today [Thursday], on one complaint. On a second complaint the board imposed a 30 day suspension to be held in abeyance during a six month-probation period.

Presidential Liquors, 1222 Hancock St., was given a two week suspension, but again the penalty was suspended and the store was placed on probation for six months.

Officer Francis Barnes testified that he had been on special plainclothes duty on Hancock St. on Nov. 28, observing the movement of high school students. He said that at 8:59 a.m. he saw two boys approach Presidential Liquors.

One boy entered the store and Barnes questioned the other youth, who gave him a false name. When the second youth came out of the store he was carrying a bag which contained, the officer said, two quarter pints of Southern Comfort. He confiscated the liquor, but did not hold either youth.

Barnes told the board he questioned Charles O'Leary, owner of the store, and was told that the youth's identification, a Massachusetts motor vehicles license, had been checked a week before.

O'Leary told the board that the photograph on the license "looked like" the youth who presented it. He said further that when he asked for a date of birth the youth "rattled it off without hesitation". It was brought out that the boy is 15 years old and the license belongs to his brother.

"You are in a privileged business and should be aware of what this board requires in the checking of identifications," Fire Chief Edward Barry reminded the store owner.

O'Leary said he tried to be careful in checking IDs and said that he cooperated with the police whenever possible. He mentioned that on the nights of high school dances the officer on the beat used to alert him. The board was informed there has not been any previous trouble at the store.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn said that although there was a clear violation of the law "there are mitigating circumstances."

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, a board member, expressed concern that the youths who present false IDs are not prosecuted while the liquor store owners face the loss of their license.

Chief Finn said Quincy has an outstanding juvenile program administered by the Youth Commission. He assured the board that any anti-social conduct "from kindergarten to adulthood" is handled by the commission working with the police, the courts and other youth agencies.

Finn made the motion for the two weeks suspension. It was seconded by Barry with MacDonald and Chairman John Gillis concurring.

In the complaint against Quincy-Adams Liquors Police Lt. John Mulligan and Officers William Laneragan and Ronald McKim testified they found the owner's 13-year-old son serving a customer Nov. 18.

George J. Kingston of Randolph, owner of the liquor store, said the boy had accepted the money and handed it over to him to ring up the sale.

The police testified that both purchases were made by minors, but the boys were not held.

Kingston said he has been in the liquor business for 17 years and is very conscious of his responsibility in checking IDs.

"I work at the store from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. six days a week," he told the board. "On Saturdays I have my son with me and he helps out by cleaning up, sweeping and washing windows."

He denied that he had told the officers the boy was "serving" customers.

Finn commented that while it was commendable that he wanted to spend time with his son, a liquor store was hardly the place.

High School, QJC Commencement Exercises Set

The Quincy School Committee has approved dates in the first week of June for graduation exercises at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy Junior College commencement will be held on Sunday, June 3. In case of rain it will move to the Vocational Technical gymnasium.

North Quincy High School graduation will be held Monday, June 4, at the stadium, and the Quincy High-Vocational Technical exercises will be held Tuesday, June 5.

In the event of inclement weather the QHS/QVTS graduation will be postponed until June 6, and the NQHS exercises will be held June 7.

The school committee at its last meeting also approved plans for holding the Quincy High School Junior Prom at the Weymana in South Weymouth.

Declining Enrollment

6 To 12 Schools Could Be Closed

By PETER BARNICLE

The School Committee faced with declining Quincy enrollments and rising costs is studying plans which could lead to the closing of from six to 12 schools.

A detailed report containing the alternatives was presented to the committee at its last meeting by Wilfred A. Nolan, coordinator of elementary education.

The report gives cost figures for each of the city's 21 elementary schools along with projected cost figures for 1981. The projections compare costs if the schools are kept open and if they are closed.

This report augments a voluminous study issued last March on declining enrollments and long range alternatives for organization of Quincy schools. That document was prepared by a task force headed by Nolan.

The committee has several plans to study. One calls for the closing of all schools with less than 200 pupils. This would include the Cranch, Great Hill, Hunting, Myles Standish, Beechwood Knoll and Gridley Bryant. This would mean an initial savings of $211,000 to the school system. The pupils at these schools would be transferred to other schools.

A second plan is based on the proposed closing of schools built around the turn of the century. This group would include the Cranch, Gridley Bryant, Willard, Quincy, Parker and Massachusetts Fields. The report says that if the Quincy and Parker were closed and the Atlantic Junior High converted to an elementary school, the North Quincy High School could be made a six year high school an initial savings of $320,000 would be realized, according to the report.

The closing of Central Junior High School would account for a savings of $225,000. The combined initial savings would be $645,000.

A third option is a change in the present school system structure. Pupils would be divided into kindergarten to grade five, six to eight and nine through 12. Using this configuration 12 elementary schools could be closed for an initial savings of $679,000.

After being presented with the report school committee members said they would have to study the alternatives before commenting on the proposals.

Committeeman John J. Sullivan however, said that he would be "guided to a great extent by the sentiment in public hearings which we are pledged to hold in any particular area where a school closing is contemplated."

QJC Offering 3 Courses Of Special Interest To Women

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College announces that three courses of particular interest to women are being offered by the division of Continuing Education for the spring semester at Quincy Junior College.

"Roles of Women in Society" to begin Wednesday evening, Jan. 24, will be taught by Alicia Colletti, Women's Center director. The course will examine roles of women as they have been defined in society in the past and in the present. Topics covered will include women's work and economic status, sex roles and how they are learned, women who have changed women's lives, and the impact of the modern women's movement on society. The course may be taken for 15 weeks to earn three credits or for 10 weeks for no credit.

An "Assertiveness Training" course led by Diane Hartman will begin Tuesday evening, Jan. 30. The course may be taken from 7 to 8:30 p.m. or from 8:30 to 10 p.m., for eight weeks and is credit-free. Goal of the course is to enable women to communicate honestly without manipulation. The differences between assertiveness, aggressiveness and non-assertiveness will be examined by role playing and group discussion.

A "Women's Growth Workshop" led by Priscilla

Marotta will begin Monday evening, Jan. 22, for 10 weeks. This workshop will focus on increasing self-awareness, establishment of long and short-term goals, decision making skills, personal assessment of abilities and interests and development of a personal plan of action. The course is designed for women who wish to realize their full potential in their personal lives or in their careers.

Registration for any one of these courses will be held at Quincy Junior College from Jan. 16 through Jan. 19. Further information may be obtained by calling Dean Mula at 786-8741 or the Women's Center at 479-8445.

Kelly Anne Clarke, 1421 Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy, a student at Northeastern University, has returned from England after recently completing a cooperative semester in London.

Miss Clarke was employed by the Chiswick Woman's Aid Center, West Kensington, under the direction of Erin Pizzey, one of the founders of the center. Since its opening in 1971 the Chiswick Center has housed over 5,000 battered women and children. Pizzey is also author of the book "Scream Quietly."

Miss Clarke, a dean's list student at Northeastern, is majoring in political science.

Women's Body Fitness Program Starts Friday

A women's body fitness program, sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department, will open Friday at the Fore River Club House, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

The program, under the leadership of Mrs. Anita Argyropole, will be conducted on Wednesdays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to noon.

Registrations are being taken on a first come first served basis at the Recreation Department office, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A fee is charged and must be paid at the time of registration.

Norfolk County Hospital Seeks RN's, LPN's

Mrs. Iris Capobianco, personnel director of Norfolk County Hospital, Braintree, is conducting a drive to recruit registered and licensed practical nurses for the hospital.

An increase in the number of patients seeking treatment at the hospital, one of the few which specializes in chronic lung diseases, has produced the demand for nurses with "dedication, self-motivation and the ability to work on a team."

The hospital offers a paid orientation period, competitive salaries and benefits.

For more information on nursing and other health care careers at Norfolk County Hospital, call Iris Capobianco, 843-0690.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

ALCOHOL AND HEART STOPPAGE

Crash! Two cars plow into each other and, in each, the steering wheel smashes into the driver's chest. The driver of car A dies in this "blunt thoracic trauma." The driver of car B survives virtually identical injuries. Why?

The answer may be that driver A had been drinking and Driver B (the one who survived) had not. It seems that alcohol in the bloodstream not only interferes with neuromotor responses, but may impair heart function as well. By causing a drop in the ability of certain cells to use oxygen, alcohol may make the heart more vulnerable to trauma. To test this theory, medical experts at Penn State dropped 500 gram weights onto the bodies of 20 rats, causing similar closed cardiac contusions in all the animals. Ten of the rats had been given injections of alcohol; the other 10 were cold sober. Only 2 of the sober rodents died of the heart injury. Nine of the "drunkened" rats died.

There is evidence that alcohol ingestion prior to cardiac trauma appears to have an adverse effect on heart action.

Since birthdays are fairly important to most people, they pay attention to things associated with them. For instance, most people know their astrological sign, even if they don't know anything more about astrology. Here are some of the gems associated with specific astrological signs: Aries - diamond; Taurus - emerald; Gemini - pearl; Cancer - ruby; Leo - peridot; Virgo - sapphire; Libra - opal; Scorpio - topaz; Sagittarius - turquoise; Capricorn - garnet; Aquarius - amethyst; and Pisces - aquamarine. January is the month of the garnet. As are rubies and sapphires, garnets are sometimes starred; the star, however, usually has four rays, instead of six. When looking for rings, or other pieces of jewelry, for men and women, see us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. Unusual gift items and all types of growing cards can easily be found by stopping next door, in our new shop, "Something Special". QHA Faces Possible Cutoff On Federal, State Funds

DCA in the Quincy Housing Authority began early last year when the QHA lost a discrimination suit to a black applicant for housing who was allegedly passed over for a white.

A HUD review of the operations of the QHA came up with these findings:

- Minority applicants appear to be receiving "equitable consideration" in the awarding of certificates of eligibility for the leased housing program.

- But only 20 of the 829 applications received were from minorities.

"While some might attribute this to the low minority population within the city of Quincy (less than 1 per cent), the city's location within the greater Boston housing and labor markets suggests that this figure ought to be higher."

- Only three of the QHA's low-rent housing units are occupied by minorities.

"While the absence of minority tenants is not prima facie evidence of non-compliance, the lack of affirmative action is evidence of non-compliance."

- The QHA has frequently departed from the prescribed tenant selection process. "This has undoubtedly had an adverse effect on minority applicants."

- Also, "it appears that the authority has taken no affirmative action to hire and promote minorities and no significant affirmative action to hire and promote females for professional and management positions on the staff."

The housing authority on Sept. 1 was ordered by Joseph S. Vera, director of the Regional Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity, to file affirmative action plans for tenant selection and employment opportunity within 30 days, adding:

"If the authority does not voluntarily comply by adopting and implementing a plan adequate to accomplish the purpose within 60 calendar days from the date of receipt of this letter, regulations require that we refer the matter to our headquarters office with a recommendation for administrative sanctions."

O'Brien calls the actions against the QHA "unfair and unjust. They're attacking our good faith. We have not maliciously or intentionally in any way tried to discriminate against anybody."

"I don't think the QHA has been guilty of any wrongdoing. We've had our audits and we've been satisfactorily found to have been operating in keeping with the regulations."

O'Brien and his assistant administrator, John Cattaneo, and administrative secretary, Margaret Crombie, blame part of the authority's troubles on the profusion of federal and state regulations governing public housing.

HUD regulations alone fill 11 thick loose leaf volumes in the HA office plus four volumes of changes since 1976.

"There is a state regulation giving tenant preference to local people," said O'Brien. "But HUD wants no part of that."

"They are saying that we can't follow the law which says you have to give preference but on the same breath they say you have to give preference to someone who falls into an other than non-minority classification."

"They talk out of both sides of their mouths."

O'Brien questioned HUD's assertion that the QHA has taken no steps to place women in administrative positions.

"Actually," he said, "we have only two administrative positions, myself and Mr. Cattaneo. Peg Crombie is administrative secretary. I consider her an administrative position because when we are out of the office she takes responsibility for operation of the authority."

Cattaneo pointed out that the authority has contracts with labor unions that specify it hire union workers.

"If we have a vacancy," he said, "we confer with the union for referrals of qualified applicants. They have an affirmative action program. But there is a conflict."

"The DCA and HUD say tenants should be given preference as to positions. Here we are torn between affirmative action and the DCA and HUD regulations regarding tenants."

"You're damned if you do and damned if you don't."

The federal government identifies minorities as American Indian, Asian, Black and Hispanic which sounds simple. Actually, says Peg Crombie, it's not.

"We have three minority tenants who are identified as black by observation," she said.

"But we also have a woman with an Irish name. We just discovered that she is of Spanish origin. We never included her among the minorities. There probably are more."

Cattaneo maintains that the Housing Authority has been forbidden by law to ask a person's race. "We can ask them," he said, "but if they refuse to answer that's all right because we shouldn't be asking in the first place."

Mrs. Wahlberg says this is not precisely the case, that racial questions can be asked for statistical purposes.

What particularly bugs O'Brien is a phrase in an Oct. 5 letter from Vera, which notes that only three of 1,049 federally supported housing units in Quincy are occupied by minorities.

"Considering the excellent public transportation to Boston," wrote Vera, "such a record of exclusion is indefensible."

"What if the MBTA wasn't there?" asks O'Brien. "Is that an excuse?"

"We're not trying to be defiant. We want to comply. It's just that we're more confused than anything else."

Ceramic Highlights

To further explore other members of the underglaze family, let's look at the firing antiques. Most firing antiques are called "firing antique stains". Do not be misled by this term, it is not the same stain that you use on a bisque piece that requires no further firings. Firing antique stains are made up of a combination of several colors of onestrokes mixed together to give a product of underglaze that is used to antique a piece. Antiquing is a technique that looks best on a detailed piece. It is meant to accentuate crevices, details and designs in pieces. Antiques used on bisque are thinned with a lot of water [because they are very concentrate] and applied with a brush. When dry, they are washed off with a damp sponge, leaving as much antique on the piece as is pleasing to your taste. The piece is then glazed with a glaze of your choice and is re-fired. Some antiques are designed to be applied to greenware, those products go by trade names such as "Wipe-aways" and "dust-aways". They also are thinned down with water and applied with a brush. When dry, they are dusted or brushed away with a stiff brush or terrycloth. They are then bisque fired to set the color and then glazed and re-fired.

TIPS AND HINTS:
Damp greenware or piece decorated and glazed should not be fired until completely dried. Dampness in a piece when it is firing could cause bumps on the surface of the fired ware. Or many times, the piece can explode or crack during the firing process.

John J. O'Lalor, III, 66, Retired FBI Agent

A funeral Mass will be celebrated today [Thursday] at 10 a.m., at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, for John J. O'Lalor III, 66, of Quincy, a retired resident agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
 Mr. O'Lalor died Monday at Leonard Morse Hospital, Natick, after a long illness. Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.
 He was a native of Boston, but lived in Quincy for many years. He graduated from Boston English High School where he played football and won a scholarship to Boston College. He graduated from B.C. in 1934 after playing guard on the football team for four years.
 He was a social worker for the city of Boston for six years and in 1941 became a resident agent for the Boston office of the FBI, a position he held until his retirement in 1964.

 He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Phyllis E. [MacDougall] O'Lalor; two sons, John J. O'Lalor IV, and Bruce W. O'Lalor, both of Quincy; five daughters, Mrs. Jane F. Whipple of Hanover, Mrs. Susan Kendrick of Quincy, Mrs. Judy Kelly of Randolph, Mrs. Phyllis McCormack of Raynham, and Miss Mary Ann O'Lalor of Wollaston; a sister, Mrs. Anne Fuller of Norwood, and 10 grandchildren.
 Funeral arrangements are being handled by Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Quincy.

John P. Harmon Former Boxer

A funeral Mass will be celebrated in St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) for John P. Harmon of Quincy, a former amateur and professional boxer who fought under the name of Jackie Wilson.
 Harmon died Monday at Quincy City Hospital. Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.
 Mr. Harmon was born in Boston and educated in the Quincy public schools. He was a laborer for various construction companies.

 During his days in the ring he was managed by the late Johnny Buckley, manager of former heavyweight Jack Sharkey.
 He is survived by his parents John and Helen (Boylan) Harmon of Quincy, and two sisters, Mrs. Helen Meyer of Parsippany, N.J., and Mrs. Barbara Costedio of Kingston.
 Funeral arrangements are being handled by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

'The Church And The Divorced' Topic At St. John's Jan. 16

The South Shore Support Group for Separated and Divorced Catholics will sponsor a talk on "The Church and the Divorced" by Sister Paula Ripple, F.S.P.A., Tuesday, Jan. 16, at 8 p.m., in St. John's Parish Hall, Quincy Center.
 It is open to the public without charge.
 Sister Ripple is the executive director of the North American Conference for Separated and Divorced Catholics, and is a nationally known speaker. Her recently published book, "The Pain and the Possibility: Divorce and Separation Among Catholics," has received very positive response from the public.

 Sister Ripple will respond to questions from the audience after the talk.

Dr. Luleen Anderson

To Speak At St. Joseph's

The CCD Executive Board of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, is sponsoring a discussion by Dr. Luleen Anderson, Quincy Public Schools Psychologist, in the school hall Wednesday, Jan.

17 at 8 p.m.
 The subject of Dr. Anderson's talk will be "Parenting". All interested persons in the Quincy Point Community are invited to attend.

Have you ever stopped to wonder just how important your tongue is and how many services it performs for you...Not only does it help us in speech, but aids in chewing and swallowing. Moreover, the tongue is the only organ of taste. Normally, the tongue is pinkish-white in color, moist and clean; a tongue that is dark, dry and furry usually means illness. As you might expect, the best care of the tongue is care of the teeth... And did you know that burning of the tongue is sometimes caused by different electrical potentials in fillings in opposite sides of the mouth? Regular check-ups by your family dentist is the best way to keep your teeth and your entire mouth healthy and attractive. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., who recently opened an office for the practice of general dentistry at 539 Adams St., Milton, has a sincere interest in the general health of his patients as well as their oral health. We advise parents to bring their young children [3-4 Years of age] in to meet the dentist and become acquainted with dental procedures. Dr. Sweeney is fully qualified to provide all routine care. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. Insurance plans, Master Charge and Visa are honored.

DENTAL HINT:
Rough-edged teeth or ill-fitting false teeth can cause inflammation of the tongue.

LaRaia Council At-Large Candidate?

Paul Harold's party following his swearing-in as the district's new state senator, is causing somewhat of a stir among some political observers.

Igniting speculation was the presence of one of the approximate 300 guests at the Neighborhood Club celebrations: Joseph J. LaRaia. Some see it as a tip-off that LaRaia will make a political comeback bid this year.

They think that instead of taking on Arthur Tobin for the second floor corner office over-looking Hancock St., he will try a detour through the City Council chamber.

The destination: the at-large seat vacated by Harold to serve as full-time senator.

They see Harold's party as a good starting point for LaRaia's bid for the council seat, and an eventual — maybe two years from now — bid to regain the Mayor's office.

Whether LaRaia actually runs for the council seat remains to be seen. But, from a political standpoint, it would be a smoother comeback road than a mayoral campaign. It's still easier to pick up one of three votes in a council at-large race than a single vote in a one-on-one mayoral fight.

Observers are pretty much convinced that LaRaia goes to sleep nights dreaming of a political comeback.

Even his political enemies will concede that he is a fighter and that as far as he is concerned the fight is far from over even though right now he is on the outside at City Hall looking in.

Being at the Harold party certainly isn't going to hurt LaRaia if he is getting ready for a comeback try. Being seen with a winner helps. And, in this case, being with a political Mr. Clean-as Harold is regarded by many—had double value.

It might even help some people forget the record of the turbulent LaRaia administration.

LaRaia certainly isn't going to be hurt. The question is: but will Harold?

He has the ingredients—intelligence, personality and boyish charm—for political stardom.

He has been advised by friends to be and remain independent—not to be close to any political faction in the city. He and Arthur Tobin certainly are a good mile or a mile and a half from one another, politically. But some Harold fans are getting a little concerned over what appears to be a much shorter political distance between him and LaRaia.

Any time LaRaia or key people from his administration are seen in the same room with Harold it refuels charges that they played a major role in Harold's senatorial victory. Harold and his supporters emphatically denied it then and still do now.

Mention the subject and you can get a good argument going. But Harold does seem to be having a little trouble shaking what some people refer to as "the LaRaia connection."

LaRaia people, they note, seem to have a knack for turning up at places where Harold is.

DENNIS HARRINGTON still appears undecided whether to stay on as a $19,000 assistant city solicitor or to take the $3,000 City Council seat vacated by Harold.

He seems to be trying to convince himself to pass up the council seat. If he does turn it down, former Councillor-Rep. Joseph Brett appears to have the inside track. And, he's definitely interested.

Interested enough to write to the remaining eight councillors to inform them he will be happy to serve if elected.

DEMOCRATIC State Committeewoman Kathy O'Donnell is recuperating at home following back surgery.

'Trial Of Catonsville Nine' Approved 4-2

Furor Continues Over Use Of Book

By PETER BARNICLE

The furor over use of the controversial book "Trial of the Catonsville Nine" in the Quincy school system continues to simmer this week.

The School Committee in a heated session last week voted 4-2 to approve Daniel Berrigan's book for use in an elective course at the high school level.

Committeemen John J. Sullivan and Frank Anselmo vigorously oppose use of the book in the Quincy school system. Anselmo charges the book deals with people who had "betrayed their country."

Sullivan loudly denounced the book at the meeting, shouting: "Freedom to dissent is fine, but dissent with civil disobedience is wrong."

The book, written by the former Jesuit, concerns the burning of draft records during the Vietnam War with the use of homemade napalm by nine persons, many of them priests and nuns.

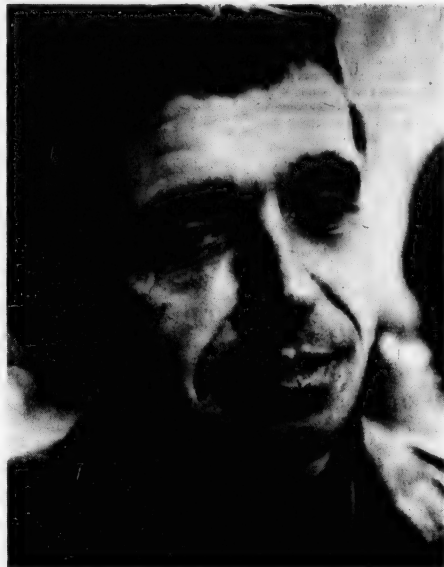

The matter had been before the committee since early November. At a recent meeting Anselmo provided members of the board with paperback copies of the book.

Committee Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland was joined by Committee members Christopher F. Kennedy, Mary Collins and Joan Picard in favoring approval of purchase of the book.

Following the meeting Mrs. Toland told The Sun she "very definitely" approved purchase of the book.

"It is part of an elective English course entitled 'Trials of Man'. The course examines classic American trials that have had significance in our judicial system. The Catonsville trial is a contemporary case that has to do with Vietnam War resisters.

"To me the course encourages discussion and analysis leading to critical thinking which is what we need to develop so students can become more intelligent about the political system. It gives them a chance to develop their own critical thinking skills and make judgments on their own, without being swayed by the media or other influences.

"The students have to understand that the American system is not perfect. I don't think we have to keep them from learning about what has happened in our history. We have allowed dissent and this is one of the things which makes the American system strong.

"This type of course is one way to develop critical thinking. The kids have to learn to judge what they are reading, analyze it, and be able to discuss the significant parts, to understand what our system is all about."

Anselmo denied his objections to the book could be considered censorship.

"It's a question of how we are spending the taxpayers money for education," he told The Sun. "Every dollar we spend is supposedly for quality education. The cost is going up and the quality is going down."

"I am satisfied that although we lost the vote on that one book

Assistant Director, 2 Mana

Tuesday," said Tobin. The Hospital Board meets Tuesday at 6 p.m. and the Council at 7:30 p.m., moved up a day because of the Monday holiday.

The Touche Ross forecast of a Hospital deficit touched off a minor political skirmish between Tobin and Councillor Francis X. McCauley, his leading critic on the Council.

McCauley, citing the deficit, said "we don't have the fully funded budget that was promised us if we approved the bond issue to cover the last deficit. Where are we going to find $3 million? Is it going to be another bond issue?"

Tobin retorted angrily that he has "stated right along that there are problems at the hospital that this administration inherited from previous administrations. That's the reason for sending Touche Ross up there."

"The estimated receipts at City Hospital were not computed by Mayor Tobin. They were computed by the director of the Hospital. Then he found out he was not given the correct financial information."

"The Hospital does not have the manpower or the fiscal expertise to give him the information he needed. That is the purpose of the meeting this evening."

"Those who criticize the bond issue," he added, "should have stood up and said they wanted a $32 tax rate increase. That was the alternative."

Maguire said the Touche Ross findings made these points:

• "Blue Cross is paying the Hospital charges but it is not paying costs. If the charges were higher you'd be getting additional revenue from Blue Cross. You are subsidizing Blue Cross."

• "The key issue is that the Hospital ran in the red in 1978. We're expecting the Hospital's performance will continue to be poor in 1979. It depends on how much Quincy is willing to support the Hospital."

• "We do not feel that the rate structure is actually the best. We think we could increase rates by 5 per cent. The ball is rolling toward a rate readjustment at the Hospital currently."

Questioned by Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., Maguire said he was talking about more than just room rates. "It's also the charges for such things as X-rays, lab tests, and things like that," he said.

"We are a community-service hospital and we have to realize that," said Lydon.

"It is management decision," replied Maguire, "if you want to subsidize the Hospital. If $1 million [deficit] is where you want to be I have no problem with that."

Maguire said Touche Ross feels "we have developed a plan where the hospital can be self-supporting."

• "It takes City Hospital two to four weeks to write third party checks. The normal target is one day. This could mean an additional $800,000 in cash collections."

Maguire explained third party checks like this: "The Hospital has a Blue Cross checkbook. You actually write yourself a check and deposit it to that we made a lot of strong points. "Up until now the committee was given the name of the book, the author and the publisher, along with the price of one book, we never knew how many were to be purchased. From now on I want to know the unit price and also the amount of money to be spent for each book."

Anselmo said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon has told him 50 copies of the Catonsville book were to be purchased and go into all school libraries.

Sullivan, who joined Anselmo in protesting acceptance of the book, said:

"I regret that the majority of the school committee members decided to adopt and accept a book that breeds disease.

"I am concerned that the youngsters who attend our schools have the right reading material. They should not be taught under our supervision and direction how to commit crime. And that is what this book is all about—how to commit crime."

He said that as a result of the opposition two other books were immediately withdrawn. One was "The French Lieutenant's Woman" and the other "Slouching Towards Bethlehem."

At the School Committee meeting Kennedy, a member of the book screening committee, said the group had approved the book with the stipulation that students be given access to it only with parents' permission, because the screening committee did not like a section about drugs. He complained that the restriction was left off the textbook list as submitted to the school committee.

"The Berrigan book is a pretty fair description of a trial that took place in the recent past," Kennedy said. "It's a profound defense of civil disobedience concerning the people who burned draft records. One of the important things that should not be overlooked is that they were all convicted and went to prison.

"The history of the United States is replete with all sorts of examples of civil disobedience and you will see that in all cases the participants suffered some sort of jailing or restriction on their freedom. They were willing to take the risk and they were willing to take the consequences."

He noted that Henry David Thoreau wrote an essay entitled "Civil Disobedience" which was inspired by his protest against U.S. entry into the Mexican War. "Thoreau refused to pay his poll tax," Kennedy said, "and as a result he went to jail. Today his books can be found in schools throughout the country. He is a highly respected essayist.

"The important factor is a book's value in discussions and comparisons. Under the guidance of a competent teacher this can be, along with other books, a valuable part of curriculum in a course for advanced or senior students."

During the debate Anselmo called the book dangerous because it contains a recipe for the making of napalm.

Committeewoman Joan Picard produced two dictionaries and pointed out that both contained much more detailed recipes than appear in the Berrigan book. The recipe in her book comes from a handbook issued in U.S. special forces.

Committeewoman Mary Collins said she had read the book and found it "enjoyable."

"This is part of our history and I can't see how we could consider an incident in history to be 'objectionable' in the sense that if we ignore it we can pretend it never happened," Mrs. Collins said.

"I would let my 14-year-old daughter read it, if she wanted to," Mrs. Collins said.

She also noted there are several mentions of the Berrigans and the Catonsville Nine in reference books to be found in the school libraries.

Shipyard Eyes Super Carrier Contract

A delegation from the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee returned from Washington optimistic that the Fore River Shipyard will receive a multi-million dollar contract to build the third Forrestal-class super attack carrier.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin [R-Mass] predicted that a "reasonable bid" would bring Quincy the contract and Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth [R-Milton] said he believed the award would not be made on a "sheer dollars and cents basis."

Members of the delegation said they were heartened by a promise from Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams that a "fair decision" would be made in awarding the contract.

The delegation included City Manager William J. Deegan, Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, George A. Daly Jr., chairman of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, and Donald Edmonston, president of Local 5 of the Shipbuilders Union.

Meanwhile, the Yard obtained a half million dollars contract to build two digesters for the Great Northern Paper Co. of East Millinocket, Maine.

STORM CONTROVERSY

A two-day snow storm, described as the worst in some time, deposited 12 inches of snow on Quincy and evoked a split on the City Council over the quality of snow removal.

"An extremely poor job," said Councillor Carl W. Anderson.

"A very good job," said Councillor Edna B. Austin. "I haven't had a single complaint."

Good or bad, Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert estimated that the cost of snow removal might go over $40,000, including the cost of hiring extra equipment and labor.

RENT BOOST APPROVED

City Solicitor George W. Arbuckle ruled that a 5-3 vote by the Quincy Rent Control Board authorizing a 10 per cent rent increase throughout the city on Feb. 1 was legal.

Board Chairman Joseph P. McDonough had declared the vote null and void on grounds that the Board did not obtain "expert advice" before the action was taken.

• "Cost reductions can be accomplished in the salary area by use of full time equivalent control." That is, maintaining a close watch on overtime and the use of part time people.

• "We don't know where you stand to date in non-salary expenditures. The prevalent attitude with some department heads is, 'We've always got additional funds before when we asked for them. Why worry about it all of a sudden?'" he said, "this hospital should be at a $500,000-600,000 [deficit] level."

Dr. William J. Frates, president of the medical staff at the Hospital, suggested that the hospital cannot long endure with some capital improvements.

"We have gone without a capital expenditure in the last few years," he said, "and we do not feel that to deliver quality care we can continue to live in that fashion."

Dr. William Helfrich Jr., nephew of former City Councillor Alfred G. Helfrich, speaking from the audience, said he felt the solution was to "turn the Hospital back to a non-profit private corporate entity."

He said that out of 144 hospitals in Massachusetts there are 12 municipal hospitals and "not one is operating with a deficit of less than $1 million a year."

Dr. Marvin J. Powell, a neurosurgeon, drew down the wrath of some of his colleagues and councillors when he called City Hospital "now a third-rate hospital."

"Twenty years ago it was a first rate hospital," he said. "I personally am not about to do things at the Hospital that I was able to do 20 years ago."

Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund At $8,678 Mark

The Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund has reached the $8,678 mark as of December 31, reports Richard J. Koch, executive director of the organization.

The trust, established in 1973 on the 25th Anniversary of the Koch Club with a $5,000 original grant entrusted to the City of Quincy, has been increased by $3,678 during the past five years with a series of gifts, memorials and the interest accrued on the principal amount.

The original $5,000 was derived from the proceeds of the Silver Anniversary Year publication amounting to $3,000 and a $1,000 gift from the North Quincy and Broad Meadows Districts of the organization.

The Permanent Scholarship Fund will be activated in May of 1978 on the Koch Club 50th Anniversary with the interest accrued from the preceding year used to provide scholarships for boy and girl graduates of the three high schools in Quincy or possible succeeding educational institutions. The procedure will continue each year thereafter permanently.

A recent donation of $80, in memory of Mrs. Dora Ellis has been added to the Permanent Scholarship Fund, the first gift for 1979.

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League has contributed $1,000 to the Permanent Scholarship Fund in the past 10 years.

In 1959, the present Koch Club Scholarship Fund was initiated in the original North Quincy District of the organization and a $100 scholarship was provided to a boy and girl graduate of North Quincy High School and has continued each year.

The Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club, founded in 1962, joined the scholarship program in 1964 and presented a $100 scholarship award to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School and has continued the practice every year.

During 1970, a $50 award was added for a boy and girl graduate of the Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

Since 1973, the Koch Club has awarded $500, annually to boy and girl graduates of each of the high schools for a total of $8,000, in scholarship awards since the program began in 1959.

Purpose of the scholarship awards is to impress upon the boys and girls that although the Koch Club is primarily involved in recreation activities, the organization and its volunteers were greatly interested in the education of its participants.

The Koch Club Active Scholarship Fund will continue to provide $500, annually in scholarships to graduates and to guarantee continuity of the program while the Permanent Scholarship Fund will insure the tradition will continue should the organization no longer exist.

McCauley Cleared Of Conflict

would occur in this case if there is 'participation' in a 'particular matter.'

"The Supreme Judicial Court stated that to participate includes to preside over a vote without voting and to participate in the formulation of a matter for vote."

Due to the "informational" nature of the meetings McCauley attended and the "tentative nature of the proposals discussed," said Delahunt, the Councilor "did not in the opinion of this office substantially participate in a particular matter of city business."

"In our opinion," he said, "action to obtain a formal criminal complaint or indictment is not warranted by these facts. The district attorney added:

"I respectfully but firmly urge the councilors and all municipal employees, to individually exercise extreme caution about permitting even the appearance of a conflict of interest to arise."

"While confidential information was apparently not disclosed or used in this case, municipal employees in general should use extra care to adhere to the non-criminal standards of conduct set forth in the general laws."

McCauley expressed "satisfaction with the district attorney's opinion that I did not violate the conflict of interest law."

"I will abide by the city solicitor's ruling that I should not attend further meetings of the committee now that specific proposals are before it for action," he said.

Abe Itkin Candidate For Mayor

The first hat is in the ring for Mayor.

Abe Itkin, of 178 Presidents Lane, Quincy Center, who ran for governor as a write-in candidate last year, announced this week he will be seeking the Mayor's office in 1979.

"I am announcing my candidacy at this time in order to present myself to the electorate at the earliest possible time for their consideration," he said.

Itkin said he plans to campaign on the slogan, "Honesty - Integrity - Humanity."

"I don't take this motto lightly," he said, "nor do I ask for the support of the citizens of our great city of Quincy with anything less than a sense of humility."

"I offer you 'my blood, my sweat and my tears' to the extent that the city of Quincy may grow and prosper in the years which are ahead."

Smokers Offering

Free Introductory Courses Jan. 15

Smokers is a nationally proven method that allows cigarette addicts to kick the habit of their own free will and never have the urge to begin again.

The program has been widely used in universities, civic organizations and corporations who find their employees perform much better and have fewer sick days after completing the course.

For the past decade over 100,000 people have attended the two-hour weekly courses that allow smoking for the first five weeks before "cut-off" day arrives. By then participants have relaxed and learned to control the smoking urge.

Those interested in attending one of the free introductory sessions beginning Jan. 15 can contact Smokers Chapter office at 828-7600 in Canton.

Morrissey Office Hours Fridays

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) will hold office hours Fridays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. in his district office at 69 Billings Road, North Quincy until his mobile office is on the road.

Morrissey also said that if people could not make the Friday office hours, an appointment could be made by contacting him at 328-0900 or in the State House at 727-7035.

New Learning Experience

Shakespeare Plays Telecourse At QJC

A new experience in learning will be presented starting in January at Quincy Junior College and across the nation.

The Shakespeare Plays series and telecourse are a unique project that will continue each season for six years until the end, 37 Shakespearean dramas will have been broadcast and offered for study through QJC.

The basic aim of The Shakespeare Plays is to enable the student to experience a play with understanding and appreciation. The course is an introduction to Shakespeare's drama that has the unique feature and advantage of enabling students to study the works of Shakespeare not by just reading the plays but by seeing and hearing every one of them. The carefully integrated instructional system comprises the television programs, the texts of the plays, and a study guide.

For this current season, six plays will be broadcast biweekly beginning in mid-February. The selection presents a balance among Shakespeare's comedies, histories and tragedies. Each production has been designed to accurately reflect the time and the place in which Shakespeare set the play.

The first play As You Like It,

Shakespeare's sophisticated comedy, was shot on location at Glamis, an estate in Scotland. Other plays in this year's series include: The Tragedy of King Richard the Second, a historical play; Romeo and Juliet, a romantic tragedy; Measure for Measure, treated as a drama with comic elements; Julius Caesar, one of the best-known tragedies; and finally the famous Life of Henry The Eighth, another historical drama.

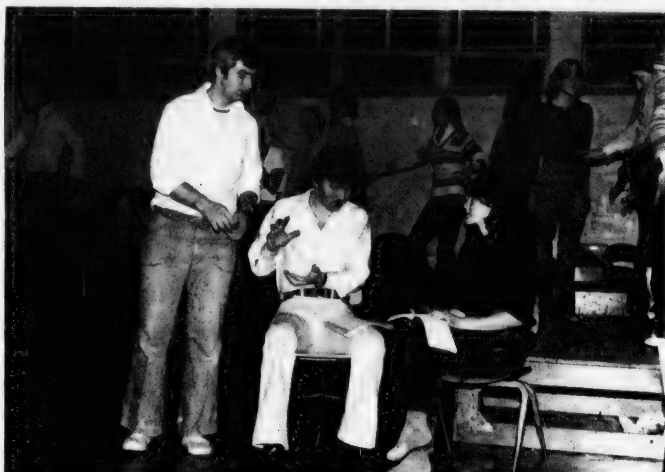

The Shakespeare plays are being produced and recorded by the BBC in cooperation with Time-Life Television. The local Public Broadcast Service will broadcast the plays.

Anyone interested in watching these plays will also want to have the opportunity to study and discuss the plays with a knowledgeable instructor and other classmates. Classes for this course meet one hour a week, 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays beginning Jan. 24. Students are also expected to watch the plays and read assigned material. Anyone interested in more information and a Quincy Junior College Division of Continuing Education brochure may call Dean Mula at 786-8741.

Merrymount Pupils To Present 'King Arithmetic'

Fourth grade students of the Merrymount School, 4 Agawam Rd., will present "The Court of King Arithmetic", Thursday, Jan. 25.

The program under the direction of Mrs. Susan Engorn, will be presented in the school at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

At Broad Meadows

Community Theater To Present 'Sweet Charity'

Quincy Community Theater's first musical, "Sweet Charity", will be presented Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2 and 3, 9 - 10, at 8 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd.

"Sweet Charity", adapted from the Fellini screenplay, includes such hit musical numbers as "Hey Big Spender", "Where Am I Going", and "If My Friends Could See Me Now". Kathleen Bertrand of Quincy, is directing the production. She is a physical education teacher and has choreographed various presentations within the Quincy school system.

Richard DeMone of Quincy, the musical director, has worked with the New York Shakespeare Festival, the Chateau de Ville, Ann Corio and Judy Carne.

Co-choreographers are Maria D'Arcangelo, a foreign language teacher at North Quincy High School, and Diane Flanagan who owns and operates a dance studio in Quincy.

The Quincy Community Theater was established in September, 1977, with Frank Moffett as coordinator and an administrative board of directors.

The first production was "Middle of the Night". Since then the theater has presented "The Gingerbread Lady", "The Mousetrap", and "Forty Carats".

Christmas Festival Awards Night Jan. 19

The Quincy Christmas Festival will hold its annual awards night Friday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Sons of Italy Social Center, 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

During the evening trophies will be presented to bands and floats which participated in the Christmas parade Nov. 26. Certificates of merit will also be presented to organizations and individuals who assisted in festival activities.

Presidents Host Waltham

Quincy's basketball team, off to a fast start after a dismal season, took a 5-2 record (3-1 in the Suburban League) into last Tuesday's big game at awesome Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Friday will host Waltham.

Next Tuesday the Presidents will be home to Weymouth North. Joe Amoroso's team rebounded from its first league loss and last Friday edged Newton North, 52-48.

Brian Donovan scored 20 points and sophomore guard Steve Priscella controlled the tempo of the game as he had nine rebounds and six assists. He also added 10 points.

The Presidents protected a six-point lead going into the final few minutes to get their third league win in four starts.

Earlier in the week Quincy suffered a horrendous first period and bowed to Brockton, 63-47, being outscored, 24-8, in that first quarter.

Donovan had 11 points and Priscella contributed 10 in a losing cause.

Raiders At Newton N. Friday

North Quincy's basketball team, which bounced back from a heartbreaking defeat to notch its second win last Friday, hosted Revere in a non-league game Tuesday, will play at Newton North Friday and will be at Waltham next Tuesday.

Ed Miller's Raiders, with a 2-3 record, came from behind to defeat Weymouth South, 58-53, last Friday, after trailing, 33-29, at the half.

The Raiders led, 43-42, after three as Rich Keenan scored five of his seven points in the third period. North missed a chance to pull away by missing its first six shots in the fourth quarter but clinched the win late in the game.

Young Mark Millane, improving all the time, had 15 points for North and Robby Nolan and Jim Holleran added eight apiece.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had dropped a frustrating 37-35 decision to Weymouth North when Weymouth's Fred Brennan, waiting for the final shot with the score tied at 35, found himself surrounded by North Quincy players with two seconds left. He got off a desperation shot at the buzzer and the ball swished through the net.

down in the second half after leading by three at the half. "One shot like that doesn't win or lose a game," he said. "It was other things during the game. We didn't capitalize on their turnovers in the first period and we didn't shoot well as a team. We did, however, play good defense."

Both teams played sloppily as each coach agreed. Holleran hit a key basket with 18 seconds left to tie it setting the stage for Brennan's winning shot.

Holleran was the only Raider in double figures with 11 points. Kevin Cobban had eight points.

Sports

Thursday, January 11, 1979 Quincy Sun Page 19

JOHN IODICE of Quincy was a three-year starting defensive back for the Framingham State College football team. He is the Rams' all-time kickoff and punt returner with 599 yards in kickoff returns and 371 yards in punt returns. He was selected for the New England Conference all-star team.

Quincy Girls Bow To Newton N.

The Quincy girls' basketball team, which had rolled up one of the biggest scores in history earlier in the week, dropped a 45-41 squeaker to Newton North last Friday to even its record at 3-3.

Tuesday the First Ladies faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin. Friday Quincy plays at Waltham and next Tuesday will be at Weymouth North.

Quincy had a two-point lead with 20 seconds left against Newton but Newton tied it up and won it in overtime.

Susan Callahan had 11 points and Laura Miller added eight for Barbara Webster's First Ladies.

sparked the team with 10 points.

Earlier in the week Quincy had bombed Brockton, 75-43, placing four players in double figures and scoring 43 points in the second half. Maureen Walsh scored 10 of her 16 points in the second half as the First Ladies demolished the Brockton press. Maureen Maher came off the bench and scored all eight of her points in that second half.

Callahan had 14 points, Miller 13 and Karen Murphy 12.

Raiderettes Still

This has been another disappointing season for the North Quincy girls' basketball team with the rebuilding Raiderettes having an 0-5 record, but Coach Brian Tilley is pleased with the attitude and the way his girls keep battling.

North will host Newton Friday and will be home to Waltham next Tuesday before meeting Quincy for the first time Friday, the 19th.

Last Friday North was defeated by Weymouth South, 58-29, as Weymouth's Robin Morris and Pat Horne nearly equalled the Raiderettes' total with 14 and 11 points respectively.

Earlier in the week North bowed to Weymouth North, 53-24 as the Raiderettes' Patti Bellotti

Men's Candlepin Tourney Start Rescheduled To Jan. 28

The starting date of the 26th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney has been rescheduled to Sunday, Jan. 28, at 12 noon at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

The opening was moved up one week to avoid conflict with the Super Bowl Sunday, Jan. 21.

Applications are now available at the Alleys and the deadline for filing is Wednesday, Jan. 24.

The total number of entries accepted will be an even amount. There will be no byes in the opening competition. All teams entered must participate in the first round to qualify and continue.

Teams must be from an organized men's bowling league. No pickup teams allowed. Rules are the same as league competition.

Top five bowlers in the league, as of Jan. 12, bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings used as alternates. If, for one reason or another, one of the top seven bowlers cannot compete, the league officials may continue to choose down in the league according to average. First and last name of bowlers entered with averages must be complete.

Bowlers entered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues and may only bowl for one tourney entry.

Any violations of the above rules will forfeit the teams participation.

All tournament matches will be decided on total pinfall.

It is an elimination tourney; each team must win to continue in competition.

Opposition each Sunday is automatic, according to the alley number drawn.

The tourney for the past 26 years has been sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter athletic and recreation program.

Forty-eight teams participated last year, six times the original number of entries in 1953.

Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association from Jan. 15 through 19 at the Quincy Wonder Bowl, Southern Artery.

Trophies will be awarded to those with the highest pinfalls over their average so far this season. Along with adult participants, the South Shore Juniors will be taking part. Ernie Villeneuve is director of the program.

Each bowler will be asked to "spare a buck" to register for the bowl-a-thon. The funds raised will be used locally to support the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association's physical conditioning program for children with asthma which is held each year at the Quincy YMCA.

The program, designed to help youngsters from age 6 to 13 learn to manage asthma attacks, is now being held at the Y.

The funds will also be used for the lung association's new Smoking Education Program, which will soon be made available to local schools.

The bowl-a-thon, the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association noted, is to increase public awareness of the dangers of lung disease. Prizes and trophies will be awarded at a special ceremony at the Quincy Wonder Bowl Jan. 24.

• Little Loop Harold Club Sets Sun, 4-0

The Paul D. Harold Club blanked The Quincy Sun, 4-0, last week to hold its three-point lead in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

Track Club Shines In Holiday Meets

Members of the Quincy Track Club did well over the holiday vacation period in various meets around New England.

At the Beverly Invitational Denise Santo placed third in the 50-yard dash in 6.2, a club record. Denise, only 14 and a junior high student, faced two New England champions and several high school standouts.

At the Boston College Invitational Denise ran 7.3 to set a club record in the 60-yard dash but could do no better than fourth.

The club had 15 entrants in the Christmas Invitational at Bates College, Lewiston, Me. The QTC girls won the championship trophy.

Santo again led the charge, winning the 45-yard dash in 5.8 and the 300 in 40.7. She also took third in the long jump. Margaret Osterman won the long jump and the 600, Kara Crehan won the high jump at five feet and also won the mile walk, Donna Reardon was second in the mile, Michelle Millane took second in the shot put, Karen Lindenfelzer was third in the 1000, Linda Morash was second in the triple jump and fourth in the hurdles, the mile relay team of Osterman, Lindenfelzer, Reardon and Morash won and the B team of Santo, Martha Donaghue, Crehan and Millane took third.

The age groupers also dominated their events in typical fashion as Lorrie McNeill won the 45 and 440 and took second in the girls' 10-under division. Lorrie turned nine the day after the meet. Harry Morash paced the boys' 10-under division with wins in the 300, 440 and took third in the 45.

In girls' 11-13, Maureen Roche won the 45, 300 and shot put with a personal best of 27-4 in the shot, and also took third in the long jump. Christine Picarski was second in the 45 and long jump, and Georgia Traficante won the 440 and was second in the 300 and shot put.

Coach Jeff Hennessy, competing for the Boston Track Club, was second in the 600 at Beverly in 1:17.2 and at Lewiston won the men's hurdles in 6.2 and took second in the 600.

The girls' next major meet will be the Dartmouth Relays on Jan. 13-14 and the club will compete in limited fashion at the Franklin meets.

Stars At Boston State

Bill Joyce Kind Of Athlete Coach Dreams About

Quincy's Bill Joyce, a senior at Boston State College, enjoyed an outstanding season this fall for the State football team which finished 6-3 and shared the New England Conference title.

Two days after the football season ended, the former Quincy High football and basketball star, who hadn't played basketball since his senior year (1973-74) at Quincy High, reported to Basketball Coach Paul Fitzpatrick for the first time at State.

"Bill knew we were a little thin in the backcourt due to injuries, so he came to me and asked if he could help out in any way," Fitzpatrick said.

"Well, let me tell you, he certainly has helped out and in a lot of ways. He hadn't played any basketball during his first three years here but I knew him from Quincy High and because of his natural competitive nature and his coachability, he was in the swing of things within a few days."

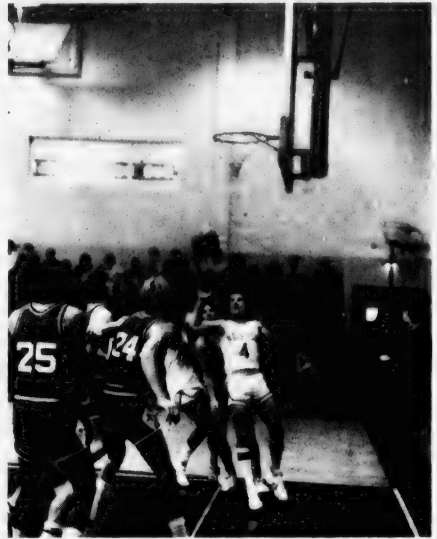

"I stress defense in my basketball players and defense means hard work. Bill Joyce has never been one to back away from hard work."

With the loss of the Warriors' top player, junior All-America Ray Buckland, Fitzpatrick has had to rely more and more on good sound defense.

"Bill is basically an athlete, pure and simple," Fitzpatrick continued. "He does what I ask of him and does it well. But that is the story of Bill Joyce and Boston State College, everything he does, he does well."

Joyce is playing regularly for the Warriors and, in addition to being an outstanding defensive player, he is scoring his share of points.

QUINCY'S BILL JOYCE (No. 4 in white) fights for the ball during a recent Boston State College game.

As a starting defensive back and sometimes line backer for the football team this fall, Joyce was superb. His sophomore and junior years he led the team in tackles and this year he was second.

He holds the Warrior record for most tackles in a game, 20; most total hits in a game, 23; most tackles in a season, 106, and most total hits in a season, 137.

With his four pass interceptions this past year, Joyce is now the career interception leader for State with 12. He played in 26 football games for the Warriors and was in on 334 tackles, an average of almost 13 hits a game. He was twice selected to the New England Football Conference All-Conference team, was an all-New England choice twice and has been the team's MVP twice.

"Bill really impressed me this past season," said first year coach Colclough. "He hit hard and was the quarterback of the defensive backs. Bill played the run as well as the pass and was a real hard worker who committed himself totally to the game."

At Quincy Joyce was a defensive starter for football coach Hank Conroy for two years and was the co-captain in basketball in Joe Amoroso's first year as coach. He also starred as a junior under Coach Marty Finnegan.

North Swim Team Edges Don Bosco

The North Quincy swim team, with a 2-4 record, hosted Brockton, the Suburban League's top team, Tuesday and next Tuesday will be at Waltham.

Bill Walker's Raiders placed first and third in the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, to nip Don Bosco, 85-89, last Friday.

The winning team included John Conley, John Buckley, Bob Farmer and Steve Pike, which finished in 4:11.9. Swimming on the third place team were Sean O'Brien, Tim Burke, Dave Riley and Ed Melanson.

North also won the 200-yard medley relay with John Nolan, Bill Boudreau, John Buckley and Dick Farmer.

Conley won the 200 freestyle and the 500 freestyle and Melanson won the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly.

Dave Donovan won the diving competition with 148.50 points. Buckley took second in the 100 freestyle, Bill Feeney was second in the 100 backstroke, Boudreau won the 100 breaststroke, Dick Farmer was third in the 50 freestyle and Mike Edwards was third in the 100 breaststroke.

Quincy Upset By Waltham But Sylvia Sees Silver Lining

Quincy's hockey team suffered its second defeat last Saturday, but Coach Bob Sylvia was happier in the loss than after some of his wins.

The Presidents last night (Wednesday) played at Brockton and Saturday they will play Weymouth South at Pilgrim Arena in Hingham at 1:30.

Quincy, now 3-2, was upset by Waltham, 5-3, last week but Sylvia said, "We have played worse and won. In many aspects this was a step forward for us. We moved the puck well out of the zone and we got some balance offensively. Despite the loss, I feel better about our future games after this one.

"I feel we played one of our better games and Jack Campbell played probably his best game for us. We were hurt badly by penalties and this is a sign of immaturity. We have to stop taking the foolish penalties."

Waltham rolled to a 3-0 lead before Campbell scored late in the opening period on a spectacular solo effort.

Waltham made it 4-1 early in the second period but Robbie Craig scored an unassisted goal for the Presidents.

Waltham scored its final goal and Jeff Giordani scored for Quincy at 10:21 of the second period with Pat Clifford assisting, and that was the scoring for the game.

North Surprises Brookline, 4-3

The North Quincy hockey team, which has been playing good hockey but not winning, finally collected its first Suburban League win last Saturday.

Last night (Wednesday), the Raiders faced unbeaten Weymouth North and Saturday will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Kevin Lewis' North team upset Brookline, 4-3, Saturday, on sophomore Rich Reinhardt's goal with less than three minutes to play.

Brookline took an early 2-0 lead but North bounced back with a power play goal by Tom Gerry in the second period and Paul Cooney's tying goal three minutes later. Pat Ennis put the Raiders ahead, 3-2, only to have Brookline tie it in the final period. Reinhardt took a pass from Paul McDermott and scored the clincher.

Bobby Tierney, who has been outstanding all season, had another fine game in goal.

North is 1-3-1 in the Suburban League and 2-5-1 overall.

Dunkin Dunks Nobile, Razer Edges Tailors

Dunkin Donuts defeated Nobile Sporting Goods, 6-2, in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Hockey League.

Pat O'Sullivan had the hat trick, Mike McGrath two goals and Tom Ford one. David Leonard had an assist. For Nobile Ken Gardiner and Mike Ainsley had unassisted goals.

Keohane's nipped JDA, 3-2, on goals by Walter Downing, Mike Barron and Marc Talbot. Frank Coymann, Barron and Steve Breslin had assists. Matt Burke had both JDA goals, unassisted.

In the Bantam Division Blackwood edged Lydon-Russell, 4-3, with Paul Kelly scoring twice and Steve MacDonald and Mike Ahern once each. MacDonald and Kelly had assists. Bob Conti, John Keller and Kevin O'Callahan scored for Lydon with Keller having an assist.

Plaza Olds topped Bike 'n Blade, 7-2, with Peter Clark and Dan Ceurvels having two goals each. Jim Burgess, Jim Webb and Peter Palmer had one apiece. John Downing, Ed Page, Marc Litif, Palmer and Clark had assists. Dan McDonough and Joe LaPierre had the B 'n B goals with assists for Ed O'Reilly and McDonough.

North Quincy K. of C. and Associated Woodworkers, tied, 1-1, with Peter Quinn scoring for the Knights and Greg Therrien for Woodworkers. Mark Roden assisted on Quinn's goal and Mike Walsh and Paul Coymann had assists on Therrien's goal.

Quincy JV's Win 5th In Row

The Quincy junior varsity hockey team is taking up where last season's undefeated team left off, edging Waltham, 3-2, last week to improve its record to 5-0.

John Baylis, Brian Deitsch and Rich Ahola had the goals with Joe Lamparelli and Steve Kamp had two assists each.

Chuck Dooley was outstanding in the Quincy nets.

Earlier the young Presidents had nipped North Quincy, 1-0, on Chick Milford's power play goal. Paul Flynn and Mike Looby had assists. Dooley had 22 saves, including one on a penalty shot.

Jack Crowley's Quincy jayvees were unbeaten last year and most of those players are now playing varsity. North is coached by Kevin Jago, a former North standout himself who succeeded Bob Troupe, now coaching Quincy Junior College.

Leone, McCormick Sparkle In Catholic Memorial Meet

Two members of the North Quincy track team did well last Saturday in the Catholic Memorial freshman-sophomore meet at Bentley College.

Jack Leone placed second in the high jump with a jump of 5-10 and Gerry McCormick placed third in the 1000 with a time of 2:38.

Several Raiders competed in last week's state coaches meet and, although failing to place, gave good accounts of themselves.

Competing were Bob Biagini, hurdles; Tom Quinn, 300; Steve Mastorilli, 50; Dan McIntyre, 600; John McGuigan, 1000; Jim Coughlin, mile, and Bob Ferrara, high jump. Tim O'Neil, who would have been one of the favorites in the 600, was unable to compete due to a shoulder separation suffered in a recent meet.

North Quincy returned to Suburban League action Tuesday against Weymouth South and Friday will run against Brookline. All league meets are held at Newton North High School.

Quincy Matmen Looking For 7th Win Saturday

The Quincy wrestling team, off to another good start with a 6-1 record, will host Randolph, Marshfield and Stoughton in a quadrangular meet Saturday at 10 a.m. Next Wednesday Quincy will host Duffee on Fall River at 6 p.m.

Coach Carmen Mariano's team continued to roll last Saturday when it defeated Stoughton, 38-15, winning every match from 134 pounds up.

The Broad Meadows Junior High wrestling team ran its record to 6-0 with a 42-10 romp over Point.

Mike Notorangelo, Steve Baylis, David Vecchione and Capt. Mike Nevens all pinned their opponents.

In an earlier 33-18 decision over Sterling, Notorangelo, Gerry McSharry, Vecchione, Eric Swanson and Bill Roma all won by pins. For Sterling John Kozlowski and Mark Picot won by pins and Glen Oriola and Joe Bush won by decisions.

Central defeated Atlantic, 28-19, despite pins by Richie Palma and Steve Kallenberg of Atlantic, who have pinned each of their opponents this year. Point nipped Atlantic, 27-26. Atlantic winners were Chris Butler, Palma, Richie Ragusa and Kallenberg, while Jay Pillard tied his opponent.

Atlantic's jayvees won, 6-0, with Ed Fournier and Kevin Burke getting the wins.

Bombardment Playoffs

In the first round action of the Quincy Recreation Department's annual boys elementary bombardment playoffs, Parker, Atherton Hough, Quincy and Merrymount advanced to the quarter finals with convincing victories.

Parker led by John Thompson, Tom Connolly and Michael Ainsley defeated Point, 3-0. Point was led by Billy Shaughnessy, Dan Gramazio and Frank Paolillo.

Atherton Hough lost the first game to Squantum but came back to win three straight for its 3 to 1 victory. Joe Conti, Paul Miller and Pat Faherty were standouts for the Atherton Hough team. Squantum was led by Patrick Harrington, Ted Shoris and George Knight.

Quincy behind the fine play of Albert Dibella, John Reinhard and Vincent Capone took a 3-0 win over Beechwood Knoll who were led by Larry Leonard, Chris Roberts and Scott Kerns.

In the day's final game Merrymount defeated Wollaston 3-0. Outstanding players for Merrymount were Timothy Lynch, Bob Campbell and John Kelly. Standouts for Wollaston were Scott Moore and George Burke.

In girls' elementary action both Snug Harbor and Wollaston took 3-2 victories to advance into the quarter finals. Laurie Anson, Denise Mattson and Lisa Horrigan sparked Snug Harbor to its victory over Merrymount, who was led by Rebecca Sage, Mia Gonzales and Nancy Callahan.

Wollaston had to fight off a late comeback bid by Quincy School to advance to the next round. Wollaston's outstanding players were Julie Kilian, Maura McCarthy and Kerri Vialpando.

Quincy was led by Sian Graham, Susan Coutts and Chris Nagel.

YMCA Girls Swim Team Sweeps All But One Class At Fitchburg

The Quincy YMCA girls' swim team swept all but one class in last Saturday's meet against Montachusett Y at Fitchburg.

In the 8 and under age group Julie McConville won the 80-yard individual medley and the 20-yard butterfly. Meg Given won the 40-yard freestyle. Lisa Boylann won the 20-yard backstroke. Marybeth Molignano won the 20-yard breaststroke, nipping Kristin Powers in a close finish. The 80-yard medley relay team of Given, Molignano, McConville and Powers won as did the 80-yard freestyle relay team of Powers, Boylann, Molignano and Given.

In 9 and under Jennifer Morrissey won the 40-butterfly and the 100-freestyle. Kate McConville won the 40 freestyle and was a close second in the 100-freestyle. Christine Glazier won the 40 backstroke and was second in the 80 individual medley. Susan Evans won the 40 breaststroke with Lauren Powers second. Next Saturday the boys will compete at the Andover Y and the girls will face Greendale of Worcester.

YMCA Church League

St. Joseph's Goliath A Wins 4th In Row

After a three-week holiday lay-off, St. Joseph's Goliath A team romped over Temple Beth El, 45-17, to remain undefeated (4-0) in the South Shore YMCA Church School Basketball League.

Chuck Jaehnig with 10 points, Billy Foley and Jim Jaehnig with seven apiece, sparked St. Joseph's to a big 28-9 halftime lead. A tenacious full court press caused numerous Temple Beth El turnovers, with Ricky Mahoney, John Burn, Chris Shaughnessy, John Comer and Billy Harte showing the way.

Chuck Jaehnig finished with 12 points, Foley had 10, Jim Jaehnig nine, Jim Quinn six, Burn four and Mahoney and Shaughnessy two each. For Temple Beth El Nick Aronson was tops with eight points.

All systems are "Go" for the opening of the new addition at North Quincy High School Feb. 26, but the final word will not be given for another week, according to Arthur S. Woodward, coordinator of secondary education. Present plans call for all students to be dismissed Feb. 2 for an extended winter vacation between semesters. Teachers are scheduled to pack books, papers, records and all the other paraphernalia between Feb. 5 and 8. The actual moving will be handled by a firm of commercial movers. From Feb. 13 through Feb. 16 the teachers will unpack in the new building.

Following the regular February vacation, 19 through 23, classes will resume on Feb. 26 and the old building will be shut off in preparation for a complete renovation.

Woodward says he hopes the renovations will be completed in about a year and the entire plant will be operational in September, 1980.

Some of the disciplines such as science, social studies, language arts, home economics, physical education and media will be housed in the new wing permanently. Others, including foreign language, mathematics, music, guidance, administration and health service, will remain only until renovations are completed on the old building.

Injured In Nova Scotia Crash Christmas Comes Late For Chiasson Family

By PETER BARNICLE

The Chiasson family of 63 Edison Pk., Quincy Point celebrated Christmas last Friday.

The Christmas tree in the corner of the living room was lighted, three red stockings were hanging on the fireplace mantle and a big sign at the front door read "Welcome home John, Barb and Jackie".

Other greetings were festooned on doorways, the refrigerator and throughout the house. The amateur art was the work of nine-year-old John Caporale, Charles and Paul Marshall, Danny McLaughlin and other members of the family and neighborhood youngsters.

John and Barbara Chiasson and their older son, John (Jackie), 14, spent Christmas Day in Amherst, Nova Scotia, recovering from injuries suffered in a head-on collision Nov. 25 on the Trans-Canada Hwy., about six miles east of

City Tax Collection Division Has Already Paid For Itself

The new subdivision of the City Treasurer's office that was created in December to collect back taxes and bills has already paid for itself in interest alone, Mayor Tobin reports.

Tobin said the new department, made up of three clerks and a deputy collector at a cost of $26,600 through next June 30, passed the break even point between five and six weeks after it was set up.

"The money due on the bills is going into the city treasury," said the Mayor, "but the interest has more than paid for the salaries and expenses of the department."

Planning Board Moves To Take Bank Building Land

By TOM HENSHAW

The Planning Board is moving to take by eminent domain the land at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. that figured in conflict of interest charges against City Councillor Francis X. McCauley.

One of the buildings on the land houses the Presidential Cooperative Bank, of which McCauley is president, and the land is to become part of a 10-story office building complex.

McCauley, who had taken part in discussions of the project as a member of the Council's downtown development committee, was cleared of conflict of interest charges by Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt.

But Delahunt said he felt McCauley's actions "reflected a lack of sensitivity to the important conflict of interest issue."

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board, said that in order to remove "any possible question of sensitivity" the city should take the land by eminent domain to be part of the project.

He said the land is owned by the Welsh Estate and is currently appraised at $300,000.

McCauley told his fellow councillors that his bank was negotiating to buy its building from the Welsh Estate long before it came up in discussion about the possible development.

The office building is to be built in the city-owned Della Chiesa Parking Area with the land occupied by the Presidential Cooperative Bank and the Norfolk Bank used as open space.

Housing Project, Garage Still 'Go'

No Freeze On Federal Funds

There is no freeze on federal funds to Quincy in spite of the city's difficulty in coming up with an acceptable affirmative action plan.

Both federal and city officials expressed confusion over a published report Monday that funds for a $2.2 million elderly housing project have been frozen.

The report also said that a $4.4 million Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) to build a parking garage in connection with a proposed new office building has been delayed.

"There is no freeze," said Bedros Baharian, citywide development coordinator, Tuesday. "The federal people told us this morning that they have not put a freeze on us to stop anything."

John Corcoran, professional assistant to the area manager for the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), said HUD has found something wrong with Quincy's affirmative action plan.

But, he added, it has had no effect on funding yet.

"When they reviewed it," he said, "they found certain basic requirements that Quincy did not meet. The findings were referred to Washington in mid-December."

Corcoran said the area office usually hears from headquarters on such things in about 60 days.

"We've been talking to the federal people since the story came out Monday night," said Baharian, "and the opinion is that the story is blown out of proportion and misconstrued."

"They said they have been misquoted."

The story appeared in Monday's Patriot Ledger.

Baharian said that HUD has asked the city "to move ahead with an affirmative action program and we've been moving ahead with it exactly as they told us to do."

The city drew up an affirmative action plan in January, 1978, and filed it with the federal government.

The plan states that the city "will also begin immediately to develop the required goals and timetables for this plan . . . with the stipulation that future, more valid reliable data may necessitate their alteration."

That is what the city is doing now, said Baharian.

The Housing Authority is also under the gun to come up with an affirmative action plan for employment and tenant acceptance. It was due to be considered at last night's (Wednesday) HA meeting.

Brett Returns To City Council

Joseph E. Brett, the veteran Wollaston politician who first sought public office 47 years ago, has been returned to the City Council to fill the unexpired at-large term left by Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy], who resigned Jan. 3.

Brett, 71, who served on the Council from 1958-59 and as a State Rep from 1959 until he was defeated for a 10th term by Michael W. Morrissey in 1976, was elected by vote of the eight other councillors Tuesday night.

Brett, who finished fifth in the race for the Council's three at-large seats in the 1977 election, was chosen by his colleagues after Dennis E. Harrington, now an assistant city solicitor, the fourth place finisher, indicated he would not accept the post.

Brett, who owned a variety and liquor store in Montclair for many years, has run for the Council five times in the past 34 years, winning the seventh and final seat in 1957, the last year in which all councillors were chosen at large.

He lost his bid for re-election in 1959, ironically being nosed out by John J. Quinn, the

NQHS To Present Panel Discussion On Employment Outlook

The Counseling Department of North Quincy High School will present a program "Employment Outlook on the South Shore", Wednesday, Jan. 24.

It will be held at 7 p.m. in the Little Building, an annex to the main high school which is located directly behind the Merit Gas Station at Hancock and Hunt Sts.

A panel of employers will discuss the types of jobs available in their fields. They will also talk about the qualities they seek in job applicants and how to keep a job and advance within a company.

Ron DuBois from the Chamber of Commerce will moderate the discussion and present an overview of the job market on the South Shore. Representatives from the banking, retail, hotel and manufacturing industries will participate.

Parents, students and members of the community are invited to attend.

Creedon Recommends Cuts In School Food, Athletic Equipment, Cleaning Costs

By PETER BARNICLE

Having brought in a 'zero-growth' budget of $31 million, 5 percent less than last year, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told a school committee budget meeting that he might even make further cuts but vigorously objected to any cuts in instructional materials.

During a three hour session the committee cut $11,500 from the expense budget while approving about $770,000.

In opposing a cut in the recommendation for teaching materials and instructional supplies Creedon pointed out that it is already $51,000 below last year's figure.

School Committeeman John J. Sullivan offered a motion requesting the administration strongly consider a 10 percent cut in teaching materials. Only School Committeewoman Joan Picard joined him. On another motion asking for a cut in the book account he failed to get a second.

At the start of the budget meeting Dr. Creedon announced he would make recommendation to cut between $40,000 and $65,000 in several cost areas.

"One area is that of food services," Creedon said. "I do not plan to go into detail just now, but will wait until we come to that part of the budget."

"My recommendation will be that we consolidate all our secondary school feeding programs at North Quincy High School for preparation and cooking of food. The savings will be between $25,000 and $50,000 in personnel and foodstuffs," Creedon said.

He noted that at present the schools are spending $14,000 annually for the cleaning of athletic equipment.

"We have reason to believe that we can assume that cost with existing personnel and by utilizing updated equipment," the superintendent said.

Creedon informed the committee that despite colder weather this school year, the school system is burning 30,000 gallons of fuel oil less than in a comparable year last year.

"We have already saved $12,000 at Quincy High School up to Dec. 31," he said. "Projected on the rest of the winter this means the fuel bills at Quincy High will be cut 40 percent."

Creedon said that at Atherton Hough School the fuel costs are down 52 percent since the fuel conservation program was introduced five years ago.

"In that period," he said, "the schools have saved more than 2.3 million gallons of oil, which is the equivalent of heating the schools for a year and a half free."

He suggested that by floating a bond issue of $2 million to make a major fuel saving renovations throughout the system now, a considerable sum would be saved in the long run.

In reviewing the proposed $15,000 for legal fees, Committeeman Sullivan recommended it be cut by $3,000.

"We can be pennywise and pound foolish here," Mayor Arthur H. Tobin cautioned. "The School Committee should have the best legal advice they can get."

Creedon said counsel has been able to save the school system many times as much money as they cost.

He was questioned as to the $300,000 the courts ordered turned back to the School Committee after it had been cut from the budget two years ago by the city council.

Mayor Tobin explained that the money was earmarked "for problems at North Quincy High School". He said part of the fund would be used to try to purchase the gas station next to the school.

Tobin said parents object to the station so close to the school property.

"I've already made it known to the parents' group that I don't have any other funds to remove the station," he said. "We want to get the addition occupied first, then we will address that problem."

The committee expressed concern that the school system has dropped debating from its schedule.

Creedon said that although the students have shown an interest in reviving debating the stipend paid a coach has failed to attract any teacher. The committee asked that the question of a debating team be taken up at a later meeting.

Board Again Turns Down Liquor License For Wollaston Facility

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy License Commission Tuesday turned down the third request for a common victualer-all alcoholic license at the Wollaston Recreational Facility on the grounds that the application was not legally before the board.

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald, member of the board, brought the hour and a half hearing to a halt by announcing that the non-conforming use under which the license was sought, had expired. He pointed out the facility is located in residential zone A and liquor licenses are not granted in such areas.

Atty. Neil Kerstein, representing the petitioner, Richard J. Mulvey of Marshfield, earlier said the city solicitor's office had informed him that it was within the power of the board, under the non-conforming statute, to grant the license "if it so desires."

"The city solicitor never asked me about the zoning and, in any case, he does not enforce the zoning law," MacDonald said.

"Is it your intention if a license is granted to take it to the courts on a zoning appeal?" City Clerk John Gillis, board chairman, asked.

"It will be in the courts the next day," MacDonald replied.

Following a unanimous vote denying the license the board passed a motion to "accept no further applications on this matter until the zoning question has been resolved."

Ward 3 City Councillor John J. Lydon, as spokesman for opponents to the license, charged that the Norfolk County Commissioners, owners of the 94-acre site, were threatening residents by implying that if the license were denied, a new Norfolk County House of Correction might be located on the land.

In a letter to City Clerk Gillis, the commissioners asked for approval of the license and said:

"We must also consider other choices relating to the liquidation of the Wollaston premises if it is forced upon us by continuing unnecessary losses at the facility."

"A denial of a license may result in the facility being diverted to some undesirable use."

Lydon accused the commissioners of using scare tactics and said that since the federal government has an interest in the recreational facility, it was highly unlikely that a jail would be constructed on the property.

Lydon said the original proposal was for a family recreational facility "and that is how the grant application went to the federal government". He said it was his understanding that an agreement had been reached with the county commissioners that liquor would not be sought for the facility.

County Commr. George McDonald told the board that at no time had the commissioners authorized anyone to say they would not seek a liquor license for the facility. He said he had made that plain when he addressed the Montclair Men's Club "several years ago."

Residents of the Montclair area voiced their objections to the granting of the license. They were particularly incensed at the traffic generated in the area.

It was pointed out that Evans St., the access road to the facility, is only 17 feet wide and cars moving in and out are a constant danger to children.

Proceeds To Help Purchase Disaster Vehicle Red Cross To Commemorate 'Blizzard Of '78' Feb. 3

The first annual "Blizzard of '78" commemorative ball of the Greater Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Saturday, Feb. 3, at the Lantana, Randolph.

A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a roast beef dinner. There will be dancing until midnight to the music of Bob Jennings Orchestra.

The "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" award will be presented to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin for his cooperation with the Red Cross during and after the disastrous storm of last February.

A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a roast beef dinner. There will be dancing until midnight to the music of Bob Jennings Orchestra.

The "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" award will be presented to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin for his cooperation with the Red Cross during and after the disastrous storm of last February.

Four Quincy liquor and food establishments summoned before the Licensing Board for failure to pay inspection fees, and operating without a public safety certificate of inspection, made their peace with the city Tuesday by paying the fees before the board meeting.

The four were Fil's, Inc., 214 Washington St., Conway and the ball committee. Other members of the committee are, Mary Valle, Peter Benelli, Peter Macdonald, Gregory Galvin, Rev. Bedros Baharian, William Disher, Mrs. Edna Gilmore, George Riley, James Ricciuti, Matthew McDonnell, Clement O'Brien, and Henry Bosworth.

Proceeds from the ball will be used towards purchase of a four-wheel drive disaster vehicle to meet future needs in the chapter's disaster work, according to Daniel C. Pritchard, executive director of the chapter.

"Preparedness is the name of the game", Pritchard said. "It is a community responsibility and only by being prepared for any emergency can we lessen the blow when and if it comes. We must be prepared for not only snow storms, but major fires, explosions and other unforeseen events which disrupt lives and homes."

Since the storm the Red Cross has been holding training sessions in Houghs Neck, Germantown and Squantum, three of the areas hardest hit, Pritchard said.

The Red Cross processed 634 families during the blizzard and spent $70,000 on shelter, food and emergency personnel.

He noted that the Red Cross is the only volunteer group mandated by Congress to provide direct emergency assistance to families affected by natural disasters.

2 Woodward Students To Attend Washington Seminar

The Woodward School for Girls will participate in the 1979 Presidential Classroom for Young Americans by sending two student representatives, Janice Barbour and Sandra Williams, to the government study program in Washington, D.C., Feb. 10-17.

Janice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barbour, of Delmont St., Dorchester. Sandra's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, of John Quincy Lane, Weymouth. Both girls are in their junior year at school.

The program, attended by 400 other outstanding high school students, will include seminars with national decision makers discussing the operations and responsibilities of the federal government. Discussion sessions will follow.

Goal of the program, chartered in 1968 as a non-profit educational program, is to foster leadership potential and civic responsibility among student leaders.

To date, 18,000 young people have attended the program.

LIGHTNING!

When you're out on the golf course [or other open area] and lightning fills the sky, where do you go? Apparently, not many people know the answer, since lightning kills more children and adults each year than hurricanes and tornadoes combined.

To protect yourself, seek shelter in a house, large building or a hard-topped car before the rain begins. If you can't get in, get down. Stay under a clump of trees [not a single isolated tree] or, as a last resort, crouch down in the open with only your feet touching the ground. Avoid hilltops, wire fences, exposed sheds, golf carts and anything that might conduct electricity or that could fall on you.

If lightning strikes one of your companions, give immediate mouth-to-mouth resuscitation current Council president, and beating present City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, both of whom voted for him to succeed Harold.

He lost previous Council bids in 1945 and 1947.

Brett, who boasted that he cast his first vote for Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate for President in 1928, also ran for Mayor in 1961 and 1971 and was defeated by Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and Walter J. Hannon respectively.

He once advocated that two tax bills be sent out each year, one specifying the general tax rate and the other calculated on the basis of the School Department's share of the tax revenue.

When he ran for the state legislature in 1958, he promised to give up his $1,500 salary as a city councillor if he was elected to the State House.

In the legislature he sponsored bills that would permit cities and towns to levy an income tax to relieve the property tax burden and calling for a study of the abolition of county government.

A member of the Quincy Elks for many years, Brett compiled the history of their first 50 years and served as exalted ruler [1952-53], district deputy and state president.

A native of Washington, D.C., and a graduate of Dean Academy in Franklin, he lives with his wife, Ruth, at 254 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Kelly Asks Donnelly Staffer Work With Council To Prevent Treatment Facility

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has called on Congressman Brian J. Donnelly to assign a member of his staff, familiar with the Federal Clean Water Act, to work with the City Council's Environmental Control Committee in support of the MDC's application for a waiver for the required secondary treatment facility.

Kelly, chairman of the committee, told the congressman in a letter that this is a matter of vital concern to Quincy in the efforts to protect the shore and "achieve our goal of no further use of Quincy land for sewerage treatment facilities.

Kelly pointed out that Quincy is on record as opposed to the expansion of the Nut Island plant or the location of new facilities at either Broad Meadows or Squantum.

Harold Named To Transportation, Urban Affairs Committee

Freshman Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy] has been named to the Legislature's Transportation and Urban Affairs Committee by Senate President William M. Bulger [D-South Boston].

Harold requested those committees, he said, "because of their importance to the people of the Norfolk Senatorial District and because of my background in those fields."

"Urban Affairs deals with the MDC, which has extensive operations in Quincy, ranging from the Nut Island sewerage treatment plant to the Blue Hills Reservation," he said.

"It also oversees the Department of Community Affairs which in part supervises the operation of the numerous public housing units in the district.

"Transportation is obviously vital because of the ongoing work in the district including the MBTA extension to South Brintree, the Burgin Parkway Extension and the reconstruction of Brintree Five Corners.

"In particular, I want to make certain that the committee begins work on the proposed new Fore River Bridge.

"I was pleased that President Bulger assigned me to these two committees."

Harold was also named to the Committees on State Administration and Energy.

The new senator announced that his office will be in Room 518 in the State House and his telephone number will be 727-0194.

Among students of precious stones, there is a controversy that has been going on for many years. At this point, disputants are as far apart as they ever were. The question is whether people first wear jewelry as ornaments or as amulets. In other words, did people first decorate themselves with bright colored, fancy stones because they thought they were attractive, or because they thought these stones were some kind of symbol of the supernatural and would provide protection for them against the mysterious evils in the world around them.

People like to come to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 because of our fine selection of jewelry and our friendly help. If you are planning on a Valentine's Day engagement, stop by and let us show you our many fine rings. We also have loose stones, which you can select to put in a setting of your preference. Don't forget our new shop next door. There are fine lines of greeting cards and gifts for Valentine's Day. Hours: 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

South Shore Collaborative Program

Broad Meadows, Point Students Tour Sun

Twenty ninth grade students from Broad Meadows and Point Junior High Schools toured The Quincy Sun last Thursday to acquaint themselves first-hand with career opportunities in the newspaper field.

They made the trip in conjunction with the South Shore Collaborative For Career Education sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

The students were accompanied by three teachers, Rena Brandmark and guidance counselor Marybeth Curran, of Point Junior; James P. Sullivan of Broad Meadows, and Ronald L. DuBois, director of the South Shore Collaborative program.

The group first met with Sun publisher Henry Bosworth who told them that trying to break into the field of journalism today is difficult for even the top graduates from the best colleges and schools of journalism.

"Schools are turning out more and more journalism graduates for fewer and fewer jobs," he said. "The job market in the Greater Boston area has shrunk since the mid 1950's as several metropolitan newspapers folded."

He said that prospects not only must have a good education, but they need luck and good timing to be at the right place at the right time.

The students and teachers then visited the Sun's production departments where they saw Compugraphic photo typesetting machines and an IBM computer in action.

They also saw how photographs are screened, reduced and enlarged for publication in The Sun.

They were shown the steps by which a newspaper is produced by the offset process method.

Students making the visit were:

BROAD MEADOWS - Joan MacDonald, Brenda Malone, Ken Bucchianesi, Michael MacMillan, Billy Bomar, Tim Marks, Ed Anastasi, Jackie Glendye, Raegan Callahan and Theresa Donahue.

POINT - Mary Travers, James Bandera, Elizabeth Rudnick, Steve Goguen, Debbie Barkhouse, Laurie Peters, Susan Goguen, Rosana DiPietro, Peter Papile and Thomas Vozzelli.

POINT AND BROAD MEADOWS STUDENTS are shown 10th anniversary issue of The Quincy Sun by publisher Henry Bosworth and each were later presented with a copy. Bosworth escorted the students on a tour of the facility and discussed career opportunities in the newspaper field.

PHOTOTYPE, like that produced by this Compugraphic system, is the modern method of setting type. The Broad Meadows and Point students heard how it works from compositor Lee Edwards.

OFFSET PRINTING AND PASTE UP are explained by Tom Brady. Students were fascinated at how galleys of type became pages and ultimately 10,000 copies of The Sun.

Save Gas and Money ...

TYPSETTING was the first stop for the students on their tour of the Sun's production facilities. An IBM computer typesetting system, operated by Muriel Lyon, held their attention as it hammered out a story on their visit as they watched.

A STAT CAMERA, for enlargements, transparencies and screening pictures, is put through its paces for the students' benefit by Cheryl Burns. They saw how photos, such as these on this page, are made ready for printing.

Mrs. Willena Brownell, Mother Of State Representative

Private funeral services for Mrs. Willena A. [MacQuarrie] Brownell of Quincy, mother of State Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, will be held at 11 a.m. today [Thursday] at Deware Brothers Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mrs. Brownell died Monday at her home following a long illness. Burial will be in Knollwood Park Cemetery, Canton.

Rev. Peter V. Corea and Rev. Alicia Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational Church will officiate at the services.

Mrs. Brownell was born in Orangeville, Nova Scotia, and was educated in Port Arthur, Ontario. She trained as a telegraph operator and came to this country as a young girl. She has been a resident of Quincy since 1942.

She was a member of the Amvets Auxiliary of Quincy and the Houghs Neck Congregational Church. Until her retirement she was employed as an inspector at Raytheon Company, Quincy.

She is survived by her husband, John H. Brownell, a former Norfolk County deputy sheriff; another son, Robert E. Brownell of Weymouth, and a daughter, Barbara C. Hallen of Weymouth; two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca MacMullock of Ontario, Canada, and Miss Barbara MacQuarrie of British Columbia. She is also survived by four grandchildren.

Dr. John S. Thornton, 71, Eye Unit Head At VA Clinic

A funeral Mass for Dr. John S. Thornton, 71, of Quincy, chief of the eye unit at the Veterans Administration Clinic in Boston, was celebrated Tuesday at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Dr. Thornton died Friday at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness. Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Roslindale.

A native of Dorchester, he received his medical degree in Switzerland. During World War II he served as medical officer at American base hospitals in Australia.

He was a member of the National Association to Prevent Blindness, Military Surgeons of the U.S., American Legion and Disabled American Veterans.

He is survived by his wife, Marie [Bartz] Thornton; two daughters, Mrs. Rita Lyons of Hanover, and Mrs. Jacquelyn Higgins of Concord, and two brothers, Dr. Paul Thornton of Marshfield and Thomas M. Thornton of Boston.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Bethany To Observe 50th Anniversary Of Sanctuary Dedication

Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the dedication of its sanctuary and parish house Sunday with a service at 10 a.m., followed by dinner in the social hall and the annual meeting.

Dr. Robert E. Luccock, until recently professor of worship, preaching religion and literature at Boston University's School of Theology, will be the guest in the Bethany pulpit.

Church members planning on attending the dinner should bring food according to this schedule: A-G, dessert; H-O, main dish such as a casserole, P-Z, salad. Those not able to bring food may make cash donations towards the cost of beverages, paper goods and other items.

Jean C. Smart, church moderator, will conduct the annual meeting which will include a memorial service for members who have died during the year, annual reports, nominations for officers, presentation of a budget and a discussion period.

First Church Of Squantum In Tribute To Rev. King

First Church of Squantum celebrated the vision and Christian ideals of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., with a special service Sunday morning.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the church, eulogized Dr. King and led the congregation in prayers in his memory.

Jens Thornton, Sr., Joan Hansen, Betty Ellis and Charles Todd also participated in the service.

The junior and senior choirs sang "Let My People Go", a black spiritual, and a special arrangement by Mary Ruth Scott, choir director, of "We Shall Overcome" with "Battle Hymn of the Republic".

Salvation Army To Start Senior Day Service Program

Captain Charles Waddington of the Quincy Salvation Army announces that a Senior Day Service Program open to South Shore residents 60 years of age and older will start Feb. 1.

A primary goal of the program is to enable elderly individuals to maintain themselves in their own residences and communities and to prevent their unnecessary institutionalization.

Operating five days per week from 8 a.m. through 4 p.m. the program will serve 35 adults per day. A sliding fee scale has been developed. However no one will be denied access to the program due to financial reasons.

Health screening and maintenance, health education, nutrition, adult education, skills development, recreation, entertainment, socialization, volunteer opportunities, community awareness, shopping and field trips, transportation, social services and worship opportunities are a variety of components included in the Salvation Army Adult Day Service Program.

Application for entry into this program are now being accepted. Community volunteers are needed to assist in the daily operation of the program through direct contact with its members.

For further information contact Captain Waddington at the Salvation Army Quincy Corps, 6 Baxter St., Quincy, or phone 472-2345 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Liquor License

Pope St., Montclair, testified that groups of youths "speed up to the club house night after night."

"It seems impossible to control them now without liquor. What will happen if a license is issued?" she asked.

She said the families in the neighborhood have been kept awake late into the night by youths indulging in drinking parties.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that since the drinking age was lowered to 18 the amount of vandalism resulting from drinking in public parks and other open spaces has risen abnormally.

Atty. Kerstein in making his presentation pointed out that at present the facility has an annual deficit of about $170,000. He said this could be cut with the issuance of a license which would help attract more golfers to the facility.

James Fitzroy, manager of the facility, told the board, that clubs which have obtained liquor licenses are able to meet costs. He mentioned one in Springfield and the George Wright Golf Club in Boston.

Other speakers pointed out that MDC golf courses appear to be surviving without liquor licenses.

Joseph N. Gildea Sr., vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association, and a member of the Montclair Men's Club, said that the QCA does not feel the Wollaston Recreational Facility is a suitable place for a drinking establishment.

In a letter to the board the QCA said:

"It would encourage young people to engage in too much drinking rather than sports.

"We know that the neighbors on Evans and adjacent streets are already bothered by gangs of youths who congregate, in cars, near the entrance to the club and have numerous drinking parties which cause noise, littering, vandalism and other social misdemeanors."

More than 50 residents of the area attended the meeting to voice their objections.

YMCA's Way To A Healthy Back Starts Jan. 22

The Quincy YMCA will start its "Y's Way to A Healthy Back" program Jan. 22, with classes Mondays 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. and Tuesdays 7:15 to 8:15 p.m.

Classes will meet twice a week for six weeks.

The simple exercise program is composed of a series of movements that begin with relaxation, then flexibility, muscle strengthening and returning to muscle relaxation.

The exercises are easy and almost all of them are done in a lying position. In most cases the back program is an excellent feeder for a beginner fitness program.

The program has been approved and is monitored by the National YMCA Committee of Medical Consultants and is conducted

Drs. Cutler, Rosenblatt Chairmen For CJP Appeal

Dr. Gerald Rosenblatt and Stephen D. Cutler have been named community co-chairmen of the Quincy appeal on behalf of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston, announced Milton B. Popkin, chairman of CJP's Metropolitan Division.

A large number of Quincy residents are expected to join in the appeal which will take place Jan. 21.

The Quincy effort is part of larger drive involving 45 Greater Boston communities during the next few months.

Through its annual appeal, CJP raises funds which help support more than 75 local, national and overseas human care agencies. These programs provide services in health and social welfare, Jewish education, community relations and group services.

Last year CJP raised more than $14 million.

For more information, or to volunteer for the Quincy effort, call CJP at 542-8080.

AFS International Dinner Friday

The Quincy Chapter of American Field Service will hold its annual International Dinner Friday at 6 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

AFS is a scholarship program which sponsors the exchange of high school students between the U.S. and more than 60 other countries. Many boys and girls from foreign lands are spending an AFS year on the South Shore, and several of them will attend the dinner. They will entertain with songs and dances of their homelands, as well as tell of their experiences here.

This year Quincy is hosting a student from New Zealand, Miss Nicola Gavey.

Many foreign dishes will be featured buffet style. All are welcome. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

City Council Races Warming Up

There should be plenty of action on the City Council front in this year's city election.

The at-large seat vacated by Paul Harold to devote full time to his new state senatorial duties is expected to bring out one of the largest fields in recent years.

And, it might possibly touch off a game of political musical chairs, to open a ward council seat or maybe even a School Committee seat.

The most prominent name being mentioned among the potential at-large candidates is former Mayor Joseph LaRaia as reported here earlier.

Whether he actually does, of course, remains to be seen. But observers think the open seat is a tempting vehicle for a comeback bid.

Another well known name looks like a definite candidate. That's Richard J. Koch, but with a Jr. at the end of the name.

Mike Faherty, the former state police captain now head of security at State Street South, is expected to make another bid. He ran in 1977.

There's some speculation that Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon may have a go at the at-large seat.

And there are also reports that School Committeewoman Mary Collins is giving some thought to a run for City Council. The question here is: is she thinking of the at-large seat or the Ward 6 seat held by Joanne Condon? Mrs. Collins topped the School Committee field in 1977 and would have to be considered a strong candidate for either council at-large or ward councillor.

And things seem to be warming up in the wards.

In Ward 1, incumbent Leo Kelly is expected to be challenged again by David Crowley. Also considering a run is David MacMillan, a 40-year resident of Houghs Neck, a founder of the Quincy Mariners baseball team who is also active in Babe Ruth and Quincy Legion baseball.

Sarah Saccone, the fiery budget coordinator during Mayor LaRaia's administration, is still seen as a potential candidate for the Ward 2 seat occupied by Daniel Raymondi.

Gerald Noble has already announced his candidacy for John Lydon's Ward 3 seat. Being mentioned as a possible contender is Andy Walsh, the North Quincy restaurant owner and former FBI agent.

Considered potential contenders for James Sheets' Ward 4 seat are Jerry [Chip] Coletta, son of Dist. Atty. William Delahunt's administrative assistant; former Councillor Albert Barilaro and Hugo [Flip] Fabrizio, recently ousted as an assessor by Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Ward 5 seems to be the quietest at the moment. So far no one has indicated he or she might challenge first term incumbent Stephen McGrath.

Michael Kelly is seen making a second try for the Ward 6 seat. He ran in 1977. And, as mentioned above, there's the possibility of Mary Collins entering that race.

As they say, there's never a dull moment in politics.

JACK SILVERSTEIN, the North Quincy druggist, who likes to dabble in one-liners, is now a stand-up comedian. He's been performing for the Comedy Connection on Warren St., Boston and the Springfield Street Saloon in Cambridge. Jack is also writing material for a Norm Crosby roast March 18 at Chateau de Ville. Randolph. The event is being sponsored by a group known as DRM. It stands for Dorchester, Roxbury, Mattapan. Crosby, a Dorchester boy, is a member.

FRANK MULLEN, the Quincy police lieutenant, will compete later this month in a 26-mile marathon in Bermuda. And, he's all warmed up.

Frank recently took part in three 26-mile races in a four weeks period: he finished 1452nd among a record field of 11,500 in New York City with a 3:11 effort. A week later he placed 393rd among 3,000 in the Newport, R.I. Ocean City marathon in 3:17. Three weeks later he ran 3:12 in placing 75th among 300 in the Foxboro Marathon.

SPEAKING OF RUNNING and runners, the Boston Marathon certainly has come a long way. Will Cloney, director of the BAA since 1946, recently addressed the Quincy Rotary Club and noted when the first race took place in 1897 there were only 18 participants. In 1946 there were over 300 runners. Last year there were 7,200 [4,700 official entries and 2,500 unofficial]. This year's 83rd running is set for April 16 in case you want to limber up.

For Horse Drawn Wagons

First Fore River Bridge Opened

[EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the first of two articles on the history of the Fore River Bridge, which may soon be replaced as being 'functionally obsolete' by the federal government.]

By TOM HENSHAW

The first Fore River Bridge was part of a $10,000 package deal and it took four years to get enough people interested in it to raise the money.

It cost "chariots, phaetons and curricles" 20 cents in tolls to cross it if they were drawn by two horses, 25 cents if they were pulled by four. Only the Plymouth Mail Coach crossed free.

And all river traffic of more than 15 tons was PAID three cents a ton for passing through the open draw, a necessary concession to get the bridge built.

The fourth Fore River Bridge is already some 20 years in the seeking stage and, if and when it is finally built, it will cost $60 million by 1979 prices.

While no one will pay or be paid for using it, the next bridge to link Quincy Point and North Weymouth is still a delicate balance between road and river traffic.

And raising money is still the cause of delay.

People have been waving at each other from Ferry Point, Quincy, to Lovell's Point, Weymouth, and vice versa since Colonial Days. They've been rowing back and forth, too. But it was not until the early 1800's that serious thought was given to building a bridge.

It was the folks in Quincy and Hingham who wanted it. Weymouth interests didn't seem to give a damn either way. They were satisfied with the traditional Coast Road that took travelers over Penn's Hill and through the commercial centers of Weymouth Landing and East Weymouth.

The people who made their living from the river fought it - the owners of boats, the owners of property on both banks, the proprietor of the small ferry that moved people between Ferry and Lovell's Points. Each had to be appeased.

When the State Legislature in 1808 permitted the formation of the Quincy and Hingham Bridge and Turnpike Corp. it provided that each vessel of more than 15 tons passing through be reimbursed three cents a ton for its trouble.

And it was stipulated that "after 25 years the legislature has the right to condemn and cause the corporation to remove the bridge as a common nuisance." It never came to that but raising money to build it sure was a nuisance.

It was so difficult to sell stock in the corporation that, after a while, payment was taken in work for half and quarter shares. It was not until 1812, the charter deadline, that the last certificate was sold in the company, which was capitalized for $10,000.

A superintendent was hired at seven shillings, six pence a day and he signed on six "good and faithful workmen" at a dollar a day and 17 more at $22 a month and actual construction began on June 2, 1812. The project included the Quincy-Hingham Turnpike and bridges over the Fore and Back Rivers.

The Fore River Bridge was opened formally on Nov. 19, 1812, and one of the first to pass over it was Mrs. Abigail Adams, wife of the former President. She noted in a letter:

"At 12 o'clock called for cousin Smith, by previous engagement, to accompany me to the bridge at Quincy Point [?]; being the first day of passing it. The day was pleasant, the scenery delightful. Passed both bridges and entered Hingham. Returned before 3 o'clock."

Receipts for the first year of tolls were $1,335.63 and the Corporation never failed to return a 7 per cent dividend to stockholders.

In the 50 years that the Quincy and Hingham Bridge and Turnpike Corp. ran the bridge there were only two accidents of note, Benjamin S. Williams was awarded $1,000 in damages in 1824 and the Rev. Thomas Whitte got $150 in 1844. Nature of their injuries were not specified.

The bridge was expropriated by the State Legislature in 1862 and the tolls removed. The State Supreme Court awarded the Corporation $16,000 for the loss of its property and the stockholders were paid off at $107 a share.

The Fore River Bridge was 80 years old in the early 1890's when agitation began for a new one. The old bridge, in fact, had been almost whittled away by Quincy Point residents who carved their names in the timbers. One of them was Joseph L. Whiton, later mayor of Quincy.

When the Fore River Engine Co. moved its shipyard from East Braintree to Quincy Point in 1900 the reasons for a new bridge were even more compelling. The company was after contracts to build big ships and they wouldn't fit through the bridge draw.

The second Fore River Bridge was built in 1902, with draws 100 feet wide to handle warships and a mechanism so delicately balanced that a man and a boy, operating a ship's capstan, could raise the 300 tons. It was widened to 125 feet in 1911 and electric motors added.

No sooner was the second bridge built but it was inadequate under the onslaught of the new-fangled motor car.

There were a series of accidents, some of them fatal,

Mother's Day Should Be Every Day

By DEBORAH ORMON

I am responding to the remarks made by Anna Anderson on "Women's Liberation and Mother's Day" in your Jan. 3 issue.

In essence, Ms. Anderson seems to be asking if liberation is synonymous with respect. She notes that families must often have a second breadwinner. That in becoming a breadwinner a woman must give up her womanly status and the respect of her husband and male acquaintances.

I would suggest to Ms. Anderson that she enlarge her circle of friends and talk to other women who have had to find jobs [because of economic and other necessity] and who also found a new sense of self-worth along the way. There is a suggestion in her remarks that this sense of "self-worth" can be overcome. If a woman is happier with herself and this fact is reflected in smiling children and a husband who finds her more interesting and accomplished, what more can be said? Perhaps Ms. Anderson finds her own worth in staying home and taking care of her family. Kindly do not think any less of other women who fulfill themselves in other ways!

I find Ms. Anderson's statement that "women [who] stress to be equal in all things with the opposite sex" will lose the respect of men rather simple and insulting. No one sets themselves on a pedestal; they aim to be the best they can be. Your respect for yourself and others will be reflected in the way they respect you.

I do not particularly care for this generalized "men" you refer to either, Ms. Anderson. It seems that [I] you worry more about what others think than doing what you feel is right, and [2] your using the word "men", instead of "people", may reflect your feeling that men are the only creatures God has made. Is woman's "diamond sheen" cast only in the reflection of a man?

I prefer to think that a "sheen" will be cast by male and female alike when they treat others with dignity and respect.

Mother's Day should NOT be just another day...it should be every day!

culminating in a triple fatality in 1934 when a car went off the Weymouth side. The only survivor was a priest, the Rev. Frederick L. Frawley of Somerville.

River traffic increased, too, both in numbers and size. In 1907 there were 688 bridge openings for 1,048 craft. In 1933 there were 2,154 openings for 3,784 craft, each opening an average of 4½ to 10 minutes.

When legislation, sponsored by Sens. John Mackay [R-Quincy] and Newland Holmes [R-Weymouth], was passed in July, 1933, veteran draw tender Henry Pray estimated at least 85 per cent of the openings would be eliminated and it would save eight day, 22 hours a year.

The third Fore River Bridge, the current one, cost $2.5 million in federal Works Progress Administration [WPA] funds. Work was started in February, 1934, and the span was ready for traffic on May 23, 1936. The featured speaker was Gov. James M. Curley.

The Democratic governor lashed out at those who criticized the spending policies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, saying: "Those who fought most for this bridge and those who welcome its being are among the first to rap the relief program of FDR who made this bridge possible."

But the 10,000 who attended the ceremonies on a sunny Saturday afternoon missed the real dedication. Early that morning, Sens. Mackay and Holmes, accompanied by a photographer, walked to the center of the bridge and shook hands across the opening.

They called it "beating Curley to the draw."

Plaques at either end of the bridges were unveiled by Miss Claire Burgin, 5, daughter of Quincy Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, and Miss Jane Connell, 12, daughter of Weymouth Selectman William A. Connell.

By mid-summer, the bridge was handling 35,000 motor vehicles on a weekend.

Democratic Committee, QTA At Odds

Chairman Leo J. Halloran of the Democratic City Committee branded the Quincy Taxpayers Association "a straight-out Republican organization" and named a committee to investigate it.

"This is a party issue now and we must combat it," said George Leary, who was named chairman of the committee along with William McDonald and Arthur St. John.

Meanwhile, the 4-year-old QTA voted to move its office out of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce headquarters in the Munroe Building, 1245 Hancock St., and break its association with the chamber.

QTA members cited the possibility of conflict of interest, saying: "The job of the Quincy Taxpayers Association is not to sell ideas calling for increasing expenditures or try to explain to its members why we should make exceptions.

"Its job is to recognize the right of all taxpayers to benefit through equitable distribution of appropriations of their money to be expended by the city."

QUINCY FIRM ENDORSED

Costanzo Pagnano, business agent of the Granite Cutters Union, endorsed the award of a $68,107 state contract for 16 miles of curbing in South Quincy to the newly formed Granite Supply Co. of Quincy.

Pagnano said that only union labor would be employed by the Granite Supply Co., whose officers included City Councillor David S. McIntosh and State Rep. John R. Shaughnessy [R-Quincy].

But Pagnano's endorsement came to naught when State Purchasing Agent George F. Cronin ruled Granite Supply was in default of the contract when it failed to file a bond by the deadline.

FIRST STORM COSTLY

The first big storm of the season brought out 1,200 men, including 700 WPA workers, and 50 trucks to combat the snow at an estimated cost of $20,000, according to Mayor Thomas S. Burgin.

The heavy snow caused postponement of the annual St. Moritz Winter Carnival and hampered firefighters who battled a blaze that destroyed the Bonin Sea Grill on Sea St.

GOP WOMEN SHOCKED

Cong. Christian A. Herter [R-Boston] shocked the Republican women of Quincy when he disclosed that the federal Public Works Administration was financing a fan dancer in a mid-western state.

"The fan dance act of a young woman had been censored but she had some political friends who created PWA Fan Dance Project No. 1 for her," he said. "Her work was to entertain the young men in a nearby CCC camp."

It's Time To Fix

Sprucing up of work areas aids fall 'Mr. Fix-it' projects

As the brisk days of autumn take families away from the great outdoors and back home to where the heart is, handymen head straight for the toolbox to get the house in shape for the cold weather sit-in.

From adding a long put-off game room to routine tasks like putting up storm windows, handymen should first clean up their own workshops or toolbenches in order to efficiently tackle home improvement jobs.

For example, clearing away clutter in the shop area provides an open, non-confining space in which to work. Organizing tools keeps equipment within easy reach and helps avoid unnecessary delays like searching for the #10 wrench last used to tighten a bicycle wheel.

- Sort screws, nails and tacks according to size into clear glass jars and attach to corresponding lids, which have already been nailed to an overhead shelf, for quick and easy selection of the right piece.

- Organize various-sized wrenches, pliers, saws and paintbrushes on a pegboard and outline each item so that tools can easily be returned to the right spot on the board.

- Use file cabinets with deep, long drawers to store drill bits, extension cords, hammers, soldering irons, sandpaper sheets, files and caulking guns. Drop in plastic drawer organizers to hold smaller items like fuses, sockets and washers.

- Eliminate an unnecessary assortment of cleaning aids by stocking one multi-purpose cleaner.

- Install shelves above the work space to keep paint cans, putty, oil cans and power tools up and away, yet always within easy reach.

- Get organized in the garage and toolshed, too. When autumn leaves begin to fall, use heavy-duty wall racks to keep rakes close at hand and to hang up shovels, bicycles and even winter's sleds and toboggans. Build an overhead storage space by laying planks between garage crossbeams to store out-of-season items like summer's lawn chairs and grills.

Area Rugs

Outshining

Wall-To-Wall

In the area of self-expression, area rugs really shine. Once wall-to-wall carpeting was synonymous with "status." In today's decorating vocabulary, wall-to-wall often means "dull." Professional interior designers are eschewing it in favor of bare floors highlighted by area rugs that live up to their name: they add areas of color, design interest and individual expression to any room.

Mop up bathroom

spills quickly

To make bathroom clean-ups easier, why not keep a sponge and your preferred cleanser close at hand at all times. Then, whenever messes occur, they can be wiped up before they reach epic proportions.

For hard to reach areas (i.e., a tub hidden behind sliding glass doors), a sponge on a long handle will work wonders, and save you hours of bending and stretching.

Up, Redecorate!

CONTEMPORARY FURNISHINGS up-date a traditional home, providing character as well as modern comfort in this gracious living room setting furnished with James David consumer-assembled furniture. The furniture, which is easy on the budget, is carried home from the store in a box, requires no special tools, and can be assembled in a very short time.

Mixed styles up-date up-beat family home

One of the decorating rules that went out the door along with the stiff, formal interiors that so many people lived with in years past was that everything should match or "go together."

The mixing of periods and styles that creates a really personal look in a room is, without doubt, the major theme of today's designers.

Nor does the exterior of a house dictate the interior. There's often a pleasant surprise for visitors entering a home for the first time, particularly with the growing appreciation of older houses.

Many families looking for more space (and often at less money), who have opted to refurbish older homes, have also by-passed expensive renovation and have, instead, up-dated the interiors with paint and contemporary furnishings.

One couple looking for expanded space for their growing family bought an old brick house, and painted the living room a warm, cheery and very stylish coral tone that set off the traditional grey/white marble fireplace mantel and accented the many-paned windows of the French doors.

With so much money laid out for the down-payment, their furnishings budget was extremely limited. They found a perfect answer, and while they compromised on cost, they didn't compromise on style. Their solution was to use ready-to-assemble furniture.

Because it comes from the store packaged in a box for home assembly, there is a substantial savings on labor, shipping and storage which is passed on to the consumer.

Happily, it is not at all difficult to assemble and, as an added asset, they went into the store and walked right out with it, so their living room was furnished within hours.

The sofa, upholstered with a decorative underwater motif in brown and cream, requires no special assembly tools.

The tables, a combination of real cane and oak with gleaming metal frames, have legs that simply snap into place.

The addition of old, familiar family accessories and lamps puts the finishing touches on a living room that reflects an up-beat and up-dated lifestyle.

Some no-wall problem solvers

What can drive you mad when decorating? Usually it's a wall in the wrong place—or a wall that's simply not there.

When you need a wall and don't have one, you can make one with room divider bookcases, etageres or folding screens.

A private study area can be set up in a bedroom by placing the desk at right angles to the wall and hanging a bulletin board from hooks in the ceiling.

A dressing room nook can be arranged by use of a folding screen to surround a dressing table. If the screen is sturdy enough, a full-length

Cooking Tips

Can Save Gas

The natural gas used by a range to cook three meals for a family of four costs about six cents per day, based on a gas cost of 20 cents per therm (approximately one hundred cubic feet of gas or 100,000 BTU).

But even in the kitchen savings can be achieved.

1) Gas ranges using intermittent ignition systems can save up to 30 percent.

2) A thermostatically controlled surface burner can save as much as 16 percent.

3) Bringing water to a boil with full flame, then reducing to simmer saves. Vigorous boiling wastes energy and does not cook food faster. Also, be sure to cover pans while food is cooking.

4) Defrost foods before cooking.

5) When using the oven try to cook an entire meal at the same time.

mirror can be hung on one panel.

Where there's a living room and no dining room, create a dining area behind the sofa. The table can double as a sofa table when you're not eating at it. Display a family silver service during the day, easy to whisk off when meal time comes around.

Family room windows reflect all viewpoints

Adding a family room to a comfortable older home can be as challenging as it is exciting. The excitement comes from daydreaming about the ways the family will eventually use the room for enjoyment or entertainment as well as from planning the interior decor.

Wondering how you'll be able to design a room that will meet the family's needs for comfort and convenience, yet conserve energy, is the challenge.

If you're thinking about adding a room to the back of the house, adjacent to a patio or backyard, ample window space that affords broad views, fresh air and sunshine is a must. Since windows offer the best opportunity for making a new room attractive as well as functional, choosing the right ones can give you all the natural light and fresh air you'll need and still conserve energy.

The quality of the window being installed has as much influence on energy conservation as its size and number. Precision-made wood windows with insulating glass, for example, save considerably more energy than routine, single-glazed metal-frame windows without a specific thermal barrier. Well-built wood window units keep heat loss at a minimum in several ways. Since wood is a poor conductor, it makes an excellent insulator.

Insulating glass — two panes of glass with an insulating air space between — also reduces the flow of heat through the glass area. And factory-applied weatherstripping limits heat loss due to air infiltration.

Combined with wood sash, insulating glass reduces heating costs in other ways. Indoor condensation on the glass surface and the window frame is minimized. This allows a higher humidity level to be maintained at a lower setting on the thermostat, but with no sacrifice in comfort.

In addition, complete wood window units with insulating glass can be purchased at local building material dealers in a variety of styles and sizes that enable homeowners to get a balance of fixed and operable windows. In this way, a homeowner can utilize daylight and cooling breezes instead of relying exclusively on energy-consuming artificial light and air conditioning.

Save Hot Water Energy

You can waste a lot of energy and money by careless use of hot water in your home.

When you replace your gas hot water heater or appliances using hot water, be sure to investigate energy savings features which manufacturers are including in new products.

But using your appliances and hot water wisely can also save.

About the house...

Ceramic tile is moving out of bathroom and into style!

By LIS KING

If you thought of ceramic tile as strictly a bathroom product, you're in for some surprises. For, these days, tile boasts so much fashion that it has moved into other rooms all around the house.

Take quarry tile, for example. In its natural earth-red state, it'll floor kitchens, foyers, and family rooms beautifully.

The glazed variety, which comes in most every color under the sun, can go into any room at all. Gold, dusky green, or rich red will suit a traditional room.

The neutrals—from white and beige to brown and black—are superb for contemporary interiors.

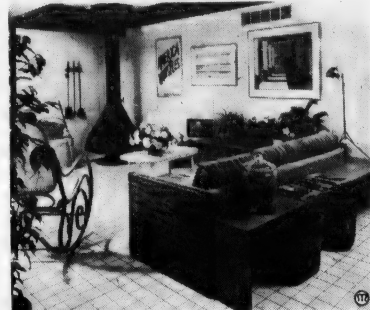

And don't forget that area rugs—particularly the Orientals and shaggy Ryas—are wonderful accents for tile floors.

Those small mosaic tiles (so sturdy they're even used in industrial plants) can be worked into great patterns for floors, vanity and kitchen counters.

Picture a Bargeello-patterned floor for a traditional dining room, for example. Or a plaid tile floor for a masculine den. If you're artistic, you might even use mosaics for underfoot "paintings" or wall murals.

A mosaics windowsill or table top also makes beautiful sense. For water won't hurt ceramic tile, and spills wipe right up.

Decorative tile designs are

TODAY'S CERAMIC TILE is so handsome that it's stepping out from behind the bathroom door to grace other rooms throughout the house. Here, a contemporary family room gains crisp brightness underfoot via a beautifully textured white quarry tile by American Ocean.

plentiful. They range from old Delft and flower motifs to formal medallion and abstract, contemporary patterns. Such tiles can perform beautifully around the fireplace and on kitchen backsplashes, tub and shower walls. Also use them on the lower part of a dining room wall. Topped by a dado, the effect is handsomely architectural.

Treat a countryish or Early American room to a ceramic tile floor. Here, a brick-shaped tile is terrific, but you aren't stuck with the usual brick colors.

When you go with tile, you can have such classic Americana hues as blue, real red, snowy white, deep golds and greens, rust and dark brown.

Tile in the bedroom? Why not! A white octagonal floor tile with pink or pale blue insets would be lovely in a feminine boudoir. And lime green or sky blue tile underfoot is sure to cool a too sunny bedroom.

You might even use tile to spruce up old furniture. Tile the top of a tired sideboard or dining table, for example. A pretty decorative tile also makes sense for a dressing table.

'R' value—what it is, what it does

Any discussion of insulation centers around the material's "R" value. It's what makes the insulation insulate and what, in the final analysis, you pay for when you buy insulation in any of its various forms. And it's not all that mysterious.

"R" value is nothing more than the measurement of the insulation's resistance to heat flow—how well it resists winter heat loss and summer heat gain. The higher the "R" value, the more effective the insulating value of the material.

Thus, an insulation material marked R-22 by the manufacturer provides twice the heat resistance of an R-11 material.

In buying insulation, remember it's the "R" value of the material, not the thickness, that determines how well it insulates.

Different home areas require different "R" values. Thus an attic, where a great deal of heat is lost, needs a higher "R" value than a living room wall or kitchen floor.

How much insulation in terms of "R" values do you need for your home? That depends, among other factors, on your location, utility rates, amount of existing insulation and whether your home requires both heating and cooling.

All homes need some insulation protection, either to keep heat in or keep it out, but in varying amounts. Recommendations by bodies such as the National Home Improvement Council, National Bureau of Standards, Edison Electric Institute and insulation companies average out to R-30 for ceilings, R-19 for floors and R-13 for walls.

To safeguard you against the disreputable operators who have moved into the field as public awareness of the value of insulation has grown, the following table shows the general ranges of "R" value per inch of the three most common insulation materials:

	Batts/Rolls	Loose Fill
Glass fiber	2.7 to 3.7	2.1 to 2.4
Rock wool	3.1 to 3.6	2.7 to 3.2
Cellulose	—	3.1 to 3.8

TV DRAWING -- Mrs. Ella Cugini of North Weymouth was the lucky winner of a Quasar color television set drawn at the new North Weymouth branch of the Weymouth Savings Bank, 383 Bridge St., North Weymouth. From the left are Anne DiGraves, receptionist; George Thompson, president of the bank; James Keenan, who drew the lucky number, and Carl Paolucci, manager of the branch.

Abdelahad Tells Quincy, S.S. Realtors:

'We Cannot Waste Time Listening To Doom And Gloom In 1979'

A positive mental attitude will help triumph over any crisis the economy can inflict, John Abdelahad of New Home Brokers, Braintree, told 250 realtors and their guests at the installation of new officers of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors at the Wollaston Golf Club.

"As we begin the new year, our different medias are forecasting possible recession for 1979," Abdelahad, the board's incoming president said. "We are experiencing a tightening of mortgage moneys and a spiraling interest rate."

"Let me tell you - we cannot waste time listening to doom and gloom in 1979," he said.

He told the audience his primary goal is to increase public awareness of the realtor organization and activities.

Alexander H. Rutledge, regional vice president of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, was toastmaster for the evening. He introduced the head table guests including Sen. Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy] who presented a Senate citation to Abdelahad on the occasion of his being named president of the association.

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall presented the new president with an honorary sheriff's badge and a certificate.

Milton H. Shaw, executive vice president of the Mass. Association of Realtors, recognized those past presidents of the Board in attendance.

Edward P. Flavin of Quincy, immediate past president was presented a plaque, gift and scrapbook of his year in office.

Mrs. Victoria Abdelahad, mother of the new president, was presented with a bouquet and a special recognition of a bouquet was given to his 90-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Agay Rahwan.

At Masonic Temple

Quincy Antiques Show Jan. 20-22

The 24th edition of the South Shore at Quincy Antiques Show will be held Jan. 20-22 at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

It is open to the public 6-10 p.m., Saturday evening this year as well as the usual 12-9 p.m. hours Sunday and Monday.

The show is the oldest in continuous operation in Northern New England.

Mrs. Virgil L. Snell of Quincy, general Antiques Show Chairwoman said that several new dealers have been added to the already top quality group of exhibitors. An outstanding collection of 18, 19 and 20th century furniture, accessories, china, dolls, jewelry will give many the opportunity to enjoy the thousands of dollars worth of goods offered by the 29 exhibitors—some $350,000 worth.

Assisting Mrs. Snell are Mrs. Robert J. Caliri and Mrs. John Seavey for the sponsoring Wollaston Chapter, Order Eastern Star. A snack bar, featuring home-cooked offerings by the Ladies of the Star will open one hour before the show each day.

The South Shore at Quincy Antiques Show is managed by Compass Antiques Show, with Philip R. Balcom of Weymouth, coordinator.

Co-ed Classes In Archery, Arts, Dramatics At YMCA

Co-ed youth classes in archery, arts and crafts and dramatics will be held Saturdays beginning this week, at the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

The archery class, under the direction of Joseph McKenna, will run for 10 weeks. Children from seven to nine years old will meet from 9:30-10:15 a.m., 10 years and up, 10:45-11:30 a.m.

Julie Pringle, a graduate of Rittner's School of Design, will conduct the arts and crafts class which will be held from 9:30-10:30 a.m. for six weeks.

Dramatics, with Cate Mann, will be held 10:30-noon. Boys and girls ages 7-16 will be cast in productions.

In addition to these classes, disco dance lessons will begin

Jan. 15, 3:30-4:30 p.m., and run for six weeks. Ronnie Monahan will instruct the course, which will have limited enrollment and meet in the Clark room.

There is a minimum fee for all courses, and registration may be made at the main desk of the YMCA. For more information, call 479-8500.

OBSERVATORY VISITOR - Douglas Zukauskas of Quincy was among recent visitors to John Hancock Observatory. The Observatory is located on the 60th floor of John Hancock Tower - 740 feet above street level - and offers an unparalleled view of Boston as well as four major exhibits including "Boston 1775", a topographical scale model of Boston as it was during the Revolution.

Art-Music Course Offered At QJC

A new course offered in the Spring Semester at QJC starting Jan. 23 is Look of Art-Sound of Music.

For the non-professional concert-goer and or museum-goer, the instructor, Ellen Francis, will present a course for those who would like to know more about both - so that the concert hall and the museum bring greater pleasure through a deeper awareness of what is seen and what is heard. Recordings and slides will be used to make both visual and aural art more familiar and comfortable to the student.

Miss Francis has a varied educational background in music, education and art history, having taught music and fine arts at a number of schools throughout Massachusetts. Her goal for the course is to "steep the class in the vocabulary these arts share, in the similarities and differences so that the concert hall and the museum become more fascinating places to be."

The course will be held Tuesday evenings. Tuition is $20 for residents and $25 for non-residents. This class begins Jan. 23. For further information and a brochure about Quincy Junior College courses, call Dean Mula at 786-8741.

Vegetable, Flower Garden Course

A 10 week Vegetable and Flower Garden Course is being offered by Quincy Junior College for the spring semester beginning Jan. 22.

Registration will take place at the college from January 8-12, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. and Jan. 16, 17, 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6-8 p.m.

The program will cover vegetables, soil preparation, organic gardening, herbs, insect diseases, flowers, growing plants under lights, landscape design, selection of nursery stock, wildflowers, wild edible plants, lawn care, fruit growing, home food preservation, house plants, bee keeping and other related areas.

Thomas MacDonald will conduct the classes using movies, slides and live materials. He has taught courses for the Adult Evening Division at Rockland as well as at Quincy Junior College. He fosters nature walks at the Rockland Museum of Sciences during the summer and fall. MacDonald was founder of the Country Garden Club of Rockland and coordinates the Community Garden there for this organization.

There will be optional field trips on Saturdays in addition to the course for those that would like to participate on greenhouses, spring gardens and the New England Flower Show in Boston.

Presidents Edge Waltham

The Quincy basketball team, which displayed a lot of heart to come from behind and edge Waltham in overtime last Friday to move into a second place tie in the Suburban League, hosted Weymouth North Tuesday and Friday will play North Quincy at the Vo-Tech gym at 8 p.m.

Next Tuesday the Presidents will host Weymouth South.

Joe Amoroso's Quincy team, bouncing back from a loss to awesome Cambridge Rindge and Latin, the odds-on favorite to win the league title, trailed Waltham from the opening whistle but fought back to tie the score with 35 seconds left in regulation time and went on to win, 55-51, in overtime.

The win improved the Presidents' record to 4-2 in the league and 6-3 overall.

"We showed a lot of pride in winning this one," Amoroso said. "Our guard play sputtered at the start and we had to rely on our forwards (Steve Priscella and Dana Guidice) to fill in for them. Their doing the job is what made the difference. Guard Ritch Finnegan did a great job closing up the middle. We gave them (Waltham) nothing from the inside."

Sparking the Presidents to their win was Jeff Connerty, who had an outstanding game. He scored 20 points and had eight rebounds, he tied the game with a foul shot with 35 seconds left and he and Priscella had four points each in the overtime period.

"Connerty was just immense out there, he was fantastic," Amoroso lauded.

Quincy trailed, 17-14, after a period, and 29-27 at halftime. It was still behind, 39-35, going into the final period when it tied the score at 46.

Guidice and Brian Donovan had 12 points apiece for the Presidents.

Earlier in the week Quincy had fallen to undefeated Cambridge, 75-56, as the tall winners won their 10th in a row.

A nightmarish first period which found Quincy behind, 19-0, was the difference as the Presidents played Rindge and Latin even the rest of the way.

Pat Ewing, Cambridge's 6-10 sophomore, had 19 points and 19 rebounds and Kevin Moore added 15 points. It had a big height advantage over Quincy.

Donovan had a banner night with 30 points, shooting 55 percent from the floor.

LIONS' BOOTER - John McElaney of Wollaston played a major role in the success of last fall's Columbia University soccer team, which enjoyed the best season in history with a 13-2-1 record, the Ivy League title and a win over Hartwick's defending national NCAA champion. McElaney's superb play in goal enabled Columbia's defense to set a new Ivy League record for fewest goals allowed - three in seven games. He is a graduate of B.C. High, where he was all-league and all-Eastern Mass. He also was all-league twice in basketball and is currently a forward on the Lions' basketball team. The 6-5 McElaney, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McElaney of 109 Grand View Ave.

Face Quincy Friday

Raiders Run Hot And Cold

North Quincy's basketball team continues to run hot and cold in the Suburban League and took a 3-4 record into last Tuesday's game at Waltham.

The Raiders will face Quincy Friday at the Vo-Tech gym at 8 p.m. and next Tuesday will play at Brookline at 3:30 p.m.

Ed Miller's North team was defeated by Newton North, 57-45, last Friday despite a fine performance by Kevin Cobban, who scored 16 points. Mark Millane had eight but it was enough as the bigger Newton team dominated the boards.

The Raiders, trailing, 20-10, at the half, cut the lead to five with a good third period but couldn't cope with the Tigers' greater height.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had nipped Revere, 34-33, in overtime, in a non-league game as Jim Holleran scored the tying basket in regulation time and scored the only basket in the extra session for the win.

North rallied from a 21-12 halftime deficit to tie it up on Holleran's basket from the corner with 18 seconds left. He had also paced the Raiders to a big third period rally with four baskets as North tied it at 24.

Holleran dominated North's scoring with 21 points and Bob Nolan, with five points, was the only other Raider to score more than two.

"This was a good one to win and the boys really battled and never gave up," a happy Miller said. "Holleran played a tremendous game and was the difference. Our boys did a good job on defense."

Quincy Girls Host North Friday

The Quincy girls' basketball team, enjoying a fine season under Coach Barbara Webster, will host North Quincy Friday at the old Quincy gym at 3:15 and next Tuesday will play at Weymouth South at the same time.

The First Ladies, whose three losses were heartbreakers, last Friday defeated Waltham, 37-28, for their fifth win of the season.

Quincy opened its season with a 44-40 win over a strong Hingham team in the Hingham Christmas Tournament, but dropped a 51-49 squeaker to Bourne in the finals. In their first Suburban League game the First Ladies were nipped by Weymouth South, 53-52, but rebounded to top Brookline, 45-29. They then defeated Boston English, 45-34, in a non-league game, then rolled up one of their biggest scores in history, bombing Brockton, 75-43.

Quincy then lost a 45-41 overtime thriller to Newton North, with Newton tying the game with two seconds left in regulation time.

"This is a team that does not quit, no matter what the score is," Miss Webster said. "We have been hit hard by fouls, with key players fouling out, but those on the bench have come in to do a fine job."

● South Shore League

Flyers Defeat Braves To Hold 2nd Post

The South Shore Hockey League resumed action last Sunday after the holiday layoff and the Quincy Flyers topped the Quincy Braves, 11-6, to remain one point behind Bridgewater in the South Shore Division.

The Flyers, again a strong contender for the South Shore Hockey Cup, are expected to enter the Eastern Mass. Amateur Tournament in March. To enter a team must have won at least 70 percent of its games and at present the Flyers have won 80 percent.

Charlie Shea's Quincy Sabres bombed Hingham, 11-3, in a Greater Boston Division game as Dave DeLuca, Mike McCauley and Rick Patten had hat tricks. Jerry DeLuca had his first goal in more than two years.

The Quincy Panthers dropped a 7-3 decision to Randolph, moving Randolph to within one point of the third place Panthers in the South Shore Division.

Next Sunday the Flyers will face Randolph at 6 o'clock, the Braves will meet Bridgewater at 7:30, and the Panthers will play Braintree and the Sabres will face West Roxbury at 9 at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

PeeWee B's Romp To 14th In Row

The Pee Wee B team remained undefeated (14-0) in the South Shore Conference with a 4-0 win over Canton and a 5-1 decision over Weymouth.

In the Canton game, John O'Connor, John Kelly, Jamie Seamans and Mike Hays had the goals and against Weymouth

John McGlame and Brian Chae had two goals each and Kelly one. Assists in the wins went to John DiPietro, Peter Furtado, O'Connor, McGlame, Dave Cooke, Bobby Kane and Sean Barry.

Saturday Quincy romped over Westwood, 12-0, in a District III game with Rich Horrigan having four goals. Seamans, McGlame and Ted Hohmann had two goals apiece and Kelly and Robby Reidy one each. Barry had seven assists, Seamans three, Horrigan three and Cicchese, Keefe, Sheldon, Reidy, Kelly and Cooke one each.

Bantam A's Wallop Walpole, 9-1

The Sons of Italy Bantam A team blasted Walpole, 9-1, with Tommy O'Connor having the hat trick, Kevin Craig and Rich Stevens scoring two goals apiece and Tommy Lester and Frankie Reynolds having one each. Craig had five assists, Stevens three and O'Connor, Lester and Paul Bamberry two each.

Girls B Team Bows

Quincy's Bob Charles Transportation Girls B team lost to Burlington Rag Dolls, 6-4, with Judy LaPointe, Maria Burke, Laurie Barba and Karen Cullen scoring the Quincy goals. LaPointe had two assists and Bridget Feeney and Barba one each.

Mite A's Bomb Braintree, 7-0

The Mite A team walloped Braintree, 7-0, with Brian Mosher playing an outstanding game on defense. Paul Scola and Jay Rodriguez had two goals apiece and Billy Connolly, Tony Pece and Michael Toland one each.

Connolly had three assists, Chuckie Hughes two and Kevin Marston, Pece and Scola one each. Goalies Michael Cronin and Brian Mahoney were standouts.

The Mite A's, still unbeaten and in first place in the South Shore Conference, earlier blasted Milton, 12-0.

In a non-league game Quincy defeated Winthrop, 4-1, sparked by Connolly's hat trick. Pece had the other goal. Toland had two assists and Pece and Connolly one apiece.

D & H, Sun Bantam House Winners

League-leading Doran & Horrigan defeated Baskin Robbins, 3-1, in the Bantam House League with Mike Nourse scoring twice and Bob Maimaron once.

Paul Egan had two assists and Jim Kelly and Mark Lamie one. John Burns scored for Baskin with assists for Jon Beniers and Kevin Greene. The Quincy Sun edged Burgin Platner, 3-2, on goals by Vin Whalen, Bill Roche and JoJo Gonzales. Gonzales, Ted Walsh, Frank Griffin, Dick Tapper and Shalen had assists. Darby Flaherty and Chris Gorman scored for Burgin with assists for Monahan, Rick Reardon, Steve Hall and John Grenier.

Keohane's Upsets Teachers In Squirrel House Action

Keohane's upset the league-leading Quincy Teachers, 6-1, in the Squirrel House League with Brian Roche scoring two goals and Karl Stasky, Tony Orlando, Dave Hack and Cangemi one each.

Roche, Stasky and Steve Perdios had two assists apiece and Cangemi, Hack, O'Brien and Orlando one each. Dave Maimaron scored for Teachers with Steve Kowalski and Brett Heeney assisting.

McGinn Shell blanked Feeney's Devils, 3-0, with Tony Koury in goal. Paul Lester, Sean Mahoney and Bill Roche had the goals with Ed Flavin having two assists and Mahoney, Lester and Pete Scheurich one each. Bob Ellis, John Pacino, Ricky Ames and Mike Layden played well on defense.

Caddy Widens Midget House Lead

Caddy Marines defeated Fire Dept., 6-4, to increase its Midget House League lead to three points.

Paul Flynn, Mike Panico and Chris Colman had two goals apiece, while Colman had two assists and Bill Flanagan, Howie Chadbourne and Flynn one each. Jim Meehan, Steve Shoemaker, Stone and Tom Hannon scored for Fire Dept. with Rick Newcomb having two assists and Fred Caldwell, Meehan and Stone one each.

Slashshots, Stoneham Tie, 2-2

Quincy's Slapshot Photo Girls A team tied Stoneham, 2-2, Sunday in league action at the Valley Sports Arena in Concord.

Stoneham scored first on Sue Marrone's goal but Lisa Norling tied it up for Quincy with Eileen Marr assisting. Stoneham again took the lead on Marrone's second goal but, with 5:08 left in the game Marr scored the equalizer with an assist for Norling.

Squirt B's Rally To Edge Weymouth

The Squirt B team had to come from behind to edge Weymouth, 3-2, for its 26th straight win in B competition.

Trailing, 2-0, Jon Hays tied the game with two goals on which Mark Simonelli had assists. Mark Zimmerman scored the winning goal late in the game with Mike Benson and Bobby Salton assisting.

Earlier the Squirt B's had defeated Natick, also by a 3-2 score.

10 Goals In 8 Games

Messina Hockey Standout At St. Anselm's

Junior Paul Messina of Quincy is a three-year veteran of the St. Anselm's College hockey team.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Messina of 10 Appleton St. and a former Abp. Williams High four-sport athlete, Paul played in 41 games during the last two years.

Messina played sparingly his freshman year and saw much more action on defense last winter.

But the Hawks are healthy on defense this year, allowing the versatile Messina to return to his natural position at left wing.

The change has been positive as the fast-skating junior has already surpassed his career totals by scoring 10 goals (including two hat tricks) and has four assists. This was accomplished in only eight games.

During his first two years with the Hawks Paul had eight goals and five assists.

"Paul's improvement as a scorer has been a big lift to this team," said third-year coach Alan Davis. "He has done whatever has been asked of him and now he gets the opportunity to play the position that is most comfortable for him."

Messina is also the starting right fielder for the Hawks' baseball team and is the leadoff batter. He had an incredible .525 on base average while batting .325 this fall.

Raiders On The Move

Suburban League hockey teams are advised to look over their shoulders at North Quincy, as the Raiders are beginning to move.

Last Saturday the Raiders bombed Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 13-2, for their third win in a row, something rare for a North team, and they improved their league record to 3-3-1 and their overall mark to 4-5-1.

Last night (Wednesday) Kevin Lewis' team played at Waltham, will play at Brockton's Asiat Rink Saturday at 6 o'clock and next Wednesday they will be home to Weymouth South at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

North's breeze over Cambridge followed wins over once-beaten Brookline and previously undefeated Weymouth North, one of the biggest wins in years for the Raiders.

Tom Gerry, Paul Cooney, Dave Parsons and Leo Doyle had two goals apiece as North jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first period and it was clear sailing from then on.

Paul McDermott, Ed Marella, Dan Cronin, Leo Graham and Paul Reardon had one goal each to complete the rout.

Lewis had a chance to use all three goalies, Bobby Tierney, Tim McCormick and Karl Olson.

Earlier in the week the Raiders played their finest game of the year in handing Weymouth North

Presidents Look For Turnaround

Quincy's hockey team has been running hot and cold but Coach Bob Sylvia hopes last Saturday's big 3-1 win over previously undefeated Weymouth South will turn the Presidents' season around.

Quincy, with a 4-2-1 record, last night (Wednesday) played Brookline. Saturday it will be idle and next Wednesday will play Newton North at 8 o'clock at Daly Rink in Newton.

Weymouth took a 6-0-1 record into the Quincy game but the Presidents, coming back from a poor game at Brockton, scored their first two goals on power plays and went on to outplay the Wildcats and goalie Jim Campbell played another outstanding game.

"The players made some suggestions to me after our 1-1 tie at Brockton and I was more than happy to listen," Sylvia said.

"Pat Clifford suggested that I put two forwards at the point positions on the power play and it paid off against Weymouth."

After a scoreless first period, Scott Richardson put Quincy ahead with Robbie Craig and Mike Furey assisting in the second period.

In the final period Craig scored with Tom Brennan and Furey assisting and, after Weymouth scored its only goal, Brennan scored the insurance goal with Richardson and Craig assisting.

"We're a lot more confident after this game," Sylvia said. "We've been struggling to say the least, but this should help us turn things around."

Earlier in the week Quincy was fortunate to come away with its 1-1 tie at Brockton as it was outshot by a 2-1 margin.

Brockton took the lead at 7:56 of the second period and Craig tied it up at 9:42 with John Norton and Furey having assists.

"The difference in the game was Campbell and he was outstanding in goal," Sylvia said. "Jim knew in his heart he didn't have a good game against Waltham and the way he bounced back in this game is what you look for."

NQHS Hockey Parents Invited To See New Addition Slides

First-year North Quincy High hockey coach Kevin Lewis, who is striving to keep North Quincy athletes in North Quincy, announces that a slide presentation of the new NQHS wing accompanied by a lecture on the North hockey program will be held Tuesday, Jan. 23, at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

A question and answer period will follow regarding the new building, programs of study and the hockey program.

All Quincy Youth hockey parents living in the North Quincy area are invited.

When he took over this year as North's coach, Lewis said, "My first order of business is to try and keep our North Quincy athletes in North Quincy. Many boys from North are playing at outside schools and I hope, with our new facilities at North, that they will decide to stay in North Quincy."

Koch Club Men's Bowling League A Family Affair

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League, in its 29th consecutive season, with 40 members, has reorganized with the emphasis on youth and second generation members.

Richard J. Koch, founder of the loop, is now joined by sons Richard Jr., Joseph and nephew Kenneth Koch while his brother Paul, the only remaining charter member of the league, has his son Paul Jr. now participating.

Twenty-five year veteran Al Mancuso is no longer bowling solo since sons Steve and Richie have come aboard.

Frank Alibrandi has no reason to be homesick since recruiting his Dad, Peter, and brother Tony.

One of the first father and son combines of the league was Jim Moody and his son

Paul. Jim has been and is a quarter-century club member and over 20 years an active bowler.

Bill and Bud Connolly and, Tony and John Quinta are the brother combinations in the loop. Jim Cocce, perennial team captain, shares the roster with father-in-law George Bossi, who is presently on a leave of absence from the league, recuperating from illness.

Tony Alibrandi is leading the league in the average department with a 107.8 mark. Others in the top 10 are Al Mancuso, 105.7, Paul Koch Sr., 105, Lennie Marshall, 104, Peter Alibrandi, 103.8, Jim Moody, 103.6, Ozzie Parsons, 102.5, Steve Mancuso, 102.4, Mike Doyle, 101.4, and Joe Keenan, 100.8.

Bob McLaren's team leads the league with a 50 win and 30 loss record.

Mike Doyle holds the high individual three string total of 364 and single string of 142.

McLaren's team holds the high team three string total of 1589 and the team single string of 567.

Dick Koch Jr. is president of the loop, Steve Mancuso, secretary and Bob Woods, treasurer.

Harold Sweeps Elks To Widen Little Loop Lead

The Sen. Paul D. Harold Club widened its Quincy Bowling Little Loop lead to five points over Bryan Post VFW with a 4-0 sweep of the Quincy Elks last week, while Bryan was splitting with the Wollaston Bowladrome.

Seniors Leading Quincy Matmen To Strong Season

Last year's Quincy High wrestling team enjoyed its best season since the sport was revived and this looks like another banner year for the Presidents.

Going into last night's (Wednesday) meet with Duxbury, Quincy had a 7-1 record (3-0 in the Suburban League). The Presidents will host Brockton Saturday at 6 at the Quincy gym and next Wednesday will be home to Plymouth-Carver at 7.

"We are getting an exceptional season from a number of seniors," Coach Carmen Mariano said. "Jim Mullarkey, Steve Venturilli, Rennie Crowe and Kurt Braun are combining to make us consistently strong through the all-important middle weight classes."

Mullarkey and Venturilli are undefeated through eight meets, while Crowe and Braun have lost only one match.

In addition to their excellent dual meet records, Crowe placed first at 147 pounds and Venturilli was second at 140 in the Lowell Holiday Tournament. They, along with another three-year veteran, Tony Akoury, who placed third, led Quincy to a third place finish among 20 teams.

"Underclassmen Martin Doyle, John Herald, John Fitzgerald, Mike Gordon and Geoff Caffisch have already made their presence felt in the still young season," Mariano said.

Veteran Steve Notarangelo returned to the team last week after a nine-week absence because of a broken wrist and he immediately won his first match in a 5-10 romp over Weymouth North.

Also back after suffering knee injuries at Lowell are Akoury and Caffisch. In their absence Michael Dalton, Jeff Heath and John Vespaziani did a superb job filling in.

"I cannot say enough for my junior varsity squad, under Tim Cahill," Mariano continued. "They are undefeated and Al DeVincentis, Greg Oriola, Jim Silcox, Mike Monahan and Jim Graham have come along very well and they, as well as other underclassmen, have been a major reason for our junior varsity's success."

7-0 Record

Broad Meadows Wins 4th Straight Wrestling Title

The Broad Meadows wrestling team clinched its fourth straight Quincy Junior High championship last week when it defeated Atlantic, 30-21, to make its record 7-0.

BM will be favored to win the city-wide tournament for the fourth year in a row Friday and Saturday at the Quincy Armory.

BM was again led by Jerry Burt, Mike Notarangelo, Rich Monahan, Jerry McSharry, Mike Miller and Mike Nevens. Atlantic's Richie Palma and Steve Kallenberg remained undefeated in the 128-pound and heavyweight classes respectively.

Sterling defeated Atlantic,

Mike Nourse and Francis Gaudiano won their matches for the Sterling junior varsity.

Sterling also topped Central, 31-21, with Venturilli, Oriola, Kozlowski, Ricci, Bush and Picot all winning. For the Sterling jayvees John Cacciatori, Paul Rennie, Scott McCarthy and James McSweeney won and Billy Marston went to a draw.

Sterling Girls Defeat Central, 37-28

The Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team improved its record to 7-0 with a 41-23 win over Atlantic.

Sterling broke open a close game by outscoring Atlantic, 22-0, during the second period.

Merissa Stewart, Pam Jacobs, Dolly Doherty, Darlene Marston and Diane Coska led Sterling.

Earlier Sterling had defeated Central, 37-28, a big third period proving the difference after a 19-19 first half. The loss dropped Central to 3-3.

Nancy MacDonald had 14 points for Sterling, Kathy Duggan had 10 and Eileen Morrison eight. Maureen Flaherty, Diane Coska and Marston excelled on defense.

Broad Meadows defeated Atlantic, 31-12, while the Atlantic junior varsity topped BM, 14-11.

Breen Scores 6 Goals To Spark AI's

Washington Tap edged the Hofbrau, 2-1, as the Executive Hockey League returned to action following the holidays.

Joe Verlicchio put the Hofbrau on the scoreboard first in the second period with Dave Edgren and Bob Bonito assisting. The Tap came back in the last period as Marty Tolson scored on passes from John Emmott and Ed Grogan and Jack Crowley scored the winner with Tolson assisting.

E. J. Breen had a fantastic night with six goals to spark AI's Cafe to a 14-9 win over Sundowner's. Steve Dymant, Dick McCabe and Mike Haynes had two goals each and Harry Crispo and Bill Milano had one apiece. Haynes had four assists as did Ralph Gibbs, Dymant, Ken Boise, McCabe, Breen and Rick Golden had two apiece and Jim Houghton had one. For Sundowner's Tom Malchow had the hat trick, Peter Bertrand and Ted Ahola two apiece and Tom Noonan and Ken Marini one each. Ahola had three assists, Malchow and Marini two apiece and Dave Hickey, Noonan and Bob Bannister one each.

AI McKay scored four goals and had two assists as Sportlight Tavern walloped Darcy's Pub, 11-4. Ed Linehan had the hat trick, Don Costa two goals and Bob Murray and Charlie Chambers one each. Chambers and McNeil had five assists apiece, Linehan four, McKay two and Ed O'Riordan, Ken Gardner and Rich Gibbs one each. For Darcy's Dennis O'Connell had two goals and Dave Donovan and Kevin Glynn one each. Glynn had three assists and O'Connell and Donovan one apiece.

Interest Up In Quincy Girls' Track Despite Record

Boys' winter track was dropped at Quincy High this year due to a lack of interest, but interest is up in girls' track and Coach Jim Piccini sees hope for the future, despite an 0-5 record this season.

"Last year I had only seven girls who performed well but, naturally, we didn't have a chance against the other league teams," Piccini said. "This year we had 16 girls turn out and, although the total is now down to 11, some of the girls are having an outstanding season. I just hope interest will continue to go up and, with a few more girls turning out, we should do well in another year."

The squad includes seniors Lois Guglielmi, 600; Paula Church, 1000; Francie Maloney, mile and two-mile; Tara Prince, hurdles and two-mile, and Kelly Morrill, shot put; juniors Donna Reardon, mile; Rita Pasqualone, shot and hurdles; Ann Hannon, hurdles, and Claire Lynch, 300 and 600; and sophomores Chris Fitzpatrick, high jump, and Teddie Howard, 40-yard dash.

"Donna Reardon in the mile and Lois Guglielmi in the 600 are having fine seasons," Piccini said. "Donna ran her fastest mile, 5:51.7, last week against Brookline and in her two previous meets ran 5:56.2 and 5:55."

"Lois also turned in her fastest 600, 1:40.3, last week, after doing 1:46.10 and 1:45.47. She started out in the 300 but has been doing very well since changing to the 600."

Piccini also had good words for Pasqualone, who has a win, two seconds and a third in the shot put, and is improving steadily in the hurdles; her best effort being 30-6; Church, who last week ran her fastest 1000, 3:23.06; Prince, who did well in the hurdles and two-mile before being hurt; Maloney, doing well in the mile and two-mile; Hannon, improving each week in the hurdles; Morrill, who has added six inches to her distance in the shot put, and Fitzpatrick, who is doing well in the high jump, having a win and a second place. Her best jump has been 4-6.

The First Ladies will face Weymouth North Friday at Brookline.

Fathers Club Football Awards Banquet Saturday

The Quincy Fathers Club will sponsor its 26th annual Quincy High football awards banquet Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Morrisette Legion Post.

Club President Richard Ohlson will be master of ceremonies and Jim Coloughan, former Quincy all-scholastic, former Patriots player and currently coach at Boston State College, will be the speaker.

The following awards will be presented: Granville, Munroe McLean, Matthew Ivi, Armando Moscardelli, George Underwood, Robert Primevera, Frank and Eleanor Osborne (donated by Harold McCarthy), and Paul V. Grasso (donated by Bill Osborne).

Also being presented will be the Queen's Trophy, cheerleaders, seniors, juniors, sophomores and coaches' awards, the Frank and Eleanor Osborne scholarship award, to be awarded to a senior in June, and the William Schaetzl Award to be given to a North Quincy player.

Reservations are closed and no tickets will be sold at the door.

Sterling Girls Defeat Atlantic For 7th In Row

The Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team remained unbeaten with a 37-28 win over Central.

After a 19-19 first half, Sterling pulled away as Central was unable to get its offense on track. During the first half the passing of Joann Runge and the scoring of Dee Simmons with eight points kept Central on even terms. Maureen Duggan had nine first half points for Sterling. Nancy MacDonald, despite four fouls, paced Sterling in the second half and finished with 14 points, high for the game.

The Central junior varsity won easily, 21-2, with Gerri Hannon and Carol Greene scoring six points each. Teresa Biagini had five points in the second half.

Broad Meadows defeated Atlantic, 30-12, sparked by Karen Robertson and Michelle Aboud with six points each.

Atlantic's jayvees were victorious, 14-11.

B.C. High, Matignon Here Saturday

Boston College High, with seven graduates of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association in the lineup, will face Matignon in a Catholic Conference game Saturday at 5 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Jim Scanlan and Bob Hayes are the B.C. High co-captains and other Quincy players are Mark Boussy, Bob Beniers, Joey Rathgeb, John Jackson and Fred Palmer.

Matignon, always a league power, is undefeated while B.C. High is still winless. However, the Eagles held their tryouts on the Quincy ice and hope playing there will change their luck.

'Good For Our Morale But ...'

City Cautious Over Victory In Jet Noise Battle

Quincy critics of air noise from Logan Airport greeted with caution and skepticism the news that henceforth planes taking off from Runway 22R will depart over South Boston instead of Quincy, at least for two months.

"It's a good victory for our morale," said Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy). "But it is a victory only for a short period. Now they have to come up with a recommendation that is favorable to Quincy in the future."

Bernice Mader, chairman of the Citizens Against Airport Noise (CAAN), said she is pleased by the decision "but now we have to see that Massport deals fairly and in an unbiased manner with the data obtained by its noise monitors."

The long battle between CAAN on one side and Massport and the FAA on the other began last May when takeoffs were switched from the 210 degree heading over Southie to 180 degrees over Quincy to reduce noise impact in Boston.

The new route was said to be experimental.

CAAN, at a meeting last summer, drew from Robert Whittington, regional head of the FAA, the promise that the experiment would end on Jan. 15 and that a decision would be made on recommendations for the permanent takeoff heading by March 15.

"Mr. Whittington lived up to his promise," said Miss Mader. "He is a man of his word, which is more than I can say for the people at Massport."

Miss Mader said that Massport, in whom she has expressed distrust, wanted to treat the 180 degree heading over Quincy as the "base case," or the normal heading from which the 210 heading over South Boston would be a test departure.

That, she said, would put the burden of proof on Quincy that it is more highly impacted by the noise of departing planes.

"Clearly," she said, "the 210 heading is the legal base case because the change to 180 was done illegally without notifying the impacted people of Quincy."

Boston City Councillor Raymond L. Flynn has threatened to file suit against the FAA in an effort to change the 210 heading.

Miss Mader said she fears that Massport is engaging in an effort to split the Greater Boston anti-noise forces by pitting Quincy against South Boston in a "let's you and him fight" move.

"The next time the noise task force meets," she said, "there will be 60 people from South Boston there and Massport will be telling them, 'Are you going to let Quincy do that to you?"

"We're not going to let that happen."

Miss Mader accused Massport of exerting "irrational pressure" to have the takeoff heading set at 180 degrees and she questions the noise data being collected by the organization.

"Their data shows the noise level to be 80 decibels over Squantum when the planes are flying at a 210 heading," she said. "And it shows it to be 78 decibels at a 180 heading. That's incredible."

"We're getting sandbagged. How can you trust data that is being taken by the organization that is pushing for the change?"

Christmas Comes Late For Chiasson Family

Amherst.

They had been in Canada visiting relatives on Cape Breton during the long Thanksgiving Day weekend and were returning home at the time of the accident.

The collision occurred in the early evening as the Chiassons were planning to stop at a motel. Chiasson said that none of them can clearly recall what happened. They do recall that the people in the other car suffered only minor injuries.

Members of the family, cousins, nephews, aunts, uncles and grandparents were on hand for a joyful and tear-eyed reunion when the ambulance drew up at the front door.

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall had met the Trans Canada plane when it arrived at Logan Airport from Halifax and accompanied the trio to Quincy. Mrs. Chiasson and the sheriff's wife, Louise, are sisters.

The father, John, was able to walk into the house on his own. His left arm is still in a cast and he is recuperating from several badly bruised vertebrae.

Mrs. Chiasson hobbled in on crutches. Her left leg was broken in several places and she suffered facial lacerations, contusions and abrasions which required more than a dozen stitches.

Jackie, the most seriously injured of the family, made the trip on a stretcher. Both his thighs were broken in the collision. He lost five teeth and suffered multiple cuts and bruises.

William (Billy), his 12-year-old brother came out of it with a broken wrist and thumb. Both boys are seventh grade students at Quincy Point Junior High School.

Informed of the accident, the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Chiasson and Mr. and Mrs. John Caporale, accompanied by the boys' uncle, John Caporale Jr., flew to Amherst. They were able to bring William home.

The Chiassons spent three and a half weeks in the Highland View Regional Hospital at Amherst. Jackie spent the entire seven weeks in the hospital and will undergo further treatment here.

"The people at the hospital were super," Chiasson said. "Not only the people at the hospital, but all the people we met up there were fantastic in the concern they expressed."

One of the most excited at the homecoming was the family's pet Pekingese "Lady" who couldn't quite figure it all out and looked a little askance at the lady on crutches—but not for long.

George Page, a neighbor and Chiasson's fellow bowler in the Beau's Bowling League, greeted his friend with a tongue-in-cheek comment:

"Do you realize how you've let the team down by being away so long?"

Under $80,000 Grant

12 Police Officers To Be Trained To Handle Domestic Violence

A dozen Quincy police officers will start training Monday, Jan. 29, to become specialists in handling domestic violence calls under an $80,000 grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin called it the first formalized police program in Massachusetts for handling domestic disturbance calls, which make up a high percentage of police duties.

"We have three or four serious domestic violence calls a day," said Police Chief Francis X. Finn, "and 41 per cent of them are repeat calls. This program will do a great deal to help us."

The $80,000 program will be handled out of the office of Norfolk District Attorney William D. Delahunt with Quincy chosen as the testing point because of its size, location and availability of services.

"We will test the program in Quincy for about six months and then possibly expand countywide," said Mrs. Esmerelda Santiago, director of the DA's domestic violence program.

The LEAA calls the program the "Family Service Unit", but Chief Finn said the men will be chosen from the patrol division, trained and then returned to their normal duties.

Eventually, he said, they probably will get a stipend as added duty specialists.

The program will provide:

- Direct emergency service and short-term services to victims, perpetrators and children, witnesses to domestic violence.

- Mediation and arbitration service to families involved in domestic violence.

- Intensive training to police departments in the area of domestic violence and tracking of cases.

- Technical assistance to local agencies, organizations, and groups working in domestic violence.

Council Races To Meet Vital UDAG Date

By TOM HENSHAW

City Council President John J. Quinn plans to call a special meeting of the Council for Friday at 7:30 p.m. to clear the way for the city to apply for a $4,534,000 Urban Development Action Grant [UDAG] to build a parking garage over the MBTA tracks.

The special Council session will be preceded at 6:30 p.m. by a meeting of Councillor Leo J. Kelly's Downtown Development Committee for a final hearing on a series of orders, including authorization for Mayor Arthur H. Tobin to file the application with HUD.

It must be filed by Wednesday, Jan. 31.

The garage over the MBTA tracks near the Granite St. crossing is an essential part of a $10 million, 10-story office building that has been proposed for the Della Chiesa Parking Area at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts.

Kelly's committee met Monday night for a work session on the UDAG package, which includes authorization for the Mayor to lease air rights over the tracks and to lease the municipal parking area to the Developer, Campanelli Inc. of Braintree, for $1 a year.

Councillor Francis X. McCauley, whose Presidential Cooperative Bank is to be taken for the project, stayed away from the committee meeting on the advice of City Solicitor Robert Fleming and Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt for fear of conflict of interest.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. sought to assure the Council a more active role in negotiating the leases by inserting the phrase "after approval by the Quincy City Council" after each mention of the Mayor but Kelly succeeded in putting off his motion.

Robert T. Kenney, president of Urban Consulting Associates which is advising Quincy on UDAG, told the committee that Quincy is up against very intensive competition from

Affirmative Action Still A Problem

Minority Hiring Figure

Threatens Housing, Downtown Projects

Quincy's problems with a federal-ordered affirmative action plan moved toward a climax at a quikened pace this week.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin conferred Tuesday with Edward Martin, regional head of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, on the sensitive matter that was threatening to cut off or delay funding on several projects in the city.

Committees from the Harborview Residents Committee and the Senior Citizens Council met on Tuesday and Wednesday to study an affirmative action plan formulated by the Quincy Housing Authority.

Meanwhile, Planning Director Walter J. Hannan told the City Council that the city "is making a conscious effort" to hire minorities and that "we are showing good faith certainly goes in our favor."

But, he added, the HUD people are considering the city and the Housing Authority "in the same basket" and it could threaten a $4.5 million UDAG

DPW To Hold Public Meeting On Fore River Bridge Replacement

The State Department of Public Works will hold a public informational meeting on the proposed replacement of the Fore River Bridge tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

The department is currently conducting an environmental impact study and the meeting is to inform the Quincy Point public on the progress of the project since the last meeting in May, 1977.

The status of federal funding, general project impacts, and alternative bridge types and alignments will also be discussed.

Snow Shoveling Service For Senior Citizens

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin announces the Council on Aging provide snow shoveling services to older residents of Quincy this winter under an agreement with South Shore Home Care Services.

Local youths will do the shoveling, paid by South Shore Home Care Services under the Social Security Act.

City Receives $45,000 For Public Housing Handrails

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin announces Quincy has been awarded a $45,000 federal grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the installation of handrails in public housing projects for the elderly. The Senior Citizen complexes due for installation include: Oceanview, 73 Bicknell St.;

Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave.; Sawyer Towers, 95 Martensen St., and Tobin Towers, 80 Clay St.

The project will involve about 12,000 ft. of handrail, 2,500 handrail brackets, with installation and work to be performed by Quincy Housing Authority personnel.

Does Not Oppose Private Bus Lines

Foster Says MBTA Must Attract More Riders To Become Viable

By PETER BARNICLE

Robert J. Foster, Edward J. King's nominee to head the MBTA told South Shore members of the T's Advisory Board the transit system has to attract more riders to become a viable operation.

Foster said he wanted to do a lot of listening and he told several MBTA employees "you'll be hearing from me."

The Scituate resident appeared at the meeting Monday night at the John F. Kennedy Health Center in Quincy, to answer questions of South Shore Advisory Board members and the general public.

Thomas Manning of Quincy, an MBTA mechanic, told the nominee that spare parts were unavailable and had to be obtained in Canada or Europe. He said that sometimes it took more than six months to obtain even the most elemental parts.

He also said current managers threw out some needed parts as junk. Manning said that new equipment was lying idle because the needed spare parts were unavailable.

Foster was asked about his opinion on allowing private bus companies to come into Quincy from surrounding communities. He admitted he had not studied the problem closely, but said he could see no reason for restricting them if they provided service.

He also told the audience that he had no objection to the P and B busline moving into the proposed South Station Terminal.

He told the group of 75 or more, that his first priority would be to increase ridership on the T. At present, he said, the system is operating at 18 percent of cost. He has set a goal of 50 percent and hopes to bring down the deficit by cutting expenses along the line by introducing new marketing programs.

He acknowledged that his past experience has been in construction and engineering, but assured those present that he was capable of meeting the problems of the T.

He said that the incinerator firm he worked with in Lynn was non-union, but he sees no difficulty in getting along with the people in the highly unionized transit system.

Foster's nomination by King came under a cloud when it was disclosed that the degree in engineering he claimed in a resume, did not in fact belong to him.

The Governor has since absolved him of blame in this "slip" and the people at Monday's meeting did not make an issue of it.

Faherty Candidate For Council At-Large Seat

Michael E. Faherty, 54, of 28 Furnace Brook Parkway, who failed in his bid for an at-large seat on the City Council two years ago, has announced that he will make another try in next fall's election.

"The theme of my campaign will be an end to the 'clubhouse politics' that stifle the little guy," he said in his announcement.

"There is a void in the responsibility of the present City Council to voice opposition to administration proposals which might not be in the best interest of all the citizens of Quincy."

Faherty, a retired Mass State

Police captain now director of corporate security for State Street South, qualified in the 1977 preliminary election but finished sixth and last in the general election.

He received 9,463 votes, some 3,000 behind the fifth finisher, Joseph E. Brett, and 4,200 behind Francis X. McCauley, the last of the three winners.

Faherty, who is married to the former Patricia Duggan and the father of five, is the second announced candidate for the City Council. Gerald V. Noble of Wollaston has announced for the Ward 3 seat.

Janet DiTullio To Speak At Bryant PTCC Meeting

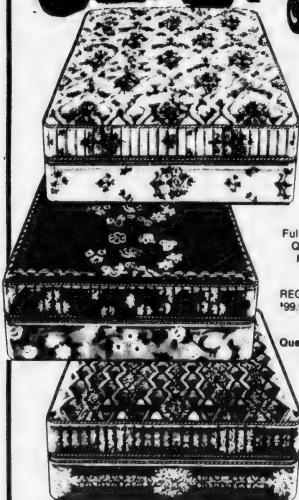

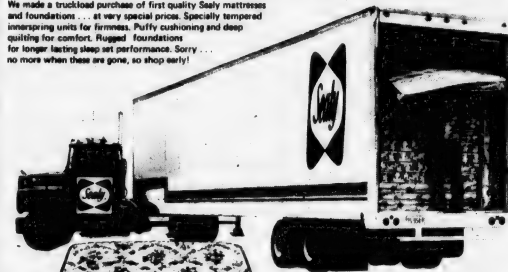

Janet P. DiTullio, coordinator of language arts in the Quincy Schools, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Grisdley Bryant Parent Teacher Communication Council tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the school media center. Miss DiTullio will speak on "Reading in the context area—emphasizing comprehension". A short business meeting will follow. The public is invited

But Another 1929 In Future?

3 Out Of 4 Experts See 1979 Economic Forecast 'Good'

By TOM HENSHAW

Remember Thomas J. Flatley, the South Shore developer who told then Gov. Michael S. Dukakis a couple of years ago to get things straightened out in Massachusetts or he was leaving?

Well, Flatley appears to be back in the fold.

"We have to look in our industry towards one of the finest years to date coming up," he told the Economic Predictions for 1979 breakfast of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

"As a matter of fact, we are looking for the most positive year we've ever had in history, on the bottom line and in opportunity.

"We're finding that the attitude in Massachusetts has improved immensely and this is very important. Few people in business needed the aggravation that we have seen over the past few years.

"The attitude was very prevalent in the Commonwealth that anyone in business was suspect. Hopefully, that attitude has changed.

"We are looking forward to a good year. Even if we have a slight recession we don't see it affecting us to any great extent during the upcoming year."

Other members of the economic breakfast panel included, Marvin Rouslin, vice president of Grossman's; Jack E. Williams, president of Merriman Division of Litton Industries; and Frederic W. Schlosstein, fiscal advisor to the State Legislature.

Williams was the only one of the four who foresaw a gloomy outlook.

"The consensus is we will see a slowdown during the last half of the year," he said. "1980 should be relatively good. But lurking in the background is another 1929.

It is expected sometime around 1983. That one will separate the men from the boys."

Williams said business is good during the current slowdown because "we have watched factory inventories very closely but we have not watched consumer inventories.

"Consumers have overbought in anticipation of higher prices. As a result consumer debt has just about reached its elastic limit. Somewhere around 73 per cent of personal income is re-committed just to service debt. It can't go that much higher.

Rouslin called 1978 "a record year for sales and profits for Grossman's and we expect to surpass this record in 1979.

"Our plans for the future are realistically aggressive. We will open new branches, relocate and remodel older branches and continue to explore new methods of business next year."

Grossman's, he said, is in the home improvement market which "tends to be recession proof or at least recession resistant. To protect the investment one must keep up repairs and remodeling to fit the family's needs."

Schlosstein said he didn't think business was going to be very good in his area.

"We're in for a very, very difficult year on Beacon Hill," he said. "The nature of the business I am in is attempting to preserve all the revenues of the Commonwealth in order to meet its social commitments for the benefit of the people.

"The biggest problem we're going to have on Beacon Hill is the area of the real estate tax burden. I think finally something meaningful is going to happen next year in legislation."

7 Arrested In Probe

Over 30 Housebreaks In Wollaston-North Quincy Area

Quincy police have made seven arrests in connection with their investigation into a series of more than 30 housebreaks in the Wollaston-North Quincy area.

Detective Robert Pritchard said police have apprehended four juveniles among the group believed to have staged the breaks.

"For the most part they took small articles, like jewelry, clocks and the like," according to Sgt. William Curran. "But they also caused extensive damage through sheer vandalism."

Sgt. Curran and Det. Pritchard said the breaks have been going on since last November and the police have been watching the area with additional patrolmen and unmarked cruisers.

"These breaks were the work of one gang of youngsters and we have been able to apprehend most of those who took part in the breaks," Curran said.

Since those apprehended have been bailed police feel that more recent breaks may have been the work of the same gang. The intensified patrols in the area are being kept up, he said.

$110,000 Grant To Improve Water City's Treatment

Mayor Arthur Tobin has been notified by the State Water Resources Commission, that a federal grant of $111,000 has been approved which will improve the water treatment system in the city.

The project includes preparation of final plans for a pump station and forced main and interceptors sewers to serve the Faxon Park and South Quincy areas.

The grant will fund rehabilitation of existing sewer lines and aid in the construction of the new pump station. Total cost of the project will be $156,000 with city funding the difference under the existing sewer bond issue.

Women's Booklet On Low Cost Vocational Opportunities Available

A booklet designed to introduce women to low cost vocational opportunities is now available at the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College and at Quincy and other local public libraries.

"A South Shore Woman's Guide to Low Cost Vocational Opportunities," was compiled by Mia Ryan when she was administrative director of Project W.A.G.E. Project W.A.G.E. was designed to provide support for women seeking employment, and was funded by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act and sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College. It included its work last fall.

The booklet is helpful to any woman who is considering entering the job market or changing her career. Programs and courses which are primarily pre-vocational (designed to help identify career goals) are emphasized. For example, the booklet describes the evening practical arts and evening trade preparatory programs in the area. The courses available through post-graduate technical schools and community colleges are also listed.

In addition, support services, which are a vital part of career decision making, such as women's centers, counseling and referral services and placement centers are described. Helpful handbooks and possible grants are noted.

A particularly useful section of the booklet explains special programs offering help to women seeking trade and apprenticeship opportunities. This includes the Women in Construction Program which trains women in trade skills, an electro-mechanical program offered through Women's Enterprises and the special training programs available through CETA.

In her booklet, Miss Ryan emphasizes that women should not be turned off by the term non-traditional.

"It does not mean a job which requires super strength or the willingness to get dirty," she said. A non-traditional job is simply a job formerly done almost exclusively by men."

She notes that more and more women are attracted to non-traditional jobs because of the possibilities for advancement, responsibility, and a decent wage. She warns that the initial salary may seem low but encourages women to examine the potential of the job.

"Find out what you can expect one year from now," she stresses.

When considering career possibilities, women should explore many options. This booklet is a good way to begin the exploration of vocational possibilities.

Two other booklets, put together under the same CETA project, are available at the Women's Center (479-8445) or at the public libraries in the 11 CETA communities. They are "A Working Woman's Guide to Child Care" prepared by Jean Keough and "A Woman's Guide to Equal Employment Opportunity" prepared by Patricia McSweeney.

Fontbonne Student Council Installs New Officers

Ellen Ferrucci of Milton, was inducted as president of the student council at Fontbonne Academy, Milton, during ceremonies held recently at the school.

Other officers are Noreen Shea, vice president; Jean Bouton, secretary, and Jacqueline McCloskey, treasurer, all of Quincy. The oath of office was administered by Sr. Marilyn McGoldrick, advisor to the student council.

Sr. Eunice Fitzgerald, vice principal of Fontbonne, opened the assembly with prayer.

In her first official act as student council president, Miss Ferrucci inducted the class representatives, as follows: seniors: Catherine Anderson, Maureen Kingston, Mary Malone, Maureen Moore, Mary Welch, Jacqueline White; juniors: Monica Higgins, Corinne Keches, Maryjane McDonough, Lauren O'Laughlin, Sheila Osbourne, Mary Pagliarulo; sophomores: Ann Brabazon, Elizabeth Higgins, Laura Hourihan, Kathleen Latus, Kathleen McCloskey and Valerie Stewart.

Concluding the ceremony, Timothy Joyce, OSB, spoke of the qualities of leadership, which, he said, is, above all, service to the community it embraces."

Beverly Najjar Area Chairman For Ch. 2 Auction

Mrs. Beverly Najjar, last year's team captain in the Quincy area for the Channel 2 Auction, has been named area chairman for this year's auction scheduled for June 1-9.

Mrs. Najjar, a resident of Braintree, will be responsible for "go-getting" coordinating activities in Quincy, Wollaston, Squantum, Dorchester, Mattapan, Braintree, Milton, and Weymouth.

Last year was Mrs. Najjar's first volunteer effort for WGBH's major fund-raising event. She considers it "my way of thanking the station for the many hours of enjoyment and enlightenment it has given me and my family.

Volunteers are now being recruited as "Go getters" to solicit merchants, artists and residents for donations to the auction.

A training session for all volunteers will be held in February in the Boston studios of Ch. 2.

Carole McCole Sponsoring 'Model Of Year Pageant'

Female Quincy residents age six to 12, 13-19, and 19 and over who are interested in modeling are invited to enter the Carole McCole Model of the Year Pageant, to be held May 6, at Weymouth, Weymouth.

Contestants, who need not be students or models of the McCole School or Agency, will be judged on beauty, poise and modeling potential.

Competition categories will include bathing suits, casual dress, evening gowns and personal interviews.

Quincy students of the McCole School who have won titles in beauty contests include Lis Berman, runner up in Miss South Shore Pageant, and Donna Ternallo, finalist in the Miss World Pageant, first runner up in the Miss Dedham Pageant [for Miss America] and finalist in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant.

Applications are available at the Carole McCole Fashion Models School, 572 Columbian St., South Weymouth, or 862 Brockton Ave., Abington. For information, call 335-1636 or 584-1011.

INSECT STINGS AND BITES

A highly allergic child can die in five to thirty minutes from a sudden allergic reaction to the sting of a bee, wasp or hornet. Even for a child with no history of allergic reaction, who develops symptoms including shortness of breath, stomach pain, fainting and shock, medical treatment is needed quickly. This can be a serious emergency.

Children with a history of allergic reactions to insect stings should be under the care of a physician. You should always have on hand medication to be used to counteract the allergic reaction unless the child has been desensitized. Insect sting kits are inexpensive and readily available on the market.

If the child has no history of allergic reactions to insect stings and shows signs of only localized discomfort in the area of the sting or bite, treatment should be provided to reduce discomfort. Often, home remedies are effective. Wash the affected parts with soap and water. Apply a paste made of baking soda and a little water or use calamine lotion.

West Quincy Restaurant License Hearing Delay Protested

Nicholas V. Trifone and his son, Nicholas V. Trifone III, 40 Pilon Rd., Milton, were allowed to withdraw without prejudice their request for a common victualer-all alcoholic license when they appeared before the Quincy Board of License Commissioners on Tuesday.

The older Trifone explained to the board that his attorney, James Castleman, had to appear in a Worcester court on another matter and could not appear.

Some 25 opponents to Trifone's request for a license for La Vinia Restaurant at 184 Willard St., West Quincy, objected to the matter being delayed.

Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, protested that the people opposed to the restaurant had taken the time to come to the hearing and might not be able to return at a later date.

City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the licensing board, explained the license request had been turned down last fall, but the Trifones had appealed to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission and that body had sent the decision back for a re-hearing.

"Under the law," Gillis said, "we have to give the applicant every opportunity to be heard." Trifone indicated he will file a new application before the end of the month.

Fr. McMahon left the hearing after saying he would have his entire congregation fill the City Council chamber the next time the license request is on the agenda.

Officers Elected

Bethany Adopts $118,400 Budget

A revised set of bylaws and a budget of $118,400 were adopted by members of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, at the annual meeting held Jan. 21, the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of the sanctuary and parish house.

Morning worship service, with Dr. Robert E. Luccock, of Wellesley, guest preacher, and an anniversary dinner preceded the meeting. Mrs. Eric Streiford was chairman of the Women's Union committee in charge of the covered dish dinner.

Mrs. Jean Smart, church moderator, presided at the meeting which included a memorial service, conducted by Rev. John D. Banks, for the twelve Bethany members who died during 1978.

Reports for 1978 were summarized in booklet form and adopted as a permanent record. Church assets, exclusive of land and buildings, were shown at $247,500. A capital funds drive for $100,000 was successfully carried out in April and May.

Included in the church budget, presented by Harold D. Gurney, finance committee chairman, is $11,698 for missions and benevolences.

Heslip E. Sutherland served as chairman of the committee presenting the bylaws revision. Other committee members were Mary Lou Glaman, Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn, William F. Greene and Dr. Henry F. Paterson.

Re-elected on the recommendation of the nominating committee were Mrs. Jean Smart, moderator; Mrs. Marcia Jacob, clerk; Joyce A. Ray, assistant clerk, and Merton Pomfret, collector.

Also elected were Edward A. Bohlken, treasurer; Laura Freberg, financial secretary; George Zeiba, assistant collector; David S. Carr, auditor; Mrs. Vivian Miller, Muriel Goudey and William Greene, administrative committee members; Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, James W. Ross and Howard Shand, deacons, Mrs. Olive A. Gurney, Mrs. Sylvia Sanchez and Mrs. Maude M. Swift, deaconesses.

Elected to committees were: Stephen N. Roberts, Michael J. Smith and Alfred M. Toy, prudential committee; Mrs. Eva E. Gorman and John E. Hayes, finance committee; Edith Gibson, beautification committee; Mrs. Jane F. McLain, J. L. Marion Nilsen, endowment committee; Amy MacLeod, Heather McLain, Mrs. Nancy Renn, Christian education committee.

Others elected include: Mrs.

Barbara Carr, Lucy Jacob, Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, music committee; Mrs. Mary L. Gossard, Mrs. Evelyn Kilbourn, social action committee; Mrs. Helen S. Coats, Barbara R. Miller, Philip J. Sprague, missionary committee; Doris W. Folger, delegate to the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Head ushers elected were Clayton E. Simpson and Donald E. Wheeler. Other ushers: Richard W. Cosgrove, Wendell C. Cosgrove, Seymour B. Hall, Kenneth MacLeod, Heather E. McLain, Barbara R. Miller, John C. Murphy Jr., Maria T. Sanchez, Sylvia A. Sanchez, Janice L. Siddens, Philip J. Sprague, Brian D. Tsao.

Public Schools, was formerly director of the South Shore Mental Health.

Interested members of the Quincy Point community are invited.

Faith Lutheran Church Votes $72,000 Budget

An annual budget just under $72,000 was accepted at the recent annual meeting of Faith Lutheran Church, Quincy.

The new budget is up seven per cent over last year, but the first increase over the past five years. The rise reflects cost of living increases in salaries of church staff.

In other business, eight members were elected to the Church Council, the governing body of the church. Newly elected are:

Miss Barbara Berg, Michael Crumbliss, Mrs. Christine Ferguson, Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Evelyn Lindquist, John J. Mullaney, Donald Robinson and Matt Salomaa.

Also elected were treasurer, Mrs. Martha Kelley; financial secretary, Mrs. Elaine Cook; auditors, Margaret Rundquist and Bertel Sjolin.

Chosen as delegates to the New England Synod were Mrs. Christine Ferguson, Miss Laura Johnson and as alternate Mrs. Lorraine Blake. Other elected positions include:

Altar Guild Chairman, Mrs. Martha Carlson; Memorial Fund Treasurer, Clarence Carlson; Representatives to the Protestant Social Service Bureau, Mrs. Helvi Ahola and Mrs. Mirium Luoma. Representatives to the South Council of Churches are Mrs. Christine Ferguson, Mrs. Faith Mullaney and Mr. Albert Nelson.

At a later meeting of the new church council, former council secretary Mrs. Evelyn Lindquist was elected vice-chairman of the church. Mrs. Edith Ruta is the new secretary of the Council.

Puppetry, Story Telling Workshop

The South Shore Council of Churches will conduct a Christian education workshop focusing on puppetry and story telling Saturday at Bethany Congregational Church.

The full day program will begin at 9 a.m. and includes a puppet demonstration by Jane Newbert and Susan Augustine. Leading the story telling workshop is Nancy Smith.

The schedule for the day: 9-10 registration; 10, workshop I; 11:30, lunch break; 12:30, puppet demonstration; 1, workshop II; 2, wrap up and review.

Pre-registration is encouraged and can be completed by calling the South Shore Council of Churches at 773-1360. There is a fee of $2. Participants are asked to bring a bag lunch. Beverages will be provided.

other cities across the nation for the UDAG money.

"We don't know exactly how many other cities are competing in this UDAG round," he said, "but it is very tight, tough competition."

"When the staff in Washington reviews these applications they are primarily interested in two things: No. 1, the private financial commitments and No. 2, the speed with which the project gets started. The city has to get its UDAG application in by Jan. 31."

Lydon, still concerned that the Council was going to be left out of the lease negotiations, asked if it was necessary to pass the lease authorizations before applying for the UDAG "or can the City Council simply authorize the Mayor to file."

"The city must do a lot more than just a simple authorization to file an application," said Kenney. "The essence of the program is that it is ready to go and the local approvals are there."

"If every little detail of the negotiations has to come back to the City Council it would be my guess they would look at this and say it is not ready to go."

"The competition is going to be so tough on this that these things have to be voted."

Planning Director Walter J. Hannon sought to clear committee apprehensions that the UDAG was clouded by the city's failure to come up with an accepted affirmative action plan.

"This city may have a lack of minority people working for it," he said, "but women far exceed the size of our city in administrative positions so we have a lot going for us."

"We're going to have to hire as many minority people as we possibly can to get our quota up to HUD's standards."

"If we don't make a sincere effort then many of our federally funded programs will be seriously jeopardized in future determinations of money."

Hannon illustrated some of the difficulties in meeting the standards of the federal government in regard to minority hiring.

"We have an opening in our department for a financial officer and we felt that would be an opportunity to hire a minority person," he said. "We advertised in all the minority papers and we didn't receive any applications."

"But the fact that we are making a conscious effort and we are showing good faith certainly goes in our favor."

Hannon acknowledged that the Quincy Housing Authority's problems with an affirmative action plan may also have an effect on the city's position for the UDAG.

"Whatever the Housing Authority wants to do unfortunately reflects on our bidding for UDAGs," he said, "but they'll just have to work that out. We just hope we don't get penalized for inaction on their part."

"It isn't quite fair. In fact this thing can spread out so far that if it goes to the ultimate they could ask for a review of our revenue sharing program. That's how far-reaching this thing is."

Your Dental Health

by Daniel P. Sweeney D.D.S.

Community health facilities include both individuals-physicians, dentists, nurses, therapists and technicians--and organizations--hospitals, nursing homes, health departments and voluntary agencies. All are involved in the prevention of disease and the diagnosis of specific diseases and ailments. Some include treatment of certain diseases and ailments in specific patients and restoring the patient after treatment to a useful role in society. But in order to take advantage of these facilities, it is up to the individual to make the first move. Your health is, after all, each individual's prime responsibility.

As part of your local health team, Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., with offices at 539 Adams St., Milton, offers complete dental care for the entire family.

He recommends that children as young as 3-4 years of age be brought to the dentist to become acquainted with dental procedures and to learn good dental habits. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. We honor insurance plans, Master Charge, and Visa.

grant for a parking garage in Quincy Center.

"In fact," he said, "this thing can spread out so far that ultimately they could ask for a review of our revenue sharing program, that's how far reaching this thing is."

The Housing Authority last week sent to the HUD office in Boston an affirmative action plan, the same plan that HA Chairman Rosemary Wahlberg said two weeks ago might not be acceptable.

Commissioner Carmine D'Olimpio, who moved acceptance of the plan despite the fact that the tenants' organizations had not yet commented on it, said submitting it would "show good will."

The Authority board also refused to sign a compliance agreement demanded by HUD because, it was said, the senior citizens group objected to some of its provisions.

Mrs. Wahlberg said that once the tenants and senior citizens groups had studied the affirmative action plan their representatives would meet with the Authority board probably in the first week in February.

Included in the meeting will be Sarah Nettleson, of the Planning Department, which is involved in the city's attempt to take affirmative action and hire minority workers.

Here is a review of the events leading up to Quincy's current problems with affirmative action and federal grants:

Early in 1978, HUD's Regional Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity conducted a compliance review of the Quincy Housing Authority. On Sept. 1, Joseph S. Vera, director of the Regional Office, notified O'Brien that several deficiencies were found.

"In the Section 8 Existing program [leased housing], minority applicants appear to be receiving equitable consideration in the awarding of certificates of eligibility," said Vera.

"However, only 20 of the 829 applications received were from minorities. While some might attribute this to the low minority population within the city of Quincy [less than 1 per cent], the city's location within the Greater Boston housing and labor markets suggests that this figure ought to be higher.

"Only three of the Authority's 607 low rent public housing units are occupied by minorities. While the absence of minority tenants is not prima facie evidence of non-compliance, the lack of affirmative action...is evidence of non-compliance.

"The tenant selection process prescribed in the tenant selection assignment plan has been departed from frequently. This has undoubtedly had an adverse affect on minority applicants.

"It appears that the Authority has taken no affirmative action to hire and promote minorities, and no significant affirmative action to hire and promote females for professional and management positions on the staff."

Vera reminded O'Brien that, as a recipient of HUD funds, the QHA was required to follow the department's policies governing non-discrimination.

Vera asked that he be advised within 10 days "whether and how the Authority intends to voluntarily comply...and whether you wish to submit for our review and approval the plan and method for compliance."

He requested two plans, one for compliance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 on tenant selection, and the other for compliance with the Equal Employment Opportunity clause in the QHA's Annual Contributions Contract with HUD.

Plans for compliance with Title VI should include:

"A new Equal Opportunity Housing Plan for Section 8 Existing revised to include specific efforts to attract minority applicants, particularly from nearby Boston."

"An explanation of steps that will be taken to assure that the tenant selection process described in the approved tenant selection assignment plan will be followed."

"All new applications for low rent public housing should include identification of the applicant by racial or minority category."

"The Authority should complete the update of the low rent waiting list to verify the chronological order of active applicants."

Plans for compliance with the EEO clause of the Annual Contributions Contract should include:

"Revision of the Authority's Affirmative Action Plan to include goals and timetables for the employment of minorities and females in professional and management positions."

"Training programs for upward mobility and promotional goals for minorities and females."

Housing Authority figures show that it has 46 employees, 35 of them men and 11 of them women.

The highest paid female employee is Administrative Secretary Margaret [Peg] Crombie at $14,157. Salaries of male employees range up to $28,571 for O'Brien, and $26,501 for his assistant, John Cattanéo, and the superintendent of maintenance, James D'Olimpio.

The 26 maintenance personnel are all white males, ranging in pay scale from $13,971 for laborers to $21,264 for a pipefitter.

Vera's Sept. 1 letter gave the Authority 30 days to prepare the two plans, adding:

"If the Authority does not voluntarily comply by adopting and implementing a plan adequate to accomplish the purpose of Title VI and by signing a compliance agreement within 60 calendar days from the receipt of this letter, regulations require that we refer the matter to our headquarters office with a recommendation for administrative sanctions."

At about the same time, the State Department of Community Affairs [DCA] issued a set of new regulations requiring an affirmative action plan for state-subsidized housing by Dec. 29.

The QHA submitted what it called an affirmative action plan for equal employment opportunity, dated September, 1976, but Vera wrote back to O'Brien on Oct. 5, calling the plan "a statement of non-discrimination rather than an AAP for EEO."

Vera listed several steps the Authority should take to meet HUD's requirements, beginning with an analysis of its work force under the categories American Indian, Asian, Black and Hispanic.

"You should then estimate the number of new positions, vacancies and promotional opportunities...and set short term and long term goals for correcting those areas deficient in minorities and females," said Vera. "You should then develop action items to meet these goals."

He enclosed an opinion by the State Attorney General contradicting the claim by Housing Authority Counsel Paul A. M. Hunt that the QHA was required to give preference to Quincy residents when filling vacancies.

"Both federal and state regulations," he said, "provide that if minorities are excluded through methods of administration, then an affirmative marketing plan must be developed and implemented."

Vera offered a draft compliance agreement to help the QHA with its preparations.

The Nov. 1 deadline passed without either an affirmative action plan or a compliance agreement from the QHA.

Vera and Wilson Henderson, HUD's director of compliance, met with O'Brien, Hunt and members of the Authority on Nov. 8 to see what was holding things up.

Vera recommended that the director of Quincy's Community Development Block Grant program also be present since the city also was working on a fair housing plan and an AAP for EEO but he was not there.

At the meeting, the QHA named a committee to work on a draft compliance agreement.

Vera wrote to the Authority again on Nov. 15, recommending some items that should be included in the draft agreement and asked that the completed draft be sent to his office for review before being submitted to the full Authority for approval.

On Dec. 18, Marvin M. Siflinger, head of the Boston area HUD programs, wrote to Robert Embury Jr., assistant secretary for Community Planning and Development, recommending that Quincy be declared "ineligible to apply for Urban Development Action Grant funds at this time" based on its failure to provide equal employment opportunity.

Siflinger said the 1970 census showed 693 minority persons living in Quincy or 7/10 of 1 per cent of the population and that only 1/10 of 1 per cent of city employees were minorities. There were only three, said Siflinger, when there should be 18.

He also noted that the Housing Authority had been found in apparent non-compliance with Title VI in tenant selection procedure and with the Equal Employment Opportunity clause of its contract with HUD.

"Based on the above findings," said Siflinger, "this office has determined that the city of Quincy has not demonstrated results in providing equal opportunity in employment and fair housing for members of minority groups which meet the requirements for participation in the UDAG program at this time."

Vera said there is "every indication that the city, at this stage of the game, would be declared ineligible."

"UDAG is a quarterly thing," he said. "If the city shows progress in citywide hiring, then they could probably pass that test. Right now I would say they haven't done enough, although the final determination is in Washington."

Meanwhile, the Housing Authority prepared an affirmative action plan, dated Dec. 18, and submitted it to the QHA Board for approval without first showing it to Vera as he requested. The proposed plan was tabled by the Board on Dec. 20.

Vera said he did not see the draft plan until the week of Jan. 8, when a member of the Harborview Residents Committee, the public housing tenants' organization, gave him a copy. He said he finally got one from the Authority on Jan. 12.

"There are some glaring deficiencies," he said.

An affirmative action subcommittee of the HRC and representatives of the Senior Residents Council were supposed to have input into the preparation of the plan but apparently they were not contacted in time.

Both groups are reported to be unhappy with some aspects of the plan.

On Jan. 3, Vera wrote a memo to Siflinger, telling him of the problems with the QHA.

"In order to assist the regional office in bringing our negotiations to a conclusion," he said, "I request that the area office notify the authority that it will defer processing of any applications [for funds] until a compliance agreement is executed."

"I also recommend that a letter be sent to the Mayor informing him that the Authority is in a non-compliance status and therefore ineligible for Community Development Block Grant funding."

Vera urged Siflinger to point out to the Mayor that he appoints four of the five members of the QHA's board of commissioners and that the QHA's plans should be coordinated with the city's fair housing and equal opportunity plans.

Vera told The Sun last week: "Part of the problem is the general counsel [Hunt]. He is trying to set policy and he shouldn't. He thinks he knows everything about affirmative action. He doesn't."

"He's causing problems because, of his advice, the Board listens to his advice and instead of asking 'How can we come into compliance?' they're taking a very defensive and foot-dragging attitude."

Vera said he understands that the city's affirmative action plan, dated January, 1978, has not been accepted either.

"What we're trying to get the Mayor to understand is that he appoints the commissioners and that some of his funding is in jeopardy," said Vera. "He should take the lead and get a plan from both [the Authority and the city] that coincides."

QUINCY YMCA Celebrates NATIONAL YMCA WEEK January 21 - 28, 1978 The YMCA . . . OUR BUSINESS IS PEOPLE!

Your Complete Health And Fitness Facility

National YMCA Week will be observed throughout the United States and Canada during the week of January 21 - January 28. This week is set aside to bring public recognition to the Young Men's Christian Association and to pay tribute to its service to Youth and Adults throughout the world. Since its inception in England in 1844, the YMCA is an established movement in 90 countries.

As times have changed, the YMCA has changed too, wisely retaining what was still relevant while adding new programs to meet new needs. One of the major thrusts in recent years is a nationwide National Cardiovascular Health and Fitness Program which expects to be reaching eight million people in 1980.

The Quincy YMCA is dedicated to service the needs of our South Shore Community. Established in 1892, the Quincy YMCA enters its eighty-seventh year of service to South Shore residents.

National YMCA Week is a good opportunity to get to know your YMCA and see what the "Y" can offer you.

You are invited to tour the Facilities and meet the Professional Staff who will be available during the week.

Tobin Running! But Who Else?

Some local politician watchers have been wondering if Mayor Arthur Tobin is really going to seek re-election.

They can stop wondering. He's running. Shortly after Tobin lost the state senate seat to Paul Harold, he said his plans were to seek a second mayoral term.

But since then, observers have been wondering if he really meant it. Would he run or wouldn't he? Even his barber couldn't tell for sure.

Just a few days ago, the Speculation Corps was peddling this one: Tobin was not going to seek re-election. He would complete his term and then prepare a campaign to wrest back the senate seat from Harold in 1980.

Tobin, they noted, would then be taking Harold on without a two-job issue involved.

The way they were telling it, Tobin had left his heart on Beacon Hill.

Well, there's no doubt he enjoyed serving in the Senate but apparently there's something to be said for being mayor, too.

He may someday take Harold on in hopes of regaining the senate seat but this year he's thinking mayor.

The Tobin For Mayor Committee is already in action planning a $100 per ticket fund-raiser Feb. 10 at Anthony's Pier 4, Boston.

Letters going out stress Tobin's accomplishments in his first term and inform receivers that the committee "is turning to you and many other friends and supporters of Arthur to request your help to kickoff his re-election campaign."

Well, Tobin is running for mayor. So is Abe Itkin.

But, who else?

One name that keeps popping up is that of James Sheets, present Ward 4 City Councillor and former state representative who made an unsuccessful bid for the 11th Congressional seat.

Some observers think he will run. There's little doubt he would make a bid if Tobin decided to exit. But will he take on Tobin?

Another name that is still being mentioned fairly frequently is that of Councillor Frank McCauley, who with Harold has been a Tobin critic. Feeling is that if Tobin was not seeking re-election, McCauley would take a shot at the mayor's office. Again the question: but would he take on Tobin?

Then, there's former Mayor Joseph LaRaia who looks like a potential candidate for councillor at-large but could surprise everyone by going for mayor again.

The fact that Joseph Brett was elected by the council to fill the seat vacated by Harold might possibly keep LaRaia from running for that seat this fall. Brett backed LaRaia in the Tobin-LaRaia battle. If Brett wants to run for the seat, LaRaia might not, and go for mayor instead. Possibility anyway.

Rep. Robert Cerasoli might be interested in a mayoral bid—but only if Tobin bows out.

No other names are mentioned at the moment and time is running out for a major challenger to get a campaign underway.

Unless someone does make a move soon it could windup Tobin vs. Itkin.

COUNCILLOR Francis McCauley has completed a course in municipal finance at Bentley College. The course, taught by Arthur MacKinnon, retired comptroller of Massachusetts, covered all phases of city finances.

McCauley's thesis for the course was entitled "An Analysis of Quincy's Financial Problems 1973-1978". [It must have been a long thesis.]

Shipyard's Future Bleak Unless

[EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of two articles on the history of the Fore River Bridge and the possibility of its replacement as 'functionally obsolete' by the federal government.]

By TOM HENSHAW

The present Fore River Bridge, the third to span the gap between Quincy Point and North Weymouth, was on the way to functional obsolescence on the day it opened, May 23, 1936.

The largest ships afloat at the time were the carriers Lexington and Saratoga, whose 106-foot beams fitted easily through the 175-foot width of the open draw span.

Right now, the Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) tankers that are being built at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard for Burmah Oil Tankers Ltd. can just barely squeeze through the opening.

In fact, the LNGs, 143 feet, 6 inches in beam, 936 feet long, 95,000 tons, are specifically designed with the bridge opening in mind.

It's not just a matter of opening the bridge, pointing the ship to sea and pushing it through. There is the complication of the Procter and Gamble dock just downstream of the bridge.

Said a 1975 study of the bridge problem by Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade and Douglas, Inc.:

"Ships of 850 feet or more in length, particularly if they have a beam close to the maximum which can pass through the bridge are faced with a difficult turning maneuver in order to clear the P and G dock."

"The longer the ship the sooner it is necessary to turn to clear the P and G dock. The greater the beam of the ship, the lesser is the degree of feasibility of turning prior to the ship clearing the bridge."

"I can build a 400,000 ton ship," said P. Takis Veliotis, then general manager of the shipyard, in 1973, "but the biggest I can get out of the yard is 150,000 tons."

As early as six years from now, it is possible that the Quincy Shipyard will be unable to bid on some 37 per cent of its potential workload because of the limitations of the bridge.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) in 1977, called 1985 "the year of no return" for the shipyard.

If the shipyard went out of business after 1985, the 1975 study indicated, it would cost the state $27.5 to $33.2 million in tax revenues by the year 2000 with the loss of 11,000 jobs and $500 million in wages.

As early as 1953 the Bethlehem Steel Co., then owner of the shipyard, was calling a new bridge a necessity.

The State Department of Public Works recommended a new bridge in 1960, "enabling all vessels that could be constructed in the foreseeable future to pass up and down the river." Estimated cost: $13.5 million.

Notice that in each bridge study river traffic takes precedence over travel by land on the theory that the water was there long before the bridge. In fact, a bridge attendant can be fined and jailed for refusing to open a bridge.

Then-Gov. John A. Volpe unveiled plans for a new vertical-lift type of bridge in 1966. It would have a draw span of 450 feet. It would cost $17.5 million and be ready for traffic on June 1, 1971.

Unfortunately, the Volpe bridge was tied in with the unpopular Shawmut Trail, a proposed six-lane highway that would wipe out hundreds of homes and businesses between Capen's

As They See It

Government For The Govern

By JAMES F. REYNOLDS, JR.

The time has now come in the evolution of this great nation that free men may openly question the future of liberty, prosperity and domestic tranquility.

We have overwhelmingly in this century conceded the general welfare of our civilization to centralized government. Every manner of problem, discomfort and national inequity has been so ceded.

The question is not whether the intentions of those who populate government are aimed at the public good. Their every utterance would seem to verify this compassion. The question is rather, that in attempting to liquidate the varied plagues of mankind have we erected a federal dinosaur with terminal consequences for American well-being?

The warnings of classical economists appear sound. When the state involves itself in the affairs of man more problems are created than are solved. The larger the degree of government intervention, the greater the problems.

The government is failing. Not the people, not the market, not the institutions and not capitalism, but the statist government bureaucracy. The ominous threats of economic blight, runaway inflation, depression and social upheaval wait in the wings to inevitably conclude the great era of government problem solving. This, because government involvement, judged solely by the record, brings about ever increasing levels of failure. Despite these apparent shortcomings this generation has seemed, more than ever, intent on ignoring the warnings of philosophers of freedom as respects the limitation of government.

Perhaps the most significant monetary manipulation of this century has been the gradual removal of gold and silver from our money. I believe this is contrary to the intent of those who founded our republic. The judgement and record of history have been somber as respects fiat [paper] money. Invariably paper money with no intrinsic support becomes worthless. Without the constraints of gold and silver, the government readily expands the volume of money. What are the results of a chronic and reckless increase in the quantity of dollars?

Record levels of inflation haunt us. Thrift and savings have sharply reduced rewards. Fiscal rot devours the dollar. The world's greatest currency, once as good as gold, multiplies extravagantly and rushes towards a final depository, the waste basket. The government's money is failing.

The government orchestrates the creation of a dependent class. First the state spawns unemployment, then an inflation that obliterates savings and security. A gradually weakened people trade their birthright for assistance. They spurn individualism and self reliance for subsidies, thus destroying initiative, killing incentive and inhibiting self esteem. And now the dole has become a right.

THE GOVERNMENT IS FAILING. JUST AS THOSE IT HELPS MUST FAIL.

The signs of government failure surround us: inflation, recession, inner city decay, public bankruptcy and the government's monumental attempt to buy its way out — massive budget deficits. The bloated government feeds itself with half the earnings from the labor of its millions. Then it borrows and creates fresh funds to cover its further spending excesses. The government squanders and destroys the very capital that built the great American Continent. It places a mortgage on the future.

A failing government is a dangerous government. James Madison described "the old

New Fore River Bridge Is Built

IT HARDLY SEEMS POSSIBLE but the Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) tanker in the foreground has to fit through the Fore River Bridge behind it in order to put out to sea. Bridge's 175-foot drawspan limits the size of ships that can be built at the Fore River Shipyard.

Circle, Braintree, and Quincy Point.

The tie-in with the $33 million Shawmut Trail was necessary to obtain $16.5 million in federal funds for the project since Washington was unwilling to lay out that kind of money for a bridge that simply linked Quincy Point and North Weymouth.

The whole plan went down the tube in the face of local opposition.

Meanwhile, with even the smaller ships growing in size, the Fore River Bridge was getting busier and busier, both in automobiles passing over and ships and boats passing through.

The traffic count in March, 1977, according to the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, was 33,950 cars a day, 17,900 going south and 16,050 traveling north.

The average number of bridge openings in the years 1968-72 was 522, again according to the Chamber of Commerce. In the years 1973-75, it was up to 602 a year.

Charles Peterson of the State DPW's Bridge Maintenance

Department in Taunton places the figure for 1977 at 980. That's the last full year for which a total is available.

The bridge was opened to permit passage of 257 pleasure craft, 495 tow boats, 141 towed barges and 161 tankers. It was opened 87 times for testing purposes.

The average opening, says Peterson, is six minutes although some of the larger tankers can take up to 20 minutes to pass through.

Perhaps more progress was made toward obtaining a fourth Fore River Bridge in the past year than in all the previous years since 1936.

The big problem all along has been the absolute refusal of the federal government to put up the money to replace a perfectly good bridge that does nothing more than connect Quincy Point with North Weymouth.

If the bridge was falling down, well, that would be a different story. The old Works Progress Administration (WPA) of the Depression, for all its faults, simply did too good a job.

Just last year, however, Cong. Burke succeeded in having "functionally obsolete" bridges included in a bill that was originally intended to pay the cost of replacing some 100,000 bridges across the country in danger of collapse.

If any bridge is functionally obsolete it is the third Fore River Bridge.

Right now, the State DPW is in the process of doing an environmental assessment, the first in a long, involved series of steps leading to a new bridge.

It should be finished late this month or early in February, according to Robert Horrigan of the State DPW.

After that there is either a draft negative declaration or an environmental impact statement; then approval by the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering and the Federal Environmental Protective Agency.

Then, sometime in the distant future, the proposed bridge goes into the design stage, with construction hopefully on a timetable that will see it finished by 1985.

The estimated cost: $60 million.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Prime Development Sites Disclosed

City Planning Director James E. Lee, speaking before the City Council's special Committee on Shipbuilding and Industrial Development, cited three locations in Quincy as prime sites for potential industry.

They were land in West Quincy owned by granite manufacturer Peter G. Ruscitto, the former Naval Air Station in Squantum, and land to the rear of the new Patriot Ledger plant in South Quincy.

He also listed six locations for possible high rise apartment development, including:

Clay St. or the Wollaston parking area, Quarry Hill in West Quincy, Morrissey Boulevard and Sea St., land across the street from Central Junior High School, Pine Hill off Willard St. in West Quincy, and the old Squantum Naval Air Station.

YARD PLANS LOWER BIDS

Daniel D. Strohmeier, vice president in charge of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s shipyard division, said changes are being planned at Fore River to increase production and cut costs to meet competition.

Strohmeier's disclosure came in the wake of comments by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall [R-Mass] that "Quincy Fore River Shipyard is pricing its bids too high in the competitive shipbuilding market."

In some cases, said Saltonstall, Fore River's bids on Navy contracts were 50 per cent higher than the lowest bid.

Strohmeier said the Yard was forced to bid high because of the high costs of management, labor, materials and taxes. Workers, he said, received an average of $3.18 an hour compared to $2.76 for other yards.

At the meeting with Strohmeier were Sam Wakeman, general manager; union presidents Ron Orcutt of Local 5, Arthur Fitzgerald of Local 90, and Richard Walsh of Local 151; and Chairman William A. O'Connell of the Shipbuilding Committee.

Government: A Profound Failure

trick of turning every contingency into a resource for accumulating force in the government." With every crisis and failure the government does exactly that, it increases its power.

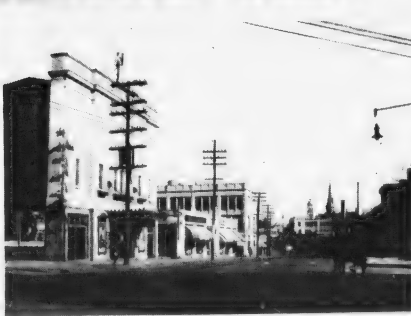

The economic problems of this nation are virtually unsolvable. A solution requires limits on the government; limits the government won't accept. In an economic crisis a desperate government will do desperate things. Once the government has destroyed the economy it may well destroy liberty in an attempt to rescue the economy. This would be the ultimate failure.

Government has become a thing in itself. It is no longer government of the people, by the people, and for the people. It is government for the government. And it is above all a profound failure.

A fireplace can be the focal point of any room and an element of beauty throughout the year. This spring, be sure to include it in your cleaning and redecorating schedule.

Before you start to clean your fireplace or hearth, make sure the damper is open. Then, brush all hearth and interior surfaces with a strong, natural bristle brush and dispose of ashes; do not use a nylon or steel brush which could harm surfaces.

Home energy use and insulation

Our homes consume about 25 percent of all energy used in the United States, or about one and one-half times more than all our cars consume.

More than half of all home energy is expended on heating and cooling.

Insulation prevents heat gain and heat loss several times more efficiently than building materials such as brick, concrete or wood.

Weatherstripping and storm windows are efficient, easily-installed energy savers.

Attic insulation can save an average of 20 percent on winter fuel bills, and even more in the summer, according to industry experts.

Insulated homes have a higher resale value than similar, uninsulated homes, say real estate people.

Some experts put the percentage of under-insulated American homes as high as 80 percent. How do you know if your home is adequately insulated?

Check the following: Is there any insulation between your attic floor joists or rafters?

Measure the thickness of existing insulation throughout your home. If you don't know its "R" value—resistance to heat flow—and it is less than R-13, chances are you need additional insulation.

Attic ventilation to permit air circulation is extremely important. There should be at least one square foot of louver venting for every 150 square feet of attic floor space.

In cold weather, place your hand at several places on an interior wall and compare its temperature to that of an exterior wall. If your home is adequately insulated, the exterior wall will feel only slightly cooler.

Feel for air drafts around cabinets on outside walls and around baseboards.

Check for insulation over unheated crawl spaces, garage or basement.

Plan Home Improvement Carefully

Your present home represents a big investment — perhaps the largest of your lifetime. Safeguard, and at the same time update your property with careful planning of both improvements and ease of maintenance. In this way you protect and extend both the comforts and the economic life of your BIG investment, the home you own.

Properly maintained and improved for better living, your home is likely to increase in value as time goes on, by more than the cost of the improvements. At the very least, its value will be maintained.

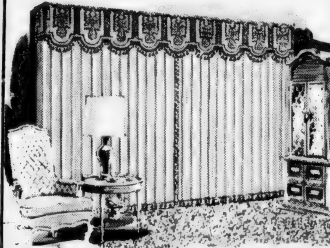

Home improvement projects and materials are "big ticket" items. That's why it's important that you select the finance plan that will fit your budget. You must choose the best plan for your family's particular needs.

There is probably no wiser use of credit than using it for improving your home. But before you do anything...sit down with the entire family and analyze the situation. Do it in light of your future needs.

How to put mirror magic to better use in the home

By LIS KING

Mirrors have a magic all their own. Just watch the fascinating replay of light and shadow, shapes and colors that a single mirror produces, and it's easy to understand why professional interior designers are such mirror fans.

They know all the incredible tricks mirrors can play on a room: how they can stretch space, almost to infinity. And here, are some ideas to put the decorator's brand of magic to work in YOUR home.

• Mirrors are among the least expensive and most effective space-stretching materials. Mirror a wall of a room, and immediately you've doubled its size.

• To widen a narrow room, mirror one of the long walls. Or both!

• Raise the roof with mirrors. Floor-to-ceiling mirror strips will heighten a room visually. Or think about mirroring the ceiling. This effect is fabulous, but remember that you wind up with a duplicate room. So it's an idea best left to perfectionists, who're sure that everything in their room is worth a double image.

• Mirrors are great in today's "natural" interiors. Their sleek finishes provide welcome contrasts to wood, rattan and straw textures.

• Some of today's best-dressed walls wear mirror strips combined with weathered barnwood or clear pine. The mirror strips may run vertically, horizontally, or diagonally. Such treatments are strictly for sophisticated, contemporary rooms.

• Mirrored walls aren't just for contemporary rooms. Since they reflect what's happening in the rest of the room, it stands to reason that they can go traditional and formal as well.

• Crystal sconces look fabulously elegant and cast twice the light when they're mounted on a mirrored wall.

• Hanging a beautifully framed large mirror on a mirrored wall is also a very elegant idea.

• To give a plain-Jane room architectural interest, add mirror panels framed by molding. This was a treatment common in 17th and 18th century France.

• An accent mirror looks wonderful in a group of paintings and prints.

• Don't limit framed mirrors to their usual roles above the fireplace mantel or the front hall console. They belong in any place where there's something worth reflecting.

• Replace the trite medicine cabinet with a really beautiful mirror.

• A collection of mirrors in varying sizes and shapes is as effective as a series of prize paintings.

Paint Removing Tips

For fresh paint stains, apply a commercial paint remover or a solution of trisodium phosphate in water — two pounds of trisodium phosphate to one gallon of water. Allow to stand and remove paint with a scraper and wire brush. Rinse with clear water. For very old dried paint stains, organic solvents similar to the above may not be effective, in which case the paint must be removed by sandblasting or scrubbing with steel wool. You could paint over the spots with a masonry paint, but for matching color it would involve painting the whole surface and it would cause another problem. In time the paint would wear off, involving another repaint job.

Morrissey Vice-Chairman Urban Affairs Committee

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has been appointed vice chairman of the House Committee on Urban Affairs by Speaker Thomas W. McGehee.

He was also appointed to the Committee on Education.

Morrissey said he is extremely happy with both appointments since the two committees deal with legislation important to his district and his constituents.

"The MDC falls under the jurisdiction of the Urban Affairs Committee," Morrissey said, "and I will be able to stay in close contact with their officials when legislation and problems in the district arise."

The Committee on Urban Affairs also deals with elderly and handicap housing legislation.

Morrissey said he is also happy with the Education Committee choice since he himself is an educator.

"I have always been interested in the growth of education in the Commonwealth," he said, "especially on the university and college level. This assignment will give me a chance to keep an even closer eye on the progress and cost of education in the state."

Article 10

by Gloria

This article I will discuss an entirely different type of finish for ceramic pieces that are called ceramic non-fired stains. All stains are applied to fired pieces [bisque] and they do not need to be refired. In fact, if you should by mistake fire them, they would fire off. So if you should forget sometime and apply them to greenware, do not call the piece a disaster, merely fire the piece to remove the stain. There are many types of stains, but basically, the two most common kinds are: water thinable stains and mineral spirit base stains. Water thinable stains are opaque or translucent. The most popular being the opaques. They come in a wide range of attractive colors and are either latex or acrylic. There are three things to remember about them. First, they are permanent and therefore can soil your clothing if spilled on them; second, they can ruin brushes, so don't use high quality fibers and wash them out of brushes immediately; third, they should be brushed out to give a smooth appearance. They do not always need sealing, however a spray or seal helps protect the piece from dirt and wear. Stains are not recommended for dinnerware objects, ashtrays or articles requiring constant washing. Consequently, they are most appropriate for figurines, clocks, lamps, and wall plaques. The next article, I will discuss the mineral-spirit stains.

TIPS AND HINTS:
Stained pieces can be washed with cool water and a mild detergent. They also can be used on outside ornamental objects but the piece should be glazed inside. And, the piece should be protected with many coats of a spray or a sealer.

Curtain Call Theatre In Rehearsal For 'Angel St.'

Curtain Call Theatre of Braintree announces its winter production "Angel Street" will be presented Feb. 16-17 at 8 p.m. at Braintree Central Junior High School, Washington St., Braintree.

The Victorian thriller familiar to many audiences as "Gas Light", tells the demonic story of the Mannings of Angel Street. Set in the Pimlico district of late 19th century London, the plot revolves around the handsomely menacing Mr. Manning, who, under the guise of kindness, is slowly torturing his wife to insanity. It is only with the help of a benign police inspector that Mrs.

Manningham unravels the mystery of Angel Street and the diabolical scheme of her spouse.

Directed by Melissa Curtis of Boston the cast includes George Stevens of Braintree as Mr. Manningham, Karen Kennedy of Hull as Mrs. Manningham, and Glenn Spencer of Holbrook as Inspector Rough. Also featured are Edythe Burke of Braintree as Elizabeth and Martha Gaffey of Cohasset as Nancy.

This suspenseful and thrilling melodrama is sure to provide an evening of entertainment and drama. For ticket information concerning Curtain Call's production of "Angel Street" call 331-1505.

Tourist Council Approves Quincy Historical Brochure

James J. Collins, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners, announces approval by the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council of brochure projects for Quincy and Randolph. The $1,000 Quincy project is for the layout and printing of 10,000 to 15,000 historical brochures citing the historical and cultural attractions that the City has to offer and includes a tourguide map for the convenience of visitors.

The $3,000 Town of Randolph project is for the layout and printing of an Industrial advertising brochure for the Randolph Business and Industrial Commission.

Both projects receive financial aid of 50 percent of the total project cost from Norfolk County under a six-year old program that has enabled the 28 county communities to take advantage of promoting their industrial development, historical and cultural attractions, according to Collins.

Disco Lessons At YMCA

Disco dance lessons for boys and girls 10 years of age and up are being held Mondays, 3:30 - 4:30 p.m., at the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., through

'We Run Whenever We Can'

First Ladies Turn On Speed To Down Raiderettes, 53-35

The Quincy girls' basketball team used its fast break and rebounding ability to good advantage in defeating North Quincy, 53-35, Friday.

The First Ladies took a 4-4 Suburban League record and 6-5 overall mark into Tuesday's game at Weymouth South. Quincy will host Brookline Friday at 3 at the old Quincy High gym and will have a day off Tuesday.

Meanwhile, North, with only a 1-6 record, played Brookline Tuesday, will play at Brockton Friday night at 8 and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at 3.

"We look to run whenever we can," said Quincy coach Barbara Webster, whose team's running game, good passing and strong rebounding, put the game out of reach early.

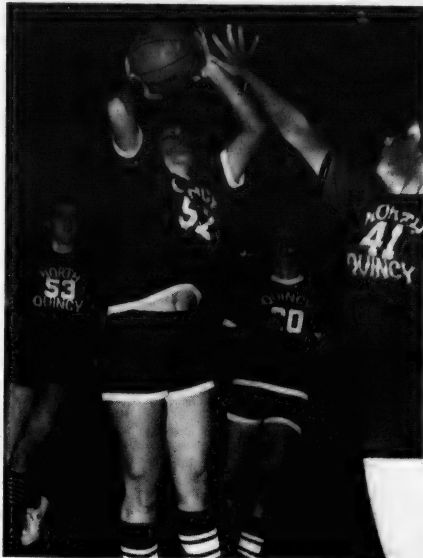

The First Ladies led, 16-11, after a period, 30-17, at the half and 43-22, after three periods.

"The lack of outside shooting really killed us," North coach Brian Tilley said. "We used a special fast-break defense, but it broke down. We are very inexperienced and we are not all that fast."

Sophomore Maureen Walsh led Quincy with 15 points, while Patti Bellotti scored 11 for North. Laurie Riley had nine and Sue Callahan six for Quincy and sophomore Julie Watts had seven and Jackie Thayer eight for the Raiderettes.

"We played well in the second half but we still are inconsistent," Miss Webster said.

Earlier in the week Quincy dropped a 52-43 decision to Weymouth North after leading at the half and after three periods. Callahan had 16 points and Anne McCarron 11 for the First Ladies.

North won its first game of the year, 42-39, over Waltham as Bellotti scored 16 points to help bring the Raiderettes from behind. Patti Micelli had 15 points. North was behind with only two minutes left in the game.

Broad Meadows Wins 4th Straight Wrestling Title

The Broad Meadows junior high wrestling team last week completed its fourth successive undefeated season and won its fourth straight city championship.

BM, under first-year coach John Perkins, defeated Central, 29-24, in its final meet despite the absence of four injured starters.

Co-Captains Mike Nevens and Charlie McManus sparked the win and won by pins, as did Mike Notarangelo and Bill Rollins. Four Jayvees were promoted to fill in for the injured starters.

Broad Meadows previously had won three straight titles with unbeaten records under Coach John Bogan, who resigned, and Perkins, who had been coach of the junior high hockey team which no longer is in operation, took over.

Elks Free Throw Contest Winners

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks recently held a free throw contest in which more than 700 boys and girls took part.

Jim Rendle, youth director of the Quincy Elks, presented trophies to the following winners: Girls 8 and 9, Christine McSweeney, 67 Hollis Avenue; boys 8 and 9, Chris Higgins, 15 Dahlgren Street.

Girls 10 and 11, Donna Hassey,

140 Connell Street; boys 10 and 11, Dennis Cronin, 33 Bromfield Street.

Girls 12 and 13, Patricia Travers, 18 Whiton Avenue; boys 12 and 13, Jeff Timberlake, 47 Pleasant Street.

Beechwood, Quincy Bombardment Champs

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announced the winners of the recently held boys and girls elementary bombardment tournament.

In the girls, division Beechwood Knoll coached by Georgia McLellan and Lisa McBirney swept four straight games to defeat Snug Harbor coached by Kathy Mahoney. Beechwood was led by Kathy McGregor, Laura Kelliher, Kathy Todd and Mary Ann Kelliher. Snug Harbor was paced by Kathy Pratt, Laurie Anson and Lisa Kay.

In the boys championship game Quincy School coached by Kyle Henshall outscored a scrappy Snug Harbor team piloted by Mike Soldano 4-3 to clinch the city title.

Quincy which won the last two games in the best of seven was led by the outstanding play of Jim Martin, Keith Burke, and Paul Donahue. Snug Harbor was led by the play of Scott Verrier, Matt Hanley, and Ronnie Dean.

Recreation Director Charles Alongi presented individual trophies and certificates to the winners and runners-up.

Clash Saturday Here

North Out To Avenge Quincy Defeat

By TOM SULLIVAN

Five straight wins for a North Quincy hockey team?

One must go back at least 15 years to find the last Raider team with such a win streak.

North, under first-year coach Kevin Lewis, reached this milestone Saturday when it rallied from a 3-0 deficit to defeat Brockton, 7-3, at Brockton, to improve its Suburban League record to 5-3-1 and its overall mark to 6-5-1.

North moved into a third place tie with Quincy in the league, two points behind co-leaders Weymouth North and Weymouth South.

However, an unfortunate incident in the Brockton game may have thrown a monkey wrench into the Raiders' hopes of making it six in a row last night [Wednesday] against Weymouth South.

Five players from each team, including North's five top performers, were ejected from the game, all being suspended from last night's games.

"I'm just sick over this," Lewis said. "The officials over-reacted and I don't think the boys should have been thrown out. No punches were thrown."

"Our kids were just trying to protect our goalie and I think the officials were too quick to throw them out. It is going to be awfully hard to play the league co-leaders with our five top players out of the lineup. But, the other boys told me they would go all-out and try to make up for their loss and we still could surprise."

The Raiders will play Quincy for the second time Saturday at 6:40 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena and hope to avenge an earlier 5-3 defeat after North had taken a 2-0 lead.

Asked for the major reason for North's turnaround after several losing seasons, Lewis said, "I have tried to get the kids to think positive and I think they are now doing just this."

They lacked confidence at the start but now they know they can win and I feel we are as good as any team in the league.

"I also stress offense, while my predecessor stressed defense. As a result, we are the highest scoring team in the league [42 goals, out of 171 goals], we have the league's top scorer in Paul Cooney [nine goals, 11 assists, 20 points] and three boys among the league's top ten [Pat Ennis, 3-12-15 and the league's top goal scorer, Tom Gerry [11-2-13]. They make up our first line, the top scoring line in the league."

Lewis credits this first line and the work of goalie Bob Tierney for North's fine showing, and also gives the defense a lot of credit.

"Tierney has been brilliant," Lewis said. "He has made some remarkable saves. After giving up three first period goals at Brockton, he stopped all shots after that and turned 30 aside."

"Early in the year we were taking early leads but losing them. Now we are showing our ability to fight from behind and this adds to our confidence. We trailed Brookline, 2-0, but came back to win, then trailed Brockton, 3-0."

Gerry had the hat trick at Brockton, while Cooney, Ennis, Paul O'Sullivan and Dave Parsons had one goal each. Cooney also had two assists as did Ennis, Leo Graham, Eddie Marrella, Brian McGilvray and Paul McDermott had one apiece.

Earlier last week North had upset Waltham, 4-2. Gerry had two goals and Graham and Cooney one apiece. McGilvray, Cooney, Marrella, Leo Doyle, who has been outstanding all year, and Ennis had assists.

Lewis, who played at Quincy High under Quincy's veteran coach, Bob Sylvia, had words of praise for his assistant coach, Kevin Jago, a former Raider standout himself.

"Kevin is doing a tremendous job for us," Lewis lauded.

Presidents Outskate Brookline, 5-3

Quincy's hockey team, which was having its ups and downs, appears to have turned its season around and the Presidents are tied for third place in the Suburban League with a 5-2-1 record following last week's 5-3 win over Brookline.

Quincy and North Quincy are tied for third two points behind the co-leaders, Weymouth North and Weymouth South.

The Presidents will seek their second win over North Quincy Saturday at 6:40 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena and next Wednesday will host Weymouth North at the same time and place. Last night (Wednesday) they played at Newton North.

"I think our big win over previously unbeaten Weymouth South turned our season around," Sylvia said. "We gained a lot of confidence with that win and it showed against Brookline."

Bill Flynn and Scott Richardson scored two goals apiece for Quincy and Bob Brennan scored the other. Brookline took an early lead but Flynn and Richardson scored to give Quincy a 2-1 lead after one period. Flynn made it 3-1 in the second but Brookline scored later in the period. Brennan scored what proved to be the winner and Richardson added an insurance goal in the final period.

Robbie Craig, the number two scorer in the Suburban League (seven goals, 10 assists, 17 points) had three assists, Tommy Brennan had two and Pat Clifford and Mike Furey one each.

Richardson is ninth in league scoring with seven goals and six assists for 13 points.

Fontbonne Girls Basketball Team Has 'Quincy Look'

Quincy is well-represented on the Fontbonne Academy basketball team, which will be home to Notre Dame Academy Monday and will play Mount St. Joseph Academy in Brighton next Wednesday.

Both games are at 3:30 p.m. Coach Loretta Montani, who was an outstanding athlete at Fontbonne and is now a sophomore at Boston State, has several veterans on the varsity squad including Co-Captain Mary Shea of Quincy, Kathy Connolly of Quincy, Monica Higgins of Wollaston, Sheila Connolly of Quincy and Joanne McBride of Quincy.

Junior Varsity Coach Susan Blanchard's squad includes Kathy Nee of Squantum and Kathy Tierney of Wollaston.

Fontbonne, a member of the Catholic Suburban League, has a tough schedule including Abp. Williams, the league champion for the past three years.

Mite A's Defeat Brockton, 4-3

Quincy's Mite A team defeated second place Brockton, 4-3, to increase its South Shore Conference lead to 10 points over Brockton. Quincy is 12-0-0 in conference play.

Quincy trailed throughout most of the game but scored two late goals to win.

Billy Connolly had two goals and Chuckie Hughes and Jay Rodriguez one each. Kevin Roach had an assist and Tommy Roberts stood out on defense.

Presidents Do It Their Way To Defeat North, 51-41

Quincy's basketball team took a 5-3 Suburban League record and a 7-4 overall mark into Tuesday's game with Weymouth South. The Presidents will play at Brookline Friday night at 8 p.m. and will have an off day next Tuesday.

North Quincy, with a 3-6 record, played at Brookline Tuesday, will host Brockton Friday night at the Vo-Tech gym and will be home to undefeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, also at Vo-Tech. Both games will start at 8.

Joe Amoroso's Quincy team pulled away after a nip and tuck first period to defeat Eddie Miller's North quintet, 51-41, last Friday at the Presidents, cutting down their turnovers considerably, played slowly and deliberately.

"We've been involved in a lot of fast games recently and we've been turning the ball over," Amoroso said. "It was good that we were able to take it easy. We cut our turnovers from 38 in the last game to just 12 tonight. We played good defense and I was pleased with the way the game plan went."

Quincy had only a 10-8 first period lead after North had taken an early 6-3 lead. The Presidents pulled away, 22-13, at the half, and took a 38-22, going into the final period, North's best. The Raiders, paced by sophomore Mark Millane, outscored Quincy, 19-13, in the finale.

North used a zone defense in the first half but came out in a man-to-man after the intermission. However, it failed to slow down the Presidents in the third period.

"I was just trying to change the tempo of the game," Miller said. "Our overall speed is quick and we wanted to pick up but we ended up fouling and they made the foul shots."

Sophomore Steve Priscella was the only Quincy player in double figures with 13 points, but Brian Donovan, Brian Connerty, John Connolly and Ritch Finnegan came up with some big points.

For North Millane had 17 points, Kevin Cobban had nine and Jim Holleran eight. "Millane is a super sophomore and he did a great job for us," Miller said.

"We had a lot more shots than they did but we just couldn't out the ball in the hoop."

Earlier in the week Quincy had lost to Weymouth North, 46-40, as Donovan, the top scorer in the Suburban League, was held scoreless by Weymouth's Mike Roche, who had 14 points himself. Connerty, another consistent scorer, was held to one point.

Andy Carrera and Priscella had 10 points each and Finnegan had six.

North had one of its biggest scoring nights but bowed to Waltham, 80-76, despite a 38-point outburst by Holleran. Millane had another big night with 20 points and took down 12 rebounds, and Cobban added 10 points.

Tiant, Gamere Guests At Sons Of Italy Sports Night

Former Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant, now with the New York Yankees, will be a guest of the Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge at a sports night Monday at 7:30 at the Social Center, 120 Quarry Street.

Another guest will be Bob Gamere, Channel 7 sportscaster. Tiant will present the Sons of Italy Babe Ruth Team's Most Valuable Player award to Danny Boyle. The 1978 Red Sox highlight film will be shown and Fasano's will serve an Italian meal.

Members and their friends and sons are invited. No tickets will be sold at the door. They can be purchased by calling 773-1295.

Sterling Rolls To 9th Straight, 24-18

The Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team continued to roll merrily last week as it defeated Broad Meadows, 24-18, to improve its record to 9-0.

Eileen Morrison sparked Sterling with eight points, followed by Kathy Duggan and Nancy MacDonald with six each. For BM, Janet Whitham was tops with 10 points and also was outstanding on defense.

Broad Meadows Junior Varsity won, 26-12, sparked by Eileen Deady's 14 points.

Sterling earlier had defeated Point, 26-11, jumping off to a 15-4 halftime lead. MacDonald and Morrison had six points apiece and Janice Burke, Maureen Flaherty and Diane Coska sparked defensively. Mary Travers, Kathy Curtin and Kathy Brown stood out for Point.

The Point junior varsity remained undefeated, defeating Sterling, 17-13. Point trailed, 10-3, at the half and 10-5 after the third period. Tricia Travers was eight for eight from the four line to pace Point. Susan Dacey played a fine two-way game and Dara Morris also played well both ways.

Central defeated Point, 37-13. Karen Walsh, Linda Thornhill and Cindy Cameron stood out for the young and inexperienced Point team.

The Point javees kept rolling with 24-16 win over Central, as Tricia Travers scored 13 points and Dacey had six. Heather Slicis and Morris also played well. Mary Greene led Central with four points.

Point defeated Atlantic, 28-22.

Broad Meadows Defeats Sterling

Broad Meadows Junior High boys' basketball team opened its season last week with a 35-25 win over Sterling, with Jeff Morrison scoring 17 points and Steven Spencer adding 10. The BM defense was outstanding.

Sterling's junior varsity won, 26-16, despite a fine defensive performance by BM's Mike Williams.

sparked by Mary Travers' 20 points. Walsh, Cindy Cameron, Thornhill and Curtin also stood out.

The Point junior varsity won again, 18-11, to run its record to 9-0, with Dacey and Tricia Travers combining for 14 points and Slicis, Morris and Mary Jusseume playing well.

Broad Meadows defeated Central, 23-16, leading all the way thanks primarily to the scoring and rebounding of Mary Kamb.

The BM javees trailed all the way but came from behind to win an 18-17 squeaker. Mary Ann Agres and Jean Rudolph led the attack.

North, Quincy Swim Teams Meet Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy swim teams will clash Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School pool with the Raiders hoping to attempt to keep their record against the Presidents clean.

Since the sport was started at the two schools, North's boys and girls teams have never lost to Quincy.

Bill Walker's Raiders evened their record at 4-4 last week with an easy 117-44 win over Blue Hills Regional as Bill Boudreau sparked the win with a double victory.

Boudreau won the 200 individual medley and the 100 breaststroke as North swept four events, including the 200 freestyle with Bill Feeney, Tim Burke and Paul Melanson finishing in that order.

Scott Anderson won the one-meter diving, followed by Kevin Meaders and Paul Chamberlain. Rich Farmer won the 100 freestyle, followed by Steve Pike and Dave Riley.

Melanson won the 500 freestyle, with Burke second and Sean O'Brien third. John Conley won the 100 butterfly and John Nolan took the 100 backstroke.

The North team of Bob Conley, Bob Pimental, Feeney and John Conley won the 400-freestyle relay, while Nolan, Mike Edwards, John Conley and Dennis Foley took the 200 medley relay.

Golden's 4 Goals Sparks Al's Over Darcy's

Rick Golden's four goals sparked Al's Cafe to a 6-5 win over Darcy's Pub in the Executive Hockey League.

Harry Crispo and Ralph Gibbs scored the other goals for Al's. Gibbs had four assists, Steve Dymont two and Ned Burke and Lee Staskawicz one each. Kevin Glynn had two goals for Darcy's and Jack Hurley, Alan Gullickson and Bill Monahan had one each. Bob Donovan, Monahan, Dennis O'Connell, Bill York and Gullickson had assists.

Sundowner's Cafe defeated The Hofbrau, 3-1, on goals by Peter Bertrand, Bob Carroll and Ted Ahola. Joe Byan, Tom Malchow and Ken Marini had assists. Joe Verlicco scored unassisted for Hofbrau.

Washington Tap edged Sportlight Tavern, 4-3, with Jack Crowley scoring twice and John Emmott and Marty Tolson. Emmott had three assists, Ed Grogan two and Jack Powers and Tolson one each. Don Costa scored all three Sportlight goals with Ed Dwyer having two assists and Ralph Freeman, Ken Gardiner and Rich Gibbs one each.

Park-Recreation Board Honors Retirees, Former Members

The Quincy Park - Recreation Board conducted a reception and open house for retirees and former members of the board Monday prior to its regular meeting at the municipal Park and Recreation Complex at 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park.

Approximately 50 persons were present including employees of the Park, Recreation, Forestry and Conservation Departments as Mayor Arthur H. Tobin presented a citation to William Spargo of the Park Department who recently retired with 45 years service to the city.

Spargo was first employed by the City in 1933 and retired in 1978. George Page, general foreman of the Park Department, presented a jacket to Spargo as a personal gift from fellow employees.

Unable to be present, due to hospitalization, but also honored was Roger Bonomi, general foreman of the Forestry Department, who recently retired after completing 30 years of service with the City of Quincy from 1948 to 1978.

Joseph N. Gildea and George A. McCall, former Park and Recreation board members, were presented Certificates of Appreciation from Park and Recreation Board Chairman Joseph E. Burke.

The remaining three former board members including Joseph F. Brophy, Francis Anselmo and James Gillespie were unable to be present but were also recognized for their dedicated service as members of the Park and Recreation Board.

Richard J. Koch, Park Director and master of ceremonies for the festivities, introduced those board members, past and present, who served on the 1962 merged Park and Recreation Board. They included Charles T. Sweeney, Kenneth Fallon, Miss Katherine G. McCoy, Gerard A. Coletta Jr., and Richard M. Morrissey.

The other two members of the original 1962 board included the late J. Ernest Collins and William J. Mitchell, who is ill.

The board members, at Monday's reception, represented over 100 years of unpaid service to the City of Quincy in Park and Recreation Boards and Commissions.

PeeWee A's Edge Brockton, 2-1

The Quincy Elks Pee Wee A team edged Brockton, 2-1, with John Palmer and Jim Clary starring in goal. Bill Glavin and Tim Barry scored the goals with Chris Hurley having two assists and Steve White and Bobby McCabe one each.

In non-league play the Pee Wee A's were nipped by Billerica, 2-1, with Scott Messina having the goal and Keith Smith an assist.

The team also bowed to Walpole, 4-2, with Danny Kelly and Mark Busch scoring the goals and Messina, Bill Hughes and Sean Aruda having assists.

Bantam A's Win, Lose

The Sons of Italy Bantam A team lost to Brockton, 5-3, with Mark Sayers, Mike McNeice and Tommy Lester scoring for Quincy.

Bobby Ready, Kevin Craig and Paul Bamberg had assists.

In a qualifying game for the state tournament the Bantam A's defeated Braintree, 6-3, with McNeice scoring twice and Sayers, Rich Stevens, Frank Reynolds and Kevin Duff once each. Tom O'Connor, Ready, Craig, Lester, Sayers, Bob Lynch, Duff, McNeice and John O'Connell had assists.

More Floor Display Space

Siesta Sleep Shop Opens New West Bridgewater Location

After 10 years of very successful business, Siesta Sleep Shop has moved its West Bridgewater location to Center Shopping Plaza, Rtes. 106 and 28.

Steve Cronin, Siesta's West Bridgewater store manager, said: "Our previous store was one of the busiest locations the company has, with the most loyal clientele, but, unfortunately, we had high expenses and many problems with the old building. This new location will reduce our expenses and allow us low discount prices."

The new store will offer an added product selection because it has more floor display space.

"Many items will be available right at the store for customers to take with them," Cronin said. "Most people who buy things today don't want to wait six, four or even two weeks until they can use it, and with most items we carry, customers rarely have to wait more than a week - even if they want us to deliver it to their home."

Siesta offers the best in bedding manufacturers - Sealy Posturepedic, Serta Perfect Sleeper and the Bassett line of pincore foam hypoallergenic mattresses. Siesta also has the Boppedic Aqua Firm line of waterbeds.

The new location in West Bridgewater will have on display the "Electric Bed" with hundreds of different positions for your head and feet to adjust.

A selection of beds and frames are also available at Siesta.

"We're specialists in our business," Cronin said, "and we literally know our products inside out."

Every member of Siesta Sleep Shops sales staff has undergone a thorough training program, including visits to the major manufacturing plants like Sealy and Serta, he noted.

Siesta Sleep Shops are at 10 locations including 221 Parkingway, Quincy.

He is owner-administrator of a Roxbury nursing home.

Hancock Group Reports Net Income Up

Hancock Group, holding company for Hancock Bank, reports net income for the year ended Dec. 31 of $977,609 or $3.49 per share compared with a net loss of $327,030 or $1.17 for 1977.

President William E. Kelley said net income for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1978 was $339,974 or $1.21 per share. This compares with net income of $155,641 or 56 cents per share for the same period last year.

Final quarter income before security gains was $337,394 or $1.20 per share compared to the final quarter of 1977 of $159,309 or 57 cents per share.

Kelley reported income before security gains for the year ended Dec. 31, 1978 as $974,587 or $3.48 per share compared to the year ended Dec. 31, 1977 when a loss of $352,611 or $1.26 per share after security actions was realized.

Total deposits rose to $114,628,626 as of Dec. 31, 1978 compared to $100,781,897 the same date a year ago. Total assets reached $134,633,179 compared to $115,742,726 as of December 31, 1977, Kelley said.

Hancock Bank, headquartered in Quincy, operates 16 banking offices throughout Norfolk County from South Weymouth to Plainville.

Atty. Bryan Stevens Admitted To Practice Before Supreme Court

Bryan J. Stevens, of Barron & Stevens law offices, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., has been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States as of Jan. 8, 1979.

Board Continues Request

'Biggest Tax Delinquent' Seeks Permission To Store Cars

When is a junk yard not a junk yard?

That is the question the Quincy Licensing Board handed to City Solicitor Robert Fleming Tuesday at a continued hearing on the request of Joseph Bates, trustee of Bates Realty Trust, for permission to store cars on South Commons, off Hazeltine Dr., South Quincy.

"I am the biggest tax delinquent in the city of Quincy and I don't enjoy it," Bates told the board. He said he wanted to make money from the land so he could pay his taxes.

The applicant told the board he wanted to keep cars in an enclosed area for insurance companies, store vehicles for towing companies which may remove them from the city's streets during snow storms and also store new cars for dealers.

Fleming said he would have to look into city ordinances and other laws, but that on the face of it, wrecked cars are junk.

Bates said the cars would only be held until such time as insurance adjusters examined them. They would then be sent to auto body shops to be repaired for resale.

On the snow storm towing Fleming said all contracts were out on bid and Bates name was not among them. The petitioner countered by saying he would be a sub-contractor.

The matter was continued for two weeks to await an opinion from the city solicitor.

In other action the board:

• Approved the request of the American Legion, 2 Mechanic St. to name James W. Hartford as manager to replace the late Paul Christianson. The request was granted pending a police check.

• Approved a one day all alcoholic license for a dance to be held by the Rock Island Cove Improvement Association at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Friday evening, 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Police To Be Trained In Domestic Violence

• Intensive county wide research in the area of domestic violence.

Quincy Police Officer Barbara DiNatale praised the efforts of Tobin and Delahunt in developing a 24-hour hotline for family violence and a shelter for its victims.

"The only shelter for battered victims in Norfolk County is in Quincy," she said. "It officially opened on Labor Day, 1978, and so far we have serviced 40 families from the Quincy area."

Mrs. Santiago said the program will also include a unique "tracking program" which will provide information about the families that can be used for statistical evaluation.

"We will be able to follow up families very carefully and collect information about them that until now has not been available," she said.

"Some interest has been expressed statewide, if it works."

New Complaints Stalled

Court Hearing On Germantown Dogs Ban Continued To Feb. 7

A hearing on a Norfolk Superior Court restraining order preventing the Quincy Health Department from enforcing a ban on pets in Germantown, scheduled for Tuesday, was continued to Feb. 7, to permit both sides to collect affidavits.

The order, issued by the court Jan. 17, prevents the city health department from seeking any more court complaints against dog owners in the area.

Since the first of the year 16 dog owners have been brought to Quincy District Court where the clerk issued complaints requiring them to appear before a judge at a later date.

Leonard Purpura, the health department's code enforcement officer, conceded that the department's campaign to rid the area of free running dogs will have to be halted until the court acts.

"There is a possibility we will have to rewrite the emergency order," he said.

The order was issued Nov. 3, to become effective Jan. 1, at which time all unleashed dogs were to be picked up. The court order does not prevent the dog officer from continuing to bring in unlicensed and unleashed dogs in the area, or any other area in the city.

In Best Interests Of City?

More Meetings Planned On Braintree Dam Sale

Quincy and Braintree are preparing to settle down to some hard bargaining on the future of Braintree Dam, also known as the old Quincy Reservoir.

The body of water, which used to be Quincy's water supply, is owned by the city of Quincy but is located in Braintree, adjacent to the South Shore Plaza.

Its sole use now is as a source of industrial water for the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard, for which Quincy receives just about as much money as it pays Braintree in taxes.

The City Council's Land Conveyance Committee last week listened to arguments on both sides of the proposal to transfer the Dam to Braintree which says it wants to spruce up and use the area for recreation.

The trouble is, members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association see such a transfer as the first step in enlarging South Shore Plaza, downtown Quincy's chief competitor.

And tied in with the transfer proposal on the Land Conveyance Committee's agenda is a request by SCIT, Inc., owners of the Plaza, for an easement in order to run a new road to the Plaza.

"Here we have two communities with different concerns," said Councilor Daniel G. Raymond, chairman of the committee. "If both communities give and take a little bit then maybe we can resolve everybody's problems."

He said he plans to get together next week with the mayor, Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, Water Supt. Owen Eaton and City Solicitor Robert Fleming to work out the city's position.

"We want to see if it is in the best interests of the city to transfer the property and what conditions must be placed in the paperwork," he said. "There'll be a lot of work between now and the next committee meeting."

Braintree Selectmen Donald J. Laing and Carl R. Johnson, at last week's meeting, assured committee members that Quincy would retain certain rights to the Dam after transfer, including sale of water to General Dynamics.

Harold To Speak At Lions Club

State Senator Paul D. Harold, D-Quincy, will discuss the forecast for the 1979 legislature at a meeting of the Quincy Lions Club Jan. 30, at noon at Duttons Restaurant.

Harold will present an overview of major legislation filed for the coming year and discuss some of the impacts on Quincy and the South Shore.

There aren't very many gems that do not have some kind of flaw or another. As a matter of fact, with some types of jewels, emeralds, for instance, totally unflawed stones are virtually nonexistent. A flaw is defined as anything that detracts or interferes, in a transparent crystal structured stone, with the light, color, or transparency. Flaws are described as feathers, clouds, spots, streaks, silk, or fractures. Watch for the flaws in stones you are interested in buying, but don't always expect perfection from nature. Trust your jeweler to properly advise you.

We at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 are always happy to give you advice on stones you are interested in buying. QHA Counsel Says HUD Compliance Would Violate Bakke Decision

By TOM HENSHAW

Paul A. M. Hunt, general counsel for the Quincy Housing Authority, says he has advised the Commissioners that to sign a compliance agreement demanded by HUD would be a violation of the reverse-discrimination Bakke decision of the U.S. Supreme Court.

"That decision," he told The Quincy Sun, "prohibits, except in exceptional and particular circumstances, quotas or goals, of whatever name, to be used for racial preference."

The compliance agreement, which the Commissioners have refused to sign, requires that the QHA keep separate lists of minority and non-minority elderly applicants for housing and choose minority applicants at a ratio of three to one until units reach 5 per cent minority occupancy.

It is, said Hunt, "in direct conflict and violation of the spirit and intent of the decision set forth in Regents of the University of California vs. Allen Bakke, decided by the Supreme Court of the United States June 28, 1978."

Hunt quoted the court as saying: "We have never approved a classification that aids persons perceived as members of relatively victimized groups at the expense of other innocent individuals in the absence of judicial, legislative, or administrative findings of constitutional or statutory violations."

"The Quincy Housing Authority," Hunt added, "has never been found guilty of constitutional or statutory violations constituting discrimination based on race, creed, color or sex."

Last Sept. 1, Joseph S. Vera, director of HUD's Regional Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity, notified the QHA that his office had conducted a compliance review and that several deficiencies in hiring and tenant selection had been found.

He gave the QHA 30 days in which to prepare two affirmative action plans, one for compliance with tenant selection guidelines and the other for compliance with equal employment opportunity laws. A plan was not sent to HUD until the third week in January.

Meanwhile, Vera had recommended that HUD "defer processing of any applications [for funds] until a compliance agreement is executed."

Hunt said Monday that HUD has not yet acknowledged receipt of the plan, adding that "it should be an acceptable plan because it is, I have been assured, in substance almost a direct copy of the accepted Cambridge affirmative action

Tobin Sees 'Clear Sailing' On Vital UDAG Application

Application for a $4,534,000 Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) was in the hands of HUD's Regional Office in Boston today and Mayor Tobin expressed optimism that it would now have clear sailing.

The City Council authorized the application at a special meeting Friday night; the Mayor signed it on Monday; and it was hand-carried to Boston on Tuesday, 24 hours before the deadline for filing.

Tobin met last week with HUD officials Edward Martin, Marvin Siflinger and Robert Upshur and apparently ironed out the problems that the city was having with an affirmative action plan demanded by HUD.

"We documented everything we've been doing in the past year to show good faith and meet all federal requirements," said Tobin. "They were satisfied that we have been acting in good faith.

"They said they didn't feel that the problems of the Housing Authority should be held against me because the Housing Authority is not under my jurisdiction."

The Quincy Housing Authority faces the loss of federal funds for lack of an acceptable affirmative action plan covering tenant selection and the hiring of minority employees.

Papile's Successor To Be Named In 2 Weeks

Mayor Tobin says he plans to name a successor to Assessor James P. Papile in a couple of weeks.

Papile's three year term on the Board of Assessors expires next Monday, Feb. 5, and Tobin notified him three weeks ago that he would not be reappointed.

Tobin said Papile's successor would be promoted from within, indicating that one of the five assistant assessors will be named to the $21,709 a year post.

Last October, Tobin promoted Asst. Assessor Patricia J. Ceriani to fill the vacancy left by the firing of former Assessor Hugo Fabrizio, whose efforts to reclaim the job through the courts have failed.

Both Papile and Fabrizio were named to the Board by Tobin's predecessor, Mayor Joseph J. LaRosa.

Last February, when Board Chairman Elmer K. Fagerlund's term expired, the Mayor replaced him with John Comer who had served on the Board previously from 1970-76.

'Not Feasible For Me'

Who's NOT Running For Mayor? McCauley's NOT

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, the leading critic of the Tobin administration on the City Council, has taken himself out of the race for mayor of Quincy in next fall's election.

McCauley, who announced Tuesday that he will not be a candidate, cited the press of business and family affairs.

"I believe that being mayor of a city of 90,000 people is a fulltime job and if I were to run and win election as mayor I would serve full time," he said.

"However, it is not feasible for me to leave my present position as president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank."

He noted that he has two sons in College, a daughter entering college this fall and two other daughters who will be of college age within a few years.

"The rapidly escalating cost of providing educations for my family make it impossible for me to leave my banking career at this time," he said.

McCauley said he was prompted to make his non-announcement by speculation in the local press in recent months that he might run for mayor.

"I expect to seek reelection to a second term as councillor-at-large and I will make a formal announcement later on in the year," he said.

McCauley, who is currently serving his first term as councillor-at-large, has served as a ward councillor and a school committee member during the past 20 years.

Tobin Seeks More Funds For Recreation

Mayor Tobin is seeking additional sources of funds with which to continue the revitalization of Quincy's recreational system.

Tobin wrote to Commissioner Richard E. Kendall of the Department of Environmental Affairs in response to a recently passed Urban Parks and Recreation Recovery Act.

The act provides funding for the rehabilitation of existing outdoor and indoor recreational facilities under a formula that calls for 70 per cent federal funding.

"With the increased demand for recreation and facilities, Quincy has though the years developed and implemented an aggressive and ambitious program which is to meet not only the current recreational demands but also the future needs of its citizens," Tobin wrote.

At Annual Meeting

Good Citizen Awards Presented By Germantown Heritage Society

Good Citizen Awards were presented to three Germantown residents at the annual meeting of the Germantown Heritage Society held recently in Snug Harbor School.

Mrs. Judy Macauley, 12 Broadly Ave., Mrs. Kathleen O'Rourke, 5 Northfield Ave., and Mrs. Patricia Petrilli, 15 St. Germain St., were honored for their leadership roles in activities of their church, their children's school, and in the community at large.

An "Appreciation Award" was presented to Frank Myett, 31 Riverbank Rd., for his support of the Heritage Society's activities, and for the countless hours of time and effort which he has given freely to the welfare of friends and neighbors.

Officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting. They are: Harold S. Crowley, Jr., president; Helen Bomar, vice president; Kathleen O'Rourke, recording secretary; Kay Flynn, corresponding secretary; Patricia Petrilli, treasurer, and H. Hobart Holly, historian.

William O'Connell, president of the Quincy Historical Society, presented the Germantown organization a citation for its contributions to the historical background of the community and the city.

The Society's historian reported on a research project he recently completed for the Society which involved the researching of county land records to determine the ownership and bounds of parcels of land in Germantown from 1634 to the present day. The result is two maps of Germantown which show the division of land in the community over the past 340 years and a volume of data to indicate ownership and land transactions during that period of time.

Holly indicated that during the course of his research he has uncovered many new and interesting clues to Germantown's heritage. It is hoped that with some refinements the maps will be published and be made available to any who may be interested.

In the meantime maps and back-up data are available both at the museum of the Germantown Heritage Society at the Snug Harbor School and at the Quincy Historical Society.

Condon Asks Squantum Causeway Flooding Study

City Councillor Joanne Condon has asked for a study of the flooding problem at the Squantum Causeway which results in that section of the city being isolated for long periods of time.

Mrs. Condon asked Mayor Arthur Tobin to instruct Public Works Commissioner James J.

Ricciuti and City Engineer Edward Leone to study the problem and make recommendations in 60 days.

"Flood conditions have been occurring on a more frequent basis and not just during extreme weather conditions," she said. "Residents have been unable to commute to work and children are unable to get to school."

The Causeway was shut down a number of times due to flooding in the past week.

Plan Approved To Restore N. Quincy Dike

The Conservation Commission has approved a plan by the city of Quincy to restore the eroded 650-foot earthen dike across the ends of John and Washington Sts., North Quincy.

The dike will be four feet wide with a 10-foot base tapering toward the top.

'Would Open Pandora's Box'

Point Sub Shop Loses Bid For Wine, Beer License

By PETER BARNICLE
Faced with opposition from Quincy Point residents, the Ward 2 Civic Association, City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi and Rep. Robert Cerasoli, the City Licensing Board Tuesday denied a wine and malt beverages license to South Shore Sub and Pizza, 686 Southern Artery.

City Clerk John Gillis, board chairman, said he had received 50 letters and a petition with 150 signatures all protesting issuance of the license to Charles Droushiotis, 95 Presidential Dr., Quincy, owner of the shop.

The Ward 2 Civic Association letter to the board said the granting of the license "would open a Pandora's box for all sub and pizza shops to apply for a license on the grounds of unfair competition."

Residents from across Southern Artery submitted copies of a form letter saying the license "would not be conducive to the character of the neighborhood."

Atty. Peter Eley, representing Droushiotis, showed the board photographs of the location and contended that on both sides it is abutted by commercial and industrial properties and that at the rear of the shop are the Quincy Oil Company tanks.

He said dwellings were on the opposite side of Southern Artery, which is a divided highway in the area.

"The board has an affirmative duty in these matters," Eley said. "It must determine if the shop is in a proper neighborhood location and also the type of management of the establishment."

Members of the board all agreed that in the past 10 years the shop has been well managed and has never been the subject of inquiry by any city agency.

Eley said the board should look on each case on its merits and emphasized that the divided highway would act as a buffer between the shop and the residential section.

Raymondi agreed that Droushiotis was a very capable manager. He said the board must consider the public need in considering the license request.

"There are too many licenses already in Ward 2," he said. "The board should set a precedent in denying this license."

Cerasoli cautioned that if the license was granted "others will be up here looking for similar permits". He said he was opposed to the license.

On a motion of Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, seconded by Fire Chief Edward Barry, the license was denied. Board members Gillis and Dr. Samuel Solomon made the vote unanimous. Police Chief Finn was not present.

NQHS Addition To Be Turned Over To City Thursday

Quincy public school officials will formally accept the new addition to North Quincy High School at 9 a.m. today [Thursday] when Public Works Commr. James J. Ricciuti hands over control of the building to School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

The school will open for classes on Feb. 26 and work will commence on renovation of the old part of the high school.

On Sunday, Feb. 25, at 2 p.m. Quincy school officials will conduct a guided tour of the new building for those who participated in the project.

Invitations for the tour and a collation to follow, are being sent to elected and appointed city officials and the parents advisory committee.

"I want to have an opportunity to personally thank all who helped in the completion of this building," Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said.

The Mayor also said it would be nice if the students held an open house for parents once they are settled in the school.

"We owe it to the citizens of Quincy to see what they are getting for their money. It's a beautiful building and I am delighted with it," the Mayor said.

Tomorrow [Friday] is the last day the students will spend in the old building. They will be out of school for three weeks, during which time books, papers, records and other paraphernalia will be packed and moved to the addition.

Arthur Woodward, coordinator of secondary education, said the students have been given long-range assignments to complete on the long vacation.

Kelly Asks Damaged Sea Walls Be Reconstructed

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has asked Mayor Tobin to allocate city money for the construction or reconstruction of sea walls damaged or destroyed by recent storms.

"It is essential that the city of Quincy allocate our share of money for sea wall construction so that we may be eligible for state assistance which pays 50 per cent of the cost," said Kelly in a letter to the Mayor.

"The intensity and severity of the recent winter storms and tides certainly mandates that some positive action be taken on this serious problem.

"It is very evident that some sections of existing sea walls should be heightened by several feet and that some new sea wall construction is still necessary."

Kelly requested that City Engineer Edward Leone conduct a survey of the shore area and make recommendations. He said he would be glad to help Leone with his inspection.

11 Teacher's Aides

Appointed By School Committee

The Quincy School Committee has approved the appointment of 11 teacher's aides, the resignations of five school department personnel and granted a sabbatical leave.

Walter Peters, a teacher at Atlantic Junior High School, has been granted a six month sabbatical through June 22.

The board accepted the resignations of Joseph R. Mudge, a junior building custodian; Catherine L. Pivnicny, a teacher's aide at Vocational Technical; William Lemmens of Atlantic Junior High; Virginia E. Trainor of Quincy High School, and Lotti P. Bruno of Central Junior High School.

Teacher aides approved for appointment are: Russell McDonald, 55 Wesson Ave.; Virginia M. Reilly, 15 Sherman St.; Margaret E. Foley, 324 Atlantic St.; Mary C. Peters, 74 Willow St.; Eleanor C. Fartado, 22 Lakeside Ave.; Mary A. Solomonte, 56 Hilltop St.; Ellen R. Marini, 25 Watson Ter.; Janet M. Cappadona, 9 Grogan Ave.; Margaret Marino, 820 Southern Artery; Irene C. Armstrong, 15 Albertina St., and Jeanne F. Barry, 184 Marlboro St., all of Quincy.

The board also approved appointment of Robert Crehan, 150 Granger St., Quincy, as a security guard at North Quincy High School.

2 Residents Attend

Foster Grandparents Training

Two Quincy residents, Lee Tyrala and Helen Nichols, are among 50 foster grandparents from Greater Boston attending special training sessions at Welch Auditorium, Lesley College, Cambridge.

The free sessions, conducted by Dr. Lenore Parker of Lesley's Graduate School of Education, will cover children's literature, language development, teaching of reading and child development. Foster grandparents selected for this program have recently been placed in positions in day care centers, public schools and hospital pediatric departments.

They volunteer 20 hours a week, four hours a day. Under the guidance of a teacher, counselor or social worker, they work with children on a one-to-one basis helping them enlarge their life experience. They also assist them in learning, socializing and developing within their peer group.

Over 40 Families Sheltered

DOVE Shelter Aids Abused Women Of All Ages

By MARY WEAVER

A 67-year-old woman who has been married for over 45 years. A young mother with two small children. A wife of a physician. An 18-year-old woman pregnant with her first child.

It is hard to image what these women have in common. Yet all have faced the same problem - domestic violence. Each has been a resident at a shelter for battered women operated by DOVE, a newly created non-profit agency providing specialized services for battered women in Norfolk County.

"We opened the only shelter for battered women in Norfolk County in the fall," said a spokeswoman for DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended). "Over 40 families have already stayed at the shelter and it is clear that family violence is not confined to any one economic, social or age group. Victims have come from the full range of economic and social backgrounds."

The temporary shelter operated by DOVE is open to any woman from Norfolk County who has been physically abused and her children. Staffed 24 hours a day, the shelter provides a critical refuge for women who face the problem of domestic violence.

The formation of DOVE and the establishment of the shelter grew out of the growing concern of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the Norfolk County's District Attorney's office, and other service agencies such as Quincy Community Action, Survival and South Shore Mental Health.

It was apparent that family violence is increasing in intensity. More and more women are being battered.

DOVE recognizes that family violence is a complex problem and that there is no one easy solution. DOVE offers a comprehensive program of services to aid women in dealing with this pressing problem.

To provide help at the time of crisis, DOVE operates a special hot line. Operated 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, the hot line number is 471-1321. Women can receive counselling, emotional support and aid in obtaining shelter through the hot line.

DOVE's objective is to provide support for the battered woman and help her to deal with her situation. It was only a few months ago that a battered woman had to turn to Boston for help. Now these services are available in Norfolk County from the concerned individuals who compose DOVE.

200 Driven To Street 3-Alarm Blaze Causes $20,000 Damage At Hollow Restaurant

A three-alarm fire, apparently starting in an overheated ventilator fan motor in the ceiling of a restroom, caused extensive damage Saturday to the Hollow Restaurant, 516 Adams St., Quincy, driving more than 200 diners to the street.

The fire was confined to a second storage room and a function room. Structural damage was estimated at $20,000, but a fire department spokesman said considerable water and smoke damage was caused in other parts of the building.

At the time of the fire, about 8:30 p.m., the dining room was filled and the function room was being used to accommodate other patrons.

Firefighter Gary Stein suffered a head injury and was taken to Quincy City Hospital. He was treated and released. James Byrnes, 21, of Quincy, a cook, suffered smoke inhalation when he tried to fight the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

State Police Trooper Nicolas Pagliarulo of Quincy, arriving for dinner with his wife, aided in getting patrons safely from the building. He was assisted by Peter Tautvaisis, a busboy and several hostesses.

Acting Deputy Fire Chief Lawrence Smith said the fire broke out in the motor and burned up through the floor into a second story storage room.

Firefighters chopped a hole in the roof to ventilate the fire. This action and a firewall between the main dining room and the function room held the fire to that section.

The Hollow is owned by Adam and Grace Lucason of Quincy who hope to reopen the main part of the restaurant in the near future. They opened the Hollow in 1944 after having operated an ice cream stand on the same location for a number of years.

In 1972 the restaurant was damaged in a fire that caused an estimated $75,000 damage.

The restaurant was able to reopen for business on Tuesday evening.

Valuable gems have their vogues, in similar fashion to other fads. The dark sapphire we value today was second in popularity to the sky blue sapphire for the first thousand years of their discovery. The apple-green turquoise was fashionable in 14th century England while we favor the blue shade by that name. And a rosy, pinkish ruby held fashion way before the darker ruby we admire took its place. The Romans favored pearls, onyx and blue beryl over sapphires and emeralds because they like engraved stones and emeralds and sapphires were hard to engrave.

Whatever your favorite gem, you're sure to find it at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. February's birthstone is the Amethyst, the symbol of sincerity. It is said to be St. Valentine's favorite gem. He wore one engraved with a cupid, popularizing it as a stone for lovers, and making it particularly appropriate in modern times as a St. Valentine's expression of sentiment. If you would like to give an Amethyst to your sweetheart as a gift this Valentine's Day, stop by and see us. Visit our Something Special Shop next store for greeting cards.

Now Manet Concern Center Blizzard Born Project Concern Still Helping But Under New Name

By PETER BARNICLE
Memories of the Blizzard of '78 were revived during the past month as violent rainstorms swept the Shore Shore particularly in the Houghs Neck, Germantown and Squantum areas where residents suffered property losses and traumatic experiences during the big snow.

In the weeks after the devastating snowstorm Project Concern came into being to assist people who found themselves unable to cope with the financial and psychological troubles they faced.

Many of the elderly, living alone, sought aid from the counselling agency which operated under a federal grant until last November.

Dr. Ronald Hersh, director of the South Shore Mental Health Center, recognized that the concerns of these people still existed and a new agency was developed to continue the work.

Barbara Belton, director of Project Concern, was named to head the new agency - Manet Concern Center located at 1086 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

"The need for a counselling and advocacy agency was obvious," Dr. Hersh said. "People who had lost their property and belongings in the February snowstorm became very worried when this winter approached. This was particularly true among elderly people and children."

When Project Concern

started its four member staff addressed itself first to people who had lost their homes and furnishings.

"We sought to help them obtain funds for rebuilding or restoring the damaged dwellings," Dr. Hersh said. "We acted as advocates helping them to work through the bureaucratic maze."

"Through this process we came to know a lot of people in the community and started to work with folks on their psychological distress. Many people had lost articles which had been in the family for generations and this caused mental anguish."

Children who were moved out of their homes in the middle of the night and had to leave behind toys received at Christmas have been psychologically disturbed by the traumatic experience, according to Hersh.

In one case a retired man lost his entire stamp collection. He had planned to devote his time to developing the collection and working with other collectors.

"He was deeply depressed by the loss and felt all meaning had gone from his life," Hersh explained. "We were able to put him in touch with some collectors and also with some young people who were just starting a stamp collection. He is now able to direct his energies in this direction, and life has a new meaning."

"People need people to talk to," Miss Belton said. "People who have problems complain of hypertension and over-tiredness. We try to be understanding and seek solutions for their problems."

"The winter season is very trying. They worry that this season may bring about a return of last year's conditions. They need support and somebody to listen to their problems."

"We do not delve into such stereotyped things as 'how did you get along with your mother?' but concern ourselves with the immediate problems which are causing distress and worry."

She pointed out that tensions grow during the winter and she urged any residents of the area, senior citizens especially, to seek the aid of the Manet Concern Center if they have problems.

"We are responsive to all who seek our aid," she said. "We do not consider these people unstable. They have seen the awesome power of the water and even though they still live near it, they look on it differently. They know its destructive force. We try to counsel them on ways to meet this distress."

Those who have psychological problems, are worried about the future and their well-being should call the Center at 479-2462, or the South Shore Mental Health Center at 471-0350.

St. Mary's Cub Scouts In Visit To Quincy Sun

Members of Cub Scout Pack 30, St. Mary's Church, West Quincy visited The Quincy Sun to see first hand how a newspaper is produced.

Making the tour were Michael Noonan, Michael Cahlane, Kevin Godfrey, Thomas Leonard, Michael Ward and Neil O'Callaghan. They were accompanied by Mrs. Marie O'Callaghan, den mother, and Mrs. Mary Noonan, assistant den mother.

The cubs were shown how newswriters are written, set in type and placed on a page including the story of their visit.

typesetter in action. They also saw how a stat camera reduces, enlarges and screens original photographs so they can be used in The Sun.

They were also shown how pages of The Sun are put together for printing.

The cubs were presented with copies of the current issue of The Sun at the end of their tour.

The Quincy Historic District Commission will meet Feb. 5 at 4:30 p.m. at 55 Sea St., to discuss changes to the property of John's Hairstyling, 5 Temple St.

Tickets Still Available

Over 400 Expected At 'Blizzard Ball' Saturday

Tickets are still available for the first annual "Blizzard of '78" commemorative ball of the Greater Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross to be held Saturday at Lantana, Randolph.

They can be obtained by calling 472-2700, or visiting the Greater Quincy Chapter, 57 Kevere Rd.

Over 400 are expected to attend the ball which will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. A roast beef dinner will follow.

There will be dancing to the music of Bob Jennings Orchestra until midnight.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin will be presented the "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" award for his cooperation with the Red Cross during and after the last year's storm.

Irvig J. Boyes, volunteer chairman of financial development for the Greater Quincy Chapter, is chairman of the ball committee. Other committee members are Mary Valle, Peter Benelli, Peter MacDonald, Gregory Galvin, Rev. Beoros Baharian, William Disher, Mrs. Edna Gilmore, George Riley, James Ricciuti, Matthew McDonnell, Clement O'Brien and Henry Bosworth.

Proceeds from the ball, announces Daniel C. Pritchard, executive director of the chapter, will go towards the purchase of a four wheel drive vehicle to meet future needs in the chapter's disaster work.

"Preparedness is the name of the game," Pritchard said. "It is a community responsibility and only by being prepared for any emergency can we lessen the blow when and if it comes. We must be prepared for not only snow storms, but major fires, explosions and other unforeseen events which disrupt lives and homes."

Since the storm, the Red Cross has been holding training sessions in Houghs Neck, Germantown and Squantum, three of the hardest hit areas, Pritchard said.

The Red Cross processed 634 families during the blizzard and spent $70,000 on food, shelter and emergency personnel.

READY FOR ACTION - Pump for draining out flooded Narragansett Rd., Merrymount, home, is put into action by Civil Defense volunteers who responded to call for assistance during violent rains. From left, John Eldridge, Michael Bradbury, Brian Donovan of Civil Air Patrol, and James Melzard, auxiliary fire department. All units of volunteer groups are called out in emergencies.

Evacuate Wheelchair Victims, Pump Out Cellars

CD Created Rescue Truck, Volunteers In Action

By PETER BARNICLE

Quincy Civil Defense units were called into action last week as driving rains and high tides inundated parts of Merrymount and other low lying sections of the city.

The CD volunteers who were so highly praised for their work during the Blizzard of '78 responded again in the middle of the night to aid families whose basements had been flooded. Several wheelchair patients were evacuated from their homes and brought to the Red Cross center.

Civil Defense Director Kenneth J. Walsh, said after the emergency, that the members of the volunteer organization showed the same willingness they had a year ago.

Members of the auxiliary fire department, auxiliary police, civil air patrol, CBers and others all responded when the call went out for assistance.

During the storm last year the Civil Defense unit lost its rescue truck to the raging waters on Edgewater Dr., Houghs Neck. The truck, affectionately known as "The Blue Lady" was totaled by salt water erosion.

"We thought we would get funds from the federal government to replace the vehicle," Walsh said, "but they decided that a 1955 Reo had a blue book value of less than $100. They go by the book."

Walsh and his colleagues looked around and found that a new rescue vehicle would cost about $58,000.

"Finally we found this 1969 Ford 600 with a crew cab," he said. "It had been repossessed from a fellow who had gone out of business. It had only 11,000 miles on the speedometer and, after a conference with Mayor Tobin, I was able to get it for $6,500."

The truck has been completely refurbished for use as an emergency vehicle. The back was enclosed and auxiliary lighting units and other rescue equipment was obtained with the CD volunteers doing most of the work.

The civil defense is now prepared for any emergency which may strike the city.

"Once there is an emergency everything operates out of here," Walsh said. "The Mayor takes over as chief executive of the city and the police chief, fire chief, the public works commissioner and other officials work from this center."

Edward Cook, coordinator of shelter, pointed out that the center could be cut off from the rest of the world for two weeks and continue to operate. Police and fire radios are on hand as well as radio connections with state headquarters in Framingham and the North American Radio Defense System (NORADS) in Colorado.

CBers who volunteered during the blizzard, have become a regular unit of civil defense and were on duty last week. Many of them use their own equipment.

Cook, who formerly ran Cook's Market in Quincy, is in charge of all supplies at the center. It is his job to make certain that enough food is on hand along with blankets and medical supplies.

Walsh, a retired pipe fitter, has served 38 years as a civil defense volunteer, the last three as director of the Quincy center. During World War II he served with the National Guard.

"It's next to impossible to give these people enough credit. They all seem to work so willingly," Walsh said. "I suppose, if we forget one group it's our wives. They have to put up with husbands being called out at all hours. But, we try to placate them by having a dinner dance one a year - if we can afford it."

Among the civil defense volunteers on duty during last week's storm were: Joseph

William Beazley (left) and James Melzard, both of Quincy Auxiliary Fire Department, haul hose from Civil Defense rescue vehicle to pump out cellar of home on Narragansett Rd., Merrymount, during last week's torrential rains. State Constitution Plaque Planned At City Hall Annex

Mayor Tobin is seeking state funds to have a plaque placed in the City Hall Annex commemorating the first draft of the Massachusetts constitution, which took place in Quincy 200 years ago.

Tobin said he has written to the Mass Bicentennial Commission noting that the annex will be opening around June, 1979, "and it would be kind of nice if they put something in the entrance foyer."

"It could be," he said, "a commemorative plaque of bronze or granite telling future generations that it all began here." Drafting of the state constitution was begun by John Adams, Samuel Adams and James Bowdoin in John Adams' law office at 141 Franklin St., South Quincy, in September, 1779.

Tobin said he does not think that the Bicentennial Commission has any money left but perhaps new money could be appropriated or transferred from another department.

INDIVIDUAL TAX SMALL BUSINESS

City As Complicated As Boston

May Take Quincy 3 Years To Put Property Taxes On Classification

By TOM HENSHAW
It may take Quincy as long as three years to place its property taxes on the basis of classification.

Roy Tate, director of government affairs for the Boston Chamber of Commerce, told the Quincy Taxpayers Association last week that Boston's plan for preparing for classification would take three years.

"And Quincy is nearly as complicated as the city of Boston," he added. "It's not going to be tomorrow."

Classification, the controversial referendum on last November's ballot, is the method of taxing properties at different rates depending on use—residential, commercial, industrial or open land.

"Shelf" legislation, passed in anticipation of a favorable vote on the classification referendum, fixes the rates at 40 per cent for residential, 50 per cent for commercial, 55 per cent for industrial and 25 per cent for open space.

"The first thing a city or town has to do now," said Tate, "is get assessments up to 100 per cent valuation. You've got to be at 100 per cent before you can determine what 40 per cent is."

"Then they need a monitoring system to assure that once a town goes to classification that it remains at 100 per cent so that it can continue classification."

Tate noted that the classification law became effective on Jan. 1 but the state has yet to set up a regulatory mechanism to implement it.

"The State Department of Revenue has formed a committee to develop regulations," he said. "The time frame they have established is they would like to have these regulations in place around the end of February."

The committee, he said, "is taking the attitude that classification is legally sound, although not everyone agrees and there may be some challenges to its constitutionality."

There is also a possibility, he said, that passage of the classification law wiped out some existing measures, like Chapter 121A, which permits developers of blighted property to pay taxes on income rather than real value.

Such superceded laws, he said, would have to be enacted again.

Tate said the Boston Chamber of Commerce, like the Legislature is adopting a wait and see attitude to whatever the administration of Gov. Edward J. King "is going to offer in terms of a tax program."

He noted that there are already 167 tax bills before the State Senate and 260 before the House, even before the governor has offered his program.

"That's an enormous package for us to look at and study," he said. "We are very hopeful for the governor. He has promised a $500 million tax reduction but I have heard members of the business community say if it is $385 million that's okay, too. It's better than we've seen under no-donating administrations."

Tate said the group that sponsored the non-binding Conway-Carlson tax cap referendum has filed legislation to formalize it and the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers has also filed a tax-cap bill.

"The basis of the MFT plan," he said, "is to provide revenue through the use of a broadened sales tax."

School Board Asks More Facts On School Closings

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Credon is scheduled to present the Feb. 14 school committee meeting with detailed plans for the closing of four of the city's smaller elementary schools.

He has already suggested the committee consider closing the Cranch, Great Hill, Hunting and Myles Standish schools and has outlined some of the savings that could be realized.

The committee has requested that more research be done on the impact such action would have on the community. They expressed the opinion they would need more facts before taking the proposals to the neighborhoods most directly affected. The committee is pledged to hold public hearings in each school district before any action is taken.

Vice chairwoman Patricia Toland said she wants more information on the educational advantages and disadvantages of such a move and not just the financial savings. She noted that the dollar savings did not appear to be that significant.

Under the plan already before the committee, Cranch School pupils would be sent to Furnace Brook School, Lincoln Hancock or both. Similar preliminary plans have been drawn up for all other elementary schools which would have less than 200 pupils in 1981.

Credon recommended three of the buildings be kept for other school uses, because the school department needs space and also to have them available if enrollment does increase.

The superintendent said he would like to move the maintenance department out of the ground level of the Vocational-Technical School because it is now taking up prime educational space. He said both the department and some school offices could be moved to the Myles Standish School or to Great Hill School. Both are along main thoroughfares and parking would not be a problem, he said.

Committee members Toland, Joan Picard, Mary Collins and Christopher Kennedy favored having the superintendent return to the board with more information.

Committeeman Frank Anselmo abstained, saying he wanted to plan for scheduling the first public hearing on the closings. Committeeman John Sullivan voted no on the grounds he wants each school considered separately.

Bishop Hart Celebrant At Mass

Special Events At St. Joseph School During Catholic Schools Week

St. Joseph School, Quincy Point will commemorate the opening of Catholic Schools Week with solemn liturgy at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 4.

Bishop Daniel Hart will be the celebrant of the Mass, assisted by Rev. Joseph Downey, pastor and associate pastors Fathers Robert V. Gale and Robert K. Townner and Rev. Mr. John Jennette, deacon.

The students, faculty-parents, Guild and members of the alumni will share in the liturgy and participate in the offertory procession. The singing and art will be the work of the students of St. Joseph's. Mrs. Mary Mulligan will be the organist and Sister Agnes Keating the coordinator.

The liturgy will be followed by a social and open house for the parents, relatives and friends. The theme of the week, "Next to the Family, The Catholic Schools" will be carried out in the displays throughout the school. The food provided for the social will be international depicting the "National Family" that composes the student body.

Throughout the week, parents will be invited to the school for a library and media center orientation, physical education demonstrations, classroom visit and conferences with parents.

On Tuesday, Feb. 6 the faculty will be guests at a luncheon provided by the students of Grade 8.

The festivities of the week will be the shared effort of all the members of the faculty and the student body to show in a special way the contribution St. Joseph School makes to help build strong families at home, at school, in the community and its service to the world.

5-Year Program

St. Coletta's Planning Community Residence, Business For Handicapped

St. Coletta's Day School, 85 Washington St., Braintree, is planning establishment of a community residence for the handicapped, along with an independent apartment living program and a school-owned business to provide employment for young people and adults.

Sr. M. Johnice Flanagan, OSF, school administrator, said the school is embarking on a five year program directed toward meeting the growing needs of this group.

"It is clear we must provide additional opportunities for those persons over 22 who are mentally retarded," Sr. Johnice said. "By 1983 the school hopes to locate a series of apartments for independent living. Our goal is to help handicapped persons become self-sufficient and productive."

St. Coletta's Day School currently has 40 participants enrolled in a cooperative work experience program, which is designed to provide work skills training, job training and special academic assistance to those between the ages of 16 and 22. The school's adult day activities is aimed at helping mentally retarded adults find a normal place in the community, through living and work training experience.

The school anticipates the initiation of a small business operation which will provide permanent employment for some persons and serve as a training situation for others who will find jobs outside the school setting. The possibilities include a greenhouse and a retail store offering school-produced pottery and other handicraft items.

A program aimed at early intervention will complete the life-cycle educational plan at Braintree St. Coletta's. "The first three years of life are very important," according to Sr. Johnice.

"We are working toward having a professional staff which will go into homes helping parents understand what it means to have a mentally retarded child," she states.

The early years of a child's life are a time of frustration and confusion for parents. "By working with the children and the parents at this point, the future progress of the youngsters can be greatly enhanced," says Sr. Johnice. The early intervention program would begin at birth and continue to age 3. In addition to home visits, the school would also offer a classroom situation for the children.

Braintree St. Coletta Day School's enrollment is expected to grow from the present 140 students to somewhere between 165 and 185 over the next five years. There were 68 students in 1973. The school has students from 27 towns.

The school is now seeking funding to implement its projected plans for the coming five year period.

Christ Church Adopts $73,350 Annual Budget

The 275th known annual election of wardens, vestrymen and officers of the Protestant Episcopal Society of Christ Church, Quincy was held Sunday after Service of Morning Prayer.

Elected to fill expiring terms or re-elected were:

Robert E. Lee, warden; Miss Clara Schultz, clerk; Mrs. Marie Hearn, treasurer; Mr. C. Murray Pendleton, assistant treasurer.

Elected vestrymen for two years were Mrs. Carol Fredey, John Willis, Mrs. Evelyn Pendleton, Mrs. Carol Shepherd, and Robert Sterling. Elected vestrymen for one year were Lincoln Fraser and Thurston Hartford.

Delegates elected to the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts were Miss Judith Marx and Mrs. Priscilla Martin. Mrs. Evelyn Pendleton and Walter Pitts were elected alternates. Elected representatives to the Protestant Social Service Bureau were Mrs. Frances Craig, Mrs. Evelyn Hartford and Mrs. Diane Williams.

A budget of $73,350 for 1979 was adopted, by the 102 members of the Society present. Thirty pages of mimeographed reports were presented and are still available. Unexpected business moved from the floor was a motion to consider combining the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. services into a 10 a.m. service. Rev. Steele W. Martin, rector, presided.

PSSB Seeking Permanent Homes For 20 Abused Children

The Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau has been assigned 20 abused and neglected children and is now seeking permanent homes for the youngsters.

Robert F. Taylor, executive director of the bureau, explained that the children have been separated from their parents by court action and are currently under supervision of the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare.

The youngsters are listed as "legal risks" since the courts are being asked for adoption releases.

"Although the children are in the custody of the state," Taylor said, "it is still possible for the parents to contest the adoption action. We are seeking prospective adoptive parents who are willing to cope with what might be a long period of uncertainty."

The oldest of the group is nine, and all fall into the state's "special needs" category.

"This is somewhat misleading," Taylor said, "since 'special needs' usually describes children who are mentally or physically handicapped."

"That is not the case with this group. These youngsters are of normal intelligence without physical handicaps," he said.

Because of neglect and abuse, they have been through emotionally distressing situations which qualifies them as "Special needs" children.

Taylor's adoption staff is seeking people who are "warm, supportive and willing to share their lives with the children." He points out that there are many misconceptions about the requirements for being adoptive parents and that his staff is interested in discussing adoption with interested couples and individuals.

"If a family has a limited income," states Taylor, "but is just right for a particular child in every other way or if a child needs some special help, financial assistance is available."

The Protestant Social Service Bureau, which is supported by area churches, may be contacted at 473-1360.

Program For Pre-Schoolers Offered By Salvation Army

A Fresh Face Out There?

The local political rumor mill is working overtime trying to size up this year's mayoral campaign field.

Councillor Frank McCauley's decision not to run for mayor but seek re-election instead closes the door on all the speculation about him.

But it has opened another door in the speculation department: Will a fresh face step into the ring?

Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets is hardly a fresh face. He's been around the block a few times; as a candidate for council, state representative and Congress.

Some observers have thought for some time now that he will run for mayor and some still do. But others figure he will go for the at-large council seat vacated by Paul Harold to serve full-time as state senator. Coming off a Congressional race, they think Sheets might have trouble raising enough money to wage an effective mayoral campaign. Price range for a mayoral challenger is $50,000, $60,000, $70,000, $80,000, $90,000—take your pick.

If Sheets does decide to run for councillor at-large or seek re-election in Ward 4, the feeling is that it may be the cue for a fresh face to step out onto the mayoral stage.

But who?

Well, one name being mentioned as a possibility: John Cheney, vice chairman of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers and downtown coordinator and major advisor during Mayor Walter Hannon's administration.

Despite the connection with Hannon, Cheney is pretty much his own man politically. As evidenced during the senatorial campaign last fall when he supported Paul Harold over Arthur Tobin.

Maybe there is someone else like Cheney out there giving it some thought.

Then, of course, there is a semi-fresh face: Atty. Thomas Barron who ran in 1977. He might make a second run.

But if there is anyone thinking of getting into the mayoral ring he (or she) had better get going. Time is running out to get a campaign moving. The preliminary election is less than eight months away.

SPEAKING OF FRESH faces, it looks like there will be one on the campaign trail in West Quincy. Rene Lumaghini, 21, of Woodcliff Rd., in the insurance and financing business, already has bumper stickers in circulation.

He says he's running for the Ward 4 council seat regardless of what Sheets decides to do. He thought of running in 1977 but wedding bells got in the way.

He and the former Marie Pettinelli of Quincy Point got married in September and were in Bermuda on election day.

Marie, incidentally, is the daughter of the Fire Department's Bob Pettinelli and the niece of the Police Department's Guido Pettinelli.

INSIDERS SAY THAT there was a sentimental move underway to interest former Mayor Thomas Burgin in the city council seat vacated by Paul Harold but it never really got far. If Joseph Brett who had run for the seat in the last city election had not been interested in filling it, members of the council would have made a special effort to have Burgin say "yes".

LATEST WORD ON the long-awaited book by former Mayor Joseph LaRaia is that it will be out sometime in April.

LaRaia incidentally seems to be getting around publicly more now than he had since leaving office. This fuels the speculation that he will try for a political comeback this year. A late flash, however, is that his wife, Louise, doesn't want him to return to the political arena. But if he isn't going to run, why hit the handshaking circuit? To generate interest in his book?

RUSSELL TATE, director of government affairs for the Boston Chamber of Commerce, opened his talk to the Quincy Taxpayers Association last week like this:

"I've got good news for you and I've got bad news for you. The bad news is that the Legislature is in session. The good news is that they don't know what to do."

□

WHATEVER YOU DO, don't bowl Helen Duffy stickers. The assistant Quincy public works commissioner was really rolling Sunday for the Rockets in the Eastern Mass. Women's Pro League at the Lucky Strike alleys in Dorchester. She racked up the new high single (165) and high three-string (375) and sparked the Rockets to the high team single of 586. No fluke. Helen consistently bowls 100 or more.

Sees New Law By April

Ambler Expects Swift Action

REP. ROBERT B. AMBLER
Age limit: 21 now

By TOM HENSHAW

Rep. Robert B. Ambler (D-Weymouth) says he feels that the 1979 State Legislature is going to take swift action to raise the drinking age from 18 back to 21.

"Most legislators recognize the 18-year-old drinking law as an experiment that didn't work," Ambler told The Quincy Sun in an interview.

"They learned when they were campaigning last fall that the issue highest in everyone's mind was raising the drinking age."

"I'm convinced the people of Massachusetts want the drinking age put back to 21."

Ambler, who is chairman of the Committee on Government Regulations, has scheduled a hearing Tuesday, Feb. 6, on the 51 bills relating to the drinking age that have been filed already.

"I hope to get the bill accepted on Feb. 7 and on the floor of the House the following week," he said. "Hopefully we can get quick agreement from the Senate and have the bill on the Governor's desk no later than April 1."

The Legislature reduced the drinking age in Massachusetts to 18 in 1973 after a referendum in 1972 approved it by the narrow margin of some 40,000 votes out of 2.1 million cast.

A bid to raise it to 19 in 1976 was pocket vetoed by then-Gov. Michael S. Dukakis. A similar bill died in the Senate a year later. And last year Gov. Dukakis again vetoed a bill that would have raised the age back to 21 in stages.

Ambler said he is convinced that the two vetoes were a factor in Dukakis' defeat by current Gov. Edward J. King in the Democratic primary last fall.

"This is the first year," said Ambler, "that we have a chief executive who favors raising the drinking age. One of his polls shows that 82 per cent of the people are in favor of it."

He said Gov. King and his new registrar of motor vehicles, Richard McLaughlin, are both coming to testify before his committee on Feb. 6.

The bills that will come up at the hearing cover a wide range of ages between 19 and 21, including 19½ and 20½. Ambler favors a flat 21, with exceptions made for youngsters who work in restaurants where food is served as well as liquor and in warehouses.

"When an 18-year-old drinks," he said, "the liquor manages to filter down to the 17-year-old, the 16-year old, even the 15-year olds. They go to school together, play baseball together, buy a case of beer together. Most kids aren't going to walk away and be called chicken."

"Those peer pressures are so overwhelming that it's difficult, even with supervision, to handle it. The best way is to remove the peer pressure. The 21-year-olds aren't going to affiliate themselves with kids in high school and junior high."

Raising the age to 21 recognizes the reality that 20-year-old drink. Even if you have a slippage from 21 to 20 there is some maturity and ability to handle it. The 18 and 19-year-olds have proven that they can't."

Ambler says there is evidence that an increase in vandalism is associated with teen-age drinking, as is a rise in violent crimes by young people and "the most gruesome part, the large number of deaths among the younger group in highway accidents."

Nationally, and probably statewide, too, 8.1 per cent of drivers are 18 to 20 years old.

In 1972, the year before the 18-year law took effect, 18 to 20-year-olds who had been drinking were involved in 17.6 per cent of fatal accidents in

Chamber Board Backs 21-Year Drinking Age

The Board of Directors of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce has unanimously voted to recommend that the drinking age in Massachusetts be raised from 18 to 21.

"The Chamber will be actively involved with the legislative process of raising the drinking age," promised Ron Zooleck, the executive vice president.

President Thomas Curtis said the decision to support the 21-year age limit was made following a presentation by Rep. Robert B. Ambler (D-Weymouth), a proponent of the increase.

Three years ago the Chamber voted to recommend that the drinking age be raised to 19.

Quincy Delegation

Quincy's State House delegation generally favors raising the drinking age, although members are divided on how high to go and how to do it.

Rep.-Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) says he wants the age fixed at 21 and he has filed legislation to set it there.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) says he favors raising the age to 21 at package stores and letting it remain at 18 in bars and restaurants.

Failing that, he says, he'd like

Planning Board Hearing Feb. 8 On Commercial Area Districts

The Planning Department will hold a public hearing Thursday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber to consider designating certain areas of Quincy as Commercial Area Revitalization Districts [CARD].

The CARD designation would allow firms in the areas to borrow money at reduced rates to finance capital improvement. The intent of the program is to prevent decay of the area.

Former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis initiated the program in July when he signed a legislative package to stimulate development and urban revitalization.

Two of the bills in the package make commercial enterprises in older urban centers eligible for tax exempt, financing and for the state's Urban Job Incentive Program [UIJP].

Previously only industrial activities could qualify for these incentives.

The Mayor and the Planning Department have targeted four areas in the city, for this program, including the Quincy Center Business District, Wollaston Business Center, State Street South, and the Norfolk Downs area.

McCauley, McGrath Join Condon On Hospital Reviewing Committee

City Councillor Joanne Condon has named Councillors Stephen J. McGrath and Francis X. McCauley to serve with her on the City Hospital Reviewing Committee.

Both are members of the Council's Public Health and hospital Committee, of which she is chairman.

Other members of the Review Committee are Robert Denvir and John Cheney of the Hospital Board of Managers, City Auditor Charles L. Shea, and Thomas Maguire of Touche Ross Co.

The committee is considering a Touche Ross study report of the Hospital's finances and recommendations for resolving the money problems of the city-owned institution.

On Raising Drinking Age

Massachusetts. In 1974, the first full year after the law was in effect, the figure was 32.3 per cent. It has since taken a dip, due largely apparently to the 55 mile an hour speed limit.

Around the country, the trend appears to be to raise the drinking age. A decade ago the trend was to lower it. It was, says Ambler, a reaction to the Vietnam War. If you're old enough to fight, you're old enough to drink.

Right now the drinking age is 21 in 24 states, 20 in two states, 19 in nine states and 18 in 15 states.

But only recently, Michigan has gone back to 21. Maine has returned to 20 and Minnesota, Iowa and Montana to 19, according to Ambler.

All of the states that border Massachusetts are now at 18, which causes a problem.

"Legislators who represent communities along the borders might be timid about raising the drinking age," said Ambler, "because of pressure from the business community.

"The package store people from Lawrence and Haverhill might put pressure on them because of the cross over to New Hampshire. Cape Cod businessmen will argue for a 19-year-old limit because they have to make all their dough in six weeks. A legislator from an academic community like Amherst would feel pressure, too."

But, he said, he has not seen any members of the liquor industry lobbying for retention of the age 18.

"The ones I have spoken to are for raising the drinking age," he said, "because of the problems with the sale like fights on the premises and hiring police. It's costing more money than it's worth."

Ambler says he feels that if Massachusetts raises the age back to 21 it will encourage adjoining states to follow suit, except probably New York where the age has been 18 for more than 25 years.

"There has to be a leader in the region," he said. "In the past Massachusetts has been the leader. The Connecticut legislature is looking to us and saying,

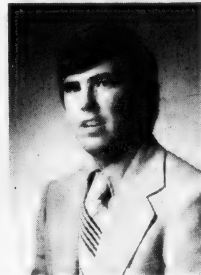

'What's the sense in putting the age at 21 when they can cross the border to Massachusetts?' They're having the same problems we are."

Ambler regards the return of the drinking age to 21 as a matter of such consequence that he is willing to do what politicians hate to do. He'll admit he was wrong.

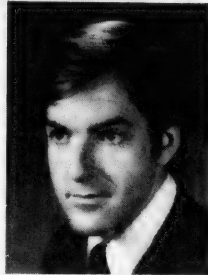

"I voted to lower the age in 1972," he said. "I made a mistake."

REP. ROBERT A. CERASOLI

to see it set at 19 for both places. "I don't like to take a right away from anyone," he says, "but we have to have some control over the situation. Separating on-premises drinking from package stores is a way to do it."

Morrissey has filed legislation involving the drinking age for the third year in a row.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) says that basically he would like to see the age returned to 21 "but I'm not sure we can do it legally under equal protection of the law."

As a compromise, he says, "I favor a bill that would permit drinking on the premises at 18 and buying from package stores at 21. There must be some sort of control."

"We gave the younger generation an opportunity to see if it could handle liquor responsibly," he added. "I've seen too much irresponsibility."

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) says the bill he introduced in the Senate would raise the drinking age to 19 the first year, 20 the second year and 21 the third.

"I see constitutional problems with raising the age to 21 all at once," he says. "I would still permit 18-year-olds to work in restaurants where liquor is served."

All four members of the Quincy delegation plan to testify at the Feb. 6 hearing.

Back in 1972, while the state was approving the 18-year-old drinking age on a referendum by a margin of 1,067,458 to 1,027,914, the city of Quincy voted to reject it, 21,208 to 15,907.

3 Fires In One Night Don't Faze Her

Three fires in one night in her home at 400 Washington St., Quincy Point, failed to faze 85-year-old Mrs. Mary Fay.

Fire broke out in a stuffed easy chair in her living room at 9 p.m. She doused it with water and threw the smoldering cushion into a snow bank in the back yard.

James Piccini, returning from a basketball game shortly before midnight, spotted the cushion in flame and threatening the back porch. He helped Mrs. Fay to put out the flames.

About 2:30 a.m., she was awakened by smoke and found the easy chair ablaze once again. She poured water on it until the fire was out and then sat up for an hour watching it.

"I'm glad I didn't have to bother the Fire Department," said Mrs. Fay.

SNOW PROBLEMS

City Councillor Carl W. Anderson asked for quick approval of a $4,600 appropriation to buy a second hand snow removal truck that the city has been renting for the past few weeks.

"Our streets are in the deplorable condition they are because of the lack of equipment and not because of inefficiency in the Public Works Department," he said.

Meanwhile, officials at Squantum Naval Air Station entered a vigorous protest to the MDC over a pile of snow that had accumulated at the busy intersection of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Blvd.

Lt. Edward Goshorn, the public relations officer, said the pile of snow and ice was so high that it cut off the vision of drivers and resulted in many accidents at the spot.

RAIDERS IN EASY WIN

Sid Credrone scored 23 points to lead the North Quincy High School basketball team to its easiest victory of the season, a 55-13 rout of Brookline.

The North lineup included: Strecher, Johnson, Morton, Nelson, Brigham, Hines, forwards: Finneran, center: Credrone, Sullivan, Reilly, guards.

NEW FIRE SCHEDULE

The new 48-hour week for the Quincy Fire Department got off to a smooth start, thanks to the addition of 59 men and the expenditure of $3,600 to equip them.

Under the new schedule, firefighters worked two 10-hour days, took 48 hours off, worked two 14-hour nights, and then had 48 hours off again.

Capt. James A. Daly, cousin of former Gov. Maurice Tobin, was appointed to the new post of deputy chief because of the new schedules.

To Check On Problems

Donnelly, Morrissey Squantum Gardens Tour Friday

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has invited Cong. Brian J. Donnelly to tour Squantum Gardens with him tomorrow [Friday] at 10 a.m. to introduce him to problems facing residents of the project.

The invitation also was extended to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, other city officials and residents of Atlantic and Squantum.

"In the past," said Morrissey, "we have worked on this problem through the office of Cong. James A. Burke. Cong. Donnelly wants to take up where he left off. He is genuinely interested in the problem."

Burke had been working to coordinate efforts between local officials and federal representatives to negotiate a transfer of Squantum Gardens from U.S. government ownership.

The Area has been a source of problems with vandalism and fires recently.

"Cong. Donnelly had expressed hope that there would be a speedy resolution to the problem and that his office would work hard to solve it," said Morrissey.

William Geary Sworn In First Deputy Secretary Administration

William J. Geary of 24 Elm Ave., Wollaston, was recently sworn in as First Deputy Secretary for Administration by Secretary of State Michael J. Connelly in ceremonies held in the Senate Chambers.

Previously Special Assistant to former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, Geary also served as Assistant Cabinet Secretary of Consumer Affairs in the Dukakis administration.

Geary, who is married and has four children, is a graduate of Boston State College, with a B.S. degree in political science and history; and Northeastern University with a Master of Arts degree in public administration and American government.

Geary's background also includes serving as consultant to the White House, to Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III, and to Gov. Hugh L. Carey, of New York.

He is an adjunct professor of public administration at Suffolk University's Graduate School of Administration as well as a guest lecturer at universities, high schools and civic group meetings.

Council member and chairman of the program committee of the American Society for Public Administration, he is also a member of the Quincy Historical Society as well as other organizations.

CETA Opens Skill Center With 5 Special Programs

By PETER BARNICLE

Quincy CETA, serving 11 South Shore communities, has opened a Skill Center at 11 Hayward St., North Quincy, designed to give new meaning to the Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

The center will provide training courses in orthotic and prosthetics, clerical work, machine shop practice, carpentry and culinary arts. All the courses have been developed to assure that those who complete them will be able to find employment in private industry.

Quincy's CETA director, Paul Ricca, has invited Gov. Edward J. King, Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Paul Tsongas, Congressman Brian Donnelly, Mayor Arthur Tobin and other state and city officials to view the facility at an open house Monday, Feb. 5.

The center occupies 35,000 square feet in the former Boston Gear Works building. It cost $275,000 to renovate and equip the three story building and took a year from concept to completion.

"We now have five programs either started or ready to start," Ricca said. "We are already looking towards expansion. One area is that of technicians for the electronics industry. According to every company we surveyed there is a definite need for technicians and assemblers. In planning a program we look for the specific needs of an industry."

Ricca hopes to have an industry council which will provide input regarding their needs.

"We want to bring in people who can tell us just what problems they are having in employing qualified people," Ricca said. "This is the only way we can develop training courses which will be meaningful. They will act as an advisory group and we will be guided by their suggestions."

All students accepted at the Skill Center must be eligible for any CETA program, must meet the income guidelines and have been unemployed for the stipulated period.

"While they are attending the training program they will be paid the minimum wage scale of $2.90 an hour," Ricca said. "Since they will be attending school seven and a half hours a day, five days a week, they will realize about $100 a week. This is tax free."

"They will also be guaranteed a job with a reasonably good salary after completion of the course. Thus, they are provided with the wherewithall and an incentive. Many of these people could not afford to go to school for specialized training without these factors."

The most sophisticated course is that in orthotic and prosthetic training in which students learn to fit and modify artificial limbs and braces.

This is a 15-month course during which students learn a number of trades involved in the highly technical program.

"This course will open the middle of this month," Ricca said. "We have had 75 applicants so far. Each has been given a dexterity test, a motivational test and an aptitude test."

He explained that a number of skills are involved in the work.

"They will have to work with leather, because a number of braces are wrapped in leather," he said. "They will work with forming metal and plastics in other parts of the work. We will have shoe machinery to instruct them in fitting shoes, putting on lifts and in modifying shoes for both orthotic and prosthetic purposes."

This is the first orthotic and prosthetic training program in the country sponsored by CETA. This program is being developed with the help of NOPCO Corp., a manufacturer of artificial limbs and braces, and the Children's Medical Center in Boston.

The culinary arts training program has been underway since the beginning of January. Frederick Gilbert, 91 Russell St., North Quincy, is the instructor.

Gilbert, a graduate of Vocational Technical School, also has an associate's degree in business administration from Quincy Junior College. He has worked as a chef at the Pier Union Oyster House in Boston and did consulting work at the Blades and Boards at Boston Garden and several country clubs.

Students in culinary arts work in a kitchen completely outfitted with the latest equipment and are taught the fundamentals of general cooking. The course lasts six months.

Classrooms for the clerical training program are all equipped with IBM electric typewriters.

"In addition to typing we will also teach general business practice and get them acquainted with the business machines in use throughout business offices," Ricca said.

The machine shop training program will start in March. Some of the equipment has not yet been set up. In this course students will learn how to operate lathes, milling machines, grinders and other machines. They will also be given instruction in reading blueprints as they apply to machine shop work.

The carpentry program is being sponsored in conjunction with Wentworth Institute in Boston. The program will concentrate on general construction, with emphasis on home construction and the building of commercial buildings.

The program will last 10 months and students will spend part of their time at Wentworth where they will use the equipment available, including the testing laboratory.

In addition to the five disciplines the Skill Center has also inaugurated a "life skill program."

"We have found that a number of people leaving the CETA public service program and other jobs they have been in, are unable to properly apply for a job," Ricca said.

"They don't seem to know what an employer is looking for. They have no idea of what realistic goals are for themselves, based on education and background," he said.

At the CETA Skill Center they are taught what to expect from an employer and what an employer expects of them. In addition mock interviews are held. The interviews are recorded on TV tapes and the tapes are played back to let them know what they did right—and what they did wrong.

The entire program, Ricca said, is to provide people with an entrance into private industry.

NORTH QUINCY'S Leo Doyle [8] and Quincy goalie Jim Campbell go into the net after Campbell had made a game-saving save on Doyle's shot late in Saturday's game, which ended in a 2-2 tie. Bernie Van Tassel of Quincy [5] and Paul Cooney of North take in the action.

Both Enroute To Good Seasons

Quincy's hockey team is well on its way to another state tournament berth and quite possibly the Suburban League championship.

North Quincy's team is on its way to its best season in many years.

Last Saturday the rivals met for the second time and the final score, a 2-2 tie, set well with both coaches.

It was one of the finest games in the city series in which North has defeated Quincy only once in 18 years, covering some 38 games.

"The city of Quincy was the winner tonight," Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia said. "I don't think there was a frustrated player who left this rink or a disappointed fan. The city of Quincy was the big winner."

North's first-year coach, Kevin Lewis, who is doing a tremendous job bringing the Raiders back, was also happy. "Anytime you can tie a team with that kind of hex on you, you've got to be happy," he said.

North Quincy had won five in a row, something a Raider team hadn't done in at least 15 years, but its hopes of making it six in a row earlier last week against league-leading Weymouth South were dashed when its five top players were sidelined after being ejected from the previous game.

The only frustrating thing about the Quincy game for the Raiders was the fact they had a 2-0 lead just as it had in the first game, won by Quincy, 5-3.

"The kids didn't believe in themselves in the first game, but now they have the confidence," Lewis said. "It started when we defeated Brookline for our first league win. We were losing in that game and later we overcame a 3-0 Brookton lead to win our fifth in a row."

Quincy has a 6-2-2 record, all in the league, while North is 5-4-2 in the league and 6-6-2 overall, the best for a North team in some time. "We've been in every game and we have a realistic shot at winning every game the rest of the way," Lewis said.

"We still have first place in mind and I told the kids North Quincy is going to be our biggest ally from now on," Sylvia said.

The rival goalies, Jim Campbell for Quincy and Bob Tierney for North, who have been outstanding all year, were at their best and turned in tremendous games.

North took the lead at 7:25 of the opening period when Leo Doyle scored an unassisted goal, a thing of beauty, and made it 2-0 on another unassisted goal by Dave Parsons at 11:13.

Quincy came back when Robbie Craig, who took the league scoring lead, scored at 12:50 with Scott Richardson and Tommy Brennan assisting, and Richardson scored the tying goal at 2:47 of the second period with assists for Craig and Brennan.

Craig now has 21 points, one more than North's Paul Cooney. Richardson has 18 points.

Sports

Brennan and North's Pat Ennis have 15 each and North's Tom Gerry has 13.

Earlier in the week Quincy defeated Newton North, 3-1, on Richardson's second hat trick of the year. Tommy Brennan assisted on all three goals as the line of Richardson, Craig and Brennan gave Newton fits all night.

North's shorthanded squad battled Weymouth South all the way and trailed only 3-2 after two periods. But the Raiders ran out of gas and two Weymouth goals in the final period clinched a 5-2 win.

"It just has to hurt you tremendously when your five top players are out of the lineup, that's why I'm so proud of these kids. I'm very, very proud of them," Lewis said. North's first line and two top defensemen were out.

North took the lead on sophomore Rich Reinhardt's goal at 4:33 of the opening period. Dan Cronin and Paul Reardon assisted. Weymouth tied it later in the period but North regained the lead with only 45 seconds gone in the second period as Ed Marella scored with an assist for Paul McDermott. But that was North's last shot.

Quincy will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday at 6:40 at the Youth Arena while North is playing at Newton's Daly Rink at 7:30. Next Wednesday it will be Brookline at North (Youth Arena) at 6:40 and Quincy at Waltham at 8.

Mite A's Win 13th In Row

Quincy's Mite A team continues to lead the South Shore Conference and improved its record to 13-0 with a 4-2 win over Weymouth.

Weymouth was blanked until the last minute, thanks to the work of defenseman Ralph Richardson and goalie Brian Mahoney.

'Balance' Brings Presidents Back

Balanced scoring, strong rebounding, sound defense and a fine bench.

These are the ingredients which have brought Quincy's basketball team back after a disastrous 1977-78 season and Friday the Presidents will take a 7-3 Suburban League record and a 9-4 overall mark into their 8 p.m. game with Brockton at the Vo-Tech gym. Next Tuesday Quincy will play at Newton North at 3:30 p.m.

"Our balance is the key," Coach Joe Amoroso said following last Friday's 44-38 win over Brookline. "The boys are really playing together and are showing a lot of desire. Brian Donovan is among the top five in league scoring, but several others are also coming through with big points and the all-around play has been excellent. I'm pleased with the way things are going."

The Brookline game was close throughout with the Presidents trailing, 19-18, at halftime. Brookline pulled ahead by seven points midway in the third period but Quincy bounced back with some fine defensive play.

With 2:58 remaining, Quincy led by a point and Donovan and Steve Priscella hit back-to-back baskets to make it a five-point bulge and Quincy stayed in front. Donovan had 14 points and 10 rebounds. Jeff Connelly had 10 points and 10 rebounds and Priscella scored eight points and had eight rebounds.

Earlier in the week, Donovan, averaging more than 14 points a game, exploded for 29 points as Quincy bombed Weymouth South, 81-36.

The Presidents took an early lead and never looked back as Priscella, having an outstanding year, scored 18 points and Capt. Dana Guidice, another steady performer, scored 10.

Sterling Girls Defeat Central For 10th In Row

The Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team improved its record to 10-0 with a 20-10 win over Central, rolling to an 11-2 halftime lead with some outstanding defense.

Maureen Flaherty and Janice Burke keyed the defense, while Eileen Morrison scored eight points and Kathy Duggan had seven.

Broad Meadows defeated Atlantic, 34-28, starting off a late Atlantic rally. Kathy Flynn and Janet Witham had 10 points each for BM and Michelle Abboud excelled on defense and scored six points.

Broad Meadows won the junior varsity game, 16-10, with Mary Kussman and Stacey Sparks scoring four points each.

Broad Meadows romped over a shorthanded Point team, 37-4 as Flynn had 14 points and Mary Kamb 10 for BM, while Tricia Craig and Janet Witham dominated the boards. For Point Kathy Brown, Cathy Curtin, Karen Walsh, Phyllis White, Nancy Coscia, Janet Caporale and Laurie Peters played their hearts out as Points was missing eight players.

Point's junior varsity ran its unbeaten streak to 10 games with a 20-10 win as Tricia Travers, Heather Slicis and Susan Dacey sparked the win. Dara Morris, Julie Papile and Mary Jusseune played well for Point. Mary Riley scored six points for BM.

Central scored in the final 50 seconds to nip Atlantic, 29-28, while Central's jayvees also won, 27-10.

Panthers Shock Bridgewater In S.S. League Action

The Quincy Panthers provided the biggest upset of the South Shore Hockey League Sunday when they shocked South Shore Division-leading Bridgewater, 10-7, enabling the Quincy Flyers, a 9-1 winner over Braintree, to move to within a point of Bridgewater.

The Panthers, improving every week, were tied at 3-3 after a period and led, 7-6, going into the final period. Jay Nolan, the league's number two scorer, had the hat trick and added three assists. Alan Borgal scored twice, including the winning goal. The Panthers have scored 25 goals in their last two games. The Flyers' win qualified them for the Eastern Mass. Amateur Tournament in March and if the Panthers win their next two games they also will qualify.

Bantam A's Wallop Hingham

The Sons of Italy Bantam A team walloped Hingham, 9-4, sparked by Kevin Craig's hat trick. Richie Stevens and Tommy Lester had two goals apiece and Frank Reynolds and Mark Sayers one each. Craig also had four assists and Tommy O'Connor had three.

Raiders At Weymouth N.

North Quincy's basketball team is not enjoying a happy season but several players are performing well and making Coach Eddie Miller's job a bit easier.

Friday the Raiders, with a 4-7 record, (3-7 in the Suburban League) will play at Weymouth North and next Tuesday will host Weymouth South at the Vo-Tech gym. Both varsity games start at 8.

Kevin Cobban, the quarterback of the team, had a big night from the foul line last Friday as he scored 13 of his 15 points from the free throw stripe to pace the Raiders to a 47-46 win over Brockton.

Cobban, who sank a foul shot with 13 seconds to play to clinch it, was eight for 10 from the foul line in the last period when the Raiders stayed off a Brockton comeback try.

North led, 24-17, at the half, but saw the lead cut to 33-31 after three periods. The teams traded baskets in the final quarter but North went up by five with two minutes left and held on.

Jim Holleran, the Suburban League's top scorer with an average of nearly 16 points a game, added 12 points and he and Cobban held Brockton's leading scorer, John Berksta, to 10 points.

Sophomore Mark Millane, who has been having an excellent season, took down seven rebounds and another sophomore, Paul Mallory, came off the bench and played well.

Earlier in the week North lost to Brookline, 52-43, losing a 12-point halftime bulge.

Holleran scored 19 points, 11 in the first half as he sparked the Raiders to a 29-17 halftime lead but Brookline put on the pressure in the third period, forcing turnovers, and moved to within a point. The Indians then outscored North, 16-6, in the final period.

Quincy Girls Clicking

The Quincy girls' basketball team is clicking on all cylinders and in recent games has been one of the hottest teams in the Suburban League.

Friday the First Ladies will take a 6-4 league record and an 8-5 overall mark to Brockton and next Tuesday will be home to Newton North at the Quincy High gym. Both games start at 3:15.

Last Friday Barbara Webster's Quincy team, fresh from a great win over Weymouth, which had lost only once, rolled over Brookline, 65-46, as Sue Callahan scored 21 points in the first period to lead the First Ladies to a 30-4 lead and it was easy the rest of the way.

Callahan scored 30 points as Quincy's full-court press kept Brookline confused throughout the game. Paula Lynch pulled down 10 rebounds and Maureen Walsh and Karen Murphy each had six points.

Earlier in the week Quincy faced a Weymouth South team which had an 8-1 record and early in the season had come from behind to nip Quincy by one point.

This time it was a more experienced Quincy team and the First Ladies, showing a lot of poise, upset the Wildcats, 55-49. "We've improved a lot since the first game when we led most of the game but lost in the final seconds," Miss Webster said. "The experienced showed as the girls didn't lose their cool and stayed with it."

Weymouth took a 14-11 first period lead but Quincy, breaking the Wildcats' press and holding high scoring Robin Morse to four points in the first half, took a 27-20 halftime advantage.

The First Ladies extended their lead to 43-32, and despite a comeback by Weymouth, kept at least a five-point lead.

Walsh scored 11 points, Laura Riley added 10 and Callahan had nine.

Quincy Matmen Can Clinch Suburban Title Saturday

Quincy's wrestling team can clinch the Suburban League championship Saturday in a 5:30 p.m. meet at Waltham. Today (Thursday) Quincy hosts Chelmsford, one of the state's top teams, also at 5:30.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents improved their record to 5-0 in the league and 13-1 overall last Saturday with wins over Newton North, the defending league titlist, 29-25, and Lowell, defending state champion, 26-24.

"I feel winning these two meets against the state and league champions consisted the best performance in our five-year history," Mariano said.

Against Newton the seniors made the difference as the co-captains, Steve Notarangelo and Steve Venturelli, pinned their opponents as did Tony Akoury, Rennie Crowe, Kurt Braun and Ron DeCesare, other seniors, also chipped in valuable points as did John Herald, who is developing into the best sophomore Mariano has coached.

In the Lowell meet Notarangelo and Venturelli had trouble against state champions but other members of the squad responded to pick up the slack.

Herald again came through with a pin as did fellow sophomore Joe Souza. Senior Jim Mullarkey and junior Geoff Caflich, who lost tough matches against Newton, came back to score impressive wins, while Braun, Crowe and Akoury kept their records perfect on the night with important wins.

Venturelli leads the Presidents in scoring with a 12-1 record and 66 points, Crowe is 12-1 for 62 points, Akoury is 9-1 for 50 points, Mullarkey is 11-1 for 49 points, Braun is 11-1 for 46 points, junior Martin Doyle is 7-4 for 40 points, junior Mike Gordon is 9-2 for 39 points, Souza is 7-4 for 36 points, Herald is 7-1 for 34 points and Notarangelo, who missed several meets due to an injury, is 5-1 for 27 points.

Undermanned North Wrestlers Host Milton

North Quincy's undermanned wrestling team has been having its troubles but coach Steve Joyce, forced to default in a number of matches, is pleased with the individual efforts of several of his grapplers.

The Raiders host Milton tonight (Thursday) at 6 at the Vo-Tech gym and Friday will be home to Scituate at 6 at the Quincy Armory.

North lost a heartbreaker to Weymouth South, 32-30, last week to drop its record to 3-8. The loss was particularly disappointing to Joyce as the meet was decided in the 188-pound class when John Gorczyca of the Raiders, who had lost only twice in his previous nine bouts, appeared on his way to another win only to have Weymouth's Mike Kennedy come on strong in the late stages to earn the decision and give Weymouth the win.

North was forced to forfeit in the 100-pound and heavyweight classes.

The Raiders continue to shine in the middle-weight classes with Steve Sweet winning at 128 pounds, a 13-0 decision; Gino Pillard winning, 12-0, and Dave Howley pinning Jim Fuller at 140 pounds.

North's John Coughlin pinned Kevin McCue in the 150-pound class.

"All the matches went about as I expected except in the 188-pound class," said Joyce, who had only 16 boys go out for the team this year. "I don't think this was Gorczyca's best match."

"We are hurt by our small squad and the fact we have to forfeit matches, but the enthusiasm among the boys is still high and we have had some fine performances."

Earlier North had gained its third win, 35-24, over Brookline, as Howley won at 147 pounds, Coughlin was the 157-pound winner, Liam Cataldo won at 100 pounds, Sweet was the 128-pound winner and Pillard and Richie Donna also won.

Former Football Standout

Frazier Finds Success In Wrestling, Too

Ralph Frazier, the only North Quincy football coach to lead the Raiders to three straight wins over Quincy and a former North standout himself, is enjoying a fine season as first-year wrestling coach at Duxbury High.

Frazier, who resigned as North's faculty manager to accept a physical education position at Duxbury, has piloted his Dragons to a 7-1 record and they are leading the South Shore League.

"I was fortunate in inheriting a program that has been developed here at Duxbury," Frazier said. "The people who have been affiliated with the school have been great. The administration, the parents and the students have done nothing but help."

Duxbury has had wrestling for several years and the help for Frazier starts in the grammar and junior high schools, which have successful feeder programs.

"When you have a program that starts in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, the kids are developed and I don't claim to take any of the credit," he said.

Three of Frazier's top performers are John Harrington, Tom Ferguson and Brian Kates.

"Harrington is a sophomore and very dedicated," Frazier said. "He's a hard working kid who's been to wrestling camps. Ferguson is a junior but has been wrestling right from the start, about five or six years now, and Kates is from a wrestling family and he's been wrestling since he could walk and that is no exaggeration."

Applications Available For Women's Tourney

The 24th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy will begin Sunday, Feb. 18, at Noon at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, 679 Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston.

Applications are now available at the alleys for any Women's Candlepin Bowling League wishing to participate.

Teams entered must be from an organized women's bowling league. No pickup teams will be allowed and rules governing the event are the same as League participation.

The top five bowlers as of Feb. 1, bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings used as alternates. If any of the top seven cannot participate, the League Official may continue to choose according to average.

Bowlers registered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues and may only bowl for one tourney entry.

Any violation of the rules will forfeit the teams participation or continuance in tourney play.

All matches will be decided on total pinfall in tourney competition.

It is an elimination contest and each team must win to continue in competition.

Opposition is provided previous to each match when the team captains draw an alley for the contest with the competition of the day, the team on the opposite alley.

The members of the championship team of the tourney will each receive an individual trophy and a $50. team prize while the high stringing average, individual three string total and single string winners will also be presented trophy awards.

The event is sponsored each year by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter athletic and recreation program.

GET THE LEAD OUT

If you're to embark on a redecorating project, caution: before you start stripping old paint from your walls, prepare to keep it out of your lungs by wearing a small paper mask over your nose and mouth. Otherwise, if the paint is lead-based, you could inhale enough dust to get a full-fledged case of lead poisoning, with or without symptomatic abdominal pain.

How can you tell whether the paint contains lead? If it's really old (20 years or more), the chances are good that it does. Your local health department, or a college laboratory, might be willing to analyze a chip for you. But the Consumer Product Safety Commission suggests that you use a mask regardless, since even lead-free-paint dust isn't good for your health.

Take precautions with the scraped peelings. Young children will chew on anything and lead paint chips are the biggest cause of lead poisoning in the home. Place the scrapings in bags, tie securely and dispose in a covered garbage container.

Junior High Basketball

Central Off To Fast Start

Central Junior High boys' basketball team is off to a good start, winning its first two games last week.

Central rolled over Sterling, 43-17, for its second win in a row. Dan Marster, who shared scoring honors with Mike Burnes with eight points, hit on a 40-foot jump shot at the buzzer in the first period. John Keenan, Wesley Paul, Ray Mallory, Steve Sacchetti, Ross Connerty, Kevin Wood, Dennis White and Steve Lenhardt all played well for Central.

Sterling's junior varsity won, 30-27, sparked by Jeff Timberlake, who scored eight points. Central's John Purland had nine points and John Phelan, Bob Mudge, Tim Ryan and Mike Wallace also scored.

Earlier in the week Mike

Casali's Central team defeated Atlantic-North, 33-20. Central controlling the pace from the opening tip. Mallory started Central rolling with two quick layups and Mike Guidice also shone in the first half. Marsters was outstanding on defense. In the second half Central pulled away but Atlantic's Pat King kept his team in contention with eight points. Also starting for Central were Burnes, Sacchetti and Keenan. Paul scored six points late in the game. He finished with 12.

Central's javees won, 27-20, sparked by Mudge's 12 points. Purland and Scott Mele had four each. Wayne Ham, Ryan, Gary Brown and Ricky Radzik also played well.

Broad Meadows, after winning two in a row, bowed to Atlantic, 33-25, with Atlantic's defensive intimidation the difference. Chris Bunker [6-7] keying the defense. Jeff Morrison, however, was outstanding defensively as he held Bunker to five points and scored 16 himself.

Atlantic's junior varsity won, 31-15.

In its previous game Broad Meadows had nipped Point, 32-21, in overtime with Point leading the hard-fought game most of the way. Jim DiPietro saved the game for BM with a reverse underhand scoop shot and a foul shot with 38 seconds left in the game, to send the game into overtime. Steve Spencer took over and sparked the win with his scoring and rebounding.

● St. Ann's Hockey Plaza, Razer's Edge Hold Division Leads

Plaza Olds holds a four-point lead in the Bantam Division of St. Ann's Hockey League despite a 5-4 loss to Lydon Russell.

'Clear Sailing' Seen On UDAG Application

deviate from the federal guidelines it could jeopardize future federal programs in other areas."

The Mayor said he places such importance on the $4.5 million UDAG to build a parking garage over the MBTA tracks that he will personally carry Quincy's application from Boston to Washington, if HUD will let him.

"We can't put the Della Chiesa Parking Area development together without the garage," he said, "and we can't put the garage together with the development."

Under the normal UDAG process, Quincy's application will remain in Boston for review and recommendation by the Regional Office, then be passed on to Washington for final approval.

Tobin said he is having appointments set up for him in Washington with Cong. Brian J. Donnelly, Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Paul Tsongas at the time the UDAG arrives.

"I want to talk to them, not only about the Della Chiesa area, but revitalization of other urban areas," he said. "I want to be able to say, 'Here is what we want to do and here is what we need.'"

The Mayor said Planning Director Walter J. Hannon and Robert T. Kenney, president of Urban Consulting Associates, who is advising Quincy on UDAGs, probably will go to the Capitol with him.

The Council passed the Mayor's UDAG package Friday by a unanimous 8-0 vote after tacking on amendments that made the terms of the various leases more specific.

Councillor Francis X. McCauley did not attend either the meeting of the Council or its Downtown Development Committee on the advice of City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming and Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt.

McCauley is president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank which occupies one of the buildings to be taken as part of the development. The bank had been negotiating to buy the building.

The UDAG package included:
• Authorization for the Mayor to apply for the UDAG of $4,534,000 for construction of a 680-space parking garage over the MBTA tracks; partial funding of the Burgin Parkway Extension bridge; and funding for municipal land taking, relocation and demolition.

• Abandonment by the city of the Della Chiesa Parking Area as a parking lot.

• Authorization for the Mayor to lease from the MBTA for a term of 99 years the air rights over the tracks near Granite St., with the expense of the lease to be borne out of the receipts from the parking garage.

• Authorization for the Mayor to lease to the developer, Campanelli Enterprises of Braintree, some 500 parking spaces in the garage at the rate of $15 a space, with the rate adjusted every five years to reflect increases in garage operating costs.

• Authorization for the Mayor to lease to Campanelli Enterprises the abandoned Della Chiesa Parking Area for $1 a year for 50 years with an option to buy at the end of 15 years at fair market value.

• Acceptance of a recommendation from the Planning Board that privately owned land on the fringe of the parking area, including that occupied by McCauley's Presidential Cooperative Bank, be taken by eminent domain for the project.

Councillor Daniel G. Raymond told the Downtown Committee that he would not vote for any of the other orders in the package if the Planning Board's recommendation was not included.

"We have assurances from the Mayor that the land will be taken by eminent domain," said Planning Director Walter J. Hannon. "You have that assurance from me personally and from the Mayor."

The package was also amended to place the Council on record "in favor of making it mandatory for any selected developer to solely employ members of AFL-CIO construction trade union."

Councillor Joseph E. Brett entered a brief protest against the $1 a year lease rate on the parking area but it was ruled out of order and his move to have a separate vote on it failed for lack of a second.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., who previously had expressed concern that the Council would not be closely involved with the project once it voted, told the Committee that he had been assured by the Mayor that the Council would continue to be consulted.

"A commitment was reached with the Mayor that the IZIA (a tax concession agreement) will have to be signed prior to the Council voting on the UDAG grant," he said. "I feel that the end result will be Council involvement."

Business News/Real Estate

Up 18% Over 1977

Conway Co. Sets Record $95 Million Volume Real Estate Sales

An all time record sales volume is reported by South Shore and Cape Cod Realtor Jack Conway as he released year end figures for the 21-year old real estate firm bearing his name. Volume is up 18% over last year.

Conway announced to his managers and directors at the annual corporate meeting held at Hanover that "we finished up the year with $95 million in total sales, $5 million off the target, but still a magnificent year and well ahead of the $80 million reported last year.

"We probably would have made our $100 million goal, but I think the high mortgage rates the past few months could have caused the loss of a few sales on the residential side and a few financing problems on the commercial side," he said.

"The year was exciting for us. We opened new sales centers in Easton, Holbrook, Canton and Milton Lower Mills and these offices, opening at various times of the year, naturally helped our growth.

"Our brightest spot in the Conway Country sales picture was on Cape Cod where our six offices showed a 36% sales increase, which was excellent.

"We were involved in some 2,313 transactions throughout the South Shore and Cape Cod areas during the course of the year. These sales ran all the way from individual house lots to large residential and commercial sales."

Conway further reported that a substantial amount of the firm's residential business was as a result of the company's membership in RELO/Inter-City Relocation Service which is the largest real estate executive relocation company in the world with 1,200 member companies throughout the United States and overseas.

"The most dramatic thing that happened during 1978 was the acceleration of interest rates which went all the way from 8% - 8½% at the beginning of the year to 10 - 10½% by the close of business in December," said Conway, a former President of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors. "In spite of this dramatic rise in the cost of mortgage money the buyers, for the most part confidently went ahead and made purchase of homes and land which the, felt was their only real hedge against inflation."

Conway reported that real estate prices in this area generally kept pace with the increased inflation, but in no way got caught up in a run away auction type of price increase as they did in some other parts of the country. He said the prices here were fairly stable and showed normal, not wildly dramatic increases.

The Jack Conway Company was established in 1957 and is now completing its 21st year in the real estate brokerage sales business. The company is divided into four different sales divisions: Quincy Division comprises sales office in Quincy, Milton, Canton, South Weymouth and Hingham; Western Division includes Easton, West Bridgewater, Holbrook, Hanson, Whitman and Taunton; Eastern Division has offices in Cohasset, Scituate, Marshfield, Hanover, Duxbury and Plymouth; and the Cape Cod Division has offices in Sandwich, Falmouth, Hyannis, East Dennis, West Yarmouth and a commercial office on Rte. 28 in Hyannis.

HUD Compliance Violates Bakke Decision Says QHA Counsel

plan." Hunt also took issue with Vera's statement in an interview with The Sun last week that "part of the problem is the general counsel [Hunt]. He is trying to set policy...."

"The law must and shall always affect policy," said Hunt. "When the law is set aside, whether for seemingly good or for evil purposes, there is always resulting harm."

"My advice to the Board of the Authority has been to comply with the demands of Mr. Vera, but to comply only in accordance with the law."

"My first contact with Mr. Vera was by receipt of a copy of a letter to the board of the Authority telling them that I was legally wrong in advising them that in state-financed public housing, the law requires that when there are more applicants for public housing than there are units, preference shall be given to inhabitants of the city or town in which the project is located...."

"Mr. Vera stated that a former state attorney general had declared that law unconstitutional, and the local press promptly quoted his statement as gospel."

"I pointed out to Mr. Vera when he later met with the board that the attorney general's opinion to which he had referred made by the Honorable Bob Quinn in 1972 related to a residence requirement as distinguished from a preference and had no effect on the preference referred to above contained in Section 32 of Chapter 121B of the Massachusetts General Laws.

"This did not faze Mr. Vera, who then promptly advised the board that they should 'waive' the law, or that he would prevail upon the Department of Community Affairs, the state financing agency, to waive the law as to state-financed public housing."

"I told Mr. Vera, who I believe is also a lawyer, that neither the board nor the DCA can waive a law. I think our present attorney general would agree, as would the courts throughout the Commonwealth."

Hunt said that the U.S. Congress "has become aware of HUD's growing repressive practices in the name of providing decent government-supported housing to the low income section of the public and, hopefully, it will soon act to curb them."

"As general counsel, I will continue to attempt to advise the board of our authority on the law and advise them to continue to obey the law and resist the tactic of threatening to withhold funds for the purpose of forcing the board to violate or circumvent the law."

"However, I merely advise. It is the Board which decides."

Feb. 19 Deadline For

Comments On Town River Filling

The Army Corps of Engineers has set a Feb. 19 deadline for comments on a proposal by the John J. Duane Realty Corp. to fill in a section of wetland adjacent to the Town River off Utica St., Adams Shore.

The purpose of the fill is to enable the 1/4 acre of land to be used for single family homes and to eliminate a nuisance situation created by trash being dumped in the area.

Duane said it has obtained a Quincy Conservation Commission Order of Conditions and has requested a license from the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Comments on the Duane proposal should be submitted in writing to the Department of the Army, New England Division, Corps of Engineers, 424 Trapelo Rd., Waltham, Mass. 02154.

WIN FABULOUS Panasonic PRIZES

Just guess how much cash we take in and give out during three months at

Gránite
your co-operative Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month. Good Luck!

Line-By-Line Review

School Committee Eyes More Cuts In Budget

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy School Committee, presented with a recommended budget .5 percent below last year's $31.4 million outlay, is seeking further cuts in a line-by-line review, despite protests by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon that requests submitted are the bare minimums required to maintain the schools.

At last week's review session the committee cut nearly $100,000 from sections dealing with learning materials, custodial supplies, buildings and grounds renovations.

Committee Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland challenged the $30,000 request for learning systems materials. At a previous meeting she had asked for a $5,000 cut in the item and the motion was tabled.

Mrs. Toland moved the matter be taken from the table and changed the cut to $15,000. She told the committee she had gone over purchase orders for the past several years and it was her opinion that "we have expended a great deal of money on things that don't have to be re-supplied every year, particularly with declining enrollment."

Magazine and periodical subscriptions, she said, could come under the library or audiovisual items, books should be part of the textbook item.

"Apparently, I did not communicate with you effectively enough," Dr. Creedon countered. "This money is not for re-supplying materials. It is for the purchase of materials which are new to the market, or have not been used by our schools before."

"Before we allow the wide purchase of learning materials for the schools we require that the materials be sampled, piloted and that all of them be evaluated," he explained.

Council Favors Flashing Lights At 26 Schools

The City Council has approved a resolution by Councillor James Sheets calling on the city to activate an order for the installation of flashing lights and signs at 26 school locations.

Sheets said the project will cost approximately $200,000 and the money will come from state funds. He informed the council that the project was proposed in 1972 and that funds are running out.

The Council also approved a request to have the Quincy traffic commission conduct a study of conditions at the intersection of East Elm and Elm and West Elm and Elm Avenues, considered a dangerous intersection.

City Eyes Over $650,000 Aid For Blizzard of '78

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy has received or will receive $349,880 from the federal government as a result of damage and other costs incurred by the city during the Blizzard of Feb. 6, 1978.

And more than $300,000 more is under appeal by the city.

The figures for damage to Municipal facilities were disclosed Tuesday, the first anniversary of the storm that crippled the city, by Asst. City Solicitor Dennis E. Harrington, the city's liaison man with the federal government. The damage to private property has yet to be computed.

The largest sum in dispute is about $250,000 the city claims should be reimbursed for overtime put in by city workers while the community was digging out from under 27 inches of drifting snow.

"We were the only city in the area involved in the disaster," said Harrington. "The federal people don't seem to realize that we operate differently from the towns. The towns didn't have the same costs that we did so our applications looked different. They are different. It's a matter of convincing the federal people they should be different."

The federal reimbursements are divided into three categories: Snow removal, damage to [Cont'd on Page 13]

Tobin To Sign $295,000 Contract For HN Center

Mayor Tobin tonight (Thursday) is scheduled to sign a $295,000 contract with Eastern Construction Co. of Dracut to build the long-awaited Houghs Neck Community Center.

The signing ceremony is planned for 7:30 p.m. in St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Darrow St.

Ground will be broken at the corner of Macy and Sea Sts. about the first of March and the target date for completion of the building is early September.

The Center will include a branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, a community function room with kitchen, and a community health center.

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly said he sees the Houghs Neck Center as an ideal center for emergency operations should that section of the city be ravaged by a storm like the one of Feb. 6, 1978.

Speakers at the signing will include Tobin, Kelly and Jack Hacunda, president of the Manet Health Center, Inc., which will oversee the health center.

Norma Gacia Named Assistant City Assessor

Mrs. Norma Gacia of 20 Stanley Circle, Quincy Center, has been named to the $1,200 a year post of assistant assessor to fill a vacancy on the board.

Mrs. Gacia and her husband, Peter, operate an insurance and real estate business and have been active in civic affairs for many years.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said he will name a successor to Assessor James P. Papile around March 1. Papile's three-year term expired Monday and Tobin failed to reappoint him.

Explosion But No Damage At Rear Of City Hall Annex

A spark from a welder's torch caused an explosion and small fire Monday at the rear of the new addition to City Hall where workmen are installing glass siding on the building.

Deputy Fire Chief Herbert Rourke said the fire was confined to a 55-gallon metal drum containing poly vinyl chloride, a solvent used in roofing the building.

Frank Creatorex of Dyer St., Billerica, the welder, told fire officials he was working on a first floor brace when high winds blew the sparks in the direction of the barrel standing outside the building. He said he dashed for safety when he heard the first hissing noise.

Charles Black, superintendent for Mascone Construction, general contractors, said the drum was sealed. He was unable to explain how the spark worked its way inside the drum.

Noise of the blast startled people throughout the Quincy Sq. area.

Council Votes $7,700 For Fire Chief's New Car

The Quincy City Council has approved $7,700 for the purchase of a new car for Fire Chief Edward Barry, but only after being assured the money was being transferred within the fire department budget.

City Auditor Charles Shea explained that the money would be transferred from personal services to capital outlay. He said that the money was available because no appointments had been made during a three month period this fiscal year as a result of a hold-up in civil service examinations.

City Councillor Joanne Condon asked if other city departments had funds which could be transferred from one account to another.

"Some do and some don't," Shea replied. "That is, excluding the Quincy City Hospital and that is being worked on."

He assured the Council that all departments are working within the budgets approved and no extra funding is anticipated.

Instead of Expanding Nut Island

City Urges State Endorse Plan For Satellite Sewage Treatment Plants

Quincy officials have urged Secretary John Bewick to endorse a plan for satellite sewage treatment plants, rather than expanding the MDC's Nut Island plant in Houghs Neck.

Sen. Paul D. Harold, who arranged a meeting to brief the new secretary on the history and status of the Nut Island plant, said that although the final decision on whether to build a series of satellite plants along the MDC sewer network, or expand Nut Island will be made by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Quincy officials want state support in avoiding the expansion plan.

Also urging Bewick to support satellite plants are Reps. Michael Morrissey and Thomas Brownell (both D-Quincy) and Conservation Commission Secretary Clara Yeomans.

"The state environmental agency will not make the final decision, but we want the secretary on our side during the EPA decision-making process," Harold said.

He noted that Bewick's predecessor, Evelyn Murphy, supported the idea of satellite treatment plants in various communities, rather than one huge plant in Quincy.

"Secretary Bewick told us that this is going to be one of the biggest issues facing his department and he agreed to work with the state and local officials to come to an acceptable solution," Harold reported.

5 Closed Gasoline Stations Ordered To Remove Tanks

Fire Chief Edward Barry has served notice on five Quincy gasoline stations that have closed operation to remove their tanks from the ground or face loss of license.

The Licensing Board agreed to summon the owners of the five stations to a hearing in two weeks to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

The stations are Fortuna Citgo, 470 Adams St.; Neighborhood Citgo, 610 Hancock St.; Granite Gulf, 77 Granite St.; Quincy Oil Co., 53 Hancock St.; and Old Colony Gas, 707 Washington St.

Barry explained that when a gasoline station closes permanently, which is defined as more than six months, the license holder must remove the product from the tank and the tank from the ground.

The Chief said that there are other stations in the city under similar circumstances that have not yet been out of operation for six months.

Quincy Skills Center State Model

Donnelly Pledges To Fight Carter CETA Funds Cut

By PETER BARNICLE

Congressman Brian Donnelly has pledged to oppose an effort by the Carter Administration to cut funds for the Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Speaking at an open house at the new CETA Skills Training Center, Hayward St., North Quincy, Donnelly said the administration must take the unique economic situation of the north-east into consideration.

"This is not a 'make-work' program. It is one that prepares people for jobs in private industry," he said, referring to the skills center. "We need CETA in Quincy and throughout this area. I am going to fight to see that the funds are not cut."

Bernard J. Rudman, assistant secretary in the state office of economic affairs, told the gathering the Quincy skill center will act as a model for the rest of the state. He said it is a prototype in the program to re-focus the efforts of CETA.

State and city officials attended the open house which was preceded by a buffet breakfast prepared by the culinary arts students at the center.

The center which occupies 35,000 square feet on three floors of the old Boston Gear Works plant will provide training in culinary arts, clerical work, machine shop practice, general building construction and orthotic and prosthetic skills.

Paul Ricca, director of Quincy's CETA program, told the guests that the center is already planning an expansion of the training courses.

"There is a growing and unmet need for technicians and assemblers in the computer and electronics industry," he said. "We are working with a number of these firms to identify specific training needs."

"Our goal is to have employers waiting in line to hire our students," he said.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, congratulated Ricca on the program and noted that it was needed to attract new industry to this area.

Others who attended the breakfast and tour of the center included: George Kariotis, state secretary of economic affairs; Ralph Jordan, executive director of state manpower services council; Fred Nader, executive director of the balance of state, CETA; Paul Shone, executive advisor to Sen. Paul Tsongas, and Walter Hannon, Quincy planning director.

Others were State Senator Paul Harold and State Representatives Michael Morrissey, Thomas Brownell, Joseph Manning of Milton and Mary Jeannette Murray of Cohasset; City Councilors Joanne Condon, Frank McCauley, and Stephen McGrath.

17 Appointed To Boards

Women's Talent Bank Being Updated, Expanded

The Talent Bank, aimed at having qualified women available for appointments to various boards and commissions, is being updated and expanded.

Established last year by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the Talent Bank has resulted in the appointment of 17 women to city and non-profit boards.

"We hope that even more women will be appointed this year," said Miss Toby Felton, speaking for the Talent Bank Task Force.

Mrs. Felton noted the Talent Bank has a dual purpose:

"For women, it offers a means to learn of upcoming vacancies as well as a direct way to apply for appointments to boards. For the city and other agencies, it offers a list of women willing and interested in serving them."

Over 100 women are already members of the Talent Bank and have completed application forms which indicated their major interests such as employment, housing, women, history, education, etc. When the Women's Commission is notified of an upcoming vacancy, all women who have expressed an interest in that area are informed of the vacancy and asked to submit a more detailed resume. The Commission does not screen applicants but provides the opportunity for all interested women to be considered for appointment.

Women who are interested in joining the Talent Bank or updating their Talent Bank application form should call the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, 479-4885 and obtain an application form.

"We urge as many women as possible to participate in the Talent Bank," said Miss Felton. "It is one way to insure that the interest of women in their community is expressed."

Funding for the Talent Bank has come from the Quincy Savings Bank.

Satisfying Experience For Beth Gamache

Quincy Woman With Peace Corps Helps Train Teachers In Special Education

(Special To The Quincy Sun)

A Peace Corps volunteer from Quincy is working in Mossoro, Brazil, to share her skills in teaching exceptional children with less experienced Brazilian teachers.

She is Beth A. Gamache, 25, of 125 Darrow St., Houghs Neck daughter of Robert and Ellen Gamache of Quincy. A 1972 graduate of Quincy High School, she earned a bachelor's degree in special education from Fitchburg State College in Fitchburg. Before joining the Peace Corps in April, 1977, she worked as a house coordinator at New England Villages Inc., a residence for mentally retarded adults.

Her assignment in Brazil, Miss Gamache explains, is to provide orientation in special education methodology to teachers who have had no previous experience with exceptional children.

At the school in Mossoro where she works, she says:

"I meet with one teacher each morning and help with lesson plans and make any suggestions I can."

"I meet with one teacher per afternoon to discuss lesson plans and also administer a battery of diagnostic tests which I've translated to one child at a time."

"The test result give the teacher something to go on. They provide her with a basic awareness of the child's specific weaknesses and needs."

Besides working at the school daily, she spends her Saturday mornings there writing up reports of the test results. Her weekday routine includes being picked up by the school's van at 7:30 a.m., returning home for lunch at 11:30 a.m., and returning by van at 1:30 p.m. to resume the day's work. During evenings and weekends, she may visit one of the three movie theaters in town or see her friends.

Miss Gamache observes that Brazilians are very family-oriented people who "find it most curious about me that I live alone and don't really mind being so far from my family."

"It's a major problem, trying to overcome being just a curiosity to them and being accepted as an individual," she adds.

In her work and daily life, Miss Gamache speaks Portuguese, the official language of Latin America's largest and most populous nation. She studied the language during a 10-week Peace Corps training session prior to starting her assignment and finds that, "out of necessity, it gets easier and easier."

The volunteer will complete her two-year assignment this April. Looking back over nearly two years of Peace Corps service, she says her most satisfying experiences are in "seeing a teacher employing with a student a concept or idea which I know I helped incite, but having her explain it as though it were her own idea."

Miss Gamache is one of about 110 Peace Corps volunteers now serving in Brazil. Around the world, nearly 7,000 Peace Corps volunteers and trainees are working to help meet basic human needs in 63 developing countries in Latin America, Africa, Asia and the Pacific.

The Peace Corps is part of ACTION, the federal agency for volunteer service. ACTION's domestic programs include VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), the Foster Grandparent Program, Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and Senior Companion Program. Sam Brown is the director of ACTION.

Interested persons may call ACTION's toll free national number, 800-424-8580, for more information. In Massachusetts, they may contact ACTION's Boston recruiting office at Room 1405, John W. McCormack Post Office and Courthouse Bldg., Boston, Mass. 02109, telephone 617-223-7366.

QLWV Discuss Taxes Cost Of State, Local Services

Quincy League of Voters discussed taxes and paying for state and local government services at Item Chairman Mary Gossard's home recently.

Members considered the merits of various types of taxes in relation to fairness, ease and cost of collection, economic effect, public acceptance and ability to pay.

They also discussed state and local tax limits. Members considered methods of insuring that additional state aid to municipalities be used to reduce property tax and the importance of continuing to provide necessary local services in view of proposed federal and state program cutbacks.

Consensus of conclusions at this and other league meetings across the state will become the official position of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters on financing government.

President Mary Flavin announced the League will hold a Valentine's Day reception for local legislators at the State House.

Rose Drohan Honored On 93rd Birthday

Mrs. Rose Drohan, of 26 Viden Rd., South Quincy, was honored on her 93rd birthday recently with a citation from Mayor Arthur Tobin and members of the City Council.

The citation was presented at Mrs. Drohan's home by John Quinn, president of the City Council. She also received a bouquet of flowers from Quinn's wife, Lorraine.

Mrs. Drohan, the former Rose Wiperman, was born in Boston in 1886.

A graduate of Boston schools and Notre Dame Academy, she was married June 22, 1910, to Joseph F. Drohan, who died in 1944.

She lives with her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Hancock, and son-in-law, William Hancock.

Mrs. Drohan has three grandchildren Marilyn Cincotti, of Randolph; William J. Hancock, of Marblehead, and Richard A. Hancock, of Braintree, as well as three great grandchildren, Christina Marie Cincotti, age 3, Eric Stephen Hancock, 8, and Amy Hancock, 3.

Active in many organizations, she has been a member of the ladies auxiliary of Moose, Granite City Grange, Daughters of Isabella, Lady Ritchie Organization and Paul Revere Women's Relief Corporation.

A resident of Quincy for 65 years, she has been a subscriber to the Quincy Sun since the paper began.

She is looking forward to celebrating her 100th birthday in 1986.

Your Dental Health

The concept that excessive amounts of sugar and refined starches are the chief offenders in dental health is not a new one. Research as early as 1967 indicated that there was a relationship between the ingestion of sugar and tooth decay. Fortunately, saliva has a tendency to neutralize harmful acids produced by consumed foods. Sugar in its many forms is consumed by the American public at a rate ten times greater than that of our ancestors of one hundred years ago. It is estimated that the average person consumes over 120 pounds of sugar each year.

Good nutrition and good oral hygiene go together in preventing dental problems. Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., whose office for the practice of general dentistry is at 539 Adams St., East Milton Square, advises that preventive dentistry makes good economic sense. Regular dental check-ups prevent small problems from becoming big ones. Parents are urged to bring your children [from 3 years] to the dentist to instill good oral hygiene habits. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. We honor insurance plans, Master Charge, and Visa.

School Committee Eyes More Budget Cuts

"The $30,000 is to give us an opportunity a year in advance to look at the materials so we can assess them on a limited pilot program.

"It's to see if we are investing $880,000 wisely. If we don't have any way of knowing what we are buying then we are investing the $880,000 blindly. The $30,000 is to protect the $880,000," he said.

Committeewoman Joan Picard noted that one order called for the purchase of 400 units. Creodon said that was for a system-wide study of metrics and called the purchase unusual. Most of the orders ranged from one to 20, and the majority were for only one sample of each proposed kit.

Committeeman Frank Anselmo vigorously opposed any cuts in items involving books and learning materials.

"I am a firm believer in education," Anselmo said. "That's why I came to this country in the first place. I object to some books—very strongly. But I don't believe we were elected to reduce the working tools of the school system. We are not cutting the boughs we are cutting at the roots of education." The item was placed on the table.

The committee also tabled a proposed $5,000 cut in the $30,000 figure for testing.

Creodon said the state board of education has mandated basic skills testing and improvement programs starting in 1980 and insisted he would be unable to comply without the funds budgeted.

He also noted that the state is asking for criterion reference tests rather than the standardized norms tests presently in use. The criterion reference tests are more expensive.

The superintendent also defended the junior high school "Outreach" program and said the program was a major factor in bringing down the drop-out rate. He noted that last year the drop-out rate was 3.1 percent as compared with six percent in the 1972-73 school year. The committee approved the $2,500 for the program.

During the session the committee cut $38,000 from the $1.15 million operating expenses budget, which includes custodial supplies, fuel, natural gas, light and telephones.

Creodon told them the light and telephone bills are currently about 10 percent over last year. He said that increase in fuel costs made it doubtful if he could hold oil expenditures at last year's level, let alone reducing them.

The committee agreed to take a look at the fuel allowance at a later date.

On the $490,000 building maintenance request Anselmo proposed a slice of $50,000. Creodon quickly noted that his recommendation was about one-half a percent of the approximate $200 million value of the plant.

The condition of the wall at Veterans Memorial Stadium was discussed and Creodon informed the committee it has deteriorated so badly it will have to be rebuilt. It was suggested the work might be done as a CETA project and the superintendent was asked to make inquiries.

The committee approved a motion cutting $15,000 from the request.

$1,900 Voted To Reimburse 90 Firefighters For Books

Fire Chief Edward Barry has obtained approval from the City Council for payment of $1,900 to more than 90 members of Firefighters Local 792 seeking to be compensated for books purchased in connection with a course in fire science.

Chief Barry told the council the department had entered a verbal agreement with the firefighters regarding payment for the books. However, over the past five years the costs had increased and the matter was decided by binding arbitration.

Vane St. Parking Lot Action Deferred

The City Council has deferred action on a request for the taking of a parcel of land at 9 Vane St., Norfolk Downs, for a parking lot, by referring the matter to the planning board.

City Councillor Joanne Condon told the council the present owners of the property have agreed to the taking.

The land is to be used to enlarge the present parking lot as part of the Norfolk Downs revitalization Project.

Private Bus Company Request Tabled

The City Council this week tabled a request from Ride Well, Inc., a private bus company, asking permission to use Hancock and East Squantum Sts. in transporting employees and visitors from Fields Corner, Dorchester, to the Long Island Hospital.

City Councillor John Lydon in asking the request he tabled said that he opposed granting such rights to private transportation companies. He said the MBTA should be called on to consider the feasibility of such a bus route.

Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month.

First Church Of Squantum Program Emphasizes The Bible

First Church of Squantum, Bellevue Rd., has inaugurated a new program with emphasis on the Bible.

In opening the program, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached the first of five sermons from the Book of Genesis. The intent of the series is to lead the congregation through the themes of the Old and New Testaments in the course of a year.

The opening worship service featured a display of seven liturgical banners or the theme "Creation".

Banner makers included: Bonnie Adams, Thomas Adams, Ralph Ames, Trevor Ames, Marcia Anderson, Blythe Bumpus, Gretchen Bumpus, Holly Bumpus, Barbara Colwell, Nancy Ellis, Kathi Fluhr, Laurie Galvin, Kenny Kemp, Mark Paul, Karin Reister, Kristen Reister, Marie Reister, Susan Scott, Ruth Schionis, Teddy Schionis, Karen Sorensen, Donna Stevens, Debbie Stohberg, David Stohberg, Jo Ann Warren, Ritchie Williams and Thomas Williamson.

The banners were provided by a group called "Cinnamon Toast", a new innovation in Christian education. There are no teachers, there are no textbooks and there are no classes. The Bible is the only book used and the group meets informally to discuss it.

Under this system, Dr. Langevin explains, three or four generations in one family might be in the same Christian learning group. The members meet on Sundays at 8:30 a.m. for breakfast, followed by a period of Bible study. Extensive use is made of drama, puppets and the creative arts.

The two youth groups of the church, Orange Crush and Seven-Up, will also be involved in this new emphasis on knowing the Bible. They have already begun to plan programs which will seek to relate the Scriptures to situations encountered in everyday life.

A Monday evening Bible study group, started last fall, has been received enthusiastically.

Leaders of the group are Dorothy Abbe, Mildred Boland, Doris Callbeck, Ralph and Del Dougherty, Betty Ellis, Don and Barbara Frazer, Joan Hansen, Grace Holmes, Hazel Mayne, Stewart and Mary Scott, Sandra Stohberg, Jens Thornton Sr., Charles and Genevieve Todd and Barbara Walter.

Thus, on any particular Sunday from now on, the same passage of Scripture will be studied. It will be taken up by Cinnamon Toast, the morning worship service, the two youth groups and the Monday evening Bible study group.

An effort is being made to see that all members of the congregation have at least one version of the Bible. Copies of both the Revised Standard Version and Today's English Version are available at the church.

Heart Association Campaign Via Mail

Quincy residents will be receiving a special request for contributions to the American Heart Association by mail this month.

This will replace the traditional door-to-door canvass in many Southeast Massachusetts communities.

The mail appeal is their chance to support the research and local programs of the Heart Association. Research has been responsible for advances—such as pacemakers, EKG machines, and artificial valves, while current community programs include hypertension screenings and CPR training.

Cardiovascular disease is still the nation's number one killer. You can help combat it by contributing to the efforts of the American Heart Association.

Good Friday Walk For Hunger Founder St. John's Speaker

Kay Doherty, founder of the annual Good Friday Walk for Hunger, will speak at the St. John the Baptist Church Hall, 44 School St., Quincy Center, Wednesday, Feb. 14 at 8:00 p.m.

Her presentation, entitled

"Why I Walk on Good Friday," will include a slide show and a description of the projects aided by the proceeds from the annual walk.

In seven years, walkers have raised over $200,000 which has assisted self-help farm cooperatives and health clinics in the South.

The talk is sponsored by the Adult Education Committee of the St. John the Baptist Parish and is open to the public without charge.

Alan G. Russell, 64 S.S. Security Guard

Funeral services for Alan G. Russell, 64, of Weymouth, a former resident of Quincy, were held Wednesday at the Deware Brothers Funeral Chapel, 576 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mr. Russell died Saturday at the VA Hospital, Jamaica Plain. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Born in Quincy, he lived here all his life until moving to Weymouth a year ago. For the past 10 years he has been a security guard with South Shore Security Systems.

He was a life member of the Squantum Yacht Club and served as vice commander some years ago. During World War II he served in the South Pacific with the Army.

He was a member of Morrisette Legion Post, and Disabled Officers and Retired Officers.

He is survived by his wife, Jane E. (McEachern) Russell; two sisters, Mrs. Arvid (Helen) Jacobson of Hyannis, and Mrs. Constance Russell of Florida; and several nieces and nephews.

Linda Sets Women's Rights Back A Step

I don't know about you, but I think the women's equal rights movement has taken a step backwards out there in Iowa City, Iowa.

Last report had Firefighter Linda Eaton winning a temporary court injunction allowing her to breastfeed her infant son at the fire station while the Iowa Civil Rights Commission investigates charges of sex discrimination.

"It feels wonderful," Linda was quoted after winning the injunction. "Right has prevailed."

The 26-year-old unmarried mother sought the injunction after she was suspended for nursing her four-month-old son during "personal time" while on duty at the fire station.

Frankly, I can't see where right has prevailed. Maybe I'm just an old fashioned square but I just can't hop onto Linda's fire truck—er—bandwagon.

Because this incident has happened in Iowa maybe it doesn't bother many people around here. But let's localize the situation by transplanting Linda to Quincy and assigning her to duty at the Central Fire Station.

Can't you picture one of the deputies walking into Chief Edward Barry's office one morning and reporting: "Cheez, Chief, you know what that new firefighter is doing..."

And, if your husband, son, boyfriend or brother were on duty at the Central Fire Station how would you feel about Linda nursing her baby there?

Why should she be allowed to? And what is "personal time" at a fire station? Does it mean that if you are on personal time and a fire breaks out somewhere, you don't go? I always thought a firefighter is on duty all the time.

If Linda can breastfeed her baby on "personal time," why can't the guys babysit their kids on "personal time" while their wives go off shopping?

And, if they can do that, you can imagine how it would be when the gong sounded. What do you do with the kids? Take them along on the ladder truck? Or create a new rank, Firefighter-Baby Sitter to mind the kids while Daddy is off fighting a fire.

If Linda should win her case, what's the next right to zero in on? Would she then demand the right to have her hair done while on duty on the grounds that you never know who you might meet on a fire call and you have the right to look your best.

Most men, I'm sure, believe women are entitled to equal rights but it seems that when some women get them, they then take a little advantage of it.

In this particular case, for example, there wouldn't be any problem about nursing a baby at the fire station if Linda wasn't allowed to join the fire department.

If you accuse me of being a chauvinist, I'll drag out the special award the South Shore Women's Political Caucus gave me in 1976 as "a true feminist". (They may take it back after this column.)

I'm not a chauvinist. But I am a man who gets a little irked at times when I think some women carry this liberation bit too far, too fast.

I think Linda is one of them. I don't think many men can sympathize with her. And I would like to think many women wouldn't either.

Women's rights, I'm all for them. And men's rights, too.

If women want to be referred to as persons, that's their right. If I prefer to refer to them as women, that's my right.

If they want the designation Ms., that's their right. If I think it sounds like a mosquito, I have a right to think so.

I have no quarrel locally with women (persons) who are active in the equal rights movement for women (persons). They have done a tremendous job and if they will pardon me for saying it, they have done it in a ladylike manner, rather than a personlike manner.

But I do have a couple of observations:

There's a well operated Women's Center at Quincy Junior College. For consistency sake, I wonder why it isn't called the Person Center. There is also a very worthy program known as DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) that provides shelter and help to "battered women". Why not a shelter for "battered persons"? Some men do get battered by their wives.

But it will take awhile for me to get used to things like a birth announcement that came in the other day. These aren't the actual names but it went like this: Mr. John Jones and Ms. Susan Smith are the parents of a...

Anyway, I hope Linda loses her case in Iowa because I am afraid of what might be next if she wins.

Like, I'd hate to see the day when some other Linda could force the men's room at Peter's Landing to go co-ed.

Chamber Legislative Reception Thursday

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce will host a legislative reception today [Thursday] 5 to 7 p.m. at the Lantana in Randolph.

The cocktail session will bring South Shore business leaders and members of the new state administration together for the first time.

A total of 15 minutes of formal comments will be made by chamber president Thomas E. Curtis and key administration officials and legislators. The remainder of the cocktail and hors d'oeuvres session will be spent in exchanging of views on a more individual basis.

Officials who have accepted include House Speaker Thomas W. McGee; Cabinet Secretaries

George S. Kariotis, economic affairs; George A. Luciano, public safety; Eileen Schell, consumer affairs; John A. Bewick, environmental affairs; Emory C. Mower, elder affairs; and Joseph Fitzpatrick, office of energy resources.

Legislators attending will include Senators Joseph Walsh and Paul Harold; Representatives Elizabeth Metayer, Robert Cerasoli, Mary Jeanette Murray, William J. Flynn, Joseph J. Semensi, Michael J. Morrissey, Robert B. Ambler, Robert W. Gillette, and M. Joseph Manning.

Business people wishing to attend may call Ron Frazier at the South Shore Chamber, 479-1111, for further details.

Harold Chairman State Constitution Commission

Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) has been named chairman of the state's special commission to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the State Constitution.

The commission, which includes senators, state reps, the counsels to the House and Senate and representatives of the Secretary of State, Attorney General, Secretary of Education, Commissioner of Education, Supreme Judicial Court and Governor, is responsible for devising programs for the observance.

In receiving the appointment from Senate President William Bulger, Harold noted that the State Constitution, drafted in John Adams' law office in Quincy, served as the model for constitutions of several foreign countries and was used as the basis for several sections of the United States Constitution.

"The Massachusetts Constitution has been of considerable influence during the past two centuries, being among the first such documents to recognize that human rights ought to be preserved and defended against any sudden intrusion by government," Harold said. "It is entirely fitting that we plan appropriate observances and an educational program."

The commission's duties include the preparation of an educational program to acquaint students and the general public with the history, creation, contents and influence of the Massachusetts constitution.

Harold has served on the board of directors of the Quincy and the Braintree Historical Societies.

This past year, he played a major role in securing approval of the Adams Birthplaces in Quincy as a National Historic Site.

McIntyre To Head City's Constitution Anniversary Committee

Former Mayor James R. McIntyre has been named to chair a select committee to plan a city observance of the 200th anniversary of the drafting of the Massachusetts constitution in South Quincy.

Drafting of the state constitution was begun in the law office of John Adams at 141

Franklin St. in September, 1779.

Mayor Tobin said Hobart H. Holly, former president of the Quincy Historical Society, will also serve on the committee since he and McIntyre first brought up the matter eight years ago.

Other members of the committee will be named later.

City Council Invited To CAAN Meeting

The City Council has been invited to attend an informal meeting of the Committee Against Airport Noise (CAAN) to be held at 7:30 tonight (Thursday) at Central Junior High School, but some members balked, saying it would conflict with a planning board hearing scheduled for the same time.

City Councillor John Lydon suggested that there was a "lack of communication" on the part of the CAAN group in scheduling the meeting. He said the council should participate in a formal conference to discuss changes in the take-off and landing patterns at Logan Airport.

Councillor Daniel Raymondi disagreed and said that he was sure most councillors would be able to make both meetings.

"I try to get to each meeting," he said. "People expect to see us involved in their problems. We should support them at all times."

SBA Flood Damage Loans Applications At Donnelly Office

So many people visited his office to apply for Small Business Administration loans last Friday that Cong. Brian J. Donnelly is setting up another visit by the SBA.

The date and time will be announced later.

In the meantime, Donnelly said, an ample supply of application forms for low interest flood damage loans will be available at his office in Room 203 in the Post Office, 47 Washington St., Quincy Center.

The loans were made available when the SBA declared seven counties, including Norfolk, disaster areas after the widespread flooding caused by heavy rain, gale winds and high tides Jan. 25.

Deadline for filing loan applications is April 2.

Brownell Would Have State

Assume Cost of Repairing Damaged Sea Walls

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell announces he is filing legislation to have the state assume the cost of repairing and improving Quincy sea walls damaged in the recent January storm.

"To prevent any further flooding and destruction of property in our coastal neighborhoods, the City of Quincy should set about repairing and shoring up our existing sea wall system as soon as possible," he said.

"I am fearful that if another major storm hits our community, many weakened areas of our sea walls will give way or be of little use in determining flood storm tides."

Brownell said he has learned from the Mayor's Office that currently there are no funds available for sea wall work, and the existing shared city-state program for repairing sea walls simply does not work swiftly enough to deal with Quincy's needs. This is why he feels the need for his legislation, he said.

Feed The Birds

Quincy residents interested in feeding birds during the winter months are urged to purchase seed as soon as possible.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Blue Hills Trailside Museum and the Moose Hill Nature Center at Sharon are joining to offer reasonably priced seed during the winter feeding months.

To purchase the Audubon bird seed, orders must be placed and prepaid at sanctuaries no later than Jan. 17. The seed will be available for pick-up on Feb. 3 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Trailside Museum.

A pamphlet or a seed order contract may be obtained by contacting the Trailside Museum, 1904 Canton Ave., Milton, MA 02186 or calling 333-0690.

New Control Order But --

Germantown Residents Win Battle Over Dog Ban

Residents of Germantown's public housing units have won their battle against the health department's order banning dogs from the area because of alleged unsanitary conditions.

A new order, superseding the one issued Nov. 3, calls on all dog owners to be in control of their animals at all times.

The order is the result of a series of conferences between Assistant City Solicitor Dennis Harrington and Atty. Ruth Flaherty and Linda Garcia, acting on behalf of the tenants committee headed by Mrs. Joan Timmons, 72 Captain's Walk, Germantown.

"The new order is aimed at the owner who is not in control or is a constant offender," Harrington said. "It is intended to deal with violations of the health code, rather than with an owner of a dog."

Harrington said that the enforcement officer has said the order will allow him to deal with the situation in the area.

The order went into effect one day before the health department and the tenants group were due to appear in Norfolk Superior Court for a hearing on a temporary restraining order issued against the city three weeks ago.

Health commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon noted that the new order is aimed against unleashed, stray or unattended dogs.

Dr. Solomon said that an unattended dog includes those who may be restrained but without the owner being "in the immediate area." Dog owners who leave feces for more than 24 hours will also be considered in violation of the health commissioner's order.

City Eyes Over $650,000 Aid For Blizzard Of '78

municipal facilities and overtime paid for disaster relief and protection of public property.

The city estimated that the overtime bill came to $401,731.83. So far, Washington has approved $150,000 of it. The $251,000 is under appeal.

"The figure was agreed to by engineers from the Army Corps of Engineers and the State Department of Environmental Management," said Harrington.

Higherups in Washington rejected the following claims:

- Library, $754. "Our library buildings are insured for very little," said Harrington. "We were concerned for the roof and the boilers. We thought it necessary to have custodial help on hand."

- Water Department, $9,522.37. "They paid us for the repairs but not for the help," said Harrington.

- School Department, $54,084.88. "We ran the disaster centers in the school buildings," he said. "We used the commissary at the VoTech School to feed Civil Defense and other disaster workers."

- Hospital, $45,112.37. "Hospital people stayed on the job because if they got home they couldn't get back and the Hospital would have to shut down," he said. "No other disaster municipality had a hospital."

Government auditors also wondered why employees of the Park and Recreation Department were called in to work overtime.

"We ran a snow dump in Merrymount Park," said Harrington. "We used the parks for snow removal because it was the only land available."

"We have no regrets for providing the services. It's just a question of getting reimbursed."

The city is eligible for reimbursement of $129,775 for snow removal. The government has already paid 65 per cent of the total and the rest has been approved for payment.

"Actually," said Harrington, "the government did not assume the cost of snow removal but agreed to pay vendors of snow removal services and equipment for the period Feb. 7-10."

The government also is picking up the tab for removal of debris and damage to public buildings. The city estimated $42,039. The state approved $32,114. The feds chopped that to $30,763. The city is appealing the difference.

The costs of repairing sea walls and other shore protection was also reimbursable and a large figure in that category is under dispute.

The city put in a claim for $111,374. The federal government approved $39,342, including $17,720 for the restoration of water services by city employees.

The big item in dispute is the cost of restoring the public landing in Houghs Neck. The city estimated $92,000. The government allowed $9,968. It too is under appeal.

"We differed in the size and type of landing that was necessary," said Harrington. "We also couldn't reach agreement on the value of the lumber to be used."

Council Committee To Study Open Space Use On Quarry St.

City Council President John J. Quinn has set up a three-member committee to look into possible uses in the way of open spaces for property on Quarry St., West Quincy.

Quinn named Councillors James Sheets, John Lydon and Frank McCauley to the committee and asked that they confer with the Quincy Historical Society, the Planning Board and residents in the area.

The committee was formed after a resolution was presented by Councillor Sheets asking for council action. Quinn demurred, saying the action was premature, coming before a report from the rezoning committee.

Sheets, however, contended that the city should be prepared in the event federal funds are available for open space areas.

Tobin Asks State Assume Seawall Construction Costs

Mayor Tobin has asked the Quincy legislative delegation to file special legislation that would have the state assume the entire cost of seawall construction in flood damaged areas.

Currently the state picks up 50 per cent of the tab for sea wall construction and Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) filed a bill that would up the reimbursement to 75 per cent.

Quincy's Yesterdays

B-r-r-r! 18 Degrees Below

An all time record cold gripped Quincy, sending the mercury down to an official 18 degrees below zero and freezing over Quincy Bay and most of Boston Harbor for the first time in years.

Unofficial thermometers showed 25 below in South Quincy and the short order cook at Monroe's Diner on Southern Artery reported the temperature was down to 22 below when he left at 2 a.m.

Some 100 cars had to be abandoned after a Wollaston Legion play at the North Quincy High School auditorium and playgoers, some of them from Brookline and Hingham, were put up for the night at nearby homes.

By noon Friday, Feb. 9, under a blazing sun and cloudless sky, the temperature in Quincy Square rose to zero as outside work was suspended and elementary and junior high schools were closed.

City Hospital treated scores of cases of frostbite and Patrolman Maurice Cahill had to be relieved of duty when parts of his face froze while on patrol in the frigid weather.

RADIOS LICENSED

Chairman Emery L. Crane of the Licensing Commission announced that under a new policy Quincy bars that permitted radios to be played for their customers would have to have cabaret licenses.

Crane said it had come to the attention of the Board that many men and women were gathering in the bars to listen to broadcasts by radio priest Father Coughlin and remaining to drink more than they should.

QUINCY BOWS

Rosenthal's only basket of the game at the final buzzer gave the undefeated Chelsea High School basketball team a 27-25 victory over Quincy, whose only loss was an earlier defeat by Chelsea.

The Quincy starting five played the whole game. They included Capt. Howard Martin and Eddie Dunn, forwards; Harold Kapsis, center; Jim McCollum and Vic DiGravio, guards.

NQHS Students Look Forward To Classes In New $16.2 Million Wing

By PETER BARNICLE

North Quincy High School students are eagerly looking forward to Feb. 26 when they will report for classes at the new $16.2 million addition to the school.

The completed four story building was turned over to school officials last week in a brief informal ceremony in the spacious atriumlike central lobby.

Public works commissioner James J. Ricciuti handed over keys of the building to school Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. Also present for the transfer were Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, Arthur Woodward, director of secondary education, Peter Chrisom, principal of North Quincy High School, Frank Leporini, clerk of works and overseer for the school department during construction, and school committeewoman Mary Collins.

In a brief statement Mayor Tobin expressed his thanks to all who assisted in making the project a reality.

"We had to overcome many obstacles and this was only done by working together," he said. "There were delays, go and no-go situations, a strike and a number of daily problems which could only be overcome by everybody pulling together."

Students will start classes in the new building Feb. 26 after a three week hiatus. During that period teachers will pack books, records and other materials which, along with needed equipment, will be moved from the current building.

Students who have had an opportunity to take a sneak preview of the new 150,000 square foot addition have been enthusiastic.

"We've really had it rough in the old building," commented Shirley Beck, 17, of 22 Bay St.,

Squantum, secretary of the junior class. "I think all the kids are looking forward to the move. I know they are. This building is so modern and the other was getting depressing. This has a much better atmosphere."

The building is carpeted throughout. The second and third floors are striking with white walls combined with chrome and chocolate and red and black furniture on a red carpet.

The science area on the fourth floor has red, yellow and black trim and natural color oak equipment. The area is equipped with demonstration mirrors and rear view projection cabinets, along with trifacial and octagon shaped science lab tables in black and red.

The central lobby with its criss crossing walkways beneath a huge fourth floor skylight gives a feeling of openness. The study areas are spacious and well-lighted.

The gymnasium, 225 feet long and nearly 100 feet wide, looks like a large airplane hanger.

"I've been at North Quincy for three years with double sessions and all the chaos that went along with construction," said Paul Anastas, 16, of 13 Ash St., Atlantic, member of the student council. "This looks great. Everybody I know is looking forward to the move. After all we've been through we certainly appreciate that we're getting something out of it."

Michael Mariano, 18, of 302 Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs, president of the student council, said he thinks the move will "certainly motivate students to work harder. It has an atmosphere more conducive to study."

"It will be difficult for the first couple of weeks, but once things settle down I'm sure the new surroundings will be an incentive to the kids to study."

I've been here at the school three years and have sort of become accustomed to it," said Richard Schatzl, 17, of 88 Clement Ter., Montclair, treasurer of the senior class.

William Murphy, 17, of 186 Elliot Ave., Montclair, chairman of the Pride Committee, said, "The old building was getting pretty bad. This is great. I, for one, am looking forward to getting in here."

The Pride Committee was formed at North Quincy High among students to epitomize their pride in the new building and to aid in conducting guided tours of the addition after it is opened.

The three week break is, not to be considered a vacation, Gerald Lyons, acting assistant principal at North Quincy, cautioned.

"During the two weeks before the official one week vacation the students are expected to be working on their academic subject areas, independent of their teachers," he said.

In subject areas such as science, language arts, mathematics, social studies and business education, students have mandatory assignments to complete.

Salvatore Vento, head of the business education department, will have his department open for student access to typewriters and business machines in the Teal Building. Maurice Carboneau plans to meet with his music groups at Quincy High School.

"These assignments are not going to be considered lightly," Lyons said. "They will be graded by teachers to be included in the third quarter marks."

He noted that Feb. 26 to April 6 is only five weeks "so that this assignment might be considered as 25 percent of the third quarter grade."

The Blizzard Of 78 Nervously Remembers They Fear It Could Ha

By TOM HENSHAW

Last Christmas morning, Larry Mirick, of 787 Sea St., Houghs Neck, got a phone call from an old neighbor on Turner St.

"How high is the tide where you are?" he asked. "It's coming in here again."

"I explained to him that that was just a normal tide," said Mirick, who lived on Turner St. until last February. "But it made him nervous. It scared him."

Nervousness around water is only one of the legacies left in the Houghs Neck section of Quincy a year after the snow storm of the century struck the coast on Feb. 6, 1978.

Only now, 12 months after 27 inches of snow accompanied by hurricane winds and tides four feet higher than normal battered the area, are definitive figures being compiled on the storm.

The Army Corps of Engineers reported this week that Quincy had two houses destroyed (both in Houghs Neck), 142 suffered major damage and 575 took damage that was described as minor. Five small businesses were wiped out.

Property losses in Massachusetts were set at $257.6 million and the Small Business Administration (SBA) reported 11,744 loans totalling $187.1 million made as a result of the storm.

There was no breakdown of losses and loans in Quincy but only Scituate, Hull, Revere, Winthrop and possibly Rockport suffered more property damage, according to the Corps, of Engineers.

And, as if to remind people that it could happen again anytime, a rain storm of Jan. 25, only 12 days short of the anniversary, visited damage on some of the same locations and people.

"We're having a replay of the thing," said the man at the SBA. "Some of our clients got hit again."

"Tom Logan on Edgewater Drive got water damage again," said City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, whose Ward 1 includes the Houghs Neck section.

"The water pressure blew the floor of the basement up at Frank Catrambone's house on Edgewater Drive and they had to take some of the paraplegics out again in Rock Island Cove."

"I'd like to see an overall study done of our waterfront. These SBA loans are great but you can't keep taking out a $10,000 loan every year."

Larry Mirick and his wife, Doris, were living at 126 Turner St., around the corner from Edgewater Drive, when the storm hit Houghs Neck. Their rented house was badly damaged.

"We had to move out," said Mirick. "They condemned the building."

Luckily, a friend had just purchased a house across the Neck in the Willows section and the Miricks moved in Feb. 24. All they had left was the beds, the kitchen table and two beach chairs.

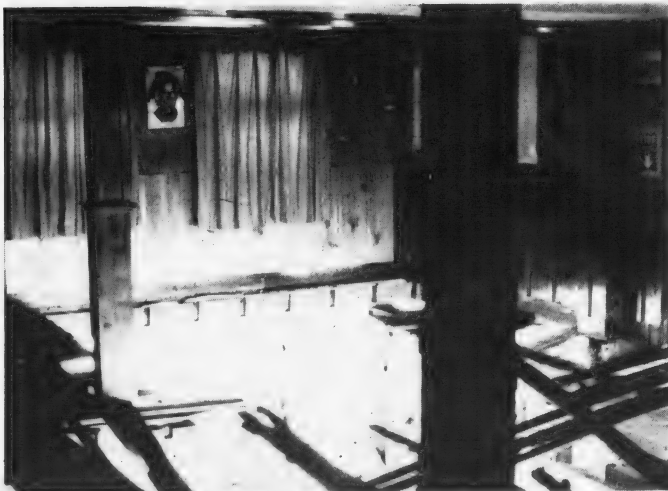

"At first," said Mirick, "the government turned us down for a loan. We had nothing left for collateral."

To compound the problem, Mirick, a quality control

PUBLIC LANDING at Houghs Neck remains as it was left by the Great Storm of Feb. 6, 1978. It would cost more money to fix it than was allotted by the federal government, says city Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

technician, was unemployed at the time of the storm and has worked only at temporary jobs in the past year.

Then fortune turned around, ever so slightly.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development contributed a living room set, a dining table and two chairs. A relative entered a nursing home in Hyattsville, Md., and the Miricks got a dining room and bedroom set.

The late Russ DeMatteo, an old Air Force buddy, helped them to get a used car at wholesale, $1,400 instead of $2,100, and finally they got a family grant from the government of $1,600 that enabled them to get some necessities.

And one luxury—a television set.

"We don't have much money to go out," said Mirick, "so we stay home a lot. The TV set gives us most of our entertainment."

The Mirick's new home is right across Sea St. from the Bay, separated from the water by a sea wall.

"We have no trouble here," said Mirick. "We're on higher ground. We must be a good three feet above the storm tide. But I see the guys back on Turner St. got hit again last month."

Elsewhere in Houghs Neck, aside from the obvious newness of some of the house repairs, there is little evidence of the destruction wrought by the storm.

The public landing near the Quincy Yacht Club still shows storm damage. It's split in half and the pilings are gone. The federal government did not allot enough money to fix it, said Kelly.

The yacht club, which lost its floor and porches when water and ice was driven up beneath them, has been repaired at a cost of $210,000.

"We have new sliding, insulated windows," said member Ted Johnson. "The waves came over the porch in the Jan. 25 storm and the windows held."

Some of the damage in Houghs Neck is not physical nor does it show on the surface but it is there.

"A lot of the older people have recurring nightmares about the ocean," said Kelly. "They dream about water coming into their bedrooms again. They look on the water differently than they used to."

"There are a lot of health problems that never existed before. The older people got wet when they were evacuated from their homes and they were wet for a long time. Many people have not really been well since the February storm."

"And it's discouraging to go through this every year. Fresh water is one thing but having salt water in your home is something different. You never really get rid of the rot and the smell."

One of the houses that was destroyed in Quincy was on Rockland St. in the Rock Island Cove section of Houghs Neck. The loss may have been more than just a house.

"The Cove got hit harder this time," said Kelly. "That house seemed to hold the water out. The water comes in now."

Arts/Entertainment

Farnum, Stearly Art Exhibits At Main Library

Harold Farnum Jr. of Gloucester, and Edward L. Stearly of Walpole, are exhibiting their paintings in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq., through February.

The show is largely watercolor, but both artists have some acrylics on display.

Many of Farnum's works portray his favorite subject New England. Farnum is a graduate of the New England School of Art, and studied at the Scott-Carbee School of Art. His works have been exhibited throughout New England and Philadelphia at such galleries as the Edna Hibel Gallery in Boston, and the Addison Gallery of American Art in Andover. Farnum is a member of the North Shore Art Association.

Mr. Stearly attended art school at the Canton-Rose Institute of Fine Arts in New York. Presently he directs the Creative Control Department at Rust Craft Greeting Cards, Dedham, Massachusetts.

His art has been displayed in numerous shows throughout New England, including the Eastern States Exposition and the Jordan Marsh Show. Many of his paintings are included in private collections in New York, New England, Japan, and the United Kingdom.

Mr. Stearly is a member of the North Shore and Braintree Art Associations. In addition, he has taught watercolor classes at the JBraintree Art Association.

He has received awards from the Washington Square Art Show, New York; the North Shore Art Association and the Jordan Marsh Annual Exhibition, Boston.

ST. COLETTA'S FUNDRAISER -- William E. Kelley, (left) president of Hancock Bank and board member of Braintree St. Coletta Day School, extends giant-sized ticket to John Farmer, also of Hancock Bank, to the school's 10th annual Valentine's Day fund raising cocktail party Feb. 13, at Anthony's Pier 4, Boston. Over 300 people are expected to attend the party sponsored by the school's board of directors.

Curtain Call Theater To Present 'Angel Street'

Curtain Call Theater will present the Victorian suspense drama "Angel Street" Friday and Saturday, Feb. 16-17, at 8 p.m. at Braintree Central Junior High School, Washington St., Braintree.

Melissa Curtis of Boston, will direct the production which originally appeared under the title "Gas Light".

Nan Guernsey of Quincy, stage manager and technical director, will coordinate the production crews headed by: Pat Edge of Weymouth, props; Sally Herbert of Weymouth, scenic painting; James Leonard of Hingham, set construction, and Peter Guernsey of Marshfield, scenic lighting.

Edythe Burke of Braintree designed and executed the costumes and Molly Hochkeppel of Weymouth, is production manager.

Tickets will be available at the door or by calling 331-1505.

Camp Fire Girls Art Exhibit At Children's Library

Fifteen South Shore Council entries in the 1978 National Art Competition for Camp Fire Girls are on display through Friday in the children's room of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq.

The competition focused on paper making. Entrants made paper from newspaper and water, colored it, gave it texture and then created something with the paper.

Judging was based on elements of design and how the finished product is used.

Among the Camp Fire Girls with entries on display are Victoria Ewell, Sherri Vaughn, Laura Peters, Sheila O'Connor. Ann Gilbert, Suzanne Tanner, Dawn Boorack, Lara Mileta, Jennifer Groce, and Janet Campbell.

The display was coordinated with the library by Mrs. Gail Mayberger, of Quincy, an Adventure level leader also in charge of group organization and maintenance.

Animal Rescue League Film At Main Library Feb.13

"A World to Build", a film about the Animal Rescue League, will be shown in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square, Feb. 13, at 10:30 a.m. as part of the Tuesday morning film program.

Also to be shown is "Stop Ruining America's Past". Coffee will be served preceding the program.

Other movies scheduled for this month also at 10:30 a.m., include "Albert Einstein: The Education of a Genius, Feb. 20, and "What is Sonata Form", a Leonard Bernstein concert, Feb. 27.

St. Coletta Day School Plans St. Valentine's Day Fund Raiser

John J. Power, of Westwood, will be honored as the 1979 Man of the Year by Braintree St. Coletta's Day School, at the 10th annual Valentine's Day fund raising cocktail party Feb. 13, at Anthony's Pier 4 Restaurant, Boston.

Power, who just completed a two-year term as chairman of the board of directors of the school, is vice president of the Peabody Construction Co., Braintree.

"Over many years, Jack Power has made an outstanding contribution to the building and improvement of St. Coletta's, said John W. Blake, chairman of the board of directors, and chairman of Colony, Inc., Quincy. "Because of his efforts, our school has made great progress in serving special needs children, youth and adults."

Three hundred people are expected to attend the party.

'Sweet Charity' In Final 2 Performances

Tickets are still available for the final two performances of Quincy Community Theatre's presentation of "Sweet Charity" Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School.

Jeanne Grasselli plays the lead role of Charity Hope Valentine among a cast comprised of area residents.

The musical is choreographed by Maria D'Arcangelo, and directed by Kathleen Bertrand.

Tickets can be obtained by calling Frank Moffett, 471-6024, or at the door before show time.

Robert Cotto 'Odd Couple' Producer At Mission Hill Theater

Robert Cotto, a teacher at North Quincy High School, is the producer of The Mission Hill Theater Group's production of "The Odd Couple" which premieres Feb. 16, at 8 p.m. at St. Alphonsus Hall in the Mission Church complex, near Boston State College.

Other performances are scheduled for Feb. 17, 22, 23 and 24, at 8 p.m.

South Shore Job Fair To Be Held April 7

The eighth annual South Shore Job Fair will be held Saturday, April 7, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at State Street South, North Quincy.

In 1977 this joint project sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Norfolk County Development Council and the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security received the National Association of Counties Award for innovation and excellence, notes John C. Nourse, Norfolk County Planning Director.

Gerry Boncaddo, Employer Service Representative of the Division of Employment Security, reports that including the 1979 Job Fair approximately 3,000 people will have been placed in gainful employment under this continuing program. More than 50 companies from the South Shore are taking part with booths again this year. The objective is to bring employers with available jobs together with people seeking employment.

Some 6,000 flyers advertising the Job Fair will be printed for distribution by the Division of Employment Security. Ads are scheduled to be run on local radio stations, and news media.

Costs of the Job Fair are shared equally by the Norfolk County Development Council and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce under a financial aid program instituted in 1973 by James J. Collins, Chairman, and the Norfolk County Commissioners.

Civil Defense Topic For S. Quincy Civic Association

Edward Roberts and Edward Cook, of Quincy Civil Defense will be guest speakers at the South Quincy Civic Association meeting Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Lincoln Hancock Community School, Water St., South Quincy.

Their subject will be "Staffing and Operations of Emergency Shelters". Roberts is shelter officer and Cook is shelter supply coordinator.

Ted Jones Nurse Course Graduate

Ted Jones of Quincy has graduated from the 140 hour "Critical Care Emergency Department Nurse Education Program (CEDNEP)" held recently at Boston City Hospital where he is a nurse.

Kenneth Walsh, Civil Defense director for Quincy, will also be in attendance.

The public is invited.

Flood Insurance Coverage Now Effective Sooner

Flood insurance coverage under the National Flood Insurance Act is now effective in a shorter period of time under a new rule change. Doran and Horrigan, 19 Billings Rd., North Quincy, reminds property owners.

Under the rule change announced by the Federal Insurance Administration of the department of Housing and Urban Development, flood insurance is effective, generally, five days after the date of application. Under a previous rule, insurance could be effective only after a 15-day waiting period.

A waiting period is established to curb possible abuse in a situation where an applicant would seek insurance shortly before an imminent disaster such as a violent snow storm or hurricane.

The waiting period has been shortened to the day after filing of an application and payment of a premium in certain cases, such as when: new coverage is sought during the initial 30 days of a community's entrance into a flood insurance program; additional coverage is sought to include such items as household goods or an increase in the amount of an existing policy.

There is no waiting period when title to real property is conveyed and the new owner applies and pays for coverage before the closing of the transaction or the new owner takes over an existing policy before closing.

Wollaston Revitalization Program Discussed At Business Meeting

Wollaston businessmen, city officials and representatives of Sasaki Associates met recently to discuss various aspects of the Wollaston Revitalization Program.

The program was outlined by Maurice Freedman of Sasaki Associates, which recently completed a study of prospective improvements in the Wollaston business area.

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath said he was extremely pleased with the meeting.

"The interest of the business community is real, as evidenced by the large cross sections of businesses represented," he said. "The comments of the business people were excellent as were those of the community residents who attended.

"There seems to be a general opinion that Wollaston is a viable area in which to shop, but needs work in the areas of traffic flow, parking, store front facade improvements and possibly more variety in the types of business in the area."

McGrath said the Sasaki study is divided into two parts.

"Phase one is a marketing survey of the business area," he said, "and Phase two will address physical planning alternatives for the community to consider."

Results of Phase one will be presented in a community newsletter and at a future meeting.

38 Units To Be Demolished

Donnelly Promises To Expedite Solutions To Squantum Gardens Problems

Given normal bureaucratic delays, it may take nearly four years to square away, once and for all, the problems that beset the Navy's housing project at Squantum Gardens.

But Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston) has promised to use his office to expedite the solution through the lengthiest part of the process, that controlled by the General Services Administration (GSA).

Donnelly and Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) led a fact-finding safari through the Gardens, where many of the buildings have been boarded up and thus are targets for vandals and arson.

Included in the party were Capt. Donald. Boyden, commander of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, and his aide, Lt. Cmdr. Hugh Hale, who have charge of the housing project for Navy families.

Boyden said it is planned to demolish 38 of the units in the Gardens, turn another 28 over to the GSA for disposal, and retain 56 units for the families.

Donnelly gave this timetable for action:

One month to secure a release from the mortgage holder, the Economy Federal Savings and Loan Association of St. Louis.

One month to secure approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Two months to advertise and award a contract to demolish the 38 units, which will be replaced by a recreation area for the Navy families who live in the project.

Five months to tear the buildings down.

Three years to get the property through "The massive paper work" required by the GSA in order to offer the 28 units for sale.

Donnelly explained that the GSA must offer the property, first, to other departments of the federal government, then to the state, the county, the city and finally private interests in the order named.

Once the 38 units are demolished, he said, he will ask for a meeting with Lawrence Bretta, regional head of the GSA in Boston, to see if the three years

Robert Flavell, who made the tour in the interests of Sen. Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy), said Harold Could file legislation that would bypass the state and county bids in favor of the city.

Although no representatives of the Navy families was present for the tour, Mary Ann Mahony, a neighbor, explained that they live in constant fear of vandals and fire in the abandoned, boarded buildings.

"They shouldn't have to live the way they do at that base," she said. "They are transients. They have no choice but to live there when they are transferred."

Morrissey said that unsuccessful efforts have been made to bring the Navy families into the general communities of Atlantic and Squantum.

"The people there have never felt they are part of the community, he said. "They're in sort of a no man's land. The Atlantic Neighborhood Center has tried to involve them through an outreach program. We'll try harder."

Capt. Boyden said the Navy would like to house the families of its personnel closer to the South Weymouth base.

"We have the land but we don't have the money," he said. "We will have to hang on to this land (Squantum) for the foreseeable future."

The Squantum Gardens project was built in 1956 on land formerly occupied by the Squantum Naval Air Station and came under the control of South Weymouth in April, 1974.

In 1976, it was decided to retain only 56 of the 122 units and the seven buildings containing the 56 units were renovated at a cost of $813,000.

House of Pancakes Gets Trial 2 A.M. Closing

The Licensing Board voted Tuesday to extend the 2 a.m. license of the International House of Pancakes, 111 Washington St., for a trial period until May 1, noting the objections of nearby residents.

Paul Morrison, the owner of the franchise, told the commissioners that he needed the extra hours to make money so that he could pay some $17,000 to $18,000 a year in taxes.

Opponents of the extension, led by Charles N. Ross of 91 Washington St., complained of noise and harassment from patrons and employees of the restaurant.

Thomas McCabe, superintendent of the apartment building at 91 Washington St., said that the noise and harassment had made him ill.

"I will not be able to live in the building under that system," he said.

Morrison has held the I HOP franchise since April, 1978. Last November he obtained an extension of hours from 12 midnight to 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays as a temporary measure. There were problems at the restaurant before he took over, said Morrison, but "since I have owned the franchise I have tried to upgrade the place."

He said that he and his son live in the apartment building across the street in order to keep an eye on the restaurant and he has never heard an objection in his building.

Ross said that the noise from the I HOP was not bad during the winter months but it would be in the summer when people have their windows open.

Morrison told the commissioners that winter is the worst business time of the year, that he makes most of his money during the summer months.

"A business that operates at a loss or is in bad shape is no benefit to the city," observed Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

The Board decided to continue the I HOP's trial period until May, review the case when resident's windows are open and, if it is still a problem, revert the hours back to midnight.

In other actions the Licensing Board:

- Granted a one week continuance on a request by the Shore Taxi, Inc., 533 Sea St., for two hackneys.

- Approved a one day all alcoholic license for a dance to be held by the Houghs Neck Community Council on Saturday, March 10, in the St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

- Approved a request from the First Church of Squantum for a license to conduct a flea market Saturday, June 2, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Surfside Lane.

- Approved a bid by the Quincy Junior Baseball League for a one day wine and malt license for a Las Vegas night Friday, Feb. 16, from 7:30 p.m. to 12 midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

- Continued a request by Joseph Bates to store vehicles for tow companies after listening to Joseph W. Aiello of the Braintree Planning Board describe a similar operation in that town.

- Granted a request for an all alcoholic license to the Quincy High School Basketball Alumni for a banquet Thursday, March 29, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

- Continued for one week a hearing on the request from South Shore Automatic Transmission, 250 Centre St., South Quincy, for a Motor II license so it can purchase used cars.

City To Apply For $2 Million In CDBG Funds

Mayor Arthur Tobin has been authorized by the City Council to file application for $2,072,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds for community improvements and housing rehabilitation.

The program for use of the funds is still being finalized by the public works committee and the planning board. Their report will be brought before the council for final approval.

Ceramic Highlights

by Gloria

The second most popular ceramic stain is the translucent stain. These stains have an oil base and are used to give a soft or antique effect. Usually, they are applied with a stiff bristle brush over an opaque stain, and wiped off with a cloth. For a dark antique look apply directly over opaque stains and wipe back; or for a softer look, seal your opaque stains with a spray or brush-on sealer and then apply translucent stain and wipe back. Re-seal the project to hold the translucent stains on the piece. Some points to remember about translucent stains are: never apply to greenware; they are a non-firing product; never wash brush in water; use a solvent meant for an oil base paint; they are inter-mixable and the color you get is the same as the color is in jar. Other techniques for using these stains are: woodgraining and rouging. Also, they are used to bring out the cracks in a piece done in a crackle glaze and are attractive in combinations over textured glazes. Antiquing is best accomplished on a detailed or grooved ceramic piece. When working with them, mix stain well in jar and after applying to the piece, wipe them off the detailed parts and leave stain in crevices. Lighten if necessary with more pressure of your cloth or with a suitable solvent. On smooth surfaces, brush out the stain or pat it in order to achieve the desired effect.

TIPS AND HINTS:

To create a marble effect using your translucent stain, pour several colors into a bucket of water. Notice they float on top of water. Blend the stains with a stick, then submerge your ceramic piece [bisque] into the bucket and swirl it around. Spray fix or brush seal the piece after it has dried and see the attractive results.

Quincy Winds Up 1-8

North Swim Team Eyes Sectional, State Tourneys

North Quincy's swim team, which recently completed its best season and continued its domination over Quincy, is looking forward to the Southeastern sectionals Feb. 16 and 17 and the state championships Feb. 23 and 24.

Coach Bill Walker feels several of his swimmers could make good showings in the tournaments.

The Raiders finished with a 5-5 record, its best, and easily topped Quincy, 117-53, in their final regular season meet.

In contrast, the Presidents, under first-year coach Amy Chessia, had only a 1-8 mark with an undermanned squad. Walker has been the North coach since the sport was introduced four years ago.

North Quincy boys' and girls' teams have won every meet from Quincy during that time.

The difference, both coaches agree, is the size of the squads. North Quincy has 30 swimmers on its squad this year, Quincy has only 18.

"We knew from the outset what we could expect from individuals on the team," Walker said. "It was a mismatch because of the number of swimmers we have as compared to Quincy."

"That's our whole problem," Ms. Chessia said. "We just don't have enough kids. They don't go out for the team."

The swimming rivalry is unlike any other between Quincy and North teams.

The teams train together at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and know each other's capabilities. They know what to expect from each other in competition and that, according to Walker, is what makes the rivalry so special.

There is a real rivalry between the teams," he said. "But there's no animosity. The kids like and respect one another."

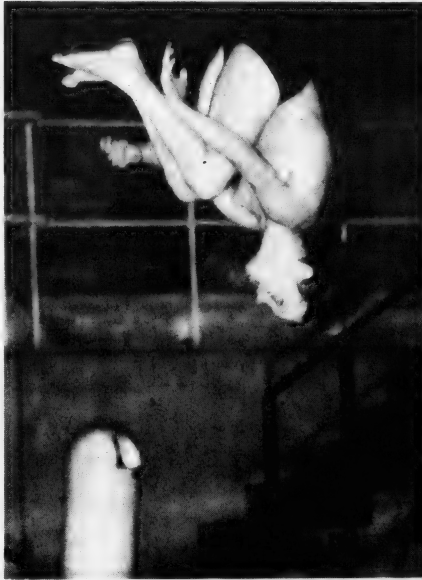

North won all but one event in the Quincy meet. The Presidents' only winner was John Connolly in the 100-yard

North Matmen In Good Individual Performances

North Quincy's undermanned wrestling team continues to find the going rough, but some of the Raiders are enjoying an excellent season.

The Raiders, 3-10 on the season, wrestled at Cohasset last night (Wednesday) and will finish their season Saturday at 6 when they host Quincy at the Armory.

North dropped a 40-27 decision to Scituate last Friday with John Gorczyca, beaten only three times breaststroke. Chessia rates him as the team's best swimmer.

The Raiders' Ed Melanson and John Conley, the top swimmers, were double winners. Each also figured in the 200-yard medley relay team's win.

The relay team's winning time of 1:55.1 was good enough to qualify for the state championships. John Nolan and Bill Boudreau joined Melanson and Conley on the team.

Melanson, who Walker says "is North Quincy swimming - he can really do the job," won the 100 butterfly in 57.9 and the 200 individual medley in 2:10.6.

this season, pinning Scituate's Scott Sorrentino in the 188-pound class to make his record 9-3-1.

Other Raider winners were Dave Hackett by forfeit 107 pounds. Rich Donna by decision at 129 and Dave Howley by a pin Melanson, a junior, holds six of 11 team records while senior captain Conley, who won the 100 freestyle in 54.3 and the 50 freestyle in 24.4, holds five records for the Raiders.

Other North winners were John Buckley in the 200 freestyle, Dave Donovan, 1-meter diving, ninth grader Paul Melanson, Ed's brother, 500 freestyle, Bill Feeney, 100 backstroke, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Bob Farmer, Richard Farmer, Buckley and Feeney.

North swept the 200 freestyle with Richard Farmer second and Tim Burke third.

Individual Performances

at 141.

Earlier in the week the Raiders lost to Milton, 44-16, with Steve Sweet at 121 pounds, Donna at 129 and Dave Howley at 140 the only winners. Gorczyca went to a draw in the 188 pound class.

JOHN CONLEY, of North Quincy, one of two double winners for the Raiders in their win over Quincy, removes goggles after easily winning the 50-yard freestyle.

Quincy Girls Roll By Brockton, 69-48

The Quincy girls' basketball team continues to have a fine season under Coach Barbara Webster. On Tuesday the First Ladies took a 7-4 Suburban League record and a 9-5 overall mark into their game with Newton. Friday they will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 8 p. m. and next Tuesday will be home to Waltham at 3:15 at the old Quincy High gym.

Quincy last Friday rolled over Brockton, 69-48, sparked by Laura Miller's 21 points. The team's fast break again made the Miller scoring 10 points.

Maureen Walsh and Karen Murphy had 12 points each and Maureen Maher had 11. Sue Callahan contributed nine points. Meanwhile, North Quincy girls, winners of only one game, lost to Weymouth North, 43-27.

Patti Bellotti, one of the top scorers in the league, and Patti Micelli had seven points each for the Raiderettes.

North has an off day Friday and next Tuesday will play at Newton at 3:15.

Save it for later.

Put up to $1500 a year aside for your retirement. You could earn enough money for an extra cushion.

An Individual Retirement Account at Quincy Savings Bank makes a lot of sense. Not only do you get a federal tax-exemption now: you get more money later. To supplement your Social Security. To make your retirement years more relaxing.

If you qualify, you can put up to $1,500 a year in an IRA account and you may have the financial cushion you want, if you don't have any other pension or retirement plan now.

Money aside, a savings account still makes sense.

We'd certainly like to open your account soon, at any of our five REDI-BANKSM offices in Quincy: 371 Hancock Street, 1200 Hancock Street, 1374 Hancock Street, 138 Franklin Street, 461 Washington Street or in Hanover, Rte. 53 and Broadway.

Instructional Swimming Registration

Registrations are being taken by the Quincy Recreation Department for its Instructional Competitive Swimming Program.

The program is offered Wednesdays and Fridays from 6 to 7 p.m. at the pool in The Charles Djerf Community Center at the Lincoln Hancock Community School. The course is open to Quincy residents who are at least eight years old and are capable of swimming at the Advanced Beginner level according to Red Cross standards.

The program features individual instruction in the skills of competitive swimming. Skills taught include racing starts and turns, the basic racing strokes, and the fundamentals of a competitive team workout. The program is designed to introduce swimming as a sport, as well as a recreational activity. Those interested may register at the pool at the time of the program. Additional information can be obtained from the Recreation Department.

Track Club Members Continue To Shine

In the Dartmouth Relays, the mile relay team of Margaret Osterman, Karen Lindenfeler, Karen McCarthy and Linda Morash set a club record of 4:17.0.

In a recent meet at Franklin High School, 11-year old Georgia Trafficante set two records, winning the 440 in 67.0 and the 600 in 1:36.7, both times being the best do date in New England. In the State Coaches Meet at Harvard Linda Morash ran her best 600 ever in 1:38.7. Karen Lindenfeler ran a personal best of 40.05 in the 300 and Karen McCarthy took seventh overall in the 300 with a personal best time of 38.8. Michelle Millane placed fourth and tood a medal with a club record 37-11 in the shot put.

At last Sunday's NEAAU championships at Harvard the relay team of Denise Santo, McCarthy, Lindenfeler and Osterman sped to a record 1:51.1 in the 880-yard relay. With Donna Reardon replacing Santo, the girls also ran 4:25 in the mile relay. The big surprise came when McCarthy turned in a quick 61-second split for her 440.

McCarthy also long jumped 16-5 for a club indoor record and Millane placed fourth again in the shot with a 34-10 toss with the heavier 4 kilo shot. Quincy scored seven points in the meet.

Quincy Coach Jeff Hennessy, who competes for the Greater Boston Track Club, placed sixth in the men's 600 with a personal best of 1:13.6, believed to be the fastest run by a Quincy resident. The Greater Boston Club won the man's team trophy with 160 points.

TEAR GAS

You don't have to be a bank robber, terrorist, or rioter to come in contact with tear gas. In fact, most victims of this gas are, normally, innocent bystanders. Here is a quick course in case you become one of those "innocent bystanders".

Tear gas causes an acute "instant cold" - tearing eyes, stuffy nose, coughing and hoarseness. If exposed to only a small amount of tear gas in the open air, symptoms usually clear within a few hours. Exposure in a confined area may cause symptoms that last for a day or more. Prolonged contact with a high concentration of the gas may result in damage to the respiratory system.

Once out of the area of exposure, wash the eyes freely with tap water. Wash out the mouth and gargle to remove any chemicals. Clean the skin thoroughly with water. If rubbing alcohol is available, mix it with water - about half a cup to a quart of water, and wash the skin. If symptoms persist or if any chemical came in direct contact with the eye, obtain medical attention.

Plucky Raiders Run Out Of Steam

North Quincy's hockey team, hoping for its first winning season in many years, ran out of steam last Saturday after a great seven-game streak which saw five wins in a row, a loss and a tie with Quincy. The Raiders lost to Newton North, 6-2, as Newton became the first team to defeat North Quincy twice this year.

Going into yesterday's (Wednesday) game with Brookline, North Quincy, under first-year coach Kevin Lewis, was 5-5-2 in the Suburban League and 6-7-2 overall with four games remaining. Saturday the Raiders will play Weymouth North at 1:50 at Hingham.

Three goals in the final period clinched Newton's win. North Quincy hadn't played in a week, being idle last Wednesday following its grueling 2-2 tie with Quincy.

For the Raiders Tom Gerry scored the first goal and Paul Cooney, the number four scorer in the league with 22 points, scored the second goal.

Crusaderettes Bow To Gordon

The Eastern Nazarene womens basketball team lost to Gordon College, 60-41, last Saturday to drop its record to 5-8.

The Crusaderettes will host Southeastern Mass. next Tuesday at 6 at ENC's Lahue Center in the final game of the regular season.

The ENC women jumped off to an early 12-2 lead but Gordon took a 27-26 edge at the half and outlasted the Crusaderettes in the second half.

Janet Ranstrom scored 16 points and Nanette Baumgartner had 12 for ENC.

Earlier in the week the ENC women bowed to Salem State College, 59-54, again trailing by just one point at the half.

Baumgartner had 13 points, freshman Brenda Healey had 12 and Quincy's Lois Malvesti scored 11.

Earlier the Crusaderettes had defeated Lowell University, 53-41, sparked by Malvesti's 21 points. Ranstrom scored 12.

At Youth Arena

Quincy Host To Brockton

Quincy's hockey team appears to be on its way to another state tournament berth.

The Presidents took a 7-3-2 record into last night's (Wednesday) game at Waltham. Quincy will be home to Brockton Saturday at 6:40 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The Presidents must win or tie 70 percent of their games to qualify for the tournament for the 10th time in Coach Bob Sylvia's 15 years as coach. Ties count as wins so they appear on the way to reaching the qualifying figure.

Quincy took another step toward the tournament last Saturday when it defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 5-1, with junior goalie Chuck Dooley getting the win in his first start.

Quincy's big line of Robbie Craig, Scott Richardson and Tom Brennan continues to be one of the highest scoring lines in the Suburban League and accounted for all the goals.

Craig, the league's number two scorer with 27 points, only one behind Chuck Coyle of Weymouth South, had two goals as did Scott Richardson, the league's number three scorer with 23 points. Brennan, in fifth place with 20 points, had the other goal.

Earlier in the week Quincy bowed to league-leading Weymouth North, 5-2, after taking a 2-0 lead.

John Norton and Tom Brennan had the Quincy goals with Bob Brennan, Craig and Richardson having assists.

"Weymouth came back well and put the pressure on us, and that's why they are in first place," Sylvia said. "In the third period they were tough, dumping the puck and going in after it, beating us to the corners. That's where the game was won."

Quincy had its share of shots but Weymouth goalie Paul Harvey was outstanding.

11 Teams Left In Men's Candlepin Tourney

Eleven teams remain in the 26th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tournament sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy following last Sunday's action at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome. Forty-two clubs started the competition.

More than 300 spectators viewed the 100 bowlers in competition for a qualifying berth.

The Colonial Merchants of South Weymouth bowled high for the day in defeating the Tuesday Merrymount Merchants, 1819-1796, and gaining a bye into the quarterfinals on Feb. 18.

Other results: Wollaston Men 1775, Supreme 1618; Weymouth's Monday Night Men 1713, Beau's 1689; Perfectas League 1691, Quincy Church Team 1566; Boston Gear 1673, Social Club 1546; Blessed Sacrament 1653, Quincy Eagles 1602; Penn A. A. 1651, OSM 1589; Hull Monday Men 1625, Ducky Webber 1540; John Quincy Adams 1600, Springfield Civic of Canton, 1496; St. Mark's VFW 1565, Charlestown K. of C. 1548.

Colonial Merchants ran up a 44-pin lead in the first two strings which proved big as Merrymount roared back in the final string.

Steve Puopolo's 400 third string locked up the victory, while Rich Bognanno was second with 371. Ron Johnston was high for Merrymount with 395, followed by Paul Vickers' 371.

The Wollaston Men ran up a 123 first string lead over Supreme and coasted as Paul Peckham fired a 394 for Wollaston, followed by Mark Smith's 376 and Russ Gardner's 372. Ken Hanson had a 369 and Bob Roach a 366 for Supreme.

The Monday Night Men rolled to a comfortable 56-pin lead over Beau's in the first two strings but Beau's cut the gap but not enough. Tom Nicholson's 376 was high for Monday Night Men and Al Wientek rolled a 369. Buster Loud's 376 was high for Beau's.

The Perfectas dropped their opening string but came back in the next two to win easily. Tim Bright led the winners with 361, and Joe King and Bob Snelder each had 353. Dave Bates was tops for the Quincy Church team, bowling 342.

Boston Gear swept three strings in defeating the Social Club as Gene McGann led the scorers with a 351. Ed Pasquale paced the losers with 341.

Blessed Sacrament put its win together in the first and third strings to top the Eagles. Dan MacMillan had a 360 for the winners and Bill Eklund a 356 for the Eagles.

Penn A. A. moved to a 50-pin first string lead and had easy sailing over OSM, as Dana Chella rolled 398 for Penn and Ernie Von Ilderstein had 355 for OSM.

Hull Monday Men had little trouble in ousting Ducky Webber as they rolled up a substantial lead in the first two strings. Steve McGunnigle had 386 for Hull and George O'Hare rolled 366. For Ducky Webber Don Connolly was high with 322.

John Quincy Adams took all three strings in an easy win over Canton. Cap. Len Simes led the winners with 346 and Bob Kearney rolled 314 for Canton.

In the closest match St. Mark's eased out its win over Charlestown in the last string. Tom Smith was high for St. Mark's with a 334 and Peter Fuedo paced the losers with 327.

The Hanover Merchants will return next Sunday to join last Sunday's nine winners and set up the quarterfinal round.

Atlantic Memorial Widens Church League Lead

Atlantic Memorial widened its lead to 10 points in the Church Bowling League by taking six points from runnerup Quincy Center Methodist with a 1660-1610 win.

All bowlers on both teams rolled more than 300 with Bob Crespi's 356 and Tom Shepherd's 342 leading the way for Atlantic and George Dabrolet leading Quincy Center with 358.

The team standings: Atlantic, 34-2; Quincy Centre, 24-12; Wollaston Cong., 22-14; Central Baptist, 20-16; Independents, 20-16; First Presby, 18-18; Fort Square U.P., 18-18, Lutherans, 16-20; Christ Church, 15-21; Bethany A., 14-22; Bethany B., 8-28; Quincy Point Cong., 7-29.

Dave Bates has the season's high single of 161 with Bud

Crowell, Walter Chepetsky and Bob MacDonald having 155s. Bates also has high three of 411 with Crowell and Lou Taylor having 400s.

The league was founded in September of 1955 at the former Norfolk Downs Alleys in North Quincy and bowls today at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad St. every Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

Linda Bowes is president of the loop. Betty Ann MacDonald, treasurer and Karen Moody, secretary.

St. Brendan's Junior League MDA Bowlathon Feb. 17

On Saturday, Feb. 17, the St. Brendan's Junior Bowling League will host its third annual Muscular Dystrophy Bowlathon at the Wollaston Bowladrome.

Junior bowlers will solicit pledges of a penny per pin knocked down in their three strings of league bowling Feb. 17.

All proceeds will benefit MDA's local patient service program and international research efforts. Thousands of dollars have been raised over the past few years by junior bowlers throughout Southern Massachusetts to help "Jerry's Kids".

According to Marie Traft, Bowlathon chairman, "Our event offers kids the chance to have fun while helping kids afflicted with muscular dystrophy. Everyone who participates will receive an award with special prizes going to the best pledge collectors."

Presidents On Way To Tourney Berth

Happy days are here again for the Quincy High basketball team. The Presidents suffered their most frustrating season a year ago but, thanks to Coach Joe Amoroso utilizing his sophomores the current team is well on its way to a state tournament berth and a possible second place finish in the Suburban League.

Quincy took an 8-3 league record and overall 10-4 mark into Tuesday's game at Newton. The Presidents will host unbeaten Cambridge Rindge and Latin, a shoo-in for the league title, Friday at 8 at the Vo-Tech gym and next Tuesday will play at Waltham at 8.

The Presidents' balance paid off again last Friday in a 49-46 win over Brockton.

Brian Donovan, the number three scorer in the Suburban League, scored 22 points and was strong off the boards, but several other players contributed to the victory.

Donovan, Jeff Connerty and Mike Connolly sparked on the boards against Brockton's big forward line and this was a major factor in the important victory.

Quincy jumped into a 14-point lead early in the third period and Amoroso felt this was the worst thing that could have happened. "The kids thought that was the end of it and I saw a definite letdown," he said.

Brockton turned what looked like a certain Quincy win into one of the season's most exciting games. Trailing, 29-15, in the third period, the Boxers rebounded to tie it at 34 going into the final period.

Quincy regained a four-point lead but Brockton several times cut the gap to two and down the stretch it was clutch foul shooting by Andy Carrera, Ray Coscia and Dana Guidice which pulled the win out.

Called the "Italian Connection" by Amoroso, these three hit on six foul shots in one-and-one situations in the final three minutes. Carrera's only two points of the game in the final five seconds left tied the verdict.

Connerty fouled out in the fourth period and Connolly also was in foul trouble. Junior Scott MacDonald came off the bench to do a fine job and Carrera's ball handling was outstanding. Ritch Finnegan also played well.

"We showed we have some depth and everyone contributed to this win," a pleased Amoroso concluded.

A Tough Season For North But Miller Can Still Smile

It has been a long season for the North Quincy basketball team, but Coach Eddie Miller's Raiders have lost several close games and he has seen some things to make him smile.

North was only 4-9 (3-9 in the Suburban League) going into Tuesday's game with Weymouth South. The Raiders will play at Revere Friday at 8 p.m. in a non-league game and next Tuesday will host Newton North at 8 p.m. at the Vo-Tech gym.

North made a valiant comeback last Friday but was edged by Weymouth North, 60-58. The Raiders trailed by 11 points with 3:30 left in the game.

"This was another example of how these kids battle," Miller said. "They have never given up and with a little luck here and there we could have won several more games."

North has the number two scorer in the Suburban League in Jim Holleran and he again sparked the offense with 20 points including eight in the fourth period when the Raiders nearly pulled it out.

Kevin Cobban, the team's "quarterback," had another big night with 16 points. Cobban has been especially effective this year from the foul line.

Earlier in the week North had bowed to unbeaten Cambridge Rindge and Latin, the certain league champion, 65-53, in a game which saw foul shooting make a big difference.

Although North hit on 25 foul shots to 17 for Cambridge, it missed many early shots while Cambridge was 11 for 11 to take a 25-19 halftime lead. It widened its margin to 47-33 after three periods, utilizing its big height advantage.

Cobban had 15 points, 13 from the free throw line, while outstanding sophomore Mark Millane had 13. Holleran was held to five points, one of his lowest totals of the season.

Wrestling

Quincy Close To Title

Going into yesterday's (Wednesday) meet with Cambridge Rindge and Latin, it was a bit too early to claim the title, but Quincy's wrestling team all but wrapped up its first Suburban League championship when it defeated Waltham, 32-16, last Saturday.

With a 6-0 league record and a 15-1 overall mark, the Presidents were favored to top Cambridge and will be solid favorites to end up with a win over North Quincy Saturday at 6 at the Vo-Tech gym and clinch the title.

Waltham suffered its second league defeat against Quincy, while Newton North remained in contention with only one setback, that at the hands of Quincy.

Quincy's win at Waltham wasn't as easy as the score indicates and the Presidents led by only four points with only two matches, the 187-pound and heavyweight bouts, remaining.

Coach Carmen Mariano was undecided whether to use Tony Akoury in the 187-pounder and Geoff Calisch in the heavyweight bout, or vice versa.

He selected Akoury for the 187-pound bout and it paid off.

"They both weigh the same and once we went up by four points, I felt I had to go with Tony as he's a senior and has more experience," Mariano said. "Under the circumstances, I had to go for the win right there."

Akoury responded with a quick 64-second pin over Waltham's Frank Moreale and the win was Quincy's. It was the only Quincy pin of the night.

As a result, Calisch won by default in the heavyweight bout when Waltham decided not to risk injury to Vin Scalise, who had knee problems.

Waltham had taken a 16-15 lead by virtue of its only pin scored by Scott Baker over Kurt Bruan at 157 pounds. Each had lost only once this year.

Mike Gordon then came up with a vital win for the Presidents when he faced Waltham's Len Comeau, also with only one loss. Gordon had little trouble as he outclassed Comeau for a 16-1 win, good for a five point major decision and a 20-16 Quincy lead.

Other Quincy winners were Ron DiCesare, at 100 pounds, Don Bernard at 107 and Paul Orlando at 114.

"Those three kids were absolutely great," Mariano said. "They have been improving every week and have worked awfully hard. They are underclassmen and these were the most important wins of their lives. They wrestled their best matches of their lives."

Earlier in the week Quincy had scored an impressive 33-19 non-league win over Chelmsford, always one of the top teams in the state.

The Presidents' winners were Joe Souza, 105 pounds; Orlando, 112; Steve Notarangelo, 119; Steve Venturilli, 138; Rennie Crowe, 145; Braun, 155; Calisch, 187, and Akoury, heavyweight. Gordon went to a draw at 169 pounds.

Quincy's junior varsity, coached by former Quincy ace Tim Cahill, scored a decisive 24-3 win over Chelmsford.

ENC Roms Over Gordon, 78-55

The Eastern Nazarene College men's basketball team romped over Gordon College, 78-55, last Saturday to improve its record to 12-7.

The Crusaders will host Nyack College Friday at 8 and will be home to King's College Saturday at 8, both games at ENC's Lahue Center. ENC recently defeated both teams on a trip to New York.

Gordon rallied to cut ENC's margin to 35-32 at halftime and took the lead early in the second half. The Crusaders came back and outclassed the Fighting Scots the rest of the way.

Jerry Perea was 10 for 11 at the foul line and scored 20 points. Glenn Bryan had 16. Quincy's Bob Dacey 15 and Mark Carr 13. Perera and Bryan took down seven rebounds each.

For centuries, when people have owned beautiful gems, they have wanted to show them off. Many years before Christ, huge stones, possibly of several hundred carats, were worn as hat, helmet, or hair ornaments. Henri II of France jauntily wore a 54 carat diamond in his cap and the first Queen Elizabeth of England adorned her hair with a spindle the size of a baby's fist. In the 20th century, Mrs. Gardner, wife of Boston's famous Jack Gardner, would, on occasion, wear the Rajah Diamond and another large diamond in her hair.

For jewelry you will enjoy wearing come to us at GRON & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. We have a fine selection of jewelry on display including some estate pieces. You're welcome to stop by, look them over, and let us assist you in buying a piece for a Valentine's Day gift. You will also find gift items and greeting cards for Valentine's Day next door in our "Something Special" shop. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

● South Shore Hockey

Panthers Win 3rd In Row

The Quincy Panthers won their game in a row last Sunday, walloping Neponset, 8-1, to move to within three points of the Quincy Flyers in the South Shore Division of the South Shore Hockey League.

It was the Panthers' second straight win against one of last year's champions, having defeated Bridgewater previous week.

"With my defensemen, Ed Shea, Scott Gosselin, John DePasta and Doug Rand, doing their homework, and a strong and agile goalie like Jim Tennant, our forwards can do the rest," Coach David Mullen said. "We've averaged 11 goals a game in the last three games and allowed only three a game."

The Panthers, sponsored by Quincy Legion Post 95, will face West Roxbury, the Greater Boston Division Leader, Sunday at 6 o'clock Hingham's Pilgrim and the game will determine if the Panthers will qualify for the Eastern Mass. Amateur Tournament.

The Quincy Flyers did not play a league game last week and lost to Winthrop, 8-5, in an exhibition. They are three points behind Bridgewater in the South Shore Division, but have a game in hand.

The Flyers will meet Jamaica Plain, runnerup in the Greater Boston Division, Sunday at 7:30 at Hingham.

The Quincy Braves were walloped by Jamaica Plain, 10-4. The Braves will face Randolph Sunday at 7:30 at Hingham.

St. Joseph's Breezes By Point, Wollaston Nazarene

St. Joseph's Goliath A team waltzed to a 60-20 win over Quincy Point Cong. and walloped Wollaston Nazarene, 35-10, to improve its record to 8-0 in the Quincy YMCA Church Basketball League.

St. Joseph's employed a strong full-court press against Quincy Point and rolled to a 20-1 first period lead and had clear sailing the rest of the way.

Billy Foley and Chuck Jaehning had 12 points each, Jim Bandera scored 11, and Jim Jaehning 10. Ricky Mahoney, Chris Shaughnessy, Jim Quinn and Billy Harte

Grandma's Attic Provides

Job Opportunity For Disabled

Grandma's Attic, 29 Beale St., Wollaston, is a second hand thrift shop which provides longterm disabled people with the opportunity to work in and adjust to the community.

The shop is part of Therapeutic Community Inc., 1181 Washington St., Dorchester, a private, non-profit organization that provides rehabilitation services to 100 deinstitutionalized people.

Through its Community Residences, Day Program, After Five Club, Boston Evening Club and Grandma's Attic, it equips clients with the necessary skills to live in the community and function in sheltered workshops or competitive employment.

"It helped me a lot," said Doris Flood, an employee of the thrift shop. Fellow worker, Ruth Ambuter seconded her comments. "I've come a long way since I was in the program".

Both will soon be placed in the South Shore Rehabilitation's sheltered workshop.

If you would like to donate furniture, glassware, toys or pictures to Grandma's Attic, which is managed by Charles J. Affsa, call 479-6673.

ANNOUNCING MASSACHUSETTS' MOST VALUABLE BANK CARD.

NOW YOU CAN GET UP TO $350 CASH, DAY OR NIGHT.

We've increased the amount of money you can get from BayBanks X-Press 24.TM Now you can use your BayBanks Card to withdraw up to $350 cash (per day, per card) from your Something Better checking, NOW or savings account. Even though the bank may be closed.

And, when the bank is open, you can use your card and BayBanks X-PressTM to OK your own personal checks for the same $350. (Another increase!) All you need is a Something Better checking or NOW account. Just put your check into any BayBanks X-Press, push a few buttons, and take the check to any teller. You'll find BayBanks X-Press machines in each of the more than 150 offices of the 9 BayBanks in Eastern Massachusetts.

NOW YOU CAN CASH ANY KIND OF CHECK. AT ANY OFFICE OF A BAYBANK.

Now you can go into any of the BayBanks and use your card and the BayBanks X-Press unit to approve all kinds of checks yourself. (Up to $350 per day, to a maximum of $700 a week.) This includes payroll checks, government checks, even checks drawn on other banks. All you have to do is open a Something Better checking or NOW account and qualify for Reserve Credit.

Please send me more information.

Who Says It's Cold

SUB-ZERO COLD of the past few days failed to daunt Jack Tuite of Waltham, who has taken a daily swim at Wollaston Beach for the past 10 years. Tuite, a retired Waltham firefighter who will be 71 in April, estimated the water temperature at 27 degrees and the weatherman placed the wind chill factor at 20 degrees below zero when shivering Sun Photographer Steve Grochowski recorded his ablutions on Tuesday. Tuite wears a bathing cap to protect his sinuses, tennis shoes to keep his feet from freezing and gloves to keep his fingers wet so they won't hurt when he comes out of the water. He used to swim with two companions but one died and the other left town. "It's hard recruiting others," said Jack Tuite.

Budget Requests In Line

City Officials Warm To Spending Cap

Gov. Edward J. King's plan to freeze local government spending at the level of the past fiscal year was greeted calmly by most of those Quincy officials in charge of spending.

"I agree with the governor that you have to put a lid on spending," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "I think those mayors and selectmen who criticize him are being unfair."

"In Quincy, we recognized our municipal problem and we put a lid on unnecessary overtime and expenses. What the governor is doing now is what we started doing a year ago."

Tobin and his financial advisers, William F. Callahan and Auditor Charles L. Shea, are currently collecting and reviewing the budget requests of the heads of city departments.

"Most of them are holding the line," said Tobin, who has yet to receive the requests from the Public Works Department and the problem-ridden City Hospital.

"The action that we took last year looks better than ever now."

said the Mayor. "We fully funded the budget and bonded the inherited deficit."

"Had we continued the past practice of half-funded budgets and transferring funds at the end of the year we would have been up the creek without a paddle. There would have been no way out."

John J. Lydon Jr., chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee, said he plans to insist that all department budgets be complete when they are submitted to his committee.

"They can't come in with a budget and say they held the line and then come in with salary raises later," said Lydon. "That would not be holding the line."

"The Council, since I've been here, has always sought to stabilize the tax rate. What the governor is doing is what we've been trying to do all along."

"But I thought it was totally unfair that he did not address the problem of fiscal autonomy."

"I have no problem in holding

Term Expires March 18

Wahlberg Faces Fight For QHA Board Reappointment

By TOM HENSHAW

Rosemary Wahlberg's five-year term as the state appointee on the controversial Quincy Housing Authority expires March 18 and it is apparent that she faces a stiff fight for reappointment.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, whose views will carry some weight in the selection process, indicated that he will not recommend another term for Mrs. Wahlberg, who heads the Quincy Community Action Program.

"I don't wish to say right now who I will recommend," Tobin told The Sun, "but Mrs. Wahlberg has never been helpful to Arthur Tobin."

Mrs. Wahlberg, who is currently chairman of the QHA Board of Commissioners, said she has applied for reappointment to Byron Matthews, the newly named secretary of the Department of Community Affairs.

"I am working very hard to get broad support for my candidacy," she told The Sun.

For the past five months, the QHA has been under the gun from

ROSEMARY WAHLBERG

HUD and the DCA to come up with an affirmative action program for tenants and employees or face loss of state and federal funding.

"I'm not too happy with the direction the Housing Authority has been going in," said Tobin. "The total membership is not conducive to my way of thinking."

Related Story Page 28

"HUD has said they don't hold me responsible because I didn't have too much input in the Board. I'd like to have people in there who are in tune to my way of thinking."

Elliott Goldman, who screens appointments for Matthews, said he has received four applications for the post, including one from Mrs. Wahlberg.

He said it was against the policy of the DCA to divulge the names but The Sun learned that one of the applicants is Hugo (Flip) Fabrizio, who was ousted in

Sheets Names 12 To Study Quarry St. Land Upgrading

City Councillor James A. Sheets has named 12 people to serve on the City Council's Quarry St., West Quincy, is to be upgraded.

They include: William Brennan, Jean Giagrande, Ron Iacobucci, Judith Jacob, Mrs. Annel Johnson, Helen Johnson, Carla Kindt, Gerard A. Coletta III and Dr. William J. Verner Babcock.

William O'Connell will represent the Quincy Historical Society on the committee, Mrs. Barbara Righini will represent the Park Department, and Richard Meade the Planning Department.

Members of the City Council who will sit on the committee are Sheets, Francis X. McCauley and John J. Lydon Jr.

The city-owned land in question is the area adjoining the site on Quarry St. where the Quincy Lodge of Elks plans to construct a new home.

Part of the deal in obtaining community approval of the sale of land to the Elks was that the rest of the land be rezoned to Open Space classification and upgraded.

Sheets said it is hoped that the committee will hold its first meeting within the next two weeks.

House Gives Approval To 21 Drinking Age

The State House gave preliminary approval Tuesday to a bill that would raise the drinking age to 21 in both bars and package stores in one year steps over a period of three years.

The bill was on the calendar for reconsideration on Wednesday but the size of the Tuesday vote, 109-44, indicated that it would not be considered.

All three Quincy reps, Michael W. Morrissey, Thomas F. Brownell and Robert A. Cerasoli, voted for the measure.

$2.4 Million In U.S. Funds For FR Bridge Design Work

Federal funds totaling $2.4 million have been approved for preliminary design work on the proposed new Fore River Bridge, it was announced by Cong. Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston).

"The Federal Highway Administration, by its action today, has given a green light to the project," he said.

"Barring any unforeseen circumstances, we can assume that this will be the first phase of the federal government's commitment to this project."

"It will complement the environmental assessment currently underway and nearing completion by the state."

A new Fore River Bridge is a necessity for the economy of the South Shore since the span of the current bridge limits the size of ships that can be built at General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Donnelly said he has been working closely with state and federal officials and General Dynamics' management to secure the commitments needed to realize construction.

SENATE CITATION is presented to Miss Emma Hassan, head of volunteers at Quincy City Hospital, by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. Award was given in recognition of Miss Hassan's outstanding service as ongoing head of volunteer services. Shore Taxi Gets Board Approval To Add 2 Cabs

The City Licensing Board Tuesday granted the request of Shore Taxi, Inc., 535 Sea St., Houghs Neck, for permission to add two taxis to its present fleet of five cabs.

Only three of the five members of the board were present.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn, acting chairman explained that City Clerk John Gillis, board chairman, was attending a legislative hearing at the State House. Fire Chief Edward Barry, a board member, had spent most of the night at the scene of a three-alarm fire in the Knotty Pine Restaurant on Washington St., Quincy Point.

Atty. Nathaniel Sherman, appearing for Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Russell, operators of the cab company, told the board that the taxi service located at Sea and Palmer Sts., has off-street parking for its vehicles. The parking area, he said, is behind the company offices and is enclosed by a 10-foot high chain-link fence.

Sherman said that over the past year business has increased substantially and the company is unable to handle the calls with only five cabs.

Russell said a considerable portion of his business come from the elderly and handicapped persons.

He told the board Shore Taxi transports people to and from doctors and hospitals. The company also does work for South Shore Mental Health Center, the alcoholic clinic and other agencies.

The board unanimously approved the granting of the licenses.

The board also granted a request from Town River Yacht Club, Mound St., Quincy Point, for permission to store an additional 7,000 gallons of gasoline underground. The club presently stores 3,000 gallons. The club must obtain approval of the conservation and fire departments.

In other action the board:

- Gave South Shore Vending - The Dukes Company, leave to withdraw requests for licenses for pinball game machines at Quincy Wonder Bowl, 565 Southern Artery, and the 41 Lounge, 41 Water St. The board said it must see the corporate structure and financial records of Dukes Company before considering the licenses.

- Permitted Rocco A. Fabiano leave to withdraw without prejudice a request for a common victualer's license at John's Fruit Store, 59 Franklin St. The board suggested he return with definite plans and layouts for his proposed food service.

- Continued for one week request of Joseph Bates, trustee of Bates Realty Trust to store vehicles from city streets during snow storms or after accidents.

- Continued for one week request of South Shore Automatic Transmission, 250 Center st. for a motor II license.

NEW QUINCY FIRE TOWER went into action during three alarm blaze that destroyed Knotty Pine Restaurant and Lounge, 518 Washington St., Quincy Point, early Tuesday. Sub-zero weather which coated men and apparatus with ice hampered work of firefighters.

ICE-COATED FIREFIGHTERS survey damage to Knotty Pine Restaurant and Lounge, Washington St., Quincy Point, after hours of battling blaze in sub-zero weather. Streets were covered with several inches of ice and a number of firefighters suffered frostbite during the early morning blaze.

Over $100,000 Damage

Fire Guts Point Restaurant As -Zero Cold Hampers Firefighters

Sub-zero temperatures hampered Quincy firefighters early Tuesday as they battled a three alarm fire which destroyed the Knotty Pine Restaurant and Lounge, 518 Washington St., Quincy Point.

Firefighters were coated with ice as they strove to move frozen hose lines and ladders during the blaze that broke out at about 2:15 a.m. A second alarm was sounded at 2:41 a.m. and the third was struck at 3:05 a.m.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti estimated the damage in excess of $100,000. He said no probably cause has been found.

Shortly after the all out was sounded at 12:53 p.m. Valenti said: "We believe the fire started in the cellar, but we haven't been able to get in there because the roof and all kinds of debris fell into the cellar."

Firefighter John Mann, attached to Engine 4, Wollaston, was treated at Quincy City Hospital for severe facial frostbite. Other firefighters suffered frostbite and bruises from falls on the ice, but none required hospitalization.

Washington St. was coated with several inches of ice near the scene of the fire, necessitating the detouring of morning commuter traffic. For a period south-bound traffic over Fore River Bridge was halted. Other commuters and buses were detoured around the scene.

The city's new tower truck was at the blaze and shot a high velocity stream of water into the blaze. The apparatus was covered with ice and when it came time to move the apparatus it was found the jacks supporting the tower were frozen into the street.

Other engines were frozen, but firefighters were able to thaw them out, although rolling hose lines was found to be particularly difficult.

A fire wall between the restaurant and adjoining one story stores confined the fire to the Knotty Pine and the two vacant apartments above it. The stores did suffer water and smoke damage.

Eleven Quincy fire companies were called to fight the fire. Units from Braintree, Weymouth, Milton and Boston, covered the Quincy fire stations during the blaze.

Peter Saxonis, owner of the restaurant, said he has been renovating the establishment and has spent more than $60,000 in recent months.

Meeting Friday On New Flood Proofing Program

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has announced that a flood proofing program will be available in the near future to eligible owners of flood damaged homes in Quincy.

City officials met recently with Lee Newman of the State Office of Consumer Affairs, representing Michael Lerner, director of the Massachusetts Coastal Floodproofing Program.

At the meeting were George Riley, executive secretary to the Mayor, Richard Meade of the Planning Department, City Councilor Joanne Condon, Rosemary Wahlberg, director of Community Action, and Jane Ford, director of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

A strategic and implementation meeting is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 16th, at 10 a.m. in the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, 150 East Squantum St.

The Massachusetts Coastal Floodproofing Program provides grants and technical advice to low and moderate income homeowners living in what is officially termed the "100 year Coastal Flood Plain."

The program will be available to owners of primary residences (year-round homeowners) living within the 100-year flood plain who suffered flood damage in the February Blizzard of 1978.

Massachusetts Electric Announces

TIME OF USE RATES

Available March 1...

New optional Time-of-Use Rates will be available to our customers starting March 1. These new rates are intended to help hold down the cost of electricity by changing the time when it is used. We want you to know about these rates so you can decide if you want to participate.

Why Time-of Use Rates?

The idea is to reduce demand for electricity during periods of peak use (8 am to 9 pm EST on weekdays) by encouraging customers to shift their electrical use to off-peak periods (9 pm to 8 am EST weekdays and throughout weekends).

If people can change their pattern of use in this way, it will benefit everyone. That's because we can make electricity less expensively during off-peak times. But, more importantly, we might be able to put off building costly new generating stations.

How do Time-of-Use Rates work?

While you would pay less than the standard rate for electricity used during off-peak periods, you would pay more during peak periods.

In order to save, most families would need to use more than 70 percent of their electricity at off-peak times. You'd probably have to do things like bathing, dishwashing, clothes washing and drying and, if possible, cooking after 9 pm at night on weekdays or on weekends. This could mean a big change in your lifestyle.

Are Time-of-Use Rates for everyone?

Frankly, no. Some of our customers probably can save under Time-of-Use Rates. But many of our customers probably would not save with these rates. That's because they are unlikely to use a large enough percentage of their electricity during off-peak times to save under the optional rates.

Things to consider

- If your lifestyle is already evening-oriented and you use little electricity during the day – or if you really feel you can change your lifestyle – then Time-of-Use Rates might interest you.

- Time-of-Use Rates are optional, but customers who decide to join the program must remain with it for at least a full year.

- Only you can decide if Time-of-Use Rates are right for you.

Tobin Receives 'Outstanding Neighbor Of Year' Award

'Blizzard Ball' Raises Over $8,000 For Red Cross Vehicle

The Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter's Blizzard of '78 commemorative ball at the Lantana, Randolph, raised over $8,000 for the purchase of a four wheel drive disaster van urgently needed for rescue work during emergencies.

More than 400 guests attended the dinner-dance at which Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was presented with the first annual "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" award for his leadership, concern and caring during the blizzard of February, 1978, a month after he took office.

Peter F. Macdonald, chairman of the Quincy Red Cross Chapter, told the guests that in the four weeks after the storm Mayor Tobin had devoted every waking moment "in pulling the community together".

"By her personal effort he brought together the civil defense, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, CB radio operators, amateur radio operators, the National Guard, city workers and others, and forged a successful working plan to meet the emergency," Macdonald said.

"At all times his demeanor and his presence reflected a calm confidence, a compassionate concern and an intuitive sense as to how the problem could be successfully solved," Macdonald commented.

Daniel Pritchard, executive director Quincy Red Cross Chapter, said the need for the four wheel drive disaster van was pointed up during last year's storm when flooding and high tides made it impossible to reach parts of Squantum and Houghs Neck. The new vehicle will be used to transport victims from fires and other disasters to hospitals or places of shelter. It will also be equipped as a canteen.

He noted that in addition to helping more than 500 Greater Quincy families at a cost of $90,000 during the storm, the Red Cross assisted victims of a fatal helicopter crash on Station St., West Quincy and at various fires throughout the city.

RED CROSS AWARD as "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" is presented to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin by Mrs. Edna Gilmore, Red Cross board member, at the first annual Blizzard of '78 commemorative ball. The Mayor was cited for his leadership during the storm.

BOUQUET OF ROSES is presented to Mrs. Shirley Tobin by Irving Boyes, committee chairman. Mayor Tobin (center) received the first annual "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" award for his work during last year's big snow storm.

Irving Boyes, chairman of the ball committee, presented Mrs. Shirley Tobin with a bouquet of roses, a Red Cross "One Gallon" pin and a letter in recognition of her donation of eight pints of blood.

APPRECIATION for citation naming him "Outstanding Neighbor of the Year" is expressed by Mayor Arthur Tobin. From bottom are Dan Pritchard, executive director of the chapter; Irving Boyes, ball chairman; Mayor Tobin; Rev. Bedros Baharian, honorary chairman of ball committee, and Peter F. Macdonald, chairman of the Greater Quincy chapter.

Boyes reported that the ball, supported by individual citizens and the business and professional community was a success and will be an annual fund raising event. He emphasized that the Red Cross is in need of funds to maintain its trained volunteer group and be prepared for any emergency.

Rev. Bedros Baharian, honorary chairman of the ball, was toastmaster.

Members of the committee included: Mary Valle, Peter Benelli, Peter Macdonald, Gregory Galvin, William Disher, Mrs. Edna Gilmore, George Riley, James Ricciuti, Matthew McDonnell, Clement O'Brien and Henry Bosworth.

How to do the impossible 7 different ways.

Saving money isn't easy. Some people say it's downright impossible. But at South Shore we make the effort well worth your while. By offering a wide selection of savings plans to suit every lifestyle. And by promising the highest interest rate the law will allow. Look into these plans. Quite possibly there's one perfect for you.

1. Six Month Money Market Certificate.

9.376% (This was the rate through February 7, 1979). The interest you'll earn on this certificate is excellent, equal to the U.S. Treasury Bill average six month rate in effect as of the date of issue. So the rate will fluctuate. Call us for the current reading. On this certificate, a minimum of $10,000 is required.

2. Eight Year Certificate.

7 1/4% Annual Interest. 8.17% Effective Yield. You'll benefit from this generous interest rate as long as you keep at least $1,000 on deposit.

3. Four Year Certificate.

7 1/4% Annual Interest. 7.63% Effective Yield. The minimum amount required on balance is just the same as the Eight Year Certificate. But you'll see terrific interest in just four years.

4. Two-And-A-Half Year Certificate.

6 1/2% Annual Interest. 6.81% Effective Yield. All it takes is a minimum of $250 on deposit for this period, and you'll earn super interest.

5. One Year Certificate.

6% Annual Interest. 6.27% Effective Yield. Promise to leave at least $250 in this account for no less than one year, and you'll be very glad you did.

6. Ninety Day Notice Account.

5 1/2% Annual Interest. 5.64% Effective Yield. As long as you maintain a balance of at least $200, you'll benefit from a better than average interest rate.

7. Regular Savings Account.

5% Annual Interest. 5.12% Effective Yield. Nobody should be without a Regular Savings Account, especially at South Shore Bank!

On all certificates, there is a penalty for withdrawal of funds before maturity.

Obituaries

Herbert W. Cooper, 68, Former Hospital Board Member

Funeral services for Herbert W. Cooper, 68, of 268 Adams St., Quincy, former owner of Cooper's South Shore Motors, will be held at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at Temple Israel, Longwood Ave. and the Riverway, Boston.

Mr. Cooper died suddenly Monday while on vacation in Miami, Fla. Burial will be in Sharon Memorial Park.

Born in Quincy, he attended Quincy schools and was a lifelong resident of the city. He was in the automobile business most of his life.

He was a former member of the Quincy City Hospital board of managers, the Brotherhood of Temple Israel, and Germania Lodge of Masons.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cooper of Quincy; two sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Lentin of Raynham and Lillian Cooper of Braintree, and a son, Joseph Cooper of California. He is also survived by four nieces, Hazel Hillinsbee of Churchdown, England; Rowena Dery of Newton; Martha Stone of Conn., and Frances Stone of Washington, D.C.

Margaret C. Dempsey, 67, Retired School Teacher

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday in St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Mrs. Margaret C. (Cussen) Dempsey, 67, of Quincy, a retired Boston school teacher.

Mrs. Dempsey died Saturday at Massachusetts General Hospital after a long illness. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

A native of Boston, she moved to Quincy five years ago. She was for many years a teacher in the Boston school system.

Wife of the late James C. Dempsey, she is survived by a daughter, Margaret F. Dempsey, and a son, James C. Dempsey, both of Quincy; three sisters, Elizabeth Cussen, Mary Cussen, and Anna Cussen, all of Milton.

Private Services

For E. Harriet Couch, 99

Private funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. E. Harriet (Brownscombe) Couch, 99, of Quincy, widow of William Couch, founder of the S. H. Couch Co., of Quincy.

Mrs. Couch died at her home Monday after a long illness. Burial was in Norwell.

Born in Wales she moved to Pennsylvania when she was 10. In 1901 she moved to Boston and five years later came to Quincy.

She is survived by a son, William Couch of Quincy; and two daughters, Harriet D. Couch and Sarah Couch, both of Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Avedis Zildjian, 90, Head of Famed Cymbals Firm

Funeral services were held Saturday at the First Parish Unitarian Church, Norwell, for Avedis Armand Zildjian, 90, of 73 Summit Ave., Wollaston, president of a centuries old firm that manufactures cymbals for musicians in all parts of the world.

Mr. Zildjian died last Thursday at Massachusetts General Hospital after a brief illness. Burial was private.

The Zildjians have been making cymbals since 1623 when the first Avedis Zildjian a Constantinople alchemist discovered a secret process of treating alloys and became the first official cymbal maker in the family. Along with the surname of Zildjian, meaning "son of the cymbalsmith" the closely guarded secret process has been handed down through the male line for over 350 years.

Zildjian's two sons are now caretakers of the process used in the manufacture of the individually handcrafted Turkish cymbals of such fine quality they are known and respected by internationally acclaimed musical organizations.

"It's easy to analyze the alloy we use," said Mr. Zildjian, who remained active in the business until his illness. "But no one can put it together, and some of the biggest metal companies in the country have tried."

Mr. Zildjian was born in Istanbul, Turkey, and came to this country in 1909. He established the A. Zildjian Cymbal Manufacturing Company at 39 Fayette St., Quincy. In 1969 the company relocated at Assinippi Industrial Park in Norwell.

The firm's product has won numerous world's fair medals and in 1976 Mr. Zildjian was honored by the Armenian Bicentennial Committee at Philadelphia where he was presented a citation and gold medal for excellence in musical arts.

He was an Army veteran of World War I and a member of the American Legion, Quincy Masons and Quincy Neighborhood Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice "Sally" [Goodale] Zildjian, two sons, Robert Zildjian of Norwell and Armand Arthur Zildjian of Hingham who operate the Norwell plant; seven grandchildren, Wendy Zildjian Mets, Craigie Ann, Deborah Zildjian-Bickford, Robert Avedis, Wilson M., Sally K. and Armand A. Zildjian, and one great granddaughter, Paula Mets.

'Stop Smoking' Sessions At Hospital

The South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society and Quincy City Hospital are offering a series of eight, two-hour "Stop Smoking" sessions beginning Feb. 26, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., at the hospital's Conference Room.

The sessions, also scheduled for Feb. 28, March 5, 12, 19, 26, and April 2, and 9, will inform participants of the health hazards of smoking and the process of quitting.

To register, call John Felci, at Quincy City Hospital, 773-6100, ext. 308. There is a registration fee.

Heart Saver Task Force Offering CPR

The Quincy Heart Saver Task Force invites residents to "Be A Heart Saver" by participating in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training sessions from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m., Feb. 15, March 15, March 19 and April 17 at the Masonic Temple, Quincy Center.

The program trains people as both one and two person rescuers and covers topics such as major risk factors for heart attacks, positive heart health habits, signals and symptoms of heart attacks, sudden death and emergency action (CPR) to be taken.

To register for the course, which costs $1, call 479-1111.

The Quincy Heart Saver Task Force is an affiliate of the American Heart Association.

Emergency Medical Technician Courses At Hospital Expanded

Quincy City Hospital announces it is accepting applications for a new series of Emergency Medical Technician courses scheduled to start Feb. 19.

There will be two courses, one on Monday and Wednesday, the other on Tuesday and Thursday nights. Classes will be from 7 to 10 p.m., according to John Felci, hospital director of training. Enrollment is limited to 35 students in each course.

The courses deal with provision of basic level care in an emergency setting. Subject matter includes an overview of the components of the emergency medical services system; management of respiratory and cardiac disorders; care of victims of trauma; management of hypovolemic shock; bleeding control and wound care; methods of splinting; management of spinal cord injuries; emergency childbirth; patient assessment, reporting and recording; care and management of acute medical emergencies; auto extrication, and patient handling techniques.

Those interested may obtain further information by calling 773-6100, ext. 308.

$81,000 Goal

Louise Forsythe To Head PSSB Fund Campaign

Louise B. Forsythe, 75 Monroe Rd., Quincy, has been named to head a special capital fund drive committee for expansion of the Quincy-based Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Purpose of the $81,000 fund campaign is to purchase the building adjacent to the PSSB's offices at 776 Hancock St., according to Robert F. Taylor, executive director of the bureau.

Miss Forsythe is coordinator of testing for the Quincy public schools. She has just completed a term as president of the American School Counselor Association and serves on its board as past president. She is also on the board of the American School Personnel and

LOUISE FORSYTH

Guidance Association.

The bureau, founded in 1947, places 50 to 60 children each year in adoptive homes.

"This is an awesome responsibility and it has been necessary for us to double the adoptive staff in order to help the children find loving parents," she said.

The additional space provided by the expansion will be used for the agency's counseling center.

Miss Forsythe served as moderator of Bethany Church, Quincy, 1972-1975. She was the first woman in the church's history to hold the position.

The new committee chairman said she was particularly pleased to serve since her mother was one of the founders of the Protestant Social Service Bureau and served on its first board of directors.

Squantum Church

Welcomes 10 Members

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum welcomed 10 new members into the church Sunday morning during a special service.

Three are from the same family: Eleanor Lorraine Morris, James Richard Morris and Linda Marie Morris. They were all confirmed during the service.

The other seven joined upon profession of faith, having been baptized and confirmed already. They are: Barbara Ann Colwell, Delina Dougherty, Ralph Millar Dougherty, Margaret May Lewis, Mary Lillian Scott, James Henry Sumner and Sandra Louise Sumner.

The service began with the presentation of colors by scouts from Troop 24, the boy scout troop sponsored by the church. The scouts participating were Chris Harrington, Brian Hockney, Gary Hockney, Mark Paul, Robert Pound and Stephen Petrosius. Scoutmaster Don Pound and troop advisors Marjorie Petrosius and Donna Pound were also present.

A liturgical puppet play with puppets 11-feet tall was presented by Sandy Ahearn, Kathi Fluhr, Karen Sorensen, David Stohlberg and Richie Williams.

The Senior Choir sang "Amazing Grace" under the direction of Tim Shetler, a guest choir director and organist from Eastern Nazarene College.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached a sermon on the topic, "Who's a Sinner? Not Me!"

After the confirmation, the 10 new members were asked to reaffirm their Christian faith and to make their covenant with the church. The congregation then participated in the Lord's Supper. Deacons and deaconesses were Barbara Fluhr, Don Fraser, Grace Holmes, Dave Mildram, Ellen Ogilvie, Isabelle Preston, Kenneth Ray, Sandra Stohlberg, Edna Swanson and Tom Williamson.

Following the service of Communion, the 10 new members were each presented with a certificate of church membership, a Bible and a valentine prepared by children in the church.

The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Janet Sumner, Linda Gale, Joan Galvin, Doris Basley, Karen Sorensen and Mary Shionis. Greeters for the morning were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Adams and their children, Tommy and Bonnie. Lore Wallin was the head usher.

St. John's Couples To Renew Marriage Vows At Mass Saturday

Married couples of St. John's Parish, Quincy, are invited to renew their marriage vows at a Mass Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Upper Church.

Couples, who are asked to sit in the center aisle of the church, will renew their marriage vows collectively and prayers will be offered asking blessings upon their marriage, families and homes.

While not matching the original marriage ceremony, the service is an opportunity to thank God for the many blessings of marriage.

A social hour will follow in the church hall with complimentary champagne and hors d'oeuvres, as well as music and dancing until midnight.

The event is sponsored by the Spiritual Development Commission of the Parish Council.

'Cap' Reaction Denied

School Committee, QEA Begin Contract Negotiations

The Quincy School Committee tonight (Thursday) sits down with the Quincy Education Association to begin negotiations on a new contract to become effective July 1.

School Committee vice chairwoman Patricia Toland denied a report that the negotiations sub-committee had considered a suggestion that QEA wanted to sign a contract immediately to avoid any conflict with Gov. Edward King's proposed "cap" on municipal spending.

"There was some talk about it during a meeting the sub-committee had last Thursday, but it was not seriously discussed," Mrs. Toland said.

She said the group had met to discuss the "reduction in force" clause in the present contract and the procedures to be followed in reducing the number of tenured teachers in the system, if and when there are further declines in enrollment.

While the sub-committee is negotiating a new contract with the teachers, the School Committee must consider the nearly $26 million budget recommendations for salaries in 1979-80. This matter will come before the committee at a review session tentatively set for Monday, March 26.

In three previous review sessions the committee has approved $5,550,000 in expenditures after cutting $175,000 from the recommendations of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

The committee also left items totaling $390,000 on the table to be considered at the upcoming meeting.

These include $114,800 for repair and replacement of equipment; $90,000 for new or additional plant equipment; $85,300 for instructional equipment; $55,000 for moving and related costs at North Quincy High School; $30,000 for testing programs, and $15,000 for student furniture.

Mrs. Toland said the committee will also act on the athletic program budget of $241,000 and the new programs budget which calls for an outlay of $85,000.

The committee hopes to complete its review in two more meetings. This will be followed by a public hearing in mid-march, before the budget is presented to Mayor Tobin.

Brownell Protests Appointment of MDC Commissioners

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has protested Gov. Edward J. King's appointment of three new associate commissioners for the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC).

"My investigations," said Brownell in a letter to the Governor, "have revealed that these positions have been nothing but patronage positions which serve no useful function other than a political payoff for a chosen few campaign workers."

Brownell said the associate commissioners work an average of 10 hours a week and receive a salary of $11,000 "and the little work they do is already being done by the permanent in-house staff of the MDC."

"It is my hope that, after you look into the matter, you will be able to join with me in cutting these patronage positions from state government," he said.

"At any rate, when next year's budget comes before the House, I intend to offer an amendment to strike these positions, for the sake of the taxpayers of the Commonwealth."

the

McIntyre Turns Down King Cabinet Post

State House insiders report former Quincy Mayor-Senator James McIntyre could have been the Secretary of Transportation under Gov. Edward King if he wanted the post.

In fact, they say, it is the second time in four years he was offered the post and turned it down. Former Gov. Michael Dukakis also wanted him.

They way they tell it, McIntyre was approached by a top King aide who tried to interest him in the job.

It was offered to McIntyre for two reasons:

King wanted a South Shore resident in his cabinet. And McIntyre is highly qualified from past experience as chairman of the Joint Transportation Committee for six years as a state senator. It was during McIntyre's administration as mayor that the MBTA began its move to Quincy and the South Shore.

The King aide suggested to McIntyre that he take a leave of absence from his job as state Senate counsel and after helping to get the King administration off on the right foot in the transportation department he would return to his Senate Counsel job.

McIntyre, however, apparently enjoys his work as senate counsel as he gets more involved in law and legislation. And, according to the reports, Senate President William Bulger preferred he stay on as senate counsel.

The sources say that McIntyre was offered the Secretary of Transportation post by Dukakis in 1975 but turned it down then also.

THE CITY COUNCIL at-large race appears to be warming up.

KOCH, JR.

Richard J. Koch, Jr. is expected to announce his candidacy in early March. Koch will run out of Quincy Point. He and Nancy Kelly of Bromfield St., Wollaston will be married Feb. 24 at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy and will make their home on Whiton Ave., in the Point.

And, Atty. William Golden of Squantum reportedly is giving serious thought to getting into the council at-large race. Golden, you'll remember, lost but gave Sonny McDonough a royal pain in the Governor's Council race last fall. Golden tried to establish that McDonough lived more time out of state than he does in the district.

LONG-TIME FRIENDS of Eddie Moore are happy to see that he is staying on as an aide with Congressman Brian Donnelly. Eddie served with distinction as an aide to former Congressman James Burke for 20 years.

BURKE'S wife, Aileen, is nursing a fractured arm suffered when she fell on the steps of St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester after Mass recently.

INCIDENTALLY, although the former Congressman and Mrs. Burke live on Brook Hill Rd., Milton, they are in St. Gregory's parish which is also the parish of Burke's successor, Brian Donnelly. Wonder how many other churches can boast two Congressmen—and in just 20 years?

MICHAEL KELLY looks like he definitely will challenge Joanne Condon for the Ward 6 council seat. Kelly made his first bid two years ago but didn't make it beyond the primary.

SPEAKING OF CONDON, she already has campaign fund-raisers in the works: A March 11 reception at the Quincy Neighborhood Club ($25 per couple) and another ($5 per person) May 11 at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

CONDON

MILESTONE: The City Hall gang tossed a little birthday party the other day for Asst. City Clerk Tom Burke, one of the great kidders of them all. He didn't say which one. But someone referred to it as his "speed limit birthday."

JOE GILDEA, director of the Little Loop Bowling League, and his wife, Hilda, celebrated their 37th wedding anniversary—on Valentine's Day.

FRANK LOCKE, the guiding spirit behind Harvey's Salt Water Fishing went all the way to Mexico this winter to try some fishing there, only to discover that the charter skippers were charging $120 for four hours (6 a.m. to 10 a.m.) on the fishing grounds. He passed up his favorite sport.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: Charm is the ability to make someone think both of you are quite wonderful.

Brownell Seeks Support On 'Sunset' Bill

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has asked the Legislative Committee on State Administration to approve his so-called "sunset bill" which he said would "help curb the growth, duplication and waste present in state government."

The bill would require periodic legislative review of state agencies and departments.

"It is my firm belief," said Brownell, "that this kind of thorough periodic scrutinization of state government could potentially save the taxpayers of the Commonwealth millions of dollars."

"Essentially, my bill creates a simple mechanism for the systematic review of the need for and the public benefit derived from every board, division, commission, council and agency of the state government."

The measure, he said, would provide the state legislature with "an effective means of demanding justification for the continued funding of a multitude of state programs and agencies."

At Vo-Tech Culinary Arts Department

The following letter from Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn, 71 Edgemere Rd., Quincy, was read at a recent School Committee meeting by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"As an interested citizen and taxpayer of Quincy may I congratulate you on what is being done at Vo-Tech—the culinary arts department in particular.

"The Literature Committee of the Quincy Women's Club had lunch there last Thursday and you would be pleased and gratified at the comments expressed later. One member who had not been in the high school for at least 10 years was impressed by the cleanliness—no dropped papers, cigarette butts—and with the attitude of the young people. Doors were held open — politeness and courtesies were offered by the students.

"With so much publicity given to the problems of our youth it is rewarding to personally observe such attitudes and attention as was shown these older women.

"I wish there was a way for the students themselves to know we noticed, we observed, we appreciated and feel the world is in good hands in the future when we meet such young people as we met. We thank you and their teachers."

Patty Hearst, Nixon Eureka!

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We who have been hearing so much, of late, about governments City, State and Federal whose concerns for the citizenry are now, finally, aware of the need to reduce spending, to reduce the taxes imposed upon us [pay up or go to jail] have been entertained by a special news report.

Miss "Patty" Hearst is to be pardoned, as I understand it. Not paroled — but pardoned. Eureka!

Months ago the media informed us that Miss Hearst was [undoubtedly kidnapped] in dire circumstances thereof it was necessary to engage not only the police authorities in California but to enlist the aid of the F.B.I. and/or any other agency [supported by the taxation enforced on all of us supposedly that we all may be EQUALLY protected] to the end that she was located. "Apprehended" was one of the words used.

Her family, a group who were capable to hire the best of nationally known Attorneys, were pleased, we were told by newspapers, TV news, magazines, etc., etc., to find that the courts had only found her guilty of the charge [was it assisting or abetting?] an armed robbery.

Now, it appears, the President of the United States, upon some groups' recommendation, is about to extend to Miss Hearst a pardon.

Today also, another pardoned person, an Ex-President of the United States is to be — or has been — invited to the White House for the express purpose of meeting and greeting with an envoy from a country which we are now to engage with [at what expense to our citizenry will be determined sometime in the future] and is being given the "red carpet" treatment. Eureka!

If I, or any person who calls me father, had stolen a loaf of bread under circumstances less costly than the expense incurred to locate Miss Hearst or/and the expense to investigate the so called "Watergate" affair and been convicted we would still be rotting in gaol.

My question is, simply put, why not rush Miss Hearst to the White House post-haste? It's just possible that our President Carter, should make sure she is introduced to the Vice Premier of China! Why not — if the purpose of his visit is to reflect the "American way of Life"?

the line on government spending on the municipal level but I don't think we can have other areas like the schools with fiscal autonomy coming in with a budget that is not holding the line."

James J. Ricciuti, commissioner of the Public Works Department, said he intends to "come in with sort of the same budget as last year with some necessary escalations, like the price of fuel."

He said there will also have to be some capital outlay for equipment replacement and "we have no way of knowing what labor negotiations will develop into."

"We've been oriented in this direction ever since Gov. King was inaugurated," said Ricciuti. "The Mayor wants all his department heads to come in with budgets that reflect a cap."

"Our budget is basically the same as last year," said Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park and Recreation Department. "But there are certain basic costs, like fuel, that you can't cut."

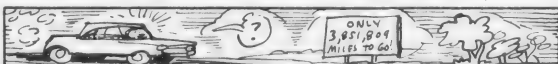

Koch said he is aware that Park and Recreation "could possibly be considered vulnerable in times of budget cutting but the city is liable to end up with greater problems in the costs of police and courts.

"The juvenile delinquency rate in Quincy is below the national average despite the fact that we border on Boston, the core city. I attribute a lot of that to our excellent schools and recreation facilities.

"We provide and maintain the facilities that are used by a lot of private organizations of volunteers like the Little League and don't cost the city a dime."

"We're not a basic necessity like police or fire but some consideration should be given to us before domestic cuts are made."

QJC Students Say:

Raising Drinking Age Won't Change Things Much

It's a hummer," said Kevin Green, 18, of Quincy, and his fellow students at Quincy Junior College apparently agree with him on efforts to raise the Massachusetts drinking age to 21.

All of those surveyed by the Quincy Sun on a recent visit to the QJC student lounge said they were against a bill that would raise the drinking age to 19 immediately and to 21 six months after the bill becomes law.

"It's not fair," said Jody Price, 18, of Scituate. "After they give you a privilege they shouldn't be able to take it away."

Jody will be 19 in May, which means that, if the bill is signed into law March 1 as predicted, she can drink until March 1, then she's shut off until her birthday, then she can drink until Sept. 1 when she's shut off again until May, 1981.

One section of the bill, which is expected to be debated in the House this week, would permit 18, 19 and 20-year-olds to work in liquor warehouses and as waiters, waitresses and busboys in restaurants.

Nevertheless, Frederick Norton, 18, of Milton is concerned about his job cleaning up the offices of a liquor company.

"I need the job," he said. "It may take away the potential for me to make more money."

JODY PRICE

FRED NORTON

"There must be a better way instead of upping the drinking age. Why not rely on the parents to take the responsibility. It would have a better effect."

"This'll just turn the kids to harder drugs."

Most of the young people surveyed said they didn't feel that a higher drinking age would make a radical change in their lifestyles. It would just make it more inconvenient, that's all.

"It's not going to change anything," said Neil Hause, 18, of Weymouth. "It's just as easy for minors to get alcohol as it is

"They should let people who already are drinking continue," said Patricia Veira, 18, of Brockton. "Maybe they could find some way to stamp their licenses."

She too feared that the raised drinking age might encourage young people to get into harder drugs.

"They should leave it at 18 in the bars and raise it to 20 in package stores," suggested Debbie Griffin of Quincy.

Della Chiesa Hits MTA Assessment Bill

Rep. Amelio Della Chiesa (R-Quincy) promised to fight shoulder-to-shoulder with other state legislators against a bill that would assess 14 fringe communities 25 percent of the Metropolitan Transit Authority deficit.

On the basis of the MTA's $7,829,004.64 deficit in 1952, he said, Quincy would be charged $503,010, or about $3.50 on the tax rate.

Nevertheless, when the legislature's Metropolitan Affairs Committee held a hearing on the bill no one appeared to oppose it, although Sen. Charles W. Hedges (R-Quincy) had himself recorded against it after the hearing.

"It was useless to express any opposition before the Metropolitan Affairs Committee as 11 of its 14 members represent communities that contribute to the deficit at the present time," said William A. O'Connell, executive vice president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

O'Connell said it was the Chamber's position that the New Haven Railroad "has demonstrated that it is possible to provide transportation to the South Shore at a profit" and the MBTA should be able to do the same thing.

Committee Favors Naming New Fore River Bridge After Burke

The legislative Transportation Committee has returned a favorable report on a proposal to name a new Fore River Bridge after retired Cong. James A. Burke (D-Quincy), and Allan R. McKinnon (D-Weymouth) and Paul D. Griffin, legislative director for the Construction Industries of Massachusetts, Inc.

Harold, a former student intern at Burke's Washington office, is a member of the Transportation Committee.

"It is appropriate that we name the proposed new bridge after Cong. Burke, who for many years represented the district which includes Quincy, and for a number of years also included Weymouth," Harold said.

"One of his main concerns during his congressional career was the creation and maintenance of jobs at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard, and the improvement of the economy of the South Shore."

"Further, it was Cong. Burke's amendment last year which paved the way for federal funding of the new bridge. It was he who introduced the idea of funding for bridges for their economic impact, when formerly, only bridges which were structurally obsolete were eligible."

"His success in changing the rule made funding for a new bridge possible, and will have great beneficial economic impact upon the entire South Shore area."

Surprise Testimonial William Shaw Honored For 50 Years Service In Scouting

William Shaw, 117 Marlboro St., Wollaston was guest of honor at a surprise testimonial at St. Ann's Youth Center marking his 50 years of service to Boy Scouting.

Friends and neighbors, last Thursday, joined in recalling some of Shaw's memorable moments during his many years with the scouting movement. John and Buell Fuller, the oldest active scouts in the country, and longtime friends of Shaw, were able to reminisce about the five decades during which they worked with the scout leader.

During the evening the Fullers presented Shaw with a painting outlining his accomplishments while in scouting. He was also presented a 50-year service pin and a gold card from the national council of the scouts. The legislature, Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and the City Council presented citations acknowledging his long service.

Shaw began his scouting career as a member of Troop 5 in Braintree back in 1928. He attained the Eagle Scout Award, the highest rank in scouting, in 1933. He was a member of a scout troop in Sharon until he moved to Houghs Neck in 1935 where he served as assistant scoutmaster of Troop 6 until 1946.

In the years that followed he held a number of scouting positions among them commissioner, member of the advancement committee, den leader and assistant scoutmaster.

In 1967 he was elected district commissioner of the Blue Granite District which includes all of Quincy and Milton. He became scoutmaster of Troop 21, Wollaston, in 1971 and held the post until 1978. He continues to be an active member of the commissioner's staff as well as serving as chairman of the troop committee of Troop 21.

He holds the Scoutmaster's Key, is a vigil member of the Order of the Arrow, completed wood badge training and holds the Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service in scouting.

Shaw is employed by Quirk Chevrolet in Weymouth. He and his wife, Muriel, who is also active in scouting, have three children.

Among those attending the testimonial were: Rev. John Foley, scout chaplain, Mayor Arthur Tobin, Senator Paul Harold, Rep. Thomas Brownell, City Councillor Stephen McGrath, Boston Scout Council President Marshall Sloane and Scout Executive Jack Billington.

Members of the committee were Robert Barry, Harold Crowley, Buell Fuller, John Fuller, Adele Gormley, Joseph Gelsomini, Dom Iacqua, William Nesti, Charles Phelan and William Schmitt.

SURPRISE TESTIMONIAL - William Shaw of Wollaston, was given a testimonial at St. Ann's youth center in observance of his 50 years in scouting. He was presented, among other items, a painting depicting some of the highlights of his years of service. From left are John Fuller, Harold Crowley, member of testimonial committee; Shaw, his wife, Mrs. Muriel Shaw, and Buell Fuller. The Fuller brothers are the oldest active scouts in the country.

More Americans own homes and their credit record is better than ever

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association of Quincy, Hailbrook & Wareham

8-6 Weekdays

8-7:30 Thursdays

Two interesting facts emerged in 1978 about home ownership in the United States. The first is that the number of homeowners crossed the 50 million mark last June and that two-thirds of the people in this country now live in houses of their own.

The second is that the payment record of these homeowners indicates that they are better credit risks today than at any other time in the past 25 years.

These are seemingly contradictory data. Studies by the United States League of Savings Associations have shown that many of today's buyers are spending proportionately more of their incomes on housing than their parents did. Yet they also show that the mortgage delinquency rate among today's homeowners is significantly less than it was for homeowners in the late 1950's and most of the 1960's.

A U.S. League study embracing the mortgage payment records of 908 associations holding about 45% of the nation's savings and loan assets has revealed that the mortgage delinquency rate for the first ten months of 1978 was only 0.76%, or less than one delinquency per hundred loans. If a mortgage loan is considered delinquent if monthly payments have not been made by 60 days after the due date. The rate for all of 1977 was 0.78%, compared with 0.94% in 1976, 0.97% in 1975, and 0.81% in 1974. These are substantially lower than most preceding years, when rates were often higher than one percent.

Considering the growing number of borrowers and the increasing amount of home credit involved, the delinquency rates [measured in terms of two months or more arrears in payments] are remarkably low. They demonstrate that the owned home is a family's most cherished material possession.

The trend toward home ownership is reflected in U.S. Census Bureau figures, showing that between 1970 and 1976, 1.3 million new owners were added each year. Estimates indicate that by 1990 almost three of every four Americans will be living in their own homes.

Ownership is the preferable way of life for most Americans. It affords more privacy, it enforces savings, and it provides tax advantages in the ability to claim mortgage interest and property taxes as income-tax deductions. Even more importantly, it is recognized as one of the best investments that can be made in a country afflicted with inflation.

City Officials Oppose Bill For Wollaston Facility Liquor License

Quincy officials joined forces Tuesday to appear before a joint legislative committee on government regulations and voice their opposition to a bill which would allow the Norfolk County Commissioners to issue an alcoholic license at the Wollaston Recreational Facility.

The application for a liquor and a common victualer's license has been turned down by the Quincy Board of Licensing Commissioners on several occasions in recent months. Residents of the area have protested to the board that the security of the neighborhood would be jeopardized by the issuance of such a permit.

"It is outrageous that the legislature would seek to take over the licensing powers of the local government," Sen Paul Harold told the committee.

Rep. Michael Morrissey told the committee he was appalled by the "audacity of the county commissioners."

"This is a bold attempt to circumvent the authority of the local licensing board, especially since this license has been turned down twice," he told the committee. "It was the understanding of residents of the area that this was to be a family recreational facility without a liquor license."

City Councillor John J. Lydon said at the hearing the bill would set a dangerous precedent.

"The bill seeks to by-pass the Quincy licensing board. I believe that when federal funds were made available for development of the area it was intended that it should be a family recreational facility, not just a golf course," Lydon said.

City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the Quincy licensing board, read the minutes of the meeting at which the last application was rejected.

City Councillor Joseph Brett also appeared in opposition to the bill. Councillor Frank McCauley and Arthur Chandler, president of the Quincy Citizens Association were recorded as opposed.

In commenting on the bill building inspector Allan Macdonald, a member of the licensing board, noted that the license formerly held by the Wollaston Golf Club was issued on a non-conforming basis and has been dormant for more than two years.

He pointed out that the non-conforming variance lapses if the license has not been kept in use.

The licensing board indicated it will seek a ruling from the city solicitor regarding the granting of a liquor license to anybody in a residentially zoned area.

The bill was filed by Rep. Robert B. Ambler (D-Weymouth).

The name of Herbert L. Stern, 73 Broad St., Bridgewater was drawn Tuesday as the first of 12 weekly winners in a contest being held by the Granite Co-operative Bank of Quincy.

The public is invited to guess the amount of cash handled by the bank between Feb. 1 and April 30. The person guessing the closest will win a Panasonic Console Color TV worth nearly $700.

Each week the bank draws one of the entries submitted and awards a prize from amongst other Panasonic merchandise.

Stern won a Panasonic AM/FM radio.

Next week the bank will offer a Panasonic Tape Recorder as the weekly prize.

No transaction is necessary to enter. Winners must be at least 18 years old though they need not be a regular depositor at the bank.

WIN FABULOUS Panasonic PRIZES

Just guess how much cash we take in and give out during three months at

Granite
Your co-operative
Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month. Good Luck!

Montclair Traffic Supervisor Guide At N. E. Aquarium

Edna Stacey, of Quincy, traffic supervisor at the Montclair School, uses the time between morning and afternoon crossings to volunteer as a guide at the New England Aquarium, Boston.

Stacey, who lives on Elliot Ave., Montclair, serves primarily in the Aquarium's children's gallery, supervising, answering questions and urging children to pick up and touch animals in the Tide Pool.

She feels, "Volunteering has been an excellent experience for me because I've learned so much about marine life by being here."

With the Aquarium since last March, she is one of 125 volunteers who attend a course, held in February and September, to acquaint them with marine biology.

Stacey has served as a traffic supervisor for 14 years. The past three years, she has also tutored students of the Patrick O'Hearn School, Dorchester, in reading and English.

Quincy Sculptor's Exhibit At DeCordova Museum

Works of Quincy-born Carl

Andre will be among those of 16 Greater Boston artists to be on exhibit at the DeCordova Museum, Sandy Pond Rd., Lincoln, Feb. 18 through April 22.

Andre, now a resident of New York City, was born in Quincy in 1935. He is noted for his direct, elemental sculpture using such standard materials as bricks and metal plates positioned in linear or square configurations directly on the ground.

Quincy Wins Suburban Wrestling Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy High has had wrestling for only five years since the sport was resumed for the first time since the early 1940s, but the Presidents are the Suburban League champions for the first time.

Coach Carmen Mariano's team, runnerup for the league title the past two years, finished its most successful season last Saturday when it romped over North Quincy, 49-9, for an 18-1 overall record and an 8-0 league mark.

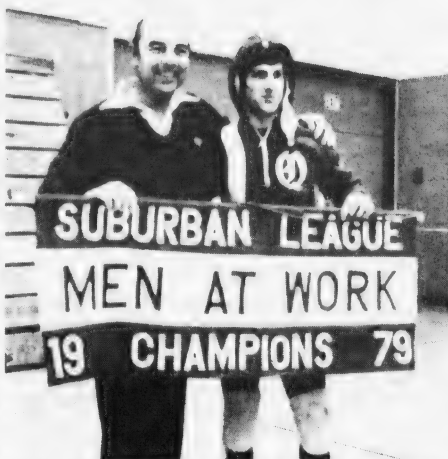

"We had exceptional seasons from a number of seniors, while our underclassmen also came along to give us a well-balanced team," Mariano said.

"Also, I can't say enough for our junior varsity, under coach Tim Cahill, one of my former standouts. The jayvees had a brilliant season."

The Presidents should be among the favorites in the upcoming sectional and state championship tournaments.

The Division One, South Sectional tournament will be held Friday and Saturday at Plymouth-Carver High School with the first round Friday from 4 to 6:30, the quarterfinals and first consolation round Friday from 7 to 9:30, the second consolation round from 12 to 1:30 Saturday, the semifinals and third consolation round from 1:30 to 4, the consolation finals from 7 to 8 and the finals and award presentations from 8 to 10.

Quincy will be competing against Brockton, Braintree, Weymouth, North, Duxbury, Needham, Randolph, Plymouth-Carver, Catholic Memorial, Brookline, Weymouth South, CARL LEONE, Quincy's athletic coordinator, and the Presidents' Steve Venturelli hold the Suburban League championship wrestling banner before hoisting it to the rafters at the Vo-Tech gym.

Norwood, Stoughton, Marshfield and Hingham.

Mariano praised the veteran Joe Streadwick who, with Cahill, was an assistant coach. Streadwick coached the Quincy Y teams for many years and has a wealth of wrestling experience.

In the North Quincy finale Quincy's Ron DiCesare decided Liam Cataldo, in the 100-pound class; Joe Souza won by forfeit at 107 and pinned Dave Hackett in an exhibition; Paul Orlando won by forfeit at 114 and pinned Glen Goodman in another exhibition; Steve Notarangelo decided Steve Sweet, 4-0, at 122 pounds; North's Rich Donna decided Bill Burt, 4-2, at 128; Quincy's Jim Mullarkey decided Gino Pillard, 9-1, at 135; Dave Howley of North pinned goals. Jeff Giordani put Quincy up, 3-1, with Jack Campbell and John Norton assists, but Waltham scored in the second period and scored the tying goal with less than five minutes left in the game.

QUINCY'S Jim Mullarkey ties up North Quincy's Gino Pillard on his way to a 9-1 decision as the Presidents breezed past North, 49-9, last Saturday to clinch their first Suburban League championship.

Sports

Steve Venturelli at 140; Lennie Crowe pinned Chris Little at 147; Kurt Braun decided John Coughlin, 8-2, at 158; Mike Monahan won by default at 169. Tony Akoury decided North's top wrestler, John Gorczyca, 8-0, at 188, and Geoff Caflich won by forfeit in the heavyweight class.

Earlier in the week Quincy had breezed past Duxbury of Fall River, 42-9, in a non-league match.

Winning for the Presidents were Paul Orlando, 114; Notarangelo, 121; John Herald, 128; Mullarkey, 134; Venturelli, 140; Crowe, 147; Braun, 157; Akoury, 188, and Jeff Heath, heavyweight. Ed Ryan at 100 pounds, Don Barnard at 107 and Ed Mackey at 170, all of whom had seen virtually no varsity action, lost.

In their previous meet the Presidents had annihilated Cambridge Latin, 60-3, in a league meet, with Ryan, DiCesare, John Madden, Burt, John O'Leary, Joe Irvine, Al DiVincenzo, Jim Silcox, Monahan, Caflich and George McHugh winning their matches.

2 Must Games For Quincy Icemen

Quincy's hockey team kept its state tournament hopes alive last Saturday with a 4-2 win over Brockton and must win and at least tie its final two games to qualify.

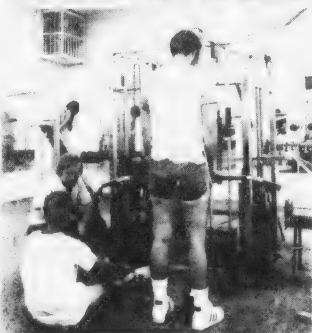

The Presidents faced Weymouth South last night (Wednesday) and will finish up Saturday at Brookline in a 7 o'clock game at Dexter Rink. The Presidents are 8-3-3.

Robbie Craig, the Suburban

League's top scorer with 32 points, paced the win over Brockton with two goals as Quincy overcame a sluggish first period. Bob Currier and Tom Brennan scored the other goals. Goalie Jim Campbell was outstanding in goal.

Earlier in the week Waltham came from behind to tie Quincy, 3-3, after the Presidents had jumped off to a 2-0 lead early on two goals by Craig. Scott Richardson and Tom Brennan assisted on both

The North Quincy hockey team, which hopes to wind up with a .500 Suburban League record, will honor its senior players when it ends its season Saturday against Waltham in a 6:40 game at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The Raiders, who have dropped three games in a row after a hot five-game streak, hoped to defeat Cambridge Rindge and Latin last night (Wednesday) and Waltham to finish 7-2 in the league.

The seniors to be honored at the last game are goalies Tim McCormack and Karl Olson, defensemen Leo Doyle, Paul Rooney, Brian McGilvary and Paul McDermott and forwards

Paul Cooney, Pat Ennis, Ed Marrella, Dan Cronin and Paul Reardon.

North, the only team to defeat league-leading Weymouth North, fell to that team last Saturday, 5-0, dropping its league record to 5-7-2 and the overall mark to 6-9-2.

"They are the class of the league, no doubt about it," said North's first-year coach, Kevin Lewis. "We skated their tails off the first time we played them and we are the only team to beat them. They wanted us bad."

While the Raiders were being thwarted by Weymouth's outstanding goalie, Ron Harvey, the Maroons took a 2-0 lead in the first period, added two goals in the second period and a fifth in the final session.

"It was a case of a team going great against team going bad," Lewis said. "We have not been going well since we had a five-game win streak but nobody expected us to do as well as we have this year. We have come a long way."

Earlier in the week North dropped a 3-2 squeaker to Brookline, which scored twice in 27 seconds and added a third later for a 3-0 lead.

Cooney, the number five scorer in the league, scored the first Raider goal and Doyle added the second.

Lydon Moves Up In Bantam Division

Lydon Russell moved to within two points of league-leading Plaza Olds in the Bantam Division of the St. Ann's Hockey League by edging Bike 'n' Blade, 6-5.

Bob Conti had four goals for Lydon with one each for John Keller and John Sweet. Steve Riley, Keller and Sweet, had assists. For Bike 'n' Blade, Rich Comeau had four goals and Rich Lawyer one. Russ Cunningham, Lawyer, Ed O'Reilly and Steve Hogan had assists.

Plaza Olds was upset by Associated Woodworkers, 4-3, with Larry Kelly, Greg Therrien, Kevin Coymann and Paul Gagnon scoring for Woodworkers and Coymann, Riley and Gagnon having assists. Dan Ceurevels, Brian Webb and Ed Page scored for Plaza with assists for Webb, Page, Downing and Jeff Gale.

No. Quincy K. of C. and Blackwood played to a 4-4 tie with Ed Novak having two goals for the Knights and Neal Beagle and Jim Martin one each. Ben Klingenstein and Jim Meehan had assists. For Blackwood, Rich O'Sullivan had the hat trick and Paul Kelly the other goal. Bob Climo, Bill Roach and Steve MacDonald had assists.

In the Pee Wee Division Razer's Edge took over sole possession of first place with a 7-2 win over Art Tailors. Jim Morris had four goals and Steve Martin three. Mike Leonard, Steve Doran and Jim Leonard had assists. Mike Sullivan and Rick Dondero scored for Tailors with assists for Mark Duggan, Scott Noonan, Dondero and Mike Watt.

Keohane's fell a point behind Razer's Edge when it tied JDA, 1-1. Mike Barron had an unassisted goal for Keohane's and Bill Kulik scored unassisted for JDA.

Noble Sporting Goods upset N. Quincy Dunkin' Donuts, 3-2, with Mike Ainsley scoring all the Noble goals and Mark Sexton having an assist. Pat O'Sullivan and Mike McGrath scored for Donuts and Dave Leonard having an assist.

Woolf To Speak At Deputy Sheriff's Meeting

Noted sports attorney Bob Woolf will be the speaker at the first meeting of the year of the board of directors of the Norfolk County Deputy Sheriffs Association Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 8 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

Woolf's clients have included such sports personalities as Luis Tiant, John Havlicek, Carl Yastrzemski, Derek Sanderson and many more. Through his efforts they have become the highest paid professional athletes in the world. He has been a featured speaker and lecturer across the country and also has appeared on the Johnny Carson Show.

The program will include a brief business meeting, a presentation by Woolf and a social gathering with coffee and pastry.

John Caporale, Sr., association treasurer, reminds all members that membership fees for 1979 are now being collected.

The meeting is free of charge and is open to anyone interested in joining the association.

Presidents Must Win 4 In Row To Qualify

The Quincy basketball team, hoping to make the state tournament after a nightmarish season last year, faces the unenviable task of winning its last four games to qualify after losing twice last week.

The Presidents started the hard road Tuesday against Waltham, will play at Weymouth North Friday at 8, will host North Quincy next Tuesday at 8 and will finish up at Oliver Ames (North Easton) Wednesday, also at 8.

"It will be tough, but I have confidence in this team," Coach Joe Amoroso said. "Our loss to Cambridge Rindge and Latin was just a case of them being much too strong. I can't see anyone beating them and they look like the state champs. But our loss to Newton North earlier in the week was very disappointing and it really hurt." Quincy's record dropped to 8-5 in the Suburban League and 10-6 overall.

The Presidents dropped a 40-39 heartbreaker to Newton on a 12-foot jumper with two seconds left to play.

Quincy led all the way, picking up an eight-point lead midway through the third period but Newton closed to within three with less than a minute to play, then moved to within one, setting up the last second winning basket.

Brian Donovan, the Suburban League's number three scorer, had 16 points, while Mike Connolly scored seven points and took down eight rebounds. Despite the loss Quincy's defense was outstanding.

Friday unbeaten Cambridge (18-0) just had too much height and scoring for the Presidents as it rolled to a 56-25 halftime lead, and breezed, 92-51. Ten Cambridge players scored and Pat Ewing, 6-11 sophomore, dominated the boards and blocked many shots.

For Quincy Connolly had 12 points, Steve Priscella scored 10 and Donovan was held to eight.

"There are your state champions, I am sure," Amoroso said. "They have too many players who can do too many things. We played very, very hard but they have an awesome team and rebound, shoot, pass and run—they do everything a championship team is supposed to do."

Junior Boys Playoffs Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department's 24th annual boys basketball playoffs got under way Saturday with six games played in junior high school division.

The Central Celtics, Beechwood Knoll, Wollaston, Squantum, Central Cougars and Broad Meadows "B" Team all won and will advance to next week's quarter final round.

In the first game the Central Celtics led by Frank Reynolds, Tim Ryan and Robert Mudge with 10 points each defeated Merrymount 47-21. Other scorers for Central were John Phelan and Paul Quigley with four each. Merrymount was led by Joe Gonzales with 9 points and Mickey Christiani and Eric Swanson with 6 each.

Wollaston jumped out to an early lead to take a 46-20 victory over Broad Meadows "A" team. Wollaston had 11 different players score with Brian Donovan leading the way with 12 points. Other Wollaston scorers were Robert Flynn with 8, Mike Bourne with 5 and Jack Bolster with 4. Broad Meadows top scorers were Dale Adams with 6 and Joe Godfrey and Mark Prescott with 4 each.

The Central Cougars staged a strong fourth quarter surge to take a 34-24 win over Sterling. Nine different players scored for Central with Scott Melc, Gary Brown, Bob McElaney and Paul Ryan leading the way with 6 points each. Sterling was sparked by Brian Callahan's 10 points while Teammates Joe Burke and Paul Kenny chipped in with 7 points.

Beechwood Knoll fought off a fourth quarter Atherton Hough rally to take a 28-23 win. Philip Morris led the Beechwood attack with 17 points while Bob Cosby and Bob O'Brien stood out on defense. Atherton Hough was led by Darrin DeCoste's 12 points and by Steve Baylis with 6.

In the day's closest game Squantum led by Pat Burke's 10 points defeated Snug Harbor 18-16. Other Squantum scorers were Donny Ross with 6 and Mike Panaro with 2. Snug Harbor's scorers were John Spencer with 6 and Jim Happpine and Bill Stanley with 4 each.

The day's final game featured two high scoring teams against each other with Broad Meadows coming out with a 48 to 37 win over Point. Broad Meadows was led by Jim Jaehning's 15 points while Tom Scolaro added 14 and Jim Bandera scored 12. Chuck Jaehning chipped in with 5 points while Billy Foley pulled down 11 rebounds. Chris McCray led the Point attack with 16 while Mike Shaughnessy and Dave Noonan added 8 each.

Quarter final action will be held Saturday at Broad Meadows Hunting at 8:30 a.m. with Atlantic tapping off against The Central Celtics. The 9:30 game will pit Beechwood Knoll and Wollaston. Montclair will face Squantum at 10:30 while The Central Cougars and Broad Meadows will face each other at 11:30.

The eventual city champion will be determined Sunday, April 8 with the game to be played prior to The Boston Celtics game at Boston Garden.

St. Joseph's Goliath A's Win 9th

St. Joseph's Goliath A team defeated a tough Bethany Congregational quintet, 28-22, to remain undefeated (9-0) in the South Shore YMCA Church Basketball League.

The score was tied at 12 at halftime with Chris Shaughnessy scoring all of his six points in that half to lead St. Joseph's. Chuck Jaehning scored 10 points in the second half and St. Joseph's also was aided by the fine rebounding of Billy Foley and Jim Bandera and the strong defensive play of Jim Jaehning and Ricky Mahoney.

Chuck Jaehning had 12 points, Shaughnessy and Jim Jaehning six apiece and Bandera four. For Bethany, whose only two losses (7-2) have been to St. Joseph's, Eric Green and Michael Marks stood out.

The top five bowlers as of Feb. 1, 1979 bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers in the standings used as alternates.

Louise Durante Scores High Single, High 3 In St. John's Women's League

Louise Durante scored the weekly high single and three in St. John's Women's Bowling League.

She bowled 123 and 122 in single strings, and 335 in three strings.

Helen Pomarico was second in weekly high single with 110, with Claire O'Rourke scoring 319 for second place in weekly high three.

Team standings in won and lost are:

Kay Davis, 35-5; Clare Jayce,

If any of the top seven cannot participate, the League official may continue to choose according to average.

Bowlers registered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues and may only bowl for one tourney entry.

Any violation of the rules will forfeit the teams' participation or continuance in tourney play.

All matches will be decided on total pinfall in tourney competition.

It is an elimination contest and each team must win to continue in competition.

Opposition is provided previous to each match when the team captains draw an alley for the contest with the competition of the day, the team on the opposite alley.

The members of the championship string of the tourney will each receive an individual trophy and a $50 team prize. The high tourney average, individual three string total and single string winners will also be presented trophy awards.

The event is sponsored each year by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter athletic and recreation program and is one of the oldest Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourneys in New England, founded in 1955 with eight teams participating.

6 Teams Square Off In Men's Quarterfinals Sunday

Six teams remain and will meet next Sunday at noon in the quarterfinal round of the 26th Annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

The stage was set last weekend in the continued qualifying action as the Perfectas entry bowled high for the day to defeat the Wollaston Men's 1745-1715, Hanover Merchants eliminated Hull Monday Men's 1733-1636, the Monday Night Men of South Weymouth ousted Blessed Sacrament of Quincy, 1711-1569, John Quincy Adams edged Boston Gear Works, 1632-1611 and St. Mark's V.F.W. downed the Penn A.A. 1596-1514.

The Colonial Merchants, sitting out a bye, will return next Sunday to join the five winners of Sunday's action.

The Perfectas jumped off to a 37 pin first string lead but the Wollaston Men came back to take a two-pin lead into the final string where the winners showed their best to capture a third tourney win.

Leading scorer for the winning Perfectas was Dan O'Connell, 388 while Tim Bright fired a 364 and Joe King chipped in with 352.

Paul Peckham posted a 379 for the losers, Bill Gardner, 349 and Russ Gardner, 340.

The Hanover Merchants rushed to a 70-pin first string lead then captured the second and third strings for an easy victory.

Dick Ewell chalked up a 376 high for the winners and was aided by Jim Rigo, 353, Gordy Leighton, 350 and Dennis Chick, 344.

For the losing Hull combine, Steve McGunnigle was top with 350 and Bob Smolinsky Jr. scored 347.

The Monday Night Men of South Weymouth had little trouble scoring a 142-pin triumph over Blessed Sacrament.

Al Markella had a 374 high for Weymouth and Tom Wienneck added a 350.

Joe Amyouny bowled a 356 top for Blessed Sacrament and John Wainwright scored 337.

The John Quincy Adams Team moved into a 25 pin first string lead over Boston Gear Works, saw it dwindle to 5 pins at the close of two strings, but wrapped it up in the final.

Leonard Simes led John Quincy Adams with 338 and Frank Nota and Joe Marini scored 330 each.

Fred DiCarlo was top for the losing Gearmen with 352 and Jack Hatfield had 335.

St. Mark's V.F.W. outscored Penn A.A. in each of their three strings for a third tourney victory.

Tony Kovalski had 333 for St. Mark's and Stan Kovalski, 330. Joe Magnani with 329 was top for Penn A.A.

Finish With 11-0 Record

Sterling Girls Win 2nd Straight Basketball Championship

The Sterling Junior High girls' basketball team finished 11-0 and won its second straight city championship with a 27-16 win over Point. Sterling has won 23 games in a row without a loss over a two-year span.

Maureen Flaherty paced the win for Dave Meehan's Sterling girls with eight points. Nancy MacDonald's playmaking and rebounding were outstanding and Kathy Duggan and Janice Burke played well on defense.

The Broad Meadows girls ended their season with a 7-5 record by defeating Central, 33-24.

Mary Kamb had 10 points and excelled on defense for BM, while Kathy Flynn scored eight points, Karen Robertson six and Meg Goldrick four. Janet Witham was the top rebounder and was outstanding on defense.

The BM junior varsity finished 6-4 by topping Central, 17-12, with all 23 players seeing action and contributing to the win.

MAUREEN FLAHERTY scores two of her eight points for the Sterling Junior High girls, who defeated Point, 27-16, to win the city basketball championship with an 11-0 record.

Atlantic Upsets Central, 25-13

Bill Willoughby's Atlantic Junior High boys' basketball team upset Central, 25-23, outscoring favored Central, 14-4, in the second half.

Chip Bunker, Billy Gray and Paul Murphy stood out for Atlantic, with six points each, but Wesley Paul of Central was the games' high scorer with 14 points.

The Central junior varsity defeated Atlantic, 37-25.

Earlier Central had defeated Broad Meadows, 27-19, with Ray Mallory having eight points and Mike Burnes six. Dan Marsters, Billy Walsh and John Keenan played excellent games.

Broad Meadows topped Point 55-45, with Jeff Morrison pacing

BM with 18 points. Steve Goguen and Peter Papile stood out for Point.

Earlier Coach Bill Mave's Point team had defeated Atlantic, 45-33, sparked by Papile's 15 points. Goguen had 10 and Chris Pearson and Mike Graham came off the bench to play fine games. Keith McNulty, Gary Durante, Dave Donnelly, Randy Paris, Eddie Page and Bob Santelli also contributed to the win. Bunker had eight points for Atlantic.

In its previous game Point had defeated Sterling, 24-16, with Sean Martin and Javier Perez turning in outstanding defensive performances. Dave MacDonald was also outstanding.

Point Girls JV Basketball Champs

Although the Point Junior High girls varsity basketball team finished with only a 3-8 record, the junior varsity team won the city championship with an 11-0 record following a 22-9 win over Sterling.

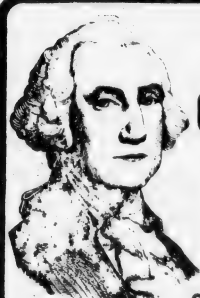

Irica Travers, Susan Dacey, Heather Slics, Julie Papile, Mary Jusseume, Robin Lewis, Dara Morris, Amy Barron, Christine Bordillo and Pam Murphy, all of whom had outstanding seasons, sparked in the win.

Shining for the varsity in a losing cause (27-16 loss to Sterling), were Kathy Brown, Cathy Curtin, Karen Walsh, Phyllis White, Laurie Peters, Linda Thornhill and Mary Travers.

In another season's finale Broad Meadows topped Central, 33-25, with Dee Simmons scoring eight points for Central and Mary Kamb 10 for BM.

The BM junior varsity also won, 17-12, with Hussey scoring four points for BM and Teresa Biagini six for Central.

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE FIRE

When an electric appliance catches fire or smells as though it is burning, try to unplug it. Unless you see the insulation of the appliance's wiring burning, it is usually safe to pull out the plug with your hand. If the wire is smoldering or you do not want to touch it, you may be able to pull out the plug by twisting the wire around a broom or mop handle. If you cannot unplug it, shut off the electricity at the fuse box by throwing the switch or removing the fuse.

Use a carbon dioxide (CO2) or dry chemical extinguisher. If neither is available and you are sure the electricity is shut off, you can use water to extinguish the fire. Caution - never use water to douse an electrical fire where the current is still active to the source. Always call the fire department when a fire involves an electrical appliance or electric wiring. If the wires in the wall have overheated, they may be smoldering.

A CO2 or dry chemical extinguisher should be kept in the kitchen area where electrical or grease fires are most common.

MacElhiney, Tait Vice Presidents

Curtis Elected Chamber President

Thomas E. Curtis, president of Curtis Enterprises, Hingham and vice-president Angelo's Supermarkets, Inc., Rockland, has been elected president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce by the board of directors.

Curtis, a resident of Bel Air Rd., Hingham, formerly lived in Quincy.

Also elected were Paul D. MacElhiney, of Weymouth, first vice president for Program of Work, and Lindsay L. Tait, of Braintree, vice president for Budget and Finance.

Curtis, a long-time member of the Chamber, is founder and past president of Curtis Farms Supermarkets; vice president and a director of Angelo's Supermarkets; president of Curtis Liquors; trustee of a number of realty trusts; chairman of the board, past president and one of the founders of Lincoln Trust Co., and chairman of the board of Massachusetts Bank Shares Co.

He also serves as president of Lincoln Sailing Center; past president, Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts Bay; past president, Massachusetts Retail Grocers Association and president of the Chamber's South Shore Economic Development Corp., Inc.

MacElhiney is vice president and treasurer of the Duncan MacKeller Insurance Agency, Inc., Weymouth. He is also trustee of the South Shore Hospital; trustee, East Weymouth Savings Bank; advisory board member, South Shore Bank; member and past chairman, Weymouth Industrial Development Commission, and a director of the Weymouth Red Cross.

He is past president and current treasurer of the Weymouth Association of Insurance Agents; Weymouth Town Meeting member, and past president of the Herring Run Merchants Association.

Tait, a former Quincy resident, is president of the Braintree Savings Bank. He is a member of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks; member, the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts; past president, the Savings Bank Forum of Massachusetts; chairman, the Braintree Business Council; president and trustee of 1000 Southern Artery; president, the Braintree Historical Society, and member, the Rural Masonic Lodge, Red Cross Two Gallon Club and Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Recently vice president of the Chamber's Membership Development Group, he is a member of the Legislation Committee, Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts and the Committee International Savings Banks Cooperation.

A&T Moves 3.5 Million Pounds Of Office Equipment

A&T Moving and Storage, Inc., of Quincy, recently conducted the largest operation in its history moving 3.5 million pounds of office equipment, machinery and records, valued at over $6 million, during a 14-day period.

Local agent for American Red Ball Transit Co., Inc., A&T utilized 70 men and women to move Datel Systems from Canton to Mansfield, 25 miles away.

In addition, Industrial Riggers, a division of A&T, used an 80-ton crane plus several rigging trucks to handle more than 20 loads of heavy equipment.

The move involved 180 van loads of material.

"There were so many cartons that I'll bet if you laid them end to end they would have stretched all the way from Canton to Mansfield", said A&T owner Robert Palmer.

SMOOTH MOVE - A&T Moving and Storage, Inc., of Quincy, recently handled 3.5 million pounds of goods, valued at more than $6 million, moving Datel Systems from Canton to Mansfield. Move was largest in company's history.

Wahlberg Faces Fight For QHA Board Reappointment

October as a Quincy assessor.
"It is normal procedure to reappoint someone who had done a good job," said Goldman, "unless someone comes along who we feel could do a better one."

Goldman said the appointment probably will be announced in mid-April with Mrs. Wahlberg acting as holdover commissioner until either she is reappointed or a successor is named.

Other members of the present QHA board, all city appointees, are Carmine D'Olimpio, vice chairman, Edward S. Graham, Alphonse Papile and the Rev. William R. McCarthy, pastor.

Unlike city appointees, the state representative is required to undergo screening by the Harborview Residents Committee and the Senior Citizens Council, the official tenants' groups.

"It's not a law or a regulation," said Goldman. "It's a memorandum of understanding."

"We have said to the tenants' groups in Quincy that we would forward the resumes of all applicants for them to review. That does not mean we have to follow their recommendations."

He said the DCA also gets input from the mayor, the state senator, the state reps, the League of Women Voters, the Citizens Housing and Planning Association and the Mass Union of Public Housing Tenants.

"There are three areas we look for," said Goldman. "Knowledge of the community and its housing needs, philosophical consistency with the department's position on various things and no conflict of interest."

a period of two years. Statistics seem to point to the over-the-counter sale as the major problem in many of our traffic fatalities.

When the bill, in its amended form is passed, it will go to the Senate for consideration. I am a supporter of raising the drinking age and I filed one of the bills H4753 which is included in the Committee Bill, House 5575.

The Committee on State Administration heard testimony on Sunset legislation on Monday. Sunset laws would require periodic reviews of state agencies and commissions as to evaluate their continued existence. The Committee is expected to act favorably on the bill in the very near future.

I would appreciate hearing from you on these and any other matters that may come before the Legislature. I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or in the State House at 727-7035. You can also reach me by dropping a line to Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, Room 36, State House, Boston, Mass. 02133.

By Representative
MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

This is the 33rd in a series of articles written by Representative Michael W. Morrissey.

The Legislature is back in full swing. Many of the Committees are on a regular committee schedule which can be obtained by calling my office. Some of the early delay in the hearing process was caused by the slow down in the printing of the record number of bills.

Two very prominent bills have received hearings and have been or will be reported to the floor for consideration. The Committee on Government Regulations has reported out a bill that would raise the drinking age to 19 immediately, and six months from the date of passage would go to 21 years old.

The bill, as written by the Committee does include some provisions for continued employment for those under 21 years old. The bill was considered by the House on Monday. There were several amendments to the bill introduced on the House floor. One amendment, which the House approved, raised the drinking age to 19 years old. I voted for this amendment, but will continue to seek a 21 year limit on package store sales, over

On Minority Housing, Hiring

QHA Compliance Agreement Signed, Sent To HUD Office

A signed agreement by the Quincy Housing Authority to comply with HUD regulations on minority housing and hiring is finally in the hands of HUD's regional office in Boston.

The agreement, drawn up by HUD, was quickly amended and approved by the QHA Board of Commissioners Tuesday, Feb. 6, and hand delivered to HUD the following Thursday.

"I haven't heard a word yet," said Rosemary Wahlberg, chairman of the QHA Board, on Monday.

"I'm hoping HUD's reaction is going to be good. I feel we have complied with the spirit of what they wanted, which was to affirmatively place people in public housing."

Joseph Vera, director of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity for HUD in Boston, asked for the compliance agreement, along with an affirmative action plan, last Sept. 1. The QHA had 30 days to reply.

The affirmative action plan was sent to HUD on Jan. 18 and the compliance agreement, twice tabled, was sent Feb. 8.

One amendment to the agreement involved HUD's demand that the QHA set up a separate listing of minority senior citizen applicants. Non-minority seniors protested such a list as discriminatory.

The Commissioners felt they solved that problem by identifying the minority seniors already on the list and offering them housing on a one-to-three ratio in numerical order.

"Say that No. 97 on the list is the next minority applicant," said Mrs. Wahlberg. "That would be the next person that we are willing to take in. We are going to seek within our own list."

"The problem is we have never done a race or ethnic composition of the people on our list. The staff felt it was against the law but it is not. You're allowed to do it for statistical purposes."

The second amendment involved HUD's proposal that eviction or other legal action be taken against any tenant who interferes with the right of another tenant to occupy a dwelling.

"We just brought it into compliance with the language of the lease," said Mrs. Wahlberg. "That is to evict anyone who interferes with the peaceful living of anyone else."

"It's the same as HUD's recommendation but it reads more like the lease. The end result is the same."

Meanwhile, the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights issued a statement disagreeing with QHA general counsel Paul A.M. Hunt's contention that the compliance agreement violates the Supreme Court's Bakke decision.

Hunt told The Sun that the decision prohibits quotas or goals to be used for racial preference.

The Bakke decision, said the Coalition, "dealt with one person's efforts to get accepted at a medical school. It is a sham on the laws of this country to extend that decision further than legally warranted."

The Coalition cited a subsequent case in which a court ruled that "The 10 per cent minority business enterprise provisions of the Public Works Act is constitutional."

"It said it is well established that the government's interest in overcoming the disadvantages resulting from past discrimination on account of race is sufficiently compelling to justify a remedy which requires the use of racial preference."

"Such judicial restraint is thus appropriate for HUD in its efforts to have the QHA accomplish affirmative action through the use of racial preference."

Sodalite is one of the new semi-precious stones presently achieving popularity in the jewelry market. A beautiful blue stone, a member of the lapis lazuli group, it has a hardness of 5½ and good durability. It comes to us mostly from South West Africa and Canada. Another somewhat new stone to watch for is the carnelian, an opaque quartz stone, whose color runs from orange to red, and sometimes deep brown/red. Its hardness of 7 gives it great durability.

The reason for our popularity at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC. 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 is our honest desire to give you whatever help you require in selecting the right piece of jewelry for your specific needs. Sears Will Be M

By TOM HENSHAW

Once the initial shock wore off, Quincy businessmen tended to view the departure of Sears Roebuck from downtown Quincy calmly and with a certain degree of hope for the future.

They were disappointed, but not overwhelmed, by the news that the largest department store in Quincy Center would leave for the South Shore Plaza in the fall of 1980.

Downtown Quincy, they agreed, will survive the blow of Sears' departure and with some work will be a viable retail-shopping center for years to come.

A Quincy Sun survey of businessmen elicited these comments:

Frank Remick, Remick's of Quincy "It's going to have a poor effect initially but I think there are enough good merchants downtown to be equal to the impact of Sears leaving. Downtown will continue to fill its role in serving the South Shore.

"Quincy's future lies, I think, in getting more office buildings with a large downtown labor force and more apartment buildings with captive consumers who are William Austin, president of the South Shore Bank—"Very simply, I'm sorry to see them go because they were a good neighbor but I don't think this is going to be the downfall of Quincy. In the past Quincy has shown an ability to stay viable.

REMICK

AUSTIN

"We have to continue with the development program to make Quincy Center an attractive place for shoppers. The Upland Rd. Extension is the key to it. The new office building will put more shoppers on the streets, which will attract other retailers.

"I drive around Quincy and I look at how well the houses are maintained and the grass is cut. We're not a slum city. We've got a lot of things going for us. I think sometimes we too easily see the negatives in the situation."

Sumner Cohen, Kincaid's—"I don't think the city own Will Survive

will fall apart because Sears is moving out but they will be sorely missed. What effect it is going to have on business in downtown Quincy depends on how quickly we replace them.

"Sears is a great drawing card but they haven't advertised locally for some years. If we got an active, well-merchandised store that really promoted and went after local business I think we could make up the difference.

"I would like to get a large department store because they attract a lot of different people; they service a lot of the needs of different people. The trouble is there are very few of them of the size that we need.

"The Planning Board has carried out a lot of surveys of the city. They have contacted many prospects. It is conceivable that a large store that they couldn't give space to on previous contact might be happy to come here at this point.

"I'm sure the Faxon Trust will be doing a lot of work to develop the property. They, certainly, are going to be anxious to replace Sears. That's a big piece of property. They can't leave that vacant very long."

$3.8 Million In Unpaid Property Taxes

6,350 Warrants Out For Excise Tax Delinquents

Mayor Tobin said Tuesday that his campaign against auto excise tax delinquents has reached the point where 6,350 arrest warrants for non-payment went out Feb. 10.

Payments are coming in now, he said, but he declined to say how much has been received or how much is owed.

Tobin's disclosure came as an examination of the city's tax books showed that unpaid property taxes totalled $3.8 million in Quincy as of Dec. 31.

The biggest unpaid taxpayer is General Dynamics, owner of the Fore River Shipyard, which owes $1,238,511.30, all of it under appeal.

The General Dynamics total is almost half of the taxes owed for the fiscal year 1977-78, which Foy set at $2,750,000 or about 5 per cent of the total tax bill of $54,961,242.

Unpaid taxes for the previous years include $675,000 for fiscal 1977, $125,000 for fiscal 1976 and $250,000 for fiscal 1975 and before.

The city's tax books were opened to the public by City Treasurer Robert Foy III following a State Supreme Court decision in mid-January that cities and towns must disclose the names of delinquent taxpayers.

Foy explained that Quincy has in the past published the names of delinquent taxpayers annually once the delinquency has reached the stage where a lien can be placed on the property.

For instance, the Oct. 13, 1977 issue of The Quincy Sun contained a legal notice with the names of those Quincy taxpayers who had not paid their 1976 property tax bills.

The list of 1977 delinquents was not published last fall, said Foy, because the Tobin administration decided to use the manpower to go after those who owed excise tax bills.

Names of property tax delinquents for fiscal 1977 and 1978 will be published in the late summer or fall of this year, Foy said.

Foy explained General Dynamics' delinquency like this:

The assessment on the Fore River Shipyard was raised in 1977. The company felt the hike was unfair. Under the law, GD averaged out its last three previous assessments, paid the tax rate on that figure and appealed the rest.

General Dynamics total tax bill was $4,087,007.36. It paid $2,848,496.06. It appealed $1,238,511.30. The case is to be heard on its merits March 28.

Foy said he hesitates to call unpaid taxpayers "delinquent" since a satisfactory definition of the term has not been worked out.

Board Approves Storage Of Vehicles Off Quincy Ave.

By PETER BARNICLE

The City Licensing Board Tuesday granted the request of Joseph Bates, trustee of Bates Realty Trust, for permission to store motor vehicles on a five-acre tract off Quincy Ave., South Quincy, but only after taking a number of stipulations onto the approval.

In granting permission to store vehicles the board called on Bates to:

- Erect a nine-foot chain-link fence around the entire area.
- Remove all equipment from the property fronting on Quincy Ave.
- Use a right of way through the Ace Auto Body Company land as ingress and egress to the property.

- Remove all wrecked cars within 90 days, and keep a log as to the date and time all vehicles are brought to the lot.

Bates assured the board he would meet all the requirements. He said the fence will be put in place immediately and included

Job Description Relaxed For NQHS Assistant Principal's Job

The School Committee voted last week to relax the job description for an assistant principal's job at North Quincy High School to encourage more Quincy teachers to apply for the post.

The old job description required that the job applicant have a master's degree in school administration while the new qualification requires only a master's in the applicant's field.

The School Committee, at the request of member Mary Collins, also added an amendment specifying that administrative experience be "required," instead of "desired" as the School Department wanted.

Asst. Supt. John A. Osterman told the committee that the phrase "administrative experience" is so ill-defined that requiring it might open the School Department to a grievance from the Quincy Education Association.

Osterman said that when the job description was originally posted in September it drew only four applicants who met the criteria and that Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon did not feel he could recommend any of them.

Mrs. Mary Curtin, president of the QEA, said the group will object to the committee changing the job description after it had been advertised.

"I feel the QEA does not have grounds to protest," said Osterman. "It is the right of the administration solely to set job descriptions."

The amended job description was passed by a 4-1 vote with Committeeman John J. Sullivan dissenting.

'We Knew It Would Happen Some Day ...'

City Seeks Large Retail Store To Replace Sears

By TOM HENSHAW

The impending departure of Sears Roebuck for the South Shore Plaza will leave a void in downtown Quincy that may be hard to fill.

But it is no call to panic.

"Rumors about Sears leaving have been bandied around for several years," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "All the things that we have been doing to the present time were based upon the possibility of losing Sears."

Sears announced Friday morning that it was going to build a new store in South Shore Plaza, Braintree, and transfer the Quincy operation from 1591 Hancock St. to the Plaza in the fall of 1980.

The move, said E. L. Buckard, Sears' general manager for the Boston area, will permit expansion that was not possible on the Quincy site. Sears' Quincy store does $10-12 million business annually.

"We knew this would happen someday," said Tobin, "but we were hoping it wouldn't happen so soon."

"What we have to do now is find a replacement for the vacant store but it may not be someone comparable to a Sears."

"I have the Planning Department making up a list of major retailers who might want to come to this area but major retailers are shy of coming to a downtown area unless the community can show that it is building its downtown up."

Tobin said the Sears people told him that they had nothing against Quincy as a shopping center.

"They told me," he said, "that there are four major retailers in the Boston area - Jordans, Filenes, Sears, and Lord and Taylor - and they must protect their future by locating with the competition. They can't be standing by themselves."

"It makes sense but we would have liked to have had the opportunity to sit down and see if we could work anything out. I don't know that we can replace Sears if there are only four major retailers in the Boston area."

It was suggested that an effort be made to entice J. C. Penney Stores, the midwest giant that has recently been eyeing the New England market.

"According to our information," said the Mayor, "for them to make a splash in the Boston market, they must open three or four outlets immediately to take advantage of the mass media advertising."

"You just don't pick up a company and plunk them in downtown Quincy overnight."

Tobin said that a large mercantile operation from Tennessee has expressed enough interest in Quincy to dispatch representatives to the city to talk to the Planning Department. That company is also in the $10-12 million class but they deal in "hard lines," he said.

"It's not only happening in Quincy," said Tobin. "A lot of the big stores have gone out of the downtown areas of many cities. Quincy is not the only city trying to revitalize."

Brushing and flossing teeth after eating pays in many ways. Aside from better health due to less decay, good dental hygiene will save time and money spent with your dentist, and of course, will help to maintain the appearance of teeth. Each person should have his own toothbrush, preferably two, for alternate use. They should be kept clean and permitted to dry between brushing. A satisfactory brush has a flat surface for brushing, soft but firm bristles, and a head small enough to permit easy access to all surfaces of the teeth and gums. Control and prevent tooth decay by visiting your family dentist regularly. Dr. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., whose office is at 539 Adams St., East Milton Square, specializes in general dentistry for the entire family. We stress preventive dentistry and urge parents to bring young children (3 years) to the office to become acquainted with dental procedures and learn good dental habits. Call our office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. We honor Visa, Master Charge, and insurance plans.

How to do the impossible 7 different ways.

Saving money isn't easy. Some people say it's downright impossible. But at South Shore we make the effort well worth your while. By offering a wide selection of savings plans to suit every lifestyle. And by promising the highest interest rate the law will allow. Look into these plans. Quite possibly there's one perfect for you.

1. Six Month Money Market Certificate.

9.376% (This was the rate through February 7, 1979.) The interest you'll earn on this certificate is excellent, equal to the U.S. Treasury Bill average six month rate in effect as of the date of issue. So the rate will fluctuate. Call us for the current reading. On this certificate, a minimum of $10,000 is required.

2. Eight Year Certificate.

7.9% Annual Interest. 8.17% Effective Yield. You'll benefit from this generous interest rate as long as you keep at least $1,000 on deposit.

3. Four Year Certificate.

7.1% Annual Interest. 7.63% Effective Yield. The minimum amount required on balance is just the same as the Eight Year Certificate. But you'll see terrific interest in just four years.

4. Two-And-A-Half Year Certificate.

6.9% Annual Interest. 6.81% Effective Yield. All it takes is a minimum of $250 on deposit for this period, and you'll earn super interest.

5. One Year Certificate.

6% Annual Interest. 6.27% Effective Yield. Promise to leave at least $250 in this account for no less than one year, and you'll be very glad you did.

6. Ninety Day Notice Account.

5.9% Annual Interest. 5.64% Effective Yield. As long as you maintain a balance of at least $200, you'll benefit from a better than average interest rate.

7. Regular Savings Account.

5% Annual Interest. 5.12% Effective Yield. Nobody should be without a Regular Savings Account, especially at South Shore Bank!

On all certificates, there is a penalty for withdrawal of funds before maturity.

SSARC To Hold First 'Friendship Party' Sunday

Employees (retarded adults) of the sheltered workshops of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens (SSARC) will hold their first "Friendship Party" Feb. 25, at Knights of Columbus Hall, Braintree.

The party, planned, prepared and hosted by the employees, with the help of volunteers, is to thank friends and benefactors of the association which has served the South Shore for 28 years.

Association president Benjamin Landey, of Quincy, said, "We know the capabilities of the retarded are greatly underestimated. This social event reveals some of their capacity for doing many things."

Committee members for the party include Brian Meksky, Meredith Houghton, Maryann Mosher, Patti Maddox, Cathy Gavin, George Moore, Christine Kirsch, Kevin Long, John Kelley, Dorothy Zapasnik, Denise Fontana and Chris Cunningham.

Among the invited guests are officers of the Probus Club and Knights of Columbus Councils, Quincy; Rep. Elizabeth Metayer, of Braintree; Rep. Robert Ambler, Weymouth; Knights of Columbus Councils in Braintree and Weymouth; as well as former presidents of the association and volunteers.

Archaeology Topic For Quincy Historical Society

150 Couples Renew Marriage Vows At St. John's

'Marriage Is A Lifetime Job, Not Delirious Happiness . . .

Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy, celebrated a special Mass last Saturday evening at which 150 couples renewed their marriage vows. A reception followed in the parish hall.

Following is the homily Fr. McCarthy delivered at the event sponsored by the Spiritual Development Commission of the Parish Council.

It is a most inspiring sight this evening to witness married couples coming together to renew their marriage vows; especially in the Neo-Paganism and Secularistic society which is ready to break the marriage bond for such a ridiculous reason as "He doesn't put the cap on the toothpaste after brushing his teeth."

We are happy to see couples gather here who are willing to stand by their bond [even if it is a bond and not a bargain]. You are people who have realized that marriage is not like a violin and bow, making one instrument of sweet and melting music, but at times it will seem like the jarring clash of a couple of cymbals. You have not confused marriage with the definition of heaven which is a state of perfect and perpetual bliss.

Marriage is love for each other and this means sacrifice.

Only an adolescent thinks of marriage as a state of sugary sweetness, moonlight and poetry. Sometimes it is like joining the Navy - friendship, courtship and battleship. As you have experienced as adults, marriage is a life-time job and not the honeymoon standards of delirious happiness.

You may however have experienced many joys. There is more genuine entertainment in the unpredictable antics of a little child toddling across the floor and discovering the world, than there is in any floor show.

In order to have joys in the sea of matrimony there must also be a whole ocean of patience, tolerance,

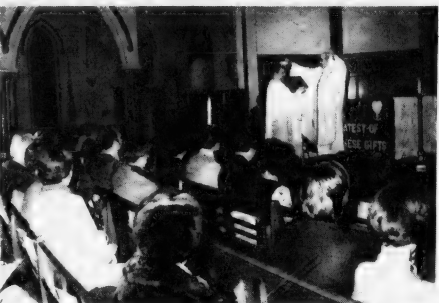

MORE THAN 150 couples renewed marriage vows at special Mass at St. John's Church, Quincy. From left are John O'Brien, Joseph Papile, Robert Dunn, Claire and John Hanratty, Eucharistic ministers; Rev. Daniel Graham, Rev. William McCarthy, principal celebrant, Rev. Joseph Byrne and Rev. Joseph Connolly, co-celebrants; Joseph O'Brien, Maria Fowles, and Joseph McDonald, musicians.

LIGHT OF HOPE -- Parishioners light candles preparatory to renewing their marriage vows at Mass at St. John's Church, Quincy. Gerry Nicklas assists Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sullivan in lighting candles.

BLESSING THE MARRIAGE -- Rev. William McCarthy, pastor, extends his arms in bestowing blessing on marriages of 150 couples who renewed their vows. Holding the missal is Rev. Daniel Graham, co-celebrant.

RENEWING VOWS -- Couples holding lighted candles renew their marriage vows. The special service was sponsored by the Spiritual Development Commission of St. John's Parish Council.

compromise and concession; a submerging of one's own tastes and whims and conveniences for the common good.

You certainly must have had disappointments, but you did not solve these problems by dissolving the partnership. Marriage by its nature is not perfect, but it is permanent. It is a last will and testament in which you have bequeathed yourself to your spouse forever.

It is a vow along the road of life, no matter what lies beyond each new bend. Like the wedding ring, the gleam and the polish of love may dull away with the years, but underneath it is still as good, still as solid, still all gold.

If you are asked the question, "How have you made a success of your marriage?" - your answer might be that you worked at being less selfish, of being more patient, at cultivating gentleness and self control, at smiling through dark times and being content when the going is rough.

We know by experience that one of the partners has to own up to the fact that he or she is at fault. Elocutionists may say that hardest words in the English language to pronounce are "If Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers" and so on or something like that. The hardest words in English to say are "I was wrong" because you have to say them not with the tongue and teeth, but with the conscience and the heart. If we do not take the first step toward reconciliation we are nothing but church going pagans.

Our prayer this evening as you renew your vows is that the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit send you happiness like an old wedding ring - solid, genuine and strong. May gentle patience, clear-eyed trust, tender devotion, sweet and staunch loyalty be with you as you continue many more years of a happy married life.

May Almighty God scatter upon you a thousand blessings, but one in particular, that you resolve never to hurt another's feelings and thus your home, no matter how humble, will be a little suburb of Heaven.

The Mass was sponsored by the Spiritual Development Commission of the Parish Council with Pauline O'Leary as general chairman.

Others who took part included: Eucharistic ministers: Claire and John Hanratty, Millie and Frank Lomano, Terry and Gerry Nicklas, Pauline and Ed O'Leary; lector, John Hanratty; offertory procession: Pauline and Arthur Gilbert, Mary Jo and Michael DiBona; musicians: Joseph O'Brien, Maria Fowles, Joseph MacDonald, Phyllis Ross and Thomas Sheibels.

Hosts and hostesses were: Rosemary and John Daley, Ruth and John Luttis, Betty and John Morris; decorating committee: James Coughlin, Richard Feltig, James Hall, Pat Mullen, Pauline O'Leary and Anna Sullivan; refreshment committee: Fred Fostello, Claire O'Rourke, Helen O'Rourke, Carol Pollara, Deanna Pollara, Anthony Quintiliani and Nick Romano.

Consistent with the special education act [Chapter 766], the Quincy Public Schools will conduct an Orientation Workshop for parents of three and four year old children in order to identify those with special needs. Where necessary, children will participate in a follow-up Screening Program which will include a parent interview and health, vision, hearing, motor and language screening.

Parents who wish to participate in the Orientation Workshop are encouraged to call

DR. ELIZABETH BRAUNSTEIN
Pre-School Chapter 766 Team Chairperson

at the Quincym School, 94 Newbury Avenue, Quincy at 471-0100 [extension 467] on or before March 2, 1979.

This Pre School Screening is not for children who are eligible for kindergarten in September 1979. Their screening will take place at the time of kindergarten registration.

Will The 'Elder Statesmen' Run?

With the city preliminary election now only seven months away, this is the season for political questions.

An interesting one waiting to be answered: will Quincy's two "elder statesmen" run again?

Councillor Joseph Brett, 71, and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo, 80, say they don't really know. And, won't for awhile yet.

Brett says he doesn't expect to make a decision until summer and Anselmo will wait until early fall.

Together, their political careers span nearly 40 years—20 for Brett and 18 for Anselmo.

And during those years, each has built a reputation for telling it the way he thinks it is.

Ask them where they stand on an issue and they'll tell you. You might not always agree with them but you respect them for their candor.

Both careers seemed to have come to an abrupt end in recent defeats at the polls but fate stepped in to give each a new lease on his political life.

After one term in the City Council (1958-59) and nine consecutive terms as a state representative, Brett ran into young Mike Morrissey and defeat in 1976.

It appeared Brett's career was over. But along came Councillor Paul Harold in 1978 to upset Senator Arthur Tobin with the promise he would be a full-time senator. Harold resigned his council at-large seat. Dennis Harrington who was runner-up in the at-large race that year could have had the vacancy but declined it. Next runner up was Brett who accepted it on a vote by the remaining eight councillors.

Anselmo lost his bid for re-election in 1977. But in that same election, School Committeeman Frank McCauley was elected councillor at-large. Anselmo was then elected by the school committee members to fill McCauley's unexpired term on that board.

"I kind of enjoy it—politics is part of my blood," says Brett about his return to the City Council. "But I haven't made up my mind whether to run this year. A lot of people have asked me, but I really don't know."

"I'll be 72 in May. But I feel fine. I'm in good health. When I accepted the job in January, I had decided then to wait until June or July before making up my mind about running. And that is when I will decide."

And, says Anselmo:

"I may give it a whirl. I'm toying with the idea of running but I won't make up my mind until early fall. I was 80 last September and maybe the public won't want to buy a man of that age this year."

"But I feel good and I keep alert and active. The School Committee needs someone with strong experience to go with the new blood. And they need someone to raise a little hell when a little hell needs to be raised."

Anselmo incidentally, sounded like he might be getting ready to "raise a little hell" very soon.

SOME OBSERVERS STILL feel that former Mayor Joseph LaRaia will make a comeback bid via the City Council at-large race.

They've been looking for a move on Brett's part as a possible indicator. If Brett were to announce early he will run for the "open" at-large seat, chances are LaRaia will not. Brett supported LaRaia for mayor. Brett's plan not to make his decision known until June or July will be seen by some as an indication that LaRaia is still a potential candidate.

But asked if LaRaia has contacted him about the council at-large seat, Brett says: "No, I haven't heard anything from him. I haven't seen or talked with him in weeks."

So?

COUNCILLOR Steve McGrath is running both politically and literally in Ward 5. He's a definite candidate for re-election and a vowed jogger. Jogs two miles a day, four days a week. Been doing it since May and has shed 18 pounds.

SENATOR PAUL HAROLD is opening his senate district office Friday in Room 4, at 4 Maple St., Quincy Sq. which has been his campaign headquarters in senate and council races. Serving coffee and doughnuts tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 11. Those will be the office hours each Friday but constituents can make appointments for later in the day by calling 472-6188.

SMILE DFPT: "Nothing is all wrong," muses Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist-author. "Even a clock that stops is right twice a day."

City Seeks Large Retailer To Replace Sears downtown business. It's a very competitive market."

Tobin said the thing that really upset him about Sears' announcement was the way in which it was made.

"The manager of the Quincy store [Ove H. Strandkov] called up at 4 p.m. Thursday and asked if he could come in and see me at 10 a.m. Friday about a matter," said the Mayor.

"We said, 'Fine. Love to have you'."

"A little before 10 a.m. the manager and two executives who flew up from Philadelphia came to my office. That was when they said they were going to have a press announcement at 10:30 a.m."

"They told me it was a corporate decision made for the future of Sears, Roebuck."

"I told them we appreciate that but what we were totally dismayed at was that we didn't get 24-hour notice or any notice or input. It was just a corporate decision that was made in another state. That didn't sit well with us."

"The timing was so poor, too."

Here we are going to Washington on the UDAG application and we're going to make another announcement in a couple of weeks of another merchant coming to Quincy.

"That's the thing that shocked and angered us. I told them if that's the way the public relations department of Sears, Roebuck works then it leaves a lot to be desired."

Tobin said he has been hearing for years rumors that Sears was contemplating a move.

"We were hoping that by doing all the positive things in bringing people to downtown Quincy we could persuade them to stay," he said. "We've lost that advantage right now. That's a setback."

"Thank God we've been doing what we've been doing since January in trying to attract new development to Quincy Center. We've been showing results."

"There was always the spark there that maybe after we did these things Sears would want to stay. Unfortunately, it didn't work out that way."

Sears' Burkardt had nothing but praise for Quincy, even as he was announcing the company's departure.

"The announcement of the proposed move," he said, "has been made as far in advance as possible so that we may intensify our efforts to find an appropriate use for our present facility in Quincy."

"This unit has served our customers and Sears well in the past years but due to a change in customer needs and shopping patterns a new facility is necessary to better serve our customers."

He said the sales area of the new store in the Plaza [213,932 square feet] will almost double the old one and the popular automotive center will be increased from nine to 24 bays.

There will also be a 1,525-car three-level parking garage.

"All statistics," said Burkardt, "population, retail sales, effective buying income and economic potential have pointed to the need for a completely modern and up-to-date Sears department store in this area."

Burkardt said the decision to move was the result of years of research.

School Committee Endorses 21-Year Drinking Age

The School Committee voted last week to support something that is already on the way to accomplishment -- the 21-year-old drinking age. They did it with uncertainty, however.

"It's outside the prerogatives of the Committee," said Patricia Toland, vice chairwoman. "I don't like to have such a resolution put on me when the governor and the legislature are pondering the matter."

Member Christopher F. Kennedy said he thought the raise in the drinking age was "a foregone conclusion. I would like to see a transition period from 18 to 21 rather than a sudden withdrawal of the privilege."

His amendment to that end failed to draw a second.

In spite of such doubts, the resolution, introduced by Member John J. Sullivan, passed by a 5-0 vote.

Let Motherhood Have Dignity It Deserves

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In reference to the Sunbeam article, "Linda Sets Women's Rights Back A Step", all I can say is B R A V O!!

You had down in black and white exactly the way I've been feeling about this entire situation since it was first brought to the public's eye by the news media. It did my heart good to read your article, because, unfortunately, I couldn't express my feelings down on paper the way you did.

Being a woman myself, I am definitely for equality in women, but there is a limit to everything. It's the same old story of giving an inch and everyone wants to take a yard.

I'm with you, I hope Linda loses her case. Could you just see all the housewives who are home everyday with their children suddenly decide to take them into their husband's place of employment for the fathers to take them on their "personal time" for babysitting or whatever -- or working mothers having someone bring their children to see them on their "personal time" because they want to give them lunch or whatever. Come on, there has to be a fine line drawn somewhere.

I know Linda is not married [that's her business], but if she wants to be such a good mother and wants her baby with her, then let her find some way to stay home and take care of that baby in the privacy of her own home, or make some other suitable arrangement. Let "Motherhood" have the dignity it deserves.

One last note -- your final paragraph mentions the possible future of co-ed restrooms, again, my opinion agrees with yours. Let privacy and dignity prevail -- leave men in the men's room and women in the women's room for the present and for eternity.

Congratulations On Blue Ribbon Award

Editor, The Quincy Sun,

The people of St. John's parish wish to congratulate The Quincy Sun on receiving the National Blue Ribbon Newspaper award. Certainly since I have been in Quincy my personal experience has been that The Quincy Sun has been most cooperative and most impartial in printing any news concerning our activities.

Certainly they are deserving of this award.

Rev. William R. McCarthy
Pastor, St. John's Parish

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Congratulations on your recent award. I can understand why. I, myself was a now and then reader at one time, but I wouldn't miss it now. There is so much for so many, and everything is readable.

Your Sunbeams column always hit home, and many a time we discuss it at club meetings. Keep up the good work.

Sears Will Be Missed But Downtown Will Survive

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Richard Barker of Barker's Office Supplies—"If the Sears building is left empty for a protracted period of time it's going to have a very adverse effect on the central business district. You can't leave that enormous business sitting there doing nothing.

BARKER

"I don't think the average citizen of Quincy realizes that taxes increase every year and traditionally the bulk of the taxes come from the retail district and the industrial properties of the city.

"We've got to make a concentrated effort to do something as soon as possible to bolster the business district because we're only getting a fraction of the taxes from it that they got 20 years ago.

"I'm not sure I know the answer to the problem. Maybe we should consider that the downtown area will become an office and apartment area with retail specialty shops on the ground floor. Maybe that's the thing."

William Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank—"Obviously I was disappointed to hear the news but I can't say it was totally unexpected. It points up the necessity of getting development going here in the Square.

KELLEY

"I hope the people in Washington who must render a decision on the UDAG application will take under consideration the fact that the area has been dealt another blow and look upon that as a reason our application should be approved.

"My own personal feeling is that the future of a retail area in a city is tied more to smaller independent operating units rather than branches of national chains."

Charles Ryder, Ryder's Curtain Shop—"It's detrimental, to say the least. It's a major disaster. Hopefully, it can bring the city together to find the positives in the situation and work on them.

RYDER

"This didn't come out of the blue. It's too bad the Planning Department didn't anticipate the problem and approach Sears with some good alternative plans. Sears has been looking and they've made no bones about it.

"It's going to be a long, hard row to hoe but hopefully we can look at it with a positive attitude. Every adversity carries with it the seeds of a greater benefit. All we have to do is find that benefit and work at it."

John R. Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank—"The decision of Sears to leave Quincy may at long last bring about civic and municipal action to resolve the future of downtown Quincy. We have had all kinds of meetings on the subject and a lot of fine work has been done from a planning point of view.

HERBERT

"The city has its greatest chance in 50 years to set directions because three critical issues are already resolved: the MBTA extension with the South Quincy station, the cloverleaf at Capen's Bridge and the extension of Burgin Parkway (Upland Rd.).

"With all this going on, downtown Quincy can be redesigned and reoriented for a dominant role for many generations to come. Sears may regret leaving.

"When Lord and Taylor and Sears get into business at South Shore Plaza and Filenes extends in to the old Stearns store, it may be impossible to get near the Plaza at busy times.

"Quincy, on the other hand, with a cross-town artery linked to McGrath Highway could become a very accessible business and shopping area.

"It should be made clear that Quincy is, has been, and, unless they completely destroy it, will continue to be a good, sound trading area."

FELDMAN

Jason Feldman, Jason's Music and Luggage—"It depends on what happens between now and the time Sears leaves. Maybe we will have somebody else come in that will offset their loss.

"Don't forget, Sears wasn't a losing proposition here in Quincy. It's been one of their better stores. That's the crazy part of it. They're moving because they're doing so well they want to do more. Perhaps it can be sold on that basis.

"If we can get someone who doesn't want to expand to the kind of operation Sears has in mind, it may not affect us that greatly. If we don't get anybody, then it will hurt."

Sun Survey

Robert Colman, Colman's Sporting Goods—"How disastrous a blow it is depends on what happens with the building. Replacing a Sears in Quincy is going to be tough because they are the type of store that fits Quincy. They service all segments of the buying public.

COLMAN

"I also think that anybody who comes in here is going to take a look at this place (downtown Quincy) just like Sears did when they decided to leave.

"They are going to discover that we have a drug rehabilitation center, a regional welfare office, a Social Security office, a mental health clinic, a recruiting station, all those social agencies which don't bring five cents worth of retail business to the city.

"I'm standing here now looking right out at the Navy recruiting car parked on Hancock St. on one of the large shopping days of the year (Washington's Birthday).

"The Sears people have been here several times and they have made a thorough analysis of this town. Personally, I think if the so-called Planning Department had done the job right they might have still been here."

Burt Cook, Tag's Sleep Shop—"I don't think the damage to downtown Quincy is going to be as drastic as everybody thinks. There are still some very good stores downtown that create their own traffic. I don't see why they can't continue to do so.

COOK

"I have never noticed any tremendous amount of foot traffic going in and out of Sears through the front door. It isn't like Jordan Marsh on Washington St. in Boston. The other stores on Hancock St. may not be affected that much.

"Anyway, we got a year and a half to prepare and in that time they may get another major store to go in there or they may be able to break the place up into three good sized stores, good specialty stores of some kind.

"Nobody's happy about the situation but I don't think anybody should panic, either."

Time Bomb Damages WMEX Facility

The transmitting plant of Boston radio station WMEX on West Squantum St., North Quincy, was damaged sometime during the night by a time bomb that was exploded at the base of one of the towers.

The engineer on duty said he heard what sounded like an explosion about 10:30 p.m. but debris from the blast was not discovered until the following afternoon and the station remained on the air.

Workers found a small alarm clock, a set of dry cell batteries and fragments of the bomb casing in the marsh.

Quincy police theorized that the planting of the bomb was tied in with a WMEX talk show hosted by the controversial radio personality Jerry Williams, dealing with civil rights.

SHEA PUSHES BUSES

Rep. Charles L. Shea (D-Quincy) advocated privately franchised bus service from Quincy Sq. to South Station instead of state-operated rapid transit, which, he said, "tends to become a burden on taxpayers."

"Transportation on rubber wheels, either by bus or by automobile, is the coming thing," he told a transportation meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Bus routes can be changed as the needs develop, he said, while rails must remain in the same location.

TECHNICAL ROADBLOCKS

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert said that legal technicalities are holding up about 22 per cent of Quincy's ongoing $200,000 shore protection program.

Difficulties in obtaining releases from abutting property owners, he said, were holding up $32,000 worth of work on seawalls off Rock Island Rd., Houghs Neck, and Shelton Rd., Adams Shore.

Girl Scout Troop 155 Visits Quincy Sun

Members of Girl Scout Troop 155 of Cranch School, visited The Quincy Sun recently to see first hand how a newspaper is produced.

Making the tour were Darlene Columbare, Suzanne Stec, Michelle McDewitt, Debbie Sullivan, Kim Pantano and Kris Connerty. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gail Columbare, troop leader.

The scouts were shown how news stories are written, set in type and placed on a page, including the story of their visit.

The saw an IBM computer typesetter, a Compugraphic photo typesetter, and a Compugraphic headline photo typesetter in action. They also saw how a stat camera reduces, enlarges and screens original photographs so they can be used in The Sun.

They were also shown how pages of The Sun are put together for printing.

The scouts were presented with copies of the current issue of The Sun at the end of their tour.

Hearing March 1 on Luxury Apartment Proposal

The Quincy planning board will hold a public hearing Thursday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m., in the City Council Chamber at City Hall for the purpose of considering a proposed 132-unit, six-story luxury apartment house on Palmer St., Adams Shore.

Stephen C. Ricciardi presented plans for the apartment building to the board last week. Ricciardi, who has been a member of the board, resigned prior to the presentation, to avoid any conflict of interest charges.

Ricciardi asked the Norfolk Superior Court last November to rule if he would be in conflict of interest as a developer seeking approval of a board on which he sat. The court has made no ruling as yet, but Ricciardi decided to send his resignation to Mayor Arthur Tobin to clear the air.

Planning board chairman Rev. Bedros Baharian noted that the public hearing is not required, but the board wants some input from neighbors regarding the planned unit development.

The proposed building will have 85 one-bedroom and 47 two-bedroom apartments in the $4 million development.

McCauley Seeks Funds

For Hancock Parking Area Resurfacing

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley has requested that funds be included in the 1980 city budget for the resurfacing of the John Hancock parking area.

In a letter to Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, McCauley noted that sections of the parking area in the vicinity of Hancock St. are in poor condition.

He also requested that Ricciuti include the dredging and cleaning of the creek in vicinity of Rock Island Road and Edgewater Drive area in the 1979-80 public works program.

McCauley noted that houses in this area were flooded during the January rainstorms.

Board Approves Storage Of Vehicles Off Quincy Ave.

will be a section at the top of an abandoned quarry, placed far enough back from the face of the quarry so vandals will not be able to lob rocks and other missiles onto the cars.

Bates' attorney, Thomas Williams, told the board the primary purpose for the property will be the storage of new and used cars. He said insurance companies are interested in using it for vehicles which have been involved in accidents. Bates said it would also be used to store cars towed off the streets during snowstorms.

Bates said he owns about 100 acres of land in that area and his taxes run between $30,000 and $40,000 annually. He said it is difficult to pay his taxes without some income from the land.

The insurance companies would pay $8 per day for storing cars on the open lot, he said.

"In addition Quirk Chevrolet of Weymouth wants to use it to store new cars," he told the board.

He informed the board that he plans to have a watchman live on the property, but has not yet completed arrangements for housing.

The board was insistent that he use the right of way through the Ace Auto Body Company land, so as not to disturb residents of Hazeltine Dr. and Bower Rd., which lead to the property from the opposite direction.

Board Chairman John Gillis said that Bates would be expected to see that all the heavy vehicles parked along Quincy Ave. are taken into the lot and not be visible from the highway.

On the removal of wrecks, Bates assured the board that the insurance companies would be more than willing for them to be disposed of, since they would be paying storage fees on them. He said that under the law they have to be held at least 21 days.

He also agreed that no autos or auto parts would be sold on the site and that he would not conduct a salvage business.

In other action the board:

- Granted a request from the Quincy YMCA for a one-day beer license for Friday, 8 p.m. to midnight, for a benefit sports night to be held at the Fore River Club House.

- Granted request from the Wollaston Yacht Club for a one-day all alcoholic license for Saturday, Feb. 24, 6:30 p.m. to midnight, for the mid-winter fund raiser dance at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

- Approved a request from Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, for a one-day all alcoholic license Saturday, Feb. 24, 9 p.m. to midnight, for a dance at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

- Granted permission to St. Mary's parish, West Quincy, to conduct tag days May 18-19. The board stipulated that volunteers must avoid seeking donations at intersections.

The board also granted St. Mary's Church permission to hold its annual carnival on the school grounds, June 7-8-9-10. The board said approval was granted with the proviso the carnival company show proof of liability insurance and adherence to state public safety regulations.

Approved the transfer of a common victualer-all alcoholic license from James and Rose Mitchell, owners of Jimmie's Cafe, 13-23 Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point, to Charles M. and Catherine M. Kane, 50 Warwick St., Quincy, as the C. M. Kane Corp. The name of the cafe will be changed to Kane's Place.

Tax Delinquents

[Cont'd from Page 1]
He explained the procedure of going after unpaid taxes in this manner:

The tax is due May 1.
If it's not paid, a demand goes out in July or August.

If that gets no results in 14 days, a letter goes out stating that the delinquency will be advertised and a lien placed against the property.

The advertisement follows, usually around Sept. 30.

Then the lien is recorded in Norfolk Court in Dedham and six months later the city can foreclose.

Foreclosure is rare in Quincy, Foy said.

In 1917, Louis Cartier, of the famous French Cartier Brothers jewelry designers, developed the Cartier's tank watch for the eighty-four American Tank Corps Commanders who were stationed in Paris at the time. It is an item that has survived all the vagaries of fashion tastes. It has never gone out of style and has spawned a whole group of similar watches, and, at one point, a worldwide, counterfeiting operation. The Cartier Tank watch is a time piece that has always remained timely. You'll find a wide selection of fine time pieces when you visit us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. Bulova and Seko watches, Chelsea and Seth Thomas clocks and a nice choice of estate pocket watches are available. All types of clocks can be appraised, and repair work is handled by our craftsman as a "labor of love". Open: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

Chamber Seeking Nominees For Annual Community Awards

The Leader Recognition Awards Committee of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominees from the membership and general public for awards to be given to three South Shore individuals at the annual meeting March 30 at Lantana.

Individuals proposed must have made contributions that have forwarded the Chamber's objective of building a sense of community in the region south of Boston and in providing leadership in matters of regional concerns as it affects the quality of life and economic prosperity. Categories for the annual awards are not automatically the same each year, in order to allow for a broad range of individual possibilities.

Recipients at the South Shore Chamber's annual meeting in 1978 were Robert Blair, Business Executive of the Year; The Buckley Family, Business Family of the Year; and Rev. Bedros Baharian, Community Leader of the Year.

Chamber members of the Leader Recognition Awards Committee who will make the final decision include:

Chairman, Everett Grossman, Grossman's; Dave Devine, Boston Mutual Life Insurance; Rita Welch, Colonial Nursing Home of Weymouth; Gerald Reilly, Gerald T. Reilly & Company; John Spence, Rockland Trust Company; John Blake, Colony, Inc.; Jack Conway, Jack Conway & Company Inc.; Andrew Walsh, Walsh's Restaurant.

Nominations should be sent to Everett Grossman, Chairman, Leader Recognition Awards Committee, South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Box 488, Quincy, Ma. 02269, no later than Feb. 23.

Awards will be announced one month prior to the meeting.

High School Orientation For Central 9th Grade Student Parents

Parents of ninth grade students at Central Junior High School are invited to attend an orientation with the principals of Quincy and North Quincy High Schools Tuesday evening, Feb. 27.

Peter J. Chisom of North Quincy High and Lloyd Hill of Quincy High School will discuss programs, curriculum, facilities and resources of their respective buildings.

Pagnano Towers Program Schedule

Frank O'Brien, president of Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave., Quincy, announces schedule of activities for senior citizens of the complex.

Monday - Knitting and crocheting, 1-4 p.m.
Wednesday - Ceramics 1:30-4

The program begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Learning Center.

With the opening of the new wing at North Quincy High and the new programs at Quincy High School, the meeting is important for all parents of ninth grade students. A question-answer period will be provided for any concerns parents might have about the high schools.

Thursday - Sewing, 9-noon; whist, 1-3 p.m.

A dinner, with entertainment by the Sweet Adelines, will be held Feb. 27.

A Three-day trip to the Catskills is being planned for June 6.

Decision Due Feb. 28

The School Committee has postponed until Wednesday, Feb. 28, a decision in the case of Iranian student Hadi Farahani, ward of a Wollaston couple, who wants to enter North Quincy High School for the final semester of his senior year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Stone of 243 Holbrook Rd., his guardians, told the committee that Farahani's family now pays $850 tuition per semester for him to attend Shaw Prep in Boston and they question the quality of the education he is getting there.

Farahani, they said, had no mail from his home in strife-torn Iran for six weeks and all the letters that he had sent to his family in that time had been returned.

Committeeman John J. Sullivan noted that in the recent past other foreign students had been turned down in their efforts to enter Quincy schools, even though one of them offered to pay tuition.

"It's the law," said Mrs. Stone, waving the guardianship document. "The law says when a child is a legal ward he must be given an education free of charge, regardless of national origin. There's three months to go; it's only one person; he's an A student; and it is the law."

'Clean Air Awards' Nominees B

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, the 'Christmas Seal' people, invites Quincy residents to submit nominations through March 7, for their fifth annual "Clean Air Awards" presented to facilities that have made an outstanding effort to keep the air clean.

Eligible for the awards which will be presented during Clean Air Week this Spring, are utilities, foundries, incinerators, heavy and light manufacturing, waste disposal facilities, transportation programs as well as new and innovative groups.

Farahani told the Committee that he has already applied for admission to several colleges in the United States, including MIT where he would like to study physics.

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, the School System's expert in such matters, said that other communities on the South Shore handle the admission of foreign students administratively rather than taking each case before the School Committee.

Arts/Entertainment

At Strand Theater

Quincy Opera Company In Debut Performance Sunday

The Quincy Opera Company will make its debut before invited guests with a special performance of scenes from various operas Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Strand Theater, Chestnut St., Quincy Center.

Some 1,500 invitations have been sent out.

The performance, which aims to generate a resurgence of interest in opera, will include selections from "La Traviata," "Barber of Seville," "Carmen," "HMS Pinafore," "Rigoletto" and "Don Giovanni."

Edward Coyle, president of the non-profit opera company, said:

"In the last 30 years, there has been a rebirth of interest in the opera across the nation. It is our hope to add Quincy to the growing list of cities that are participating in this exciting renaissance of opera."

"Quincy has always been one of the country's outstanding cultural areas. We feel that we have the nation's finest historical societies, and many fine organizations that support the arts such as the Quincy Art Association, the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and the Wollaston Glee Club, to mention a few."

The company's board of directors includes Mayor Arthur Tobin, Barbara Alpern, Richard Barker, Carter Caudle, Steven Esdale, Robert Flavell, Charles Grein, George Montilio and Joseph O'Connor.

The opera company plans to schedule performances for the public in the future.

5-Cent Hike In Secondary School Lunches Tabled

A request by Food Coordinator George D. Cole to raise the price of secondary school lunches from 40 cents to 45 cents was tabled by the School Committee last week.

Patricia Toland, vice chairwoman, said she wanted to hold up on the price hike to see if it could be repaid by a federal reimbursement.

Asst. Supt. John A. Osterman said the lunch has been pegged at 40 cents for the past three years. He quoted Cole as saying what the Committee probably already knew, that the price of food has gone up and the five cent increase is needed just to break even.

Hamburger used to cost 63 cents a pound, he said, now it is $1.23.

Watch Sun Eclipse From Chickatawbut Hill

Quincy residents are invited to bring a lunch and observe a partial eclipse of the sun Feb. 26, 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. on Chickatawbut Hill, Blue Hills Reservation, Milton.

Participants will be informed how to observe the eclipse without destroying your eyes.

The activity is free. A donation is asked for a hot beverage.

For directions and registration, call 696-0920.

Chickatawbut Hill is a non-profit environmental education facility operated by the Massachusetts Audubon Society for the Metropolitan District Commission.

Penn Hill Seniors Mark 7th Anniversary

The Penn Hill Senior Citizens Club celebrated its seventh anniversary recently at a meeting held at First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., South Quincy.

Original officers Douglas MacDonald, founder of the club, Mrs. Christine Robertson and David Patton presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Mills, president, commended the officers for their work. Each was presented a box of Valentine candy. A cake was presented by Sam MacLeod for the occasion.

The club was formed in September, 1973 and has grown from a membership of 35 to 125.

Dedham Resident

Granite Co-op Contest Winner

The name of W. J. Ellis of 15 Kimball Rd., Dedham, has been drawn as one of 12 weekly winners in a contest being held by the Granite Co-operative Bank of Quincy.

The public is invited to guess the amount of cash handled by the bank between Feb. 1 and April 30. The person guessing the closest will win a Panasonic Console Color TV worth nearly $700.

Each week the bank draws one of the entries submitted and awards a prize from among other Panasonic merchandise.

This week's winner won a Panasonic tape recorder.

Next week the bank will offer a Panasonic AM-FM Portable Radio as the weekly prize.

No transaction is necessary to enter. Winners must be at least 18 years old though they need not be a regular depositor at the bank.

The Paperback Book Swap is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. All area residents are invited to bring in their used paperbacks and exchange them from a wide selection at the Center.

Carol Bray, an energy assistant with Quincy Community Action, is at the Center from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. daily to answer questions and service energy needs in the community.

For more information about programs or services offered by the Center, please contact Jane Ford, Director at 328-1708.

VISITOR FROM IRELAND -- Niamh O'Sullivan, education officer of National Gallery of Ireland, Dublin, is presented copy of "Quincy: 350 Years" during luncheon at Vo-Tec's Three Seasons Restaurant. Miss O'Sullivan visited the city to get first hand look at art education courses. School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon (left) and School Committeeman John J. Sullivan made the presentation.

From National Gallery of Ireland Irish Education Officer Impressed By Art Courses At NQHS

Miss Niamh O'Sullivan, education officer of the National Gallery of Ireland, had high praise for art education courses at North Quincy High School during her recent one-day whirlwind visit to the city.

"I had been informed about the innovative courses and wanted to see for myself," Miss O'Sullivan said during a luncheon at Vocational-Technical School's Three Seasons Restaurant as guest of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Other guests at the luncheon included Michael Hurley, director of Project Line; John Harrington, coordinator of social studies; William L. Phinney, assistant superintendent of schools; Mrs. Maureen Mahoney, Vocational Technical School media specialist; Edward Hannon, director of career education, and School Committeeman John J. Sullivan.

Miss O'Sullivan, winding up a month's tour of the United States under the auspices of the State Department and the International Visitor Program, said the art education program in Quincy had been brought to her attention before she left Ireland.

While here she spoke to the art students at North Quincy and made a tour of the new wing of the building.

At City Hall she was welcomed by Mayor Arthur Tobin and presented with a citation naming her an honorary citizen of Quincy.

"I was invited to the U.S. by the State Department to visit galleries and museums and other educational institutions to see what is happening on the art education frontier," she said.

Prior to coming to Quincy Miss O'Sullivan visited Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, San Francisco, Santa Fe, and New York.

"It was a valuable trip, but much too short. I only had three or four days in each city," she said. "The people I met and the programs I saw were all very impressive."

She said she had discussed programs and plans with various art educators because "American galleries are far ahead of galleries in any other part of the world in the field of art education."

"I wanted to see Quincy because I had been told it has a very innovative art program, and I wanted to compare it with the art programs we have in the Irish schools."

"I have heard that Quincy has an art history program, unlike many of the school systems throughout this country," she said. They have a very comprehensive approach to it.

"It's not just splashing paint on a piece of paper, but rather aimed at trying to create a whole awareness of an appreciation of art within the student."

Following luncheon Miss O'Sullivan visited the Quincy High School Social Studies Museum and the Quincy Historical Society.

McGrath Seeks State Funds For Strand Area Flood Protection

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath has asked that the Strand area of Wollaston be included in a special legislation that would have the state pay the cost of protection of flood-prone areas.

McGrath pointed out in a letter to Mayor Arthur J. Tobin how susceptible the Strand is to flooding during major storms and how its problems should continue to be addressed by the city.

Some extensive drainage work was done by the city last summer, said McGrath, but many of the residents are still suffering severely from water problems.

He and his wife, the former Dolores Prunier, have six children.

School Committee Turns Down Leukemia Collection Request

The School Committee turned down last week a request from the Leukemia Foundation to take up a collection among spectators at the next Thanksgiving Day Quincy-North Quincy football game.

Wilfred A. Nolan told the Committee that permission is granted each year to the Junior Red Cross, the Quincy United Fund and the March of Dimes to make such collections and it would be difficult to accommodate another organization.

Also, he said, the Fathers Clubs from both schools and various student organizations use the day for fund-raising.

The request was denied by a 5-0 vote.

6 Quincy Agencies Receive $269,099 From United Way

Six Quincy agencies have received a total of $269,099 as their 1979 allocations from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay for support of services during the year.

The allocations are $18,597 more than the agencies received from United Way in 1978.

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore received $64,552, an increase of $5,000. The Blue Hill Girl Scout Council allocation of $63,000 is up $4,700; Greater Quincy Chapter of the Red Cross, $59,047, up $2,897; Quincy YMCA, $46,500, up $1,000; Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, $26,000, no change, and the Homemaker Services of the South Shore, $10,000, up $5,000.

The South Shore Mental Health Association did not request an allocation for 1979. Last year the association received $12,000.

Other agencies to benefit from United Way allocations are the Quincy offices of the Family Service Association of Greater Boston, Greater Boston Legal Services, Children's Protective Services, the Quincy Jewish Community Center (funded through Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston) and the Corps Neighborhood Center of the Salvation Army.

The allocations are the result of year-round efforts by 113 volunteers, including three Quincy residents. Ina Harmon of Quincy a cost analyst for Boston Edison Company, is a member of the top level allocations support policies committee. Vincent Cameron of North Quincy, an engineer and investigator for Boston Edison and a member of Local 369, UWUA, is a member of the allocations review committee on neighborhood centers and camps. Cassandra Grant of Wollaston, vice president of United Investment Council, is a member of the review committee on visiting nurse and home care service.

Allocations for 1979 are based on the result of the 1978 fund raising campaign which brought in a record $19,265,711 in pledges. The campaign total from the South Region, including Quincy, was $406,821.

Ceramic Highlights
by Gloria

After having written eleven articles on some basis of the ceramic hobby, it is my hope that these articles have stimulated your interest to further investigate this exciting hobby. I recommend that you seek ceramic instructions with an accredited teacher and cultivate the knowledge to make you enjoy many years of doing ceramics. This hobby is unlimited in the variety of techniques, materials and challenges to make it a lifetime interest to you. Eventually all ceramists look to owning their own kiln for reasons of: becoming a ceramic teacher, making their own giftware, developing a family group activity or making articles for resale. Millions enjoy ceramics each and every day, I hope you are or will be one of them.

TIPS AND HINTS:
Ceramics is not a new hobby, it has been in existence for over 1,000 years. So there is a lot to learn, come to Gloria's Ceramics to see what it's all about. We would be glad to answer any of your questions, start you on lessons or maybe sell you "that kiln". Thank you for sharing these articles with me. Gloria Marshall.

WIN FABULOUS Panasonic PRIZES

Just guess how much cash we take in and give out during three months at

Gránite
your co-operative Bank

Once each month it is our practice to calculate how much cash is handled by our bank. So, we've decided to make a contest of guessing the total of our cash transactions. The period covers three months beginning February 1st and ending April 30th. If your guess is the closest we will award you first prize... a $700.00 Panasonic Console Color TV. Please be precise, and to the penny. You may guess each time you enter the bank. No deposit is necessary. Enter often. Each entry increases your chances of winning. The official contest rules are printed on the entry blanks. Take into consideration that "cash" also includes all checking transactions... and... into our total goes mortgages that are granted or payments that are made, all loans and loan payments, the bank's operating expenses, all deposits and withdrawals, the fees for traveler's checks or money orders. Any money the bank takes in or pays out will be calculated in the total. Here's a hint: Our total cash flow runs from twelve million dollars to fifteen million dollars each month.

Good Luck!

Companies Invited To Take Part In 7th S.S. Job Fair

Companies in the South Shore and Greater Boston area are invited to join in the seventh South Shore Job Fair, to be held April 7, at State Street South, North Quincy.

The event generally attracts 5,000 unemployed for the several hundred job openings available through participating companies. About 400 of the openings are filled each year.

Last year's fair alone was estimated to have generated $4.1 million in new disposable income.

Tom Connolly of Building 19, who has been a Job Fair participant over the past five years notes:

"We have had great success with the Job Fair and hired 11 top-notch people on the spot during the past two years of the fair."

Other companies have had equal success.

As a result of comments and criticism received from previous years, the South Shore Job Fair '79 will focus on affirmative action recruitment, seek out more minority, handicapped and women job applicants, and distribute the flyers dealing with the importance of attitudes, resumes and personal appearance to job applicants.

QHS, NQHS Honor Roll Change Tabled

The Quincy School Committee, after long debate at its last meeting, failed to reach a decision on a question of having a single honor roll system for Quincy High School and North Quincy High School.

Committee member Frank Anselmo finally brought the discussion to an end when he requested the matter be tabled until students, parents and teachers be given an opportunity to consider the matter further.

Secondary school coordinator Arthur Woodward reported to the committee that principals at the high schools had surveyed parents and teachers and found they favored maintaining the present system of two separate formulas.

Woodward told the committee that research into the problem has disclosed that honor rolls are not an important factor in admission to college, nor to employers.

"There are very important factors such as class standing, standardized test scores and academic grades," he said.

He also said that some students may be motivated by being on the honor roll, but research is still not definite on that point.

Supt. Crendon and Anselmo favored maintaining the present formula, but Patricia Toland, committee vice chairwoman said she favored one honor roll system for both schools. She contended that some students say it is easier to get on the honor roll at one school or the other.

Toland proposed the administration be given 60 days to return to the committee with a proposal for a single system.

Supt. Crendon and Anselmo favored maintaining the present formula, but Patricia Toland, committee vice chairwoman said she favored one honor roll system for both schools. She contended that some students say it is easier to get on the honor roll at one school or the other.

Toland proposed the administration be given 60 days to return to the committee with a proposal for a single system.

Credon said he did not need 60 days to prepare. He said he would propose the approach he had suggested in 1974 when the problem was raised. His proposal was to have both schools publish two lists of students, one each for the two formulas.

At North Quincy High School a student who causes disciplinary problems may be taken off the honor roll. At Quincy High behaviour is not considered a factor.

The main difference in the formulas is concerned with the four levels of difficulty at which courses are offered at the high schools. The levels are called basic, standard honors and advanced.

It is considered more difficult to achieve an "A" in an advanced course than in a standard course. Assignment to different levels is based on the individual ability of a student in that subject.

At North Quincy getting on the honor roll depends directly on grades without regard for the level at which the student takes the course.

The question will remain on the table at such time as a new proposal is submitted by the school administration.

Successful Season But--Rules Change Keeps Quincy Icemen Out Of Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although the Quincy hockey team missed qualifying for the state tournament for only the fifth time in Bob Sylvia's 15-year coaching reign, Sylvia felt it was a successful season for the Presidents.

"We missed out by just one point and if they hadn't changed the qualifying rules this year, we would have made it," Sylvia said following Quincy's 3-1 win last Saturday over Brookline to give it a 9-4-3 record.

"In the past ties counted as wins but this year we needed 22 points to qualify and we ended up with 21."

Quincy's key game was two weeks ago when Waltham came from behind to tie the Presidents, 3-3. A win in that game would have given them enough points.

Quincy's hopes went down the drain earlier last week when it bowed to second place Weymouth South, 6-3, as both Weymouth teams qualified for the tournament.

"Our seniors have a lot to be proud of," Sylvia added. "They are the winningest group of seniors we have had, they never lost to North Quincy, they went all the way to the state semi-finals last year and they were on television this year on 'Hockey Night in Boston.'"

Quincy had the Suburban League's top scoring line in Robbie Craig, who finished second in scoring with 34 points; Scott Richardson and Tommy Brennan, also well up in the scoring race. All are juniors and make next year's prospects bright.

"We had a lot of fine juniors this year and they will give us a fine nucleus next season," Sylvia said. "Our backup goalie, Chuck Dooley, who looked good playing the last half of the Weymouth South game, played the entire game against Brookline and almost got a shutout. He will be our goalie next year."

"This season we had one of the best goalies in the league in Jimmy Campbell and one of the best defensemen in Eastern Massachusetts in Mike Furey. Furey has been accepted at West Point, a rarity for a Vocational School student.

"The big reason for our failing to make the tournament was the lack of scoring by our second and third lines. Our first line scored about 90 percent of goals."

In the win over Brookline Jeff Giordani, Pat Clifford and Richardson scored the goals with assists for Craig, Jack Campbell, Bob Currier, John Norton and Bob Molloy.

In the costly loss to Weymouth South, Craig scored late in the first period to tie the score at 1-1 but Weymouth then scored four unanswered goals before Jack Campbell and Giordani scored. Weymouth added an open net goal late in the final period.

"It just wasn't meant to be and Weymouth South was the better team out there tonight," Sylvia said.

SUE COLEMAN of Quincy recently received her Varsity letter in tennis from Northeastern University. A freshman, she helped lead the Huskies to a 9-2 record this fall, including a 14th place finish in the N.E. tournament, Northeastern's best ever. Sue lettered in tennis and skiing three times at Quincy High, where she captained the tennis team for three years. She sported a 14-2 record in her senior year, took five Quincy tennis titles, was the 16 and under city champion in 1976 and took double honors in 1975, '76, '77 and '78.

Lewis Pleased With North's Showing

North Quincy's hockey team failed in its quest for the first winning season in many years, but the Raiders had one of the school's best seasons in some time and first-year coach Kevin Lewis is eagerly looking toward next year.

North's chances of finishing with a .500 Suburban League record were ended last Saturday when it bowed to Waltham, 6-1, giving the Raiders a final 6-8-2 Suburban League record and a 7-10-2 overall mark.

"I'm proud of this team and things are looking up for North Quincy hockey," Lewis said. "My big job early this year was to instill confidence in these kids and make them realize they could win. We had a fine streak of five wins in a row, but then we began to slip and things went a little downhill."

"We had several fine seniors who played their hearts out and the big disappointment is they never defeated Quincy. I just hope now I can get some of the fine North Quincy players to stay at North instead of going to outside schools. Too many excellent North Quincy athletes are playing at other schools."

Earlier last week North defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 4-1, with Paul Cooney, one of the league's top scorers, scoring a goal and adding two assists. Pat Ennis, Ed Marrella and Tom Gerry had the other goals.

Lewis had a chance to use all three goalies, Bob Tierney, Carl Olson and Tim McCormack and all performed well.

Lewis paid tribute to his junior varsity coach, Kevin Jago, himself a former Raider standout. This was Jago's first year as assistant coach.

- TOM SULLIVAN

Central Defeats Point, 26-23

Central Junior High boys' basketball team defeated Point, 26-23, in a close game which wasn't decided until the final seconds.

Wes Paul and Mike Burnes led Central with six points each and Peter Papile of Point was the game's high scorer with 10 points.

while Dave MacDonald scored five and played a fine all-around game.

Sterling defeated Broad Meadows, 40-34, for its first win of the season sparked by Jeff Timberlane's 18 points.

The Sterling junior varsity remained unbeaten with a 31-21 win over BM as Justin Obert and Mark Righini scored 11 points apiece.

Central topped Sterling, 28-21, with Brian O'Connor leading Sterling with seven points.

The Sterling Jayvees improved their record to 5-0 with a 25-22 win. Chris Droicchio scored 12 points and Righini nine for Sterling.

SportsNQHS Boosters To Honor Football Team At Dinner

The North Quincy High School Football Boosters Club will honor the 1978 football squad and coaches at the annual Captains Dinner Sunday, March 11, at the new school cafeteria.

Awards will be made to all players and the cheerleaders. The annual Jack Donahue watch will be given to the outstanding North player in the Quincy game and the Bill Schaezel Award will be presented by the Quincy Fathers Club to the unsung hero.

A new award this year will go to the North player showing the best sportsmanship.

Tickets have been sent home to parents of the players and all others can obtain tickets from Bill McIntyre, Mary Furlong, Betty Schaezel or Stephanie Durkin.

Colonial Merchants Sets Men's Tourney Records

The Colonial Merchants established several new tourney records in Sunday's quarter-finals of the 26th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

In a new high three string team total mark, the Colonial Merchants ousted the Perfectas by a score of 1926-1731 and included in the victory a high tourney team single of 715.

The previous high team total of 1869 was also bowled by Colonial in 1972.

In an individual scoring feat, Steve Puopolo of Colonial has bowled scores of 424-400-419 in his team's three matches to date.

Colonial's outstanding performance gave them their second tourney by entitling them to the finals March 4.

Qualifying for the tourney semi-final round next Sunday is the Monday Night Men's entry who defeated St. Mark's VFW 1782-1686 in past weekend action and the Hanover Merchants who edged John Quincy Adams 1767-1754.

The record scoring team effort by Colonial included Puopolo, 419; Jim Powers, 397; Jim Kelly, 391; Rich Bognanno, 386 and Steve McGuinness, 369.

The Perfectas scored respectably as Tim Bright led with 371, John Fitzgerald and Bob Sneider tied with 344 each, Dan O'Connell posted a 343 and Joe King, 329.

The Monday Night Men's could only win the first string by one pin but won handily in the second and third for a 96 pin triumph.

Tom Weinick paced the Monday Men with a 409, Bill Antilla had 383, Al Markella, 353, Tom Nicholson, 319 and Al Weinick, 318.

Tony Koualski was high for St. Mark's VFW with 365, Bob Krim scored 355, Stan Koualski, 346 and Dave Graham, 321.

Hanover picked up a 30-pin first string lead but could add only one in the second and hung on in the final as a stubborn John Quincy Adams team closed the game to 13 pins as time ran out.

Top scorer for Hanover was Dick Ewell with a 395, Jim Rigo, 347, Dennis Chick, 345, Gordy Leighton, 344 and Junior Torrey, 336.

Frank Nota was high for Quincy Adams with 386, Steve Cantelli had 364, Len Simes, 353, Bob Barzelav, 347 and Joe Marini, 314.

Action Continues Sunday

Wollaston Monday Women

High Rollers In Candlepin Tourney

The 24th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy opened Sunday at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome with 30 teams in action.

The Wollaston Monday Women bowled high for the day to oust the Koch Club Women, 1529-1425. As a result, Wollaston draws a bye from next Sunday's tourney competition, and returns March 4.

In the remaining matches of the day:

Supreme romped over Coffee Royals 1526-1387; State Street edged Classic Lassies 1523-1510; Lucky Strike D.C.A.S.R. defeated South Shore Bowlerettes 1515-1404; Kemper Insurance upset the four-time defending champion, Alley Kats 1499-1477.

Rag Dolls downed St. Thomas More of Braintree, 1484-1363; the Youngbloods bested the Keglerettes 1463-1432; Women Merchants outlasted the High Nooners 1452-1422; Rollerettes eliminated Bayberry Farms 1425-1373; the Pinups subdued Sacred Heart 1416-1397; the Queen Pins bested Wollaston Credit Union 1405-1363.

Parquettes topped the Sparrows 1394-1345; Eight O'clock Rollers squeezed by Wollaston D.C.A.S.R. 1383-1382; Wollaston Ladies conquered Hull Friday Morning Women 1372-1351; and the Woodshooters were victorious over St. Mark's 1352-1336.

Wollaston Women fell behind the Koch Club Women by 7 pins in the first string, but poured it on in the last two as the losers ran cold.

Patricia Bleehen led Wollaston with a 343, while Angie Mila chipped in 320 and Linda Coughlin 308. Betty Ann MacDonald with 299 was top for the losers.

Supreme jumped off to a 77-pin first string lead and coasted to an easy victory.

Marion Alibrandi showed the way for Supreme with 322, Barbara Turner had 310, and Laura Rosa 304, Sandy Brunstrom with 301 was top scorer for the losers.

State Street ran up a 50-pin lead going into the final string and needed the cushion as the losers cut the loss to 13 pins.

A consistent team attack for State Street was paced by Nancy Chomo 318, Sherry Smith 312 and Linda Alessi 308. The high scoring of Marge Crowell 325, Sandy Mezoff 320, and Flo Steeves 314 was to no avail for the losing Classic Lassies.

Lucky Strike lost the opening string by 3 pins, but then roared to an easy triumph over the losing Bowlerettes.

Liz Morgan with 333 and Maureen MacPherson's 317 topped the winners, Lois Pagnani with 305 was high for the Bowlerettes.

Kemper Insurance fell behind the Alley Kats by 35 pins in the opening string and it looked like another win for the defending champs unbeaten in four years. However, Kemper moved ahead in the second string and iced it in the final.

Janet Pumphrey with 320 sparked the winners aided by Michelle Walsh 306, and Fran Purcell 302. The Alley Kats top scorers included Joan Prezioso 320, and Marie Nestor 303.

The Rag Dolls had little trouble in topping St. Thomas More, taking each string. Dorry DeGrazi led the winning Rag Dolls with 313, Barbara DiCristafaro added 311, and Sue Burke 299. Annette Lyons was the bright light for the losers with 306.

The Youngbloods took an early 23-pin first string lead over the Keglerettes, and added 28 more in the second for their tourney win.

Sue Koss scored a 331 high for the Youngbloods while Sandy Hammill had 311, and Norma Staiti 303. Judy Nadeau was tops for the losers, scoring 302.

The Women's Merchants outscored the High Nooners in the first two strings to gain the tourney win.

Sandy Barrie posted a 305, and Ann Cusonova 309 for the winning Merchants. Jeanette Touchette with 318 was top for the Nooners.

The Rollerettes fell behind the Bayberry Farms entry by 22 pins in the first string, but came back in a big second string to gain the victory.

Ann Kasmouski with 318 paced the winners while Rose Ferris contributed a 300 score. Mary Goodwin posted a 304 for the losers.

The Pin Ups spotted Sacred Heart 30 pins in the first string but closed the gap in the second and won it in the final.

Barbara Murdock with 305 was top for the Pin Ups, and Edie Massey 295 top for the losers.

The Queen Pins captured each of the three strings from the Wollaston Credit Union.

Teresa Daly and Margaret Boothby tied for top honors for the winners with 297 each, while Sherry Mele led the losers with 293.

The Parkettes 31-pin first string win assured its opening tourney victory over the Sparrows.

Eleanor Bertrand was top for the winners scoring 297, and Anna DiNardo was high for the losers hitting a 305.

The Eight O'clock Rollers captured only one of the three strings from Wollaston, enough for a one-pin win.

Noreen Mastroiani with a 318 proved big for the winners. Kathy Marble with 301 was top for the losers.

Wollaston Ladies dropped the opener to Hull by 39 pins but came back to win.

Claire Hopkins was high for Wollaston with 308, Dot O'Hare was top with 307 for the losers.

The Woodshooters caught St. Mark's cold in the opening string to win by 32 pins and guarantee the match.

June Hillier with 280 was top for the Woodshooters. Terese Cook with 277 was high for St. Mark's.

Fourteen teams will return Sunday to continue in the elimination tourney.

McIntyre Club Rolls High 3, Single Little Loop

The James R. McIntyre Clubset new season records last week with a 1485 high team three and a 520 high single in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

Stay Alive!

ON SUICIDE

Suicide is ranked at the tenth leading cause of death overall in this country. In the 15-19 year age group, it is ranked third, and it is the second most common cause of death on college campuses.

A suicide threat should always be taken seriously! There is a common misconception that a person who threatens to commit suicide, never does. Doctors say quite the contrary is true. People who do commit suicide usually signal their intentions before they take their lives. Doctors list as high-risk potential suicides: severely depressed patients, chronically ill or isolated persons, bereaved people, people who have threatened suicide or have attempted it before.

Doctors agree that the most dangerous period may be when a depressed person who has threatened suicide suddenly becomes cheerful even though nothing has changed to warrant it. It may mean that he has finally made up his mind to take his life.

If you suspect a potential suicide, contact your physician or suicide prevention center. Trying to handle a suicidal patient yourself is folly. Professional help is needed - immediately.

Frustration For North

Quincy Wrestlers Win Sectional Crown

Quincy's outstanding wrestling team, which won its first Suburban League championship, added the South Sectional Division One title last weekend, dominating the tournament at Plymouth-Carver High School with 192 points, the highest ever compiled by a Quincy team.

The Presidents took three division titles, three second places, and three thirds, all nine qualifying for the state championships Friday and Saturday at Chelmsford.

Winning division championships were Steve Venturilli, 140 pounds; Rennie Crowe, 147, and Kurt Braun, 157.

Second places were taken by Steve Notarangelo, 121; Jim Mullarkey, 134, and Tony Akoury 188.

Finishing third were junior Martin Doyle, 114; sophomore John Herald, 128, and junior Mike Gordon, 169.

North Quincy's undermanned team finished seventh in Division Two and five Raiders qualified for the state championships Friday and Saturday at Berkshire Community College in Pittsfield.

Qualifying were Steve Sweet, 121 pounds; Rich Donna, 128; Gino Pillard, 134; Dave Howley, 140, and John Gorczyca, 188.

Quincy had finished its regular season by rolling over undermanned Marshfield, 53-5, to finish with a 19-1 overall record and an 8-0 league mark.

The Presidents won five matches by default. Notarangelo at 121 pounds, Mike Shea at 134, Frank McManus at 140, Kurt Braun at 189 and Caffisch in the heavy weight class.

Other winners were Ron DiCesare, 100 pounds; Paul Orlando, 114; Venturilli, 147; and Joe Callahan, 157. Don Barnard was the only loser at 107 pounds.

North Quincy, hampered by an undermanned squad and forced to forfeit several matches, ended a frustrating season by nipping Cohasset, 29-28, thanks to John Gorczyca's win at 189 pounds.

The win gave the Raiders a 4-13 record.

Other North winners were Liam Cataldo at 100 pounds; Steve Sweet, 122; Rich Donna, 129; Gino Pillard, 135; and Dave Howley, 141.

Flyers Qualify For E-Mass Tourney

The Quincy Flyers, defending champions of the South Shore Division of the South Shore Hockey League, have qualified and entered the first Eastern Mass. Amateur Tournament which will open March 3 at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

The Flyers, currently two points behind Bridgewater but with a game in hand, will play either Cohasset or Weymouth in the opening round of the double-elimination event.

The top teams in Eastern Mass. will compete and all had to win 70 percent of their games to qualify. The Quincy Panthers lost their chance of qualifying last week when they bowed to West Roxbury.

Coach Jerry O'Rourke and

General Manager Bob Pistorino feel the Flyers, with such Quincy luminaries as Dennis Bertoni and Kevin Jago, have a good chance to win the tournament crown.

The Flyers last Sunday belted Hingham, 10-1, and will play Neponset Sunday night at 7:30 at Hingham.

The Panthers will face the Quincy sabres at 9.

St. Joseph's Goliath A's Win 10th

The St. Joseph's Goliath A team improved its record to 10-0 in the South Shore YMCA Church Basketball League with a 26-18 win over St. Thomas More.

Billy Foley led all scorers with 12 points, while Chuck Jaehnis, Chris Shaughnessy and Jim Quinn had four apiece. Jim Jaehnis played a strong defensive game, Jim Bandera had eight rebounds and Billy Harte, John Comer, and Joe Godfrey played well. Jim Smith paced the losers with 10 points.

St. Joseph's will finish its league season Saturday against Temple Beth El.

In the Goliath Division all-star game the Quincy stars walloped the Braintree stars, 42-13.

The team was comprised of at least one player from each team and included Foley and Jim Jaehnis from St. Joseph's A, Tom Scolaro and Dennis McCafferty, St. Joseph's B; Eric Green, Bethany; Doug Berman, Temple Beth El; Adam McGhee, Point Cong.; Ted Coffey, St. Thomas More, and Brian Rapalje, Wollaston Nazarene. Mark Jaehnis was the coach.

Green had 10 points for Quincy, Scolaro had seven, Jaehnis and Berman six apiece, McGhee five, Foley, McCafferty and Rapalje two. Coffey came up with three outstanding blocked shots.

Mite A's Down Braintree

Quincy's Mite A team defeated Braintree, 4-2, Sunday and remained unbeaten (16-0-0) in the South Shore Conference.

Jay Rodriguez had two goals and Bobby Roche and Billy Connolly one each. Shawn O'Neil, Jimmy Lamparelli and Connolly had assists.

North Track Team 5th In Class C Tourney

North Quincy's track team, the youngest in Coach Lou Tozzi's coaching career, finished fifth in Monday's state Class C championships at Reading.

The only Raiders to score were John McGuigan, second in the mile with a 4:32.1 timing, and Tim O'Neill, second in the 300 at 35.2. The relay team turned in its best time, 3:46.3, but missed placing by a tenth of a second.

The young Raiders, finishing 4-3 in the Suburban League, had made an excellent showing in the Suburban League championship meet.

No team scores were kept in the league meet but the Raiders had three individual winners, more than any other school.

"I was very pleased because none of our runners were top rated in their events," Tozzi said.

Junior Bob Biagini, who had the fifth fastest time in the league, won the hurdlers in 7.0.

Bob Ferrara won the high jump at 5-8, surprising Tozzi and Tim O'Neill won the 600, upsetting the favored Dennis Doucette of Brockton. His time of 1:20.0 nipped Doucette by eight-tenths of a second.

Other North scorers were John McGuigan, second in the 1000; Dan McIntyre, fourth in the 300, and Jackie Leone, fifth in the high jump.

North finished its dual meet season last week with a 59-35 non-league win over Boston English at the fantastic new Boston University track, one of the fastest in the country. The Raiders finished 6-3 overall.

McGuigan won the 600 in 1:17.6, the fastest for any North runner in Tozzi's five-years as coach. O'Neill won the 300, John Barrett won the two-mile and the relay team of O'Neill, McIntyre, Mastroiilli and McGuigan won in 3:38, a new school record.

Tom Quinn was second and Mastroiilli third in the 50. McIntyre was third in the 300, Jim Alban third in the 600, Jim Coughlin second and Joe MacDonald third in the 1000. Mike Ricciutti second and Jerry McCormick third in the mile. Biagini second in the hurdles, Leone second in the high jump and Lou DiPietro third in the shot put.

The Raiders saved one of their best performances for their last league meet, a 45-41 win over Cambridge Latin which moved North into fourth place with a 4-3 record.

The Cambridge meet went down to the relay with the Raiders' Tim O'Neill, John McGuigan, Dan McIntyre and Steve Mastroiilli winning in 3:47.7, the fastest time of the year, to elicit the win.

McGuigan, who has had an outstanding season after coming back from an injury, won the 1000. O'Neill won the 600 in 1:19.8, the first Raider to break 1:20 at the Newton track since North joined the league. McIntyre won the 300 in 35.7, the fastest time of the night and the third fastest in the league this year. Bob Ferrara won the high jump at 5:10 with Jackie Leone second and O'Neill third, and Bob Biagini won the hurdles.

Joe McDonald was third in the mile. Jim Coughlin finished second but was disqualified. Paul White took second in the shot put. Mike Ricciutti was second and John Barrett third in the two mile and Tom Quinn was second in the dash.

In their previous meet the Raiders had rolled over Waltham, 59-24.

Coughlin won the mile. McGuigan the 100. O'Neill the 600. McIntyre the 300. White the shot put. Biagini the hurdles. Quinn the dash and the relay team of O'Neill, Biagini, Mastroiilli and McIntyre also won.

"I am really pleased with the way these kids have come along and we should be in good shape next year," Tozzi said.

Presidents Win 2 Big Ones

The Quincy basketball team, faced with the task of winning its last four games to make the state tournament, won two big ones on the road last week and Tuesday night met North Quincy.

The Presidents were scheduled to wind up their season at Oliver Ames of North Easton.

Quincy defeated North and Oliver Ames earlier but Coach Joe Amoroso was wary about both opponents.

"North has improved since our last game and has been playing fine ball and Oliver Ames is one of the top clubs in the Hockmuck League and will be awfully hard to beat over there," Amoroso said.

The Presidents picked up one of their most important wins last Friday when they defeated Weymouth North, 54-40, to tie the Maroons for second place in the Suburban League.

Actually, if Quincy repeated its earlier win over North Quincy Tuesday it would qualify for the tournament even if it lost at North Easton, because it would finish at least tied for second place in the league and both the Presidents and Maroons would qualify.

After a 10-10 first period, Quincy took a 24-18 lead at the half at Weymouth and still held a 32-27 edge after three periods. The Presidents won going away by outscoring the Maroons, 22-13, in the final session.

"I can't tell you how happy I am for the kids," a happy Amoroso said. "Words can't describe it. They refuse to give up and they are playing tough defense. That is a good Weymouth North team. We've come a long way and had to win a tough one at Waltham and again here at Weymouth."

Quincy's pressure defense resulted in 11 steals. The Presidents hit on 50 percent of its shots from the floor with Brian Donovan, the league's number three scorer, scoring 18 points, hitting on seven of 10 and did most of his damage in the big final quarter. Steve Priscella had 14 points and seven rebounds, while Mike Connolly and Jeff Connerty had 11 rebounds each and controlled the boards.

Earlier in the week Quincy came from behind to top Waltham, 55-49, as Donovan scored 22 points, eight in the final period. Connerty scored 16 points and Connolly and Capt. Dana Guidice played outstanding games.

Waltham led by six points midway in the third period.

Quincy Girls Win Pair, North Upsets Waltham

The Quincy girls' basketball team missed a chance to qualify for the state tournament but continued to play excellent ball last week with two wins to improve its Suburban League record to 9-6 and its overall mark to 11-7.

The First Ladies, with only one senior in the starting lineup and prospects bright for next year, ended their season Tuesday against North Quincy.

Last Friday Barbara Webster's team came from behind with a strong press in the final period to edge Weymouth North, 55-52.

Weymouth held a 26-18 halftime lead but Quincy, led by Karen Murphy and Maureen Walsh on defense, forced several turnovers and capitalized on them.

Linda Brennan scored 12 points, six in the final period, Sue Callahan and Laura Riley had 11 apiece.

Earlier in the week Quincy waltered over Waltham, 67-40, as Callahan scored 19 points and Murphy had 17. Every Quincy player contributed to the scoring.

Meanwhile, Brian Tilley's luckless North Quincy girls upset Waltham, 32-28, Friday for their second win of the year. The Raiderettes (2-14) finished up against Quits Tuesday.

Julie Watts and Faith Lindberg scored in the final minute of play to provide the winning points.

Cheryl Ayles had eight points and Patti Bellotti, one of the Suburban League's top scorers, and Patti Micelli had six each.

Millane Sparks North With 30 Points

The North Quincy basketball team, with a 7-10 record, ended its season Tuesday and it had a chance to put the kibosh on Quincy's state tournament hopes.

If the Raiders, who had been playing excellent ball, avenged an earlier 10-point defeat at the hands of the Presidents, Quincy would not qualify for the tournament.

North last Friday came from behind in the last 45 seconds to defeat Waltham, 65-59, as sophomore Mark Millane, enjoying a brilliant season, hit for 30 points, high for the season.

Waltham's Hawks held a 48-45 lead after three periods and North trailed until Jim Holleran, number two scorer in the Suburban League, tied the score with 45 seconds left. Rich Keenan then stole the ball and scored and the Raiders clinched the win with two foul shots.

Holleran scored 14 points and Kevin Cobban and Mark Roberts turned in strong defensive games.

Earlier in the week Eddie Miller's Raiders, after winning two games the previous week, dropped a 50-48 decision to Newton on a basket by Joe Fucci at the buzzer.

North trailed by four points with two minutes to play but baskets by Holleran and Millane tied it up, setting the stage for Newton's winning hoop as the buzzer sounded.

Holleran had 18 points, Millane added 14 and Cobban had 11. Millane and Billy O'Connell pulled down eight rebounds each.

Baseball Umpire Clinics To Be Held In March

The South Shore Umpires Association will conduct rules interpretation clinics for anyone interested in becoming a baseball umpire.

The clinics will be held Thursday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

ENC Graduate Named Bethlehem Steel President

Richard F. Schubert, a 1958 cum laude graduate of Eastern Nazarene College, has been named president and a director of Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Also a graduate of Yale Law School, he joined Bethlehem Steel in 1961 and was appointed assistant manager of labor relations in 1966.

He served as executive assistant to James D. Hodgson, former Under Secretary of Labor, in 1970; Solicitor of the Department of Labor in 1971, and Under Secretary of Labor in 1973.

He returned to Bethlehem Steel in 1975 and served in the public affairs department as assistant vice president and as vice president in 1977.

Schubert received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Eastern Nazarene College in 1977.

RICHARD F. SCHUBERT

1975. He is a trustee of the College, past president of the school's alumni association and has been active in church affairs.

A resident of Easton, Pa., he is married and has two children.

Dr. Edward Roberts Opens Quincy Chiropractic Office

Dr. Edward G. Roberts has opened an office for chiropractic practice at 25 Thayer St., Quincy Center.

Dr. Roberts is a graduate of Life Chiropractic College, Atlanta, Ga., and has a degree in business administration from University of Miami.

In addition to office hours Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 to 12 and 2 to 7 p.m., and Tuesday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, Roberts also conducts a health talk at his office every Monday at 7:30 p.m. The talk is open to the public.

"Chiropractic care is often misunderstood and as a consequence is overlooked as a health care service," Roberts said.

He points out that the practice has been recognized by Medicare and the Veterans Administration. President Carter, he said, has signed a bill which states that after 1980 all federal employees insurance will cover chiropractic services.

DeWolfe Realtors Presents Sales Awards

The annual awards banquet of DeWolfe Realtors, Milton, was held recently at the Wollaston Golf Course with Richard B. DeWolfe, president of the firm, presenting 1978 awards.

Thomas Sweeney of Medfield, was named "Top Sales Associate of 1978" in recognition of listing, selling, and referral excellence, plus outstanding contributions to the company.

The Milton office, Evelyn Kelley, vice president, was presented the award as "Sales Center of the Year." Frank Piekarski of the Canton office was named "Top Selling Associate" and Milton Falkson, also of Canton, received the "Top Listing Associate" award.

"Million Dollar Awards" were presented to Norma Glynn, Dorothy Buckley, Marcia Carter, Mary Mullen, Evelyn Kelley and Norma Glynn, of the Milton Office; Barbara Tarasiewicz and Fran Piekarski of the Canton office; Thomas Sweeney and Robert Vollmuth of the Medfield Office.

Gold DeWolfe pins were presented to Norma Glynn, Dorothy Buckley, Mary Mullen and Dorothy Fahey in recognition of their professionalism and outstanding efforts.

An award for "Most Incoming Relocation Sales" went to Dorothy Noland and Thomas Sweeney of Medfield was presented the award for "Most Outgoing Relocation Referrals".

Over 45 associates and employees participated in a "thank you" drawing at the conclusion of the evening of dining and dancing. The prizes included a savings bond, real estate education course and a five day trip to Puerto Rico.

John Tolson V.P., Gen. Mgr. In Quinoid Reorganization

John E. Tolson has been elected vice president and general manager of Quinoid Industries, 10 McGrath Highway, Quincy.

Tolson has been manager of subsidiaries since 1968.

His election and the election and promotion of four others is part of the reorganization of Quinoid under the direction of William R. Prang, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Also elected were Donald R. Schroeder, vice president supply and sales, formerly sales manager since 1976; L. Allen Speir, vice president and controller, has been controller since July, 1978; Mrs. Mary G. Harding, general credit manager, was retail credit manager, and Arthur W. Lathrop, general accounting manager, has been computer manager since 1965.

Fred E. Bergfors is president of the company.

At this rate everyone will want a Money Market Certificate.

This rate is effective through February 28, 1979.

It's a good time to ask about our 6-month Money Market Certificates.

It's a good time to ask about our other Savings Plans, too.

Minimum deposit $10,000.

The rate shown is an annual rate; however, the maturity of the Certificate is 26 weeks, and the rate is subject to change at renewal. This offer may be withdrawn at any time without prior notice.

If funds are withdrawn before maturity, Federal regulations require that the interest rate be lowered to the then current passbook rate and that 90 days' interest at that rate be forfeited.

Cerasoli Seeks Drug-Free Detoxification Program

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) has filed a bill that would establish a drug-free detoxification demonstration program for the treatment of alcoholics.

"Most ambulatory chronic alcoholics can safely be detoxified without using psychoactive drugs," said Cerasoli, quoting from a report by the American Medical Society.

"Some of the advantages of the drug-free approach would be that high salaried physicians and registered nurses would not have to be present, the detoxified period would be shortened to a few days and there would be no side effects from the drugs."

The legislation is co-sponsored by the National Alliance on Alcoholism Prevention and Treatment.

Hospital Rates Up 10% Effective Thursday

Rates at Quincy City Hospital are going up 10 per cent today [Thursday] in an effort to make up an expected shortfall of some $3 million for the current fiscal year.

The rate hike is expected to bring in about $300,000 by July 1.

Rates on intensive care will go up 25 per cent and some ancillary charges will be hiked an average of 23 per cent but services such as surgery will not go up.

The rate change was voted by the Board of Managers Monday night, only six days after it was approved by the State Rate Setting Commission.

Black Woman Applicant

7 Candidates Seeking QHA Commission Post

By TOM HENSHAW

A black woman is among seven candidates who have applied for the state-appointed post on the Quincy Housing Authority that opens March 18 when Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg's five-year term expires.

She is Mrs. Lolita C. Harris, 52, of 185 Quincy Shore Drive, North Quincy, who since 1964 has been employed as secretary to the State Public Works Commission.

Others who have applied for the unpaid post include:

- Mrs. Wahlberg, who lives at 264 Southern Artery and heads the Quincy Community Action Organization. She is currently chairwoman of the QHA Board of Commissioners.

- David J. Crowley Jr. of 882 Sea St., Houghs Neck, son of the late City Councillor David J. Crowley, and himself an unsuccessful candidate for the Council in the 1977 election.

- Hugo Fabrizio of 11 Emerald St., West Quincy, proprietor of Flip's Oil Service, who was ousted by Mayor Tobin from the Board of Assessors last October.

- James St. Angelo Jr. of 14 Sextant Circle, Germantown, a

LaRaia Sues City For $5,000 In Vacation Pay

Former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia has brought suit against the city of Quincy for $5,000 he claims is due him for vacation time not taken during the two years he was in office.

The suit, filed in Quincy District Court, asserts that "as a department head he was entitled to annual vacations" but was unable to take them during his term as Mayor in 1976 and 1977.

LaRaia is asking $5,000 for the eight weeks vacation not taken plus interest, costs and attorneys fees. The Mayor's annual salary is $25,000 a year or $50,000 for a two-year term.

City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming said the city probably will file a motion to dismiss the suit based on the fact that LaRaia was paid for his services as specified by ordinance.

LaRaia applied for the unpaid vacation pay when he left office in January, 1978, but the request was turned down.

House Again Votes 21-Year Drinking Age

The State House of Representatives voted for the second time Tuesday to raise the drinking age in Massachusetts to 21 in phased steps. The decision confirmed a vote of two weeks ago.

The bill was sent on to the Senate, which earlier voted to raise the drinking age to 19. If the Senate once again votes the 19-year limit, the bills will have to go to committee for compromise.

Quincy's three state representatives, Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli and Michael Morrissey voted for the bill Tuesday.

Board Warns Theater On Smoking, Drinking Ban

By PETER BARNICKE

The Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday cautioned the operator of the Strand Theater, Chestnut St., Quincy Sq., to strictly enforce the ban on smoking and drinking in the theater and warned that action will be taken if the law is not strictly enforced.

Joseph O'Conner, theater operator, said that smoking is only permitted in the outer lobby, but teenagers constantly try to smoke in the theater. He said he ejected anyone found smoking.

Police Sgt. Thomas Nolan, who has worked special details at the theater, testified that on a recent Saturday he removed 20 to 25 youths for smoking.

"Some of them had half pints and were drinking," he said. He also told the board O'Conner helped him in locating some of the culprits.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said the fire inspection bureau will be notified to maintain a watch on theater patrons and added that "smoking in a theater is a felony."

Barry suggested that the arrest of some of the violators might convince others to take the law seriously.

"A fire in a theater," he said, "I don't even want to think about it."

The board assured O'Conner they were aware of the problem and his cooperation in seeking a solution.

In other action the board:

- Voted to have a hand-delivered letter sent to James P. Kearney requesting his appearance to discuss the license issued to LeDisco, 79 1/2 Parkingway, Quincy. The board is concerned that plans show a bar in the basement which is not covered by the license.

- Continued for two weeks a request of Highway Auto Body, 481 Quincy Ave., for an auto body repair license and a permit to store 250 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars. The board wants to hear from owners of the property regarding alleged irregularities in conforming with fencing regulations. In the meantime Daniel N. Antonelli, owner of Highway Auto Body, was given a temporary license to carry on his business.

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to the Quincy Historical Society for a reception Saturday, March 24, 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the

RUGGED ICESCAPE is left behind by the side of Quincy Shore Drive after Monday abnormally high tide, fed by winds and sleet, receded from Wollaston Beach. [Quincy Sun Photos by Steve Grochowski]

ICE AND SNOW failed to stop Richard Daukantas of 96 Curlew Rd., Adams Shore, as he rode his bicycle to work Monday at the Colonial 1600 Restaurant in Quincy Center.

ICE CAKES, used as battering rams by the unusually high tides, wrought heavy damage to the seaward porch of the Wollaston Yacht Club during the storm that struck Quincy on Monday.

At Least 32 Applicants

Hiring Carpenter Becomes Major Project For QHA

Hiring a carpenter to fill a vacancy has become a major project for the Quincy Housing Authority.

The QHA Board of Commissioners decided Monday night to hold a pre-interview meeting tonight (Thursday) to try to pare down a list of at least 32 applicants.

At that meeting, it will be decided when the candidates will be interviewed.

The interview team will consist of the five commissioners, two members of the Harborview Residents Committee, two representatives of the Senior Residents Council, the superintendent of maintenance and the administrator.

Commissioner Carmine D'Olimpio and James St. Angelo, chairman of the Harborview Residents Committee, the tenants' organization, clashed briefly when St. Angelo wanted equal representation with the board.

"The regulations state that the tenants have input but we have the final vote," said D'Olimpio. "We can't have 17 or 18 people interviewing one person. It is the duty of the commissioners to perform this function."

St. Angelo then asked if other members of the HRC could sit in and watch the interviews.

"If I were applying for a job and I had to face 40 or 50 people, I'd walk out," said Commissioner Alphonse Papile. "I wouldn't want the job."

A carpenter's job with the QHA pays $17,805 a year.

$161,299 Grant Awarded To DOVE For Shelter Staff, Support Service

By MARY WEAVER

A grant of $161,299 has been awarded to DOVE, Inc. (Domestic Violence Ended) under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

The grant will provide for 15 persons to staff a shelter and hot line for battered women as well as provide necessary support services such as counseling, referrals, and advocacy work.

DOVE has operated a shelter and hot line for battered women living in Norfolk County since early fall, 1978.

"The shelter and hot line have been successfully operated by volunteers who have selflessly dedicated hundreds of hours to DOVE," a spokeswoman said. "The CETA grant will build upon and complement the volunteers' efforts and insure staffing of the shelter for the next 52 weeks. Of course, volunteers will continue to play the major role in setting policy and overseeing the operation of the shelter and hot line."

A major component of the CETA grant is in-service training of the staff. Representatives from the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office and DOVE volunteers are currently providing intensive training, for crisis intervention and shelter management. The staff will be responsible to DOVE's Board and receive continuous training and supervision.

In applying for the grant, DOVE notes that the limited statistics available on domestic violence "are startling." The shelter has already housed over 50 families, hundreds of calls have been handled by the hot line, and the few well-publicized cases of domestic violence represent only a fraction of the episodes of domestic violence. DOVE also points out that in addition to providing staff to manage the emergency shelter and hot line facilities, support services must be provided to offer longer term solutions to the problem of domestic violence. Therefore, major responsibilities of the staff will be to provide counseling, establish support, make referrals, and provide advocacy work with the courts.

Since it is only recently that domestic violence has been recognized as a serious social problem, there are few agencies with the expertise to deal with the problem, it was noted.

Working with other agencies such as police, hospitals, and social service agencies to insure that the victims of domestic violence receive adequate services will be an important component of DOVE's work.

Since the statistics on domestic violence are limited, DOVE will be maintaining records and files which will aid in identifying the causes of domestic violence and the effectiveness of alternative courses of action.

"It is anticipated that DOVE will be able to help other groups in the state who are beginning to develop a program to assist victims of domestic abuse," stated a DOVE spokesperson.

"We are grateful to receive this grant from CETA to continue aiding women from Norfolk County who have been physically abused," stated the spokeswoman. "We hope that we can encourage more battered women to seek help in dealing with their problems and can establish a prototype service for battered women."

The grant was scheduled to begin Monday. Those interested in obtaining more information should contact DOVE's business office, 471-5087.

Shelly Burge Awarded

Library 100-Hour Volunteer Pin

Shelly Burge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burge, 38 Bell St., Houghs Neck, has been awarded a 100-hour pin for volunteer work at the Houghs Neck branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Shelly, a fifth grade student at Great Hill School, is one of the youngest volunteers at the library, having started her duties while still in the fourth grade.

"She completed her 100 hours in a little over a year," according to Helen G. Boyajian, branch librarian. "She tackled repetitive and tedious assignments such as shelving, revising books in alphabetical and numerical order. She did these chores with enthusiasm and good humor. We hope she will continue for 200 hours."

Several volunteer girls at the branch have completed 200 hours and one has completed 500 hours.

Linda Viegas On Dean's List

Linda Viegas of 95 Butler Rd., Quincy, has been named to the dean's list at Brandeis University.

Miss Viegas, a theatre arts major, is a member of the Quincy Community Theater, serving as technical director and production manager of several plays. She is the secretary of the Quincy Community Theatre Board of Directors.

Requirements for Deans list honors are a semester average of 3.5 or higher with no grade less than a B+.

Karen Aniolowski Joins Germantown QCA Staff

Karen Aniolowski of Quincy has joined the Quincy Community Action staff at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.

Mrs. Aniolowski will be a Department of Community Affairs Volunteer and will compile material for an information and referral handbook. She will also assist in the parent-child advocacy program.

She's Seen A Lot Of Changes

Dorothy Newton Retiring After 42 Years As Librarian, Hopes To Get In Some Reading

By PETER BARNICE

Librarians are rarely involved in police investigations, but Dorothy Newton, assistant director of Quincy's Thomas Crane Public Library, was called on recently by Cohasset police.

After recovering some $250,000 in stolen property police found among the loot several books belonging to the Quincy library.

"They were books on antique silver and oriental rugs," Miss Newton recalled. "I had to go down to Cohasset to identify them and claim them. These people were really doing their homework."

The pair arrested in connection with the theft of all that loot from South Shore homes will not, however, be charged with theft of the books.

"The books were properly charged out to a cardholder. They were overdue, but a first notice had not even been sent out," she said.

Dorothy Newton will retire March 30, after 42 years working in all departments of the library.

"I think all of her colleagues will join with me when I say we are losing a very valuable member of our staff," said Warren Watson, director of the Thomas Crane Library.

"She tends to appear shy, but she is very effective," Watson said. "She has the talent of being completely sympathetic and she can very tactfully instruct a person if she thinks that person is wrong. She is a good supervisor and does not hesitate to reprimand when she sees something being handled improperly."

Miss Newton is a lifelong resident of Quincy. She was born on Kendrick Ave., South Quincy, and graduated from Quincy High School. In 1936 she received her bachelor of arts in library science from Simmons College and six months later joined the library staff.

"Over the years I've seen a lot of changes," Miss Newton said. "When I first came there were 12 branches, or book deposits, some of them in schools and some in stores. They were mainly for people who wanted to pick up books or return them."

The arrival of television in the early '50s had a decided affect on people's reading habits and on the circulation of books. Twenty years ago the Thomas Crane Library was circulating over 700,000 books a year; that figure has now dropped by five percent.

"That's not a significant figure," said Miss Newton. "And despite that the library is more active than ever before. It's actually humming with activity. Sometimes every seat in the reading room is occupied."

The library has introduced a number of services which attract people. Miss Newton has seen the introduction of a recording collection which is available for circulation; an art collection which is available on a monthly loan basis and lecture programs.

"We also have an extensive reference collection. Many people come in to make use of our business services and their is a steady call for the law collection of legal reference books," said Miss Newton.

The library has a large collection of magazines and periodicals which are in constant demand.

"We have most of the popular magazines such as the news weeklies, and 'Ladies Home Journal', 'Better Homes and Gardens' and the like," she said. "Now, with inflation and the skyrocketing prices, we have also included some of the more expensive publications such as 'Town and Country', 'Antiques', 'Gourmet' and 'Fortune'. They attract a number of readers who cannot afford to buy them."

"A lot of people come in to use our reference works in the Richardson building. They include not only students, but other people who find them of invaluable assistance in checking on business and law problems," she said.

The library does not have a rare book section, but has found it necessary to keep some volumes off the open-shelves to prevent theft.

"Auto repair manuals and other books on do-it-yourself subjects have a way of disappearing, so we just keep them aside and loan them out when they are requested by a card holder," she explained.

The Thomas Crane Library has no problem with censorship, although Miss Newton recalls one episode back in 1940.

"The library purchased a novel in which the common term for referring to illegitimacy was used," she said. "That was shocking enough for the head librarian to decree that the book should be put in the 'office collection' under lock and key. Anyone over 18 had to have written permission from a parent. Nobody ever questioned the circulation of Shakespeare."

"One day we were struck with terror. We were tipped off that an assistant attorney general was on his way to Quincy to impound copies of Lillian Smith's 'Strange Fruit' and Erskine Caldwell's 'God's Little Acre'. The librarian swept the books off the shelves and into his closet. All cards were removed from the catalogue and the shelf list."

"The attorney general's man turned out to be a big, handsome blonde with military bearing and the manner of a Hitler storm trooper. We greeted him with wide-eyed innocence and he left empty handed."

"People may wince at the modern language that is used in books today, but they have stopped complaining," she commented.

Now that she's about to retire Miss Newton hopes to Feminists indicate that women's liberation incorporates men's liberation as well. Things that were traditionally thought of as feminine are not any more. Men can wear jewelry now without having their masculinity questioned. With new emphasis on the vested suit, pocket watches and pins are becoming fashionable again. In addition, men can easily wear bracelets, chain necklaces and carry jeweled money clips. However, when looking at photographs of costumes throughout the years, you will notice that men have always bedecked themselves with jewelry, easily as much as women. We hope you'll take notice of the fine selection of men's, as well as women's, jewelry we have on display at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. You are welcome to come in and browse, whether or not you are presently looking for a piece of fine jewelry. Browse, too, in our new shop next door, "Something Special", where we have fine greeting cards and hard to find gift items. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. HELPFUL HINT: The diamond seems to be the favorite stone of most men.

Save it for later.

Money aside, a savings account still makes sense.

- Put up to $1500 a year aside for your retirement.
- You could earn enough money for an extra cushion.

An Individual Retirement Account at Quincy Savings Bank makes a lot of sense. Not only do you get a federal tax-exemption now; you get more money later. To supplement your Social Security. To make your retirement years more relaxing.

If you qualify, you can put up to $1,500 a year in an IRA account and you may have the financial cushion you want, if you don't have any other pension or retirement plan now.

We'd certainly like to open your account soon, at any of our five REDi-BANKSM offices in Quincy: 371 Hancock Street, 1200 Hancock Street, 1374 Hancock Street, 138 Franklin Street, 461 Washington Street or in Hanover, Rte. 53 and Broadway.

Gerard Coletta Elected Park-Recreation Board Chairman

Gerard A. Coletta, Jr. of 96 Gardiner Rd., West Quincy, was elected chairman of the Park and Recreation Board at the annual reorganization meeting of the board Monday night at the Park Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery, Morrymount Park.

Coletta has been a member of the board for 17 years having first been selected by the City Council June 1, 1962 when the original Park Board and Recreation Commission were merged.

Coletta is employed as Chief Executive Assistant in the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office in Dedham. He has been vice-chairman of the Board since 1976.

Joseph E. Burke, chairman of the board for the past seven years and also a City Council selection on the panel for 11 years, declined the nomination again this year noting additional business and community commitments. He expressed his thanks to the members for their past confidence and cooperation in the expansion and improvements of Park and Recreation facilities and programs.

Theodore DeCristofaro was elected vice-chairman of the commission, a position he had held previously. Miss Katherine G. McCoy, a member of the Park and Recreation Board and Commission for 28 years, was re-elected secretary of the board.

The board was increased from seven to nine members in 1978 when Mayor Arthur H. Tobin introduced legislation to allow greater citizen involvement in government and assure representation from each ward in the city on municipal park and recreation policy.

The six members reappointed Feb. 5, are: Francis Donovan, Ward 1. DeCristofaro, Ward 2. Miss McCoy, Ward 3. Mrs. Barbara Righini, Ward 4. Mr. Richard Morrissey, Ward 5 and Joseph Lydon, Ward 6.

The three members chosen at large and re-elected by the City Council Jan. 16, are: Coletta, Burke and Christopher Kennedy, a representative from the Quincy School Committee, required in the legislation.

Richard J. Koch, director of the Park Department, announced that the three new trucks had arrived replacing 1969, 1970 and 1973 models. Two are equipped with four wheel drive to assist in snow fighting, plow operations or other municipal emergency work as the need arises. The third truck is a replacement for the Park Department Carpenter in his city wide duties on Park and Recreation Facilities.

In the spring, summer and fall seasons, the vehicles are utilized by the Park Department in the maintenance of Park and Recreation Facilities throughout the city.

Funeral Thursday For John A. Conroy, 68, Retired Welfare Supervisor

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today [Thursday] at Sacred Heart Church, Quincy, for John A. Conroy, 68, of Rawson Rd., Quincy, a retired supervisor for the department of public welfare.

Mr. Conroy died Monday at Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Born in Quincy, he attended Quincy public schools and graduated from Boston College in 1932. He later received his master's degree in social work from the same college.

Until his retirement seven years ago he was employed for 20 years as supervisor of social workers at the department of public welfare.

He was an army veteran of World War II and was a member of North Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by two brothers, Michael F. Conroy of Wollaston, and Philip A. Conroy of North Quincy; and four sisters, Helen E. Balducci of Quincy, Mary E. Burns of Yarmouth, Margaret J. Ludwick of Wichita, Kans., and Grace C. Leary of Somerville.

Funeral arrangements are by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Funeral services for Dr. Sidney R. Cooperband, 47, of Milton, formerly of Wollaston, director of the Hubert H. Humphrey Cancer Research Center at Boston University School of Medicine, were held Monday at Temple Shalom, Milton.

Dr. Cooperband, a researcher in tumor immunology, died Saturday at University Hospital, Boston, after a long illness. Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon.

His father, Paul Cooperband, operated the Old Corner

Drugstore at Hancock and Beach Sts., Wollaston, for many years.

Dr. Cooperband was a graduate of Harvard and received his medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He also studied in Sweden under a Fulbright scholarship.

He was a professor of medicine and microbiology at the BU School of Medicine for the past three years and was a director of immunology at University Hospital since 1973.

He was author or co-author of more than 100 scientific articles and papers on tumor immunology. Most of his research was aimed at finding ways to manipulate the immune system to improve its ability to kill cancer cells.

In 1970 he was presented the Frances Stone Burns Award of the American Cancer Society, Massachusetts Division, for the most imaginative cancer research project of the previous year.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Selma [Sereisky] Cooperband; three children, Robert, Leslie and Susan; his mother, Adele of Winthrop and a brother, Alvin of Santa Monica, Calif.

Herbert B. Chaddock, 75, Retired Owner Of Grocery Stores

the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home, 516 Washington St., Braintree, for Herbert B. Chaddock, 75, of Bloomfield St., Squantum, retired owner of Chaddock's grocery stores in Quincy and Milton.

Mr. Chaddock died Sunday at Carney Hospital, Dorchester. Rev. James K. Allen, pastor of the First Parish Church, Dorchester, will officiate at the service.

Born in Milton, Mr. Chaddock lived in Quincy most of his life.

He was a 1926 graduate of Boston University. He was a life-time honorary member of the Quincy Tennis Club and a former treasurer of the club. He was also active in tennis, hockey and baseball programs in Quincy.

Husband of the late Isabel [Pearson] Chaddock, he is survived by a son, David B. Chaddock of Seattle, Wash.; a daughter, Nancy I. Chaddock of Quincy; a brother, Franklin Chaddock of Fallbrook, Calif., and one grandchild.

$600 To Feed Hungry Lenten Goal of First Squantum Church

The Board of Missions of The First Church of Squantum announces plans to raise $600 to help feed the hungry this year.

The goal is six times what the church contributed to that cause last year.

The money will be collected in various ways during the next few weeks as a Lenten discipline. It will be offered March 25 in a special offering called "One Great Hour of Sharing."

The campaign is sponsored by the United Church of Christ to aid the hungry and to care for those in distress throughout the world.

The Board of Missions at First Church includes Gloria Cutler, Barbara Walter, Mary Gifford, Genevieve Todd, Chairman and Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor.

At Bethany Church

Ceylon Minister Keynote Speaker For World Day of Prayer Friday

Rev. W. Dayalan Niles, a native of Sri Lanka (Ceylon), will speak on "Spiritual Growth," theme of the March 2 World Day of Prayer for Church Women United in Quincy.

The 2 p.m. service will be at Bethany Congregational Church Chapel. Those of all denominations invited.

Rev. Niles studied at Madras Christian College and received his Bachelor of Divinity degree at Bangalore Theological College in 1964. After receiving a Master's Degree at Princeton, he returned to Ceylon and was ordained a minister at Jaffna. For six years he served a church in Point Pedro. In 1972 he returned to the United States with his wife, Rance, and two sons. He is a student at Boston University School of Theology.

Mrs. Niles is now in Ceylon with their youngest son, born in Boston, who has never seen his grandparents. The northern section of Ceylon was badly damaged in recent floods and typhoons.

World Day of Prayer dates back to 1887 and this year women in 149 countries and 33 islands will unite in prayer on this historic day. The service for this year was written by students in the Pan-African Leadership Course for Women at Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation in Kitwe, Zambia.

Mrs. Daniel D. Allen of Adams Shore Community United Methodist Church is chairman for the day. Participating in the worship service will be women from various Quincy churches.

Sacred Heart Grade One Registration March 6

Registration for grade 1, Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, will be held Tuesday, March 6 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. downstairs in the outer cafeteria. Children entering grade 1 must be six years old by Dec.

Made Honorary Citizen

Brazil Symphony Orchestra Conductor Hears QHS Musicians

Benito Juarez de Souza, conductor of the symphony orchestra of Campinas, Brazil, was awarded an honorary citizen's citation during a recent visit to Quincy.

Maestro de Souza, noted for his arrangements for orchestra and choir, listened to the Quincy High School Orchestra and Choir during his one day stay.

"This is the place music begins," he told the students.

"America is out front in its offerings and Quincy is outstanding in its music education methods."

The Maestro's visit is part of the distinguished speakers program sponsored by the Center for International Visitors, Boston. The program is part of Project LINC [Learning in Community] designed to acquaint students with activities outside the classroom which are relevant to subjects being studied.

The honorary citizen's award was presented by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, at a luncheon in the Three Seasons Restaurant at the Vocational Technical School. Schools Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon presented the visitor with a copy of "350 Years of Quincy."

LaRaia Running Or Promoting?

Former Mayor Joseph LaRaia has always liked to keep 'em guessing.

And, he's doing a pretty good job of it right now as he continues the handshaking circuit.

LaRaia went into virtual political hibernation after losing the mayor's office to Arthur Tobin in 1977. His public appearances were as scarce as those of Richard Nixon.

But in the past few months he's been turning up where the crowds are and with more frequency as the city elections near. And/or with more frequency as the April release date of his long-awaited book nears.

After months of being conspicuous by his absence at various events, he is now conspicuous by his presence.

Like, last week he was at the Morrisette Legion Post Memorial Mass on Washington's Birthday. And at the annual Beth Israel Brotherhood "Man of the Year Award" (Presented this year to former Congressman James Burke.) LaRaia was not at either event last year.

These and other recent appearances fuel more and more speculation about him: is he a candidate for a political comeback? Or, is he making the rounds to promote his book? Or, does he just like to keep 'em guessing?

Many observers think LaRaia is going to run for a City Council at-large seat—the one vacated by Paul Harold to become a full-time state senator.

Or, if for some reason James Sheets doesn't seek re-election in Ward 4, LaRaia might go for that seat. Winning either would be a big step along the comeback road.

He also has some wondering if he might surprise everyone and take a crack at the mayor's office again.

Can he come back?

Easiest route would be via the City Council but even that wouldn't be a garden of roses.

The LaRaia camp may not be as unified as it once was. This seemed apparent during the 11th Congressional District race when LaRaia backed Patrick McCarthy and some of his former aides supported James Sheets. But they could reunite in the city political arena.

At the very least, LaRaia has 'em guessing. And seems to be enjoying it.

GOV. EDWARD KING was among those attending the Beth Israel Brotherhood "Man of the Year" award breakfast.

GOV. KING

The selection committee headed by Rabbi Jacob Mann was congratulated for its choice of former Congressman James Burke as this year's award recipient. Which prompted Gov. King to muse: "Perhaps you'd better keep the committee together. I've been having some trouble with my selection of appointments lately."

INCIDENTALLY, the Beth Israel Brotherhood awards breakfast may have been a unique footnote in Quincy's history.

There were five mayors present among those honoring former Congressman James Burke: present Mayor Arthur Tobin and former Mayors Thomas Burgin, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon and Joseph LaRaia.

It may have been the first time five mayors have even been together at one event. The fact that mayors are getting elected at younger ages makes this possible because younger Former mayors are around longer than older former mayors. So, there are more former mayors at one time.

And it was also possible because LaRaia attended although he was somewhat apart from the other four. The last time he attended anything the other four were at was his own inaugural. He didn't go to Tobin's inaugural.

But apparently Jim Burke had the power to bring all five together in the same room.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEWOMAN Mary Collins recently became a student herself, taking a real estate course, passing the Massachusetts real estate brokers exam. She's planning to become an active broker in the spring. (Maybe she can help sell the four schools they're planning to close.)

COLLINS

Suburban Bureaus In Future

Ellis Sees TV Stations Increasing Suburban Coverage

By TOM HENSHAW

Tom Ellis, the television news anchorman on Channel 5, has doubts about TV's coverage of the events surrounding "The Warriors," the new movie about youth gang warfare in New York City.

"Sen. Michael LoPresti of East Boston wants to ban it," Ellis told a South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast at the Lantana in Randolph. "And this makes sense."

"But when we talk about it on the air it does nothing but promote that darn film."

"The Warriors" has been blamed for several outbreaks of youth violence, including a number of deaths by stabbing, around the country. Participants reportedly had just seen the movie.

"They sent me out the other night to talk to some of the people who had just seen the movie," said Ellis. "I asked them, 'Should it be banned?' No. 'Was it violent?' No, they said, just good. What do you do?"

"All you do when you cover a story like this is promote something that may not be that good."

Ellis, who married a Quincy

TOM ELLIS

girl, Arlene Rubin, and lives in the city, predicted that it won't be long before Boston television moves into the suburbs.

"As television grows," he said, "I believe you'll begin to see suburban bureaus because more and more people are spreading out into the suburbs. Industries are moving out into the suburbs."

"The flow of traffic every day is away from the core city and out into the communities where there are school committee and city council fights and sewer and housing problems, etc."

"Right now, television falls short in its suburban coverage. All of the locked stations are kind of locked into the core city areas."

"Our station happens to be out in Needham but the majority of our stories still involve the core city, Beacon Hill, City Hall, the Police Department, the Fire Department."

Ellis said he is not happy about surveys that show more and more people dependent on television for total news coverage.

"I don't think it's fair to both the consumers and the people who are responsible for keeping you informed, namely us in television," he said.

"We do the best we can but it's up to you not to sit there and watch that little box every day and depend on it to totally inform you because we can't do that."

Ellis acknowledged that television is considered to be an entertainment media but that should not be a rap on the quality of its news coverage.

"If you can't hold somebody's attention you can't give them information," he said. "Part of holding someone's attention is keeping them entertained. I'm not afraid of the word."

"There are two ways to present a news story. There's a dull way and there's an exciting way. I happen to prefer the exciting way. I think maybe you do too."

Tax Return Help For Seniors

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has announced that additional help with tax returns is now available to Quincy Senior Citizens at the Quincy Council on Aging office. Kendall H. Kiely and Albert Peruzzi will be available at the Council on Aging office Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and other weekdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Mayor Tobin said Kiely has been certified as a notary public and is available free of charge to any Quincy senior citizen needing this service.

Appointments may be made by calling the Quincy Council on Aging office, 773-1380, ext. 243.

Commendation For S-4 Staff

At Quincy Hospital

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We have been hearing so much criticism lately about the Quincy City Hospital, I wish at this time to make my feelings known.

I recently spent 10 days as a patient on S-4 for a ruptured disc and I received the finest treatment, service and dedication from the greatest group of nurses, aides, and orderlies I believe, ever assembled on any hospital floor.

Whoever is responsible for putting this team together on S-4 is to be congratulated. We in Quincy do not know how great a hospital we have, at least I didn't until my recent stay. Again please accept my thanks and appreciation to you people assigned to S-4. If the other floors at Quincy City are as good as S-4, then we in Quincy must have the finest hospital in the Commonwealth.

Thank you one and all.

Adams Shore Man Returns From Iran

'If You Didn't Put The Right Flag Out, That Was It'

On Feb. 6, 1945, he got out of a German prisoner of war camp.

On Feb. 6, 1979, he got out of Iran.

There were, says John D. Vecchiola, 54, of 14 Braintree Ave., Adams Shore, certain similarities between the two.

Vecchiola, an advisor in weapons systems, spent just two weeks short of a year in Iran, leaving just before Iranian revolutionaries laid virtual siege and poisoned the water supply of his compound in Bandar Abbas on the Persian Gulf.

"It was almost like being in a prison camp," says Vecchiola of life in Bandar Abbas during the months of rising revolution that overthrew the Shah and brought to power the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Vecchiola arrived in Teheran, the Iranian capitol, on Feb. 22, 1978 and three days later left for Bandar Abbas, some 1,200 miles to the south.

"Teheran is a big, beautiful city," he says. "Bandar Abbas is a hell hole. It used to be a penal colony. Along about May the temperature goes up to 120, 130 degrees and stays there until September. It's an oven."

Bandar Abbas is heavy with military installations. There was the new shipyard, where Vecchiola worked as an advisor. There was an Iranian Air Force Base there too. And the big Texas firm of Brown and Root was building a missile site nearby.

"When I first got there everything was fine," says Vecchiola. "Around the first part of August, three of us took off for a holiday weekend in a place called Shiraz. A beautiful city. We stayed at the Park Hotel."

"I met some Americans who worked for Bell Helicopter in Isfahan. We got to shooting the breeze and they asked us if there was any unrest going on in Bandar Abbas. They told us they were being harassed and they just wanted to get out of there."

"The latter part of August—that's their holy month over there—a bunch of us took a trip to Dubai, across the gulf in Arabia. That's a civilized country compared to Bandar Abbas."

"When we got back we were met by one of our men who told us, 'You guys are coming back right in the middle of the whole thing.' He said they've been raising holy hell in town. It started that quick.

"They attacked some of the banks they didn't like. The banks were shutting down. They attacked all kinds of entertainment places, burned them out. They burned out three stores that sold liquor. If you didn't put the right flag out, that was it."

"Of course, Khomeini was still in France at the time. We nicknamed him Houdini. He can really bring out the magic. The son of a gun did it. How he did it I still don't know."

"The police couldn't handle the situation at all. It's pretty hard to start shooting your brothers. So the army came in." From that day in late August, no one from Vecchiola's compound went into town, even though it was only about a 20 minute walk away.

"When they really started raising hell you could see the smoke coming up from the town," says Vecchiola. "You could actually hear them on a quiet night if the wind was blowing right."

"We were in a compound with walls and fencing around it. We did most of the patrolling ourselves when it started. We got ourselves clubs. As long as they just had clubs and stones we could protect ourselves."

"The Iranians would shut off the power to the compound around 8:30 at night. We brought the buses that took us to work into the compound and shine the headlights up the street. Around 9:30 or so they'd put the lights back on and things would go back to normal."

"We'd get up in the morning, go down and have breakfast, go to work, come back. That was it, a very regimented life."

Most of the Iranians Vecchiola worked with didn't like the Shah very much, although they were wary of talking about it.

"When the Shah left it made the Iranian civilians happy," he says. "But it made the Iranian military nervous, very nervous. When Khomeini arrived a whole bunch of Iranian trainees took off for Teheran to meet him. That was a big day."

One night in late January, the night of the full moon, Vecchiola and his fellow workers were sitting outside the mess hall when they heard an unusually loud disturbance in the town.

"The next day," he says, "I asked one of the Iranians, 'What was going on in town last night?' He said, 'Oh, we saw Khomeini's face on the moon.'"

"He said they had got word from Isfahan that if the people of Bandar Abbas looked at the moon there would be the face of Khomeini."

"I asked him, 'Did you actually see his face on the moon?' He said, 'Yes, I saw it twice. Didn't you see it?' I said, 'I didn't look at the moon. If I'd a known about it I would have looked.'"

"You had to be careful what you said."

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Snow Storm Cuts Off Houghs Neck

The second great snow storm in a month, backed by 40-mile-an-hour winds, struck Quincy, flooding the Squantum Causeway and cutting Houghs Neck off from the city by drifting snow.

Only a few days before, some 70 male residents of Houghs Neck attacked drifts from the previous storm with their shovels to open the street car line as far as the church turnout on Babcock St.

The women of Houghs Neck kept them supplied with hot coffee and lunch.

Meanwhile, Quincy school teachers were indignant over the fact that they were docked in pay for the days in which they were unable to attend classes because trains weren't running in the snow.

Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting of the School Committee said he was sure that if the teachers could make satisfactory explanations of their absences they would be reimbursed the lost pay.

LICENSE BOARD CREATED

Gov. Calvin Coolidge signed a special bill creating a licensing commission for Quincy, thus relieving the City Council of its annual chore of granting more than 1,000 minor licenses.

"It has often been stated," said an observer, "that the Council would spend hours in discussion granting a Sunday fruit of pool table license while an order involving a large expenditure would slide through like grease."

WEBB WINS TITLE

Freddy Webb of Weymouth scored a 10-round decision over Hughie Ramsay, also of Weymouth, to win the South Shore lightweight boxing title in the main bout on the card at the Coliseum AA.

'JOY SHIP' DETAINED

The City of Miami, the so-called "joy ship" that was to have cruised with thirsty Americans between Miami and Havana, Cuba, was ordered held at Fore River Shipyard for non-payment of a $400,000 repair bill.

REMICK BUYS MUSIC HALL

A. L. Remick of the Wide Awake Store purchased the Music Hall Block, giving him title to all the property on Hancock St. between the Kennedy Furniture Store and the new Cliveden Building.

Proposed For Wollaston

Wendy Restaurant License Request Continued By Board

By PETER BARNICLE

A hearing on a request from Wendworth Corporation for a common victualer's license to operate a Wendy's restaurant at 191-201 Newport Ave., Wollaston, was continued for two weeks by the Quincy Licensing Board on Tuesday.

Atty. Peter Eley conceded that several abuttors are concerned about drainage on the site of the proposed building. He told the board several residents have asked for more information on how the drainage problem is to be handled.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, a board member, suggested that Wendworth's engineers discuss the matter with the city engineer and with the flood plain zoning board before a license is issued.

Wendworth is the exclusive franchisee for Wendy's International in Norfolk, Essex and Middlesex counties. The firm has six restaurants in operation and hopes to have a chain of 35 to 40 within eight years.

Thomas R. Saltsman, executive vice president of Wendworth, told the board the restaurant features hamburgers and has 256 varieties. They range in price from 89 cents to $2.

Saltsman said the one-story masonry building will be set 65 feet back from Newport Ave. The grounds will be landscaped and there will be parking for 38 cars.

Plans call for a seating capacity of 92. There will also be a drive-up window for take out orders.

Saltsman said the restaurant would be open from 10:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., except on Fridays and Saturdays when it would close at 11 p.m. He expects the heaviest business would be at lunchtime.

Atlantic Center Sponsoring 2 Trips

The week of March 5, 1979, is sign-up week for two trips sponsored by the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

Thursday evening, March 8, will be an adult trip to the Quincy Market. A bus will leave the center at 6:15 p.m. and return by 9:30 p.m.

On Saturday, March 24, the Center is sponsoring a trip to see "A Tale of Peter Rabbit" by the Boston Ballet performed at Weymouth South High School. This is for people of all ages and the bus will leave the center at 12:45 p.m.

On Tuesday evening, March 6, there will be a representative from the Massachusetts Coastal Floodproofing Program at the center from 7-9 p.m. Homeowners who suffered flood damage during the Blizzard of 1978 can learn if they are eligible for financial assistance in floodproofing their home.

For further information about programs on services offered by the Center, call Jane Ford, director, 328-1708.

Brackett St. Facility Gets Go Ahead

The Conservation Commission has approved, with certain conditions, a plan by the Wollaston Lutheran Church Apartments, Inc., to build a housing facility for the elderly on Brackett St., Quincy Center.

The conditions specify a nine-foot setback from the bank of Town Brook, stabilization of the perimeters to prevent silting of the brook, and direction of all runoff into the brook.

Morrissey Urges Residents Attend Logan Airport Meeting

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey [D-Quincy] announces a public meeting will be held on the environmental study of Runway 22R departures at Logan Airport tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the fifth floor conference room of the Logan Airport Tower Building.

Morrissey urges all Quincy residents to attend the meeting and voice their displeasure of the airplane noise in the Quincy area.

"The only way we can be heard is if we come out in full force at a meeting such as this," Morrissey said. "Massport does not listen otherwise."

Morrissey also said he has a small number of copies of a newly drafted report dealing with alternative departure routes available in his office on a first come, first serve basis.

'Most Successful Yet'

52 Teams In Action At Quincy Youth Arena

The annual International Youth Hockey Tournament sponsored by the Quincy Kiwanis Club last week at the Youth Arena was the most successful yet with 52 teams, 11 from out of state, playing 74 games.

"This was the finest tournament yet," said Beverly Reinhart, manager of the Youth Arena. "Quincy parents housed 102 visiting players, some of them doubling and even tripling up. The parents were marvelous.

"All of the visiting coaches and officials praised this as one of the finest tournaments they have played in. Everything went smoothly with no incidents to mar the games and everyone displayed fine sportsmanship."

Attendances were excellent throughout the tournament.

Included among the entries were three teams from Shearwater, E. Dartmouth, N.S., two from Windsor, N.S., one from Toronto, one from Halifax, three from Suffolk, N.Y., two from Middlesex, Conn., and one from Long Island.

Ed Holt was chairman of the committee, assisted by Paul McCabe and Tony Scola.

Rags To Riches Saga

Quincy Story: From 1-21 To State Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

From a 1-21 season to second place in the Suburban League and a berth in the state tournament.

That is the rags to riches saga of Quincy's basketball team, which last week qualified for the tournament for the third time in four years with two big wins.

"I am just delighted for the players. They had a great attitude and won their last four games and eight of their last 10 to qualify," said Coach Joe Amoroso. "I think it is a tribute to them coming back from a 1-21 season to make the tournament."

The Presidents actually clinched the tournament berth with a 41-39 squeaker over North Quincy to tie Weymouth North for second place in the league and automatically qualify.

They finished up strong with a convincing 56-41 non-league win over Oliver Ames, giving them a 14-6 overall record and an 11-5 league mark.

"It was good to win those last two games as it gives us some momentum going into the tournament," Amoroso said. "Oliver Ames has an excellent team which won the Hockamock League title with a 15-1 record and was 17-4 overall. We handed them two of their losses."

Quincy played its first tournament game Tuesday, facing a perennial tournament power, Durfee High of Fall River. Durfee just made the tournament, also with a 14-6 record, and overcame a 22-point halftime deficit with an incredible comeback to top Brockton in its final game. Durfee was 10-6 in the Southeastern Conference.

If the Presidents win Tuesday, they will face the number one seed in the Southern Sectionals, Boston Latin, which won the Boston City League championship and has an 18-3 record. The game will be at Brockton High Friday at 7 o'clock.

Beechwood Knoll Wins

Girls' Junior Bombardment Title

Beechwood Knoll defeated Snug Harbor, 4-3, to capture the Quincy Recreation Department's girls' junior high bombardment championship.

Beechwood Knoll Coach Sherry Mele had high praise for her entire team with Joanne Runge, Nancy Peduzzi and Sue Connor coming in for special praise. Snug Harbor, coached by Janice Joyce, was led by Karen Cullen, Kim Lotti and Susan Megnia.

The winning players were presented trophies and the runnersup received certificates.

In the semifinals Beechwood Knoll edged Merrymount and Snug Harbor nipped Squantum by 3-2 scores.

Beechwood was sparked by the all-round play of Lisa Nolan, Michelle Millane and Susan Keliher. Outstanding for Merrymount were Mary Kate McConville, Dorothy Shea and Rita Patavina.

Snug Harbor came from behind to overtake Squantum with Jodi Megnia, Donna Murphy and Barbie Steen pacing the win. Dawn Sluhoski, Linda Provost and Beth McGurie stood out for Squantum.

Merrymount got by Wollaston, 3-2, with Bernie DiPietro, McConville and Joan Roache leading the way. Wollaston was led by the fine play of Lisa Mulhera, Phyllis Sullivan and Tara McAvoy.

Snug Harbor came back to win the last two games and defeat Atlantic, 3-2, in the most exciting game with Jodi Megnia, Gina Cascarano and Barbie Steen sparking Snug Harbor and Patty Storer, Lynn Storer and Karen O'Reilly leading Atlantic.

Squantum held off Point to take a 3-2 win with Patty Murray, Marie McGuri and Patty Cattafe led Squantum and Mary Travers, Janice Glavin and Heather Slics stood out for Point.

Central, Montclair Win Finals

Berths In Junior Tourney

The Central Celtics and Montclair Warriors advanced to the finals of the Quincy Recreation Departments' Boys' Junior High Basketball Tournament, with wins Saturday.

The final game will be played Sunday, April 8, at the Boston Garden prior to the Boston Celtics Game.

Central used two late baskets by forward Marty McLaughlin to hold off Wollaston, 36-33. McLaughlin led the Central scorers with eight points, while teammates John Phelan, Paul Quigley, Robert Mudge, and Tim Ryan chipped in with six each. Coach Brian Buckley had high praise for Rick Radzik and Brett Wilcox for their outstanding defensive games. Wollaston was led by the 14 points of Brian Donovan while, Robert Flynn added eight.

Coach Steve Mele added his praise for Mike Bovarnick and David Mazzulli who chipped in with four points each.

The days' second game saw Montclair, coached by Gerry Pratt, defeat Broad Meadows, 30-20. Six players scored for Montclair, led by Peter McGillicuddy with 12. Steve Higgins added seven while Jim Kennedy and Chris Bunker chipped in with seven each. Joe Dudek and Paul McCale stood out on defense for the winners.

Broad Meadows, which had a cold fourth quarter, was led by Jim Banders seven points. Other scorers were Billy Foley with four and Tom Scolari and Chuck Jaehning with two each. Meadows Coach Mark Jaehning had high praise for Jim Jaehning, Ricky Mahoney, and John Burn.

Elementary, Senior Basketball

Tourney Opens Saturday

The Quincy Recreation Department will open its Boys Elementary and Senior High basketball tournament beginning Saturday with games at Broad Meadows Junior High.

Elementary action will see Atherton Hough and Central, Snug Harbor and Wollaston "A" tapping off at 8:30 a.m. followed by Atlantic and Squantum, and Montclair vs. Beechwood Knoll at 9:30 a.m.

Senior High action will see

Broadmeadows "A" playing Snug Harbor at 10:30 a.m. while Merrymount will square off against Broadmeadows "B" at 11:30 a.m.

Two Senior High games will also be played at Sterling beginning at 10:30 a.m. with Central facing Point "A" and Atlantic squaring off against Montclair.

The tournaments are in their 24th year and are open to the public free of charge.

Morash, Traficante Break 3 Track Club Records

Harry Morash and Georgia Traficante of the Quincy Track Club broke three club records between them in the 10-11 age group and 12-year old Maureen Roche won four events in the recent Olympic Development Invitational meet at Bates College, Lewiston, Me.

Ten-year old Morash broke the oldest existing club record by winning the half mile in 2:46.7, shattering Joe Irvine's mark of 2:48.1 set in 1974. He also won the 440 in his best time ever, 1:16.4.

Traficante continued to amaze with a 2:46.4 in the half mile, breaking her own record. Even more outstanding was her record of 4-6 in the high jump. The old mark was 3-9. She also was second in the 440 at 70.5.

Roche dominated her segment of the meet by winning the 50-yard dash in 6.5, the 220 in 29.9, the shot put with a 27-6½ foot toss and the high jump at 4-6.

Mike Williams won the 50 and the 220 and Chris McCray won the shot in the 11-13 division.

Denise Santo won the 50 in her best time ever, 6-2, and also won the 300.

Penny Sawyer placed third in the 300 and Margaret Osterman won the 600 and was second in the long jump.

Coach Jeff Hennessy won the Colonial Merchants, Monday Night Men In Showdown Sunday

The Colonial Merchants and Monday Night Men will meet Sunday, at 1:30 p.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowl-drome in the finals of the 26th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

The stage was set for the all-Weymouth final in yesterday's semi-final action as the Monday Night Men ousted the Hanover Merchants 1730-1695.

The winners moved into a 48-pin first string lead and needed the cushion as Hanover captured the second and third strings but lacked the pins to overcome the deficit.

Tom Wieneck paced the Monday Night Men's victory with 383 while Tom Nicholson had 364, Bill Antilla, 336, Al Wieneck, 327 and Al Markella, 320.

Jim Rigo was top for Hanover with 361, Gordy Leighton scored 350, Dick Ewell, 340, Paul Downs 323 and Ernie Nali, 321.

Following Sunday's matches the championship team will receive a $100 cash award from the Koch Club of Quincy and a team trophy.

The runnerup team will be presented a check for $25, as a consolation prize.

Mancuso's Team Pacing Koch Men Bowlers

Al Mancuso's team has moved into a comfortable first place lead in the team standings of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League with 32 wins and 8 losses in the second half of the league's 29th season.

Mike Coyle holds two of the three individual honors of the league with high three string total of 369 and high single string of 142.

Tony Alibrandi has the other top solo spot with league high average of 108.8 to lead the first 10 in the average scoring. Closest rival is Leo Marshall, 105.3; Al Mancuso, 105.2; Peter Alibrandi, 103.9; Ozzie Parsons, 103.8; Steve Mancuso, 103.8; Paul Koch, 103.4; Mike Doyle, 102.6; Jim Moody, 101.7 and Joe Keenan, 100.5.

Bob McLaron's squad with 1615 has high three string total of 1615 while Joe Keenan's quintet has high team single string of 581.

Richard J. Koch Jr. is president of the league, Steven Mancuso, secretary and Robert Woods, treasurer.

The officers are planning the awards banquet of the League to be held in May at the Squantum Yacht Club.

Lee's 396 High 3 In Adams Heights League

Bob Lee rolled a season's record high three of 396 last week in the Adams Heights Men's Club Bowling League. Dick Collins rolled 381 and Al Landry 379.

Collins had the high single of 156. Reno Giudici had 155 and John Giudici 149.

Lee's team 5 rolled the high team three of 1622. Bill Norton's Team 4 rolled 1598 and Arch Fulton's Team 3 had 1574.

Reno Giudici's Team 6 had high single of 575. Lee's team had 568 and Norton's team rolled 566.

The standings: Lee's team, 46-18; Collins, 42-22; Fulton, 35-29; Norton, 28-36; John Giudici, 28-36; Landry, 26-38; Reno Giudici, 26-38, and Jack Casey, 25-39.

The Top Ten: Collins, 115; Casey, 110; Norton, 109; Fulton, 108; Reno Giudici, 108; Frank Anderson, 108; Dick Ford, 106; Landry, 106, and John Giudici, 105.

Guerriero's 105.6 Sets Pace In St. John's HNS League

Dick Guerriero leads the St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 105.6 average.

Behind him among the leaders are Bob Saluti, 105.0; Dan Santanato, 105.0; Tom Darcy, 104.4; Ron DiRamio, 104.3; John Darcy, 104.2; Fred Fostello, 101.0; Dick DiRamio, 100.6; Joe Matarazzo, 100.5, and Clem Pagnani, 100.2.

Guerriero's team rolled the weekly high team single of 523 and the high three of 1507. Art Davidson had high individual high single of 136 and Ron DiRamio rolled high three of 342.

8 Teams Left

Queen Pins High Rollers In Women's Candlepin Tourney

Following Sunday's competition, eight teams remain of the 30 entered in the 24th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

They will meet Sunday, March 4, in the quarter-final round at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowl-drome.

Sunday's action saw the Queen Pins bowl high for the day to oust the Women Merchants 1537-1512. In the remaining matches:

The Supreme defeated State Street, 1503-1391; D.C.A.S.R. Lucky Strikes edged the Parkettes 1489-1483; the Rollerettes topped Kemper Insurance, 1479-1432; Eight O'Clock Rollers squeezed out the Woodshooters 1476-1472; the Pin Ups eliminated Wollaston Ladies 1469-1430 and the Rag Dolls defeated the Youngbloods 1440-1395.

The Wollaston Monday Women enjoying a tourney bye will return to action Sunday also.

The Queen Pins jumped off to a 55-pin first string lead but saw it dwindle to nine at the end of two but the winners bounced back to capture the final string and the match.

Teresa Daly led the Queen Pins win with a 328 followed by Ann Crespi 326 and Mary Ann Boothby, 312.

Linda Walker with 335 was high for the losing Merchants with Betty Cagne chipping in a 314.

The Supreme entry had little trouble in chalking up its second tourney win capturing each of the three strings and a 112-pin victory. Cindy Maze with 325 showed the way for Supreme while Patty Nestor added a 306. State Street's top scorer was Linda Alessi with 328.

D.C.A.S.R. Lucky Strikes fell behind by 46 pins in the first string, could only close the deficit to 33 in the second but caught fire in the third string to pull out the close win.

Maureen MacPherson paced the Lucky Strikes victory with a 333 while Mary Ann McNair chipped in a 314. Eleanor Bertrand with 323 was high for the Parkettes.

The Rollerettes hit two strings of 506 to assure their second tourney triumph. In a consistent scoring attack for the Rollerettes, Ann Kasowski had 311, Bernie Hendsbee, 301 and Rose Ferris, 300. Kemper's Janet Pumphrey's high of 339 was to no avail.

The Eight O'Clock Rollers took a 33-pin first string lead and hung on as the Woodshooters fought back to capture the final two strings but it was too little and too late.

Debby Davis led the winners with 324 and Norreen Mastroianni scored 306. June Hillier and Rita Hapenne each hit 301 for the losers.

The Pin Ups spotted the Wollaston Ladies 16 pins in the first string, then opened up to win the final two for an easy victory.

The winners were led by Valerie Lavers, 323; Barbara Murdock, 311, and Susan McIver, 304. Rita Miller had a 333 for the losers, Claire Hopkins, 308 and Donna Noble, 302.

The Rag Dolls lost their opening string to the Youngbloods by four pins but then bounced back to win the last two handily for its second tourney triumph.

Top scorer for the Rag Dolls was Marylane Poch with 320 while Norma Staiti was high with 305 for the losers.

The winning team will receive a $50. cash award and each member will be presented a trophy emblematic of the championship.

The Koch Club will also provide trophies to the women with the high tourney average, three string total and single string.

Librarian Dorothy Newton Retiring After 42 Years

catch up on her reading.

"Everybody thinks that librarians spend most of their time buried in a book, but actually there is so much to do that I have a difficult time keeping up with the books I know I should read," she said. Two years ago she thought of retiring and subscribed to several magazines. "After I retire I'll have time at least to take the wrappers off some of them," she remarked.

In addition to its law and business reference collections the Thomas Crane Library also has an extensive collection on the history of Quincy and the South Shore and this has been Miss Newton's special field of interest.

Part of the history section is the Parker Collection, more than 10,000 negatives and glass plates of Quincy around the turn of the century. Through the generosity of fraternal organizations, clubs and business firms Miss Newton has been able to have prints made showing landmarks in Quincy, many of which have long since disappeared.

When she submitted her letter of resignation to the board of trustees she said she would like to continue her work on the Parker Collection on a voluntary basis.

Atty. L. Paul Marini, chairman of the trustees, told her the board was reluctant to accept the resignation, but would do so "provided you are willing to continue working on the negatives."

The work will continue as long as the donations come in to pay for having prints made from the negatives Miss Newton selects.

In addition to her volunteer work the retiring librarian hopes to see more of the world. She has already been to Scandinavia England and has made two trips to Ireland. Now she wants to see Paris and Rome and other places she has so often read about.

"I like to entertain and I love to cook," she disclosed. She now lives in Germantown and has two cats for pets "Mickey" and "Petunia".

She is a member of the Investment Club, Altrusa Club, Quincy Women's Club, Quincy Historical Society the South Shore Simmons Club and the Gull Point Yacht Club.

Adams Shore Man Reports On Conditions In Iran

A few days before Vecchiola left, his roommate, Dave Franco, head of the shifting shop, got orders to start making steel barricades and pads with spikes in them that could be placed across the street to blow out tires.

"Then Dave got ahead of me and he said, 'I got a couple of jeeps coming down to mount machine guns on them.' Two Iranian military came in with the guns. They still had the clips in them. The Iranians in the shop just about flipped. We finally got them to take the clips out."

"I had to take the guns down to the shipfitters' shop so they could be mounted on the jeeps. The Iranian workers there said to Dave and me, 'You two, you're building stuff to kill us.' I said, 'Dave, I'll see you later. I'm going back.'"

"The town was just about closed down by now. All the stores had been cleaned out. Somebody'd get killed and they'd have a holy day, a day of mourning. It seemed like every other day was a day of mourning."

"The day before I left was a day of mourning. They told us, 'Don't anybody go into town. Don't go near it.' The day I left the bus to the airport circled around the town. The airport was surrounded by the military."

Vecchiola, who was employed by Stanwick International of Arlington, Va., was taken out of Iran by Brown and Root, which chartered a plane to evacuate its workers.

"We sweated it out at the airport," he said. "Finally the plane landed, about an hour and a half late. The Iranians collected our passports and hemmed and hawed around for a while. Then they let us on the plane."

"We flew from Bandar Abbas to Bahrain in Arabia. There was about 20 Brown and Root people there and two of us from Stanwick. I told one of the fellows, 'Hey, you got a couple of orphans here.' He said, 'Don't worry about it. We'll take care of you.'"

He flew from Bahrain to Frankfurt, Germany, and from Frankfurt to Boston, arriving Feb. 9.

Vecchiola was concerned about the fate of 107 Americans who remained in Bandar Abbas, since the airport apparently was closed down shortly after he left.

Last Friday, however, he got a phone call from the family of Jay Carson, a naval architect, from Ipswich, saying that the American had been evacuated by the State Department by way of an Iranian tugboat, a British ship and an American destroyer.

"They told me the Iranian raised hell with the compound during the last two weeks," he said. "They poisoned the water, they shut down the sewer system, and they cut off most of the food."

Vecchiola's contract with Stanwick was up on Feb. 20.

"I could have renewed it for another year but no way," he said. "It's a wonder I lasted a whole year there. They asked me if I wanted to go back and I said, 'You gotta be kidding.'"

"The day after I got home I got a call from this outfit in Florida. They asked me about going down to Mississippi, the shipyard there. Right now I'm gonna rest, but after that..."

LaRaia Sues City

[Cont'd from Page 1]

City Auditor Charles L. Shea explained that a city ordinance fixes the salary of the Mayor at $25,000 a year, $50,000 for a two-year term.

"We paid him," said Shea. "If we paid him for vacations, too, he would receive more than he was entitled to under the ordinance."

Fleming said the city solicitor's office received a query on the subject from a lawyer representing LaRaia in August, 1978, but then-Solicitor Richard W. Barry turned it down.

The city was served with LaRaia's suit on Feb. 20. It has 20 days in which to file an answer.

Sarah Saccone, who was LaRaia's budget coordinator, also was denied vacation pay but an arbitrator awarded her 13 weeks and three days vacation time.

She was employed in the auditor's department before and after her two-year stint as budget coordinator.

• Thomas E. Wood of 81 Kemper St., Wollaston, an assistant to Dennis E. Ryan, clerk of Quincy District Court.

The state appointment to the Housing Authority is made by the secretary of the Department of Community Affairs, a job currently held by Byron Matthews, a King appointee.

The state requires that the appointee be screened by the Harborview Residents Committee and the Senior Citizens Council, the official tenants' groups.

Elliott Goldman, an aide to Secretary Matthews, said the secretary will also get input from local officials, such as the Mayor, the state senator and the state reps. Mayor Tobin said he has been contacted for input by Matthews and promised that he would sit down with the secretary and discuss the matter before the March 5 deadline for applicants.

He declined to say what his recommendations will be.

The QHA Board of Commissioners has five members, four of them appointed by the Mayor.

They are Carmine D'Olimpio, vice chairman; Edward S. Graham, Alphonse Papile and the Rev. William R. McCarthy.

FIRE IN APARTMENT OR OFFICE BUILDING

Because multi-story buildings create special hazards when fires occur, all members of your family or office staff should know where the fire exits are and how to reach them in the dark. Periodically, everyone should walk to exits in a fire drill. They should also be able to recognize the alarm signal in the building.

The moment an alarm is sounded, get your family or fellow workers out of the building. Never stop to take clothing or valuables. Also, it is not wise to take an elevator during a fire. The power may fail and you could be trapped. Take the stairs, or use the fire escapes. Feel doors before opening them. If the door feels cool, open it cautiously, placing your hip or foot against it and tilting your head to the side in order to take a quick look. Be ready to slam the door shut if smoke or heat rush in.

If the hallway is clear, proceed. Shout the alarm on your way out so other occupants will be alerted that there is a fire.

Chamber Favors Sales Tax Tax Exemption For Truly Interstate Sales

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce will support legislation to provide a sales tax exemption for truly interstate sales which originate in Massachusetts, according to Chamber President Thomas E. Curtis.

Curtis said the organization's governmental affairs committee has recommended support of such action after a review of problems which have resulted in firms leaving the state because they have been placed at a competitive disadvantage.

Atty. Ralph Rivkind, chairman of the committee, noted that the state tax code has for many years exempted interstate sales. Recent decisions by the Supreme Judicial Court have limited this exemption and have caused negative effects to Massachusetts based companies, he reported.

Rivkind said his committee has been advised that a large printing company is presently negotiating for property in Maine to move its plant and personnel out of state.

The company's treasurer, according to the report, found that the five percent sales tax which its out of state clients have to pay is enough to prevent the company from being competitive.

The chamber will work to make the governor and the legislature aware of this particular tax problem which graphically demonstrates how a Massachusetts business placed at a competitive disadvantage has caused the loss of more than 150,000 manufacturing jobs in the last ten years," Curtis said.

Tobin Gets O.K. To Seek $2 Million Block Grant

The City Council Monday night voted to authorize Mayor Tobin to apply to HUD for the city's fifth annual Community Development Block Grant totalling $2,072,000.

The figure is up from the $1.9 million the city obtained for fiscal 1979. The bulk of the money will be directed toward neighborhood improvement projects, including general social service programs at the neighborhood centers.

Included for the first time in fiscal 1980 will be a South Quincy Neighborhood Strategy Area, joining the longtime programs in Atlantic, Houghs Neck and Southwest Quincy.

Money is also allocated to improvements in the Wollaston Neighborhood Commercial Zone (downtown Wollaston) which was studied under last year's grant.

A total of $50,000 is earmarked for the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's Local Development Corp. Equity Fund for use in obtaining Small Business Administration (SBA) loans in the downtown area.

A breakdown of the CDBG program budget includes:

Atlantic Neighborhood Strategy Area:
• Home Rehabilitation Grants	5100,000.00
• CD grant - 312 Loan Administration	103,273.10
• Home Maintenance - Weatherization	129,018.00
• Neighborhood Center acquisition	55,000.00
• Neighborhood Center Program - Administration	20,000.00
• Neighborhood Commercial Zone Revitalization: Billings Rd.-Vane St. Parking Lot Connector	130,000.00
• Neighborhood Economic Development Assistance: North Quincy Local Development Corporation	13,000.00
• Storefront Renovation Rebate	10,000.00
Total	560,291.10

Houghs Neck Neighborhood Strategy Area:
• Home Rehabilitation Grants	50,000.00
• CD Grants - 312 Loan Administration	44,259.90
• Public Works Improvements	125,000.00
• Neighborhood Center Program - Administration	5,000.00
Total	224,259.90

Southwest Neighborhood Strategy Area:
• Home Rehabilitation Grants	100,000.00
• CD Grants - 312 Loan Administration	103,273.10
• Public Works Improvements	135,000.00

Grant Named NFPA Executive Vice President

Robert W. Grant of Norwell, vice president of the National Fire Protection Association since 1972, has been named executive vice president of the organization.

The NFPA, currently based on Atlantic Ave., Boston, is planning a new $10 million headquarters in West Quincy. Site work is scheduled to start in March with occupancy due in April 1981.

Since 1972, when Grant assumed responsibility for daily operations and planning, the Association has grown to 33,000 members, has doubled its staff to 230 and operates on a budget nearly triple that reported six years ago.

Before coming to NFPA in 1967, Grant was fire marshal of Guilford County, N.C., with responsibility for a county-wide fire and rescue service with 30 fire stations.

At NFPA he held many posts

ROBERT W. GRANT

before becoming vice president, including fire service specialist, and assistant general manager. He served as the executive secretary of the Fire Marshals Association of North America from 1967 to 1974.

Co-author of a study on fireworks death and injury in America, Grant also wrote a text on public fire safety inspections and served as a project administrator on the HUD-sponsored uniform fire incident data reporting system.

Since 1970, he has served as the first and only secretary-treasurer of the Joint Council of National Fire Service Organizations, which represents the interests of nearly two million U.S. Fire Service personnel in Washington, D.C. He was just re-elected to this position for another year on Dec. 10.

A 1957 graduate of the University of Maryland, he served as both teaching assistant and instructor in the University Fire Service Extension program while pursuing post-graduate studies in biological sciences.

Grant and his wife, Wanda, have three children.

Thomasine Kennedy Named Hibernia Bank Assistant

Thomasine F. Kennedy of Quincy has been appointed assisted treasurer of the Hibernia

Bill Would Allow Sheets Salary For Both Council, QJC

Rep. Frank J. Matrango [D-North Adams] has filed a bill in the State Legislature that would permit James A. Sheets to be paid for both his jobs as a city councillor and a teacher at Quincy Junior College.

Sheets currently is being paid for teaching at QJC but his $3,000 a year salary as a city councillor is being held in escrow pending the result of a court challenge to his two paychecks.

Matrango is House chairman of the Legislature's Education committee, of which Sheets was a member during his two terms as a State Rep.

At Parker School

Student Leadership Congress Friday

Basic skills improvement and minimum competency standards will be the subject at a Student Leadership Congress Friday, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Parker School, 148 Billings Rd., Wollaston.

State commissioner of education Dr. Gregory Anrig and Dr. Leslie May, associate director of the bureau of research and assessment, will attend at the invitation of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P.

Creedon.

The Student Leadership Congress consists of 100 elected student leaders in secondary schools who meet three times each year to discuss education issues of mutual concern with the school administration.

Parents, teachers and the administration have met continually throughout the academic year to identify the basic skills program for each school in the system. Students have been involved with secondary school staff and student government officers during the same period.

Student leaders will define and identify with basic skills for their position paper in compliance with state law which mandates that each school system will insure student involvement on the issue.

Dr. Anrig will observe the session and Dr. Creedon will give a status report on the implementation of the Quincy Plan.

Meeting On Proposed W. Quincy Building Purchase

City Councillor James A. Sheets has called a meeting of Ward 4 residents tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chamber to discuss a bid by the Antonelli Iron Works to purchase the building at the corner of Rogers and Willard Sts., West Quincy.

Sheets said Antonelli wants to use the building for the storage of trucks, which would require a zoning variance.

Dr. Solomon emphasizes the clinics are for screening only. Persons under treatment for glaucoma will not be accepted.

City To Spend $3,000 For 3 Radar Units

Quincy has been authorized to spend up to $3,000 subject to 100 per cent state reimbursement for three new radar units for the Police Department.

Mayor Tobin was informed by Francis X. Colleton, director of the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau, that his application was granted and Gov. Edward J. King approved the request for funding aid.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn said several of the radar units already in use are old and outdated.

WALTER J. HANNON

He's Mum But . . . Hannon Re For Private Development Post

Planning Director Walter J. Hannon reportedly has been offered a top post in private industry.

The job, according to informed sources, is with Boston Harbor Marina, Inc. of Squantum.

According to the source the 48-year-old former mayor will shortly resign the $26,790 city post he has held for 13 months in the administration of his close friend, Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. The new job reportedly carries a salary in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Mayor Tobin declined to comment on the reports.

Asked if he planned to resign, Hannon replied, "not at this time." Pressed for clarification, he said, "not right now." Reports that he would resign next week were "absolutely incorrect," he said.

James Lydon of the Planning Department was reported in line to succeed him as director.

As planning director since February, 1978, Hannon has been a key man in the Tobin Administration's all-out effort to bring new development to Quincy.

He was instrumental in securing the National Fire Protection Association's planned office building in West Quincy and the office building proposed for the Della Chiesa Parking Area.

Tobin and Hannon plan to DANGEROUS VENTURE -- Two youngsters lured by open water along Wollaston Beach near Wollaston Yacht Club Sunday ventured out on a make-shift raft. One abandoned the raft a short distance from shore and had to climb to safety onto concrete storm drain. The other adventurer managed to paddle close enough to the drain to jump to safety. Only a week ago the entire bay was choked with ice and porch of yacht club (at right) collapsed.

Overhaul For Old Wing Major Repairs Planned At Main Crane Library

Workers seeking to repair a leak in the roof of the Thomas Crane Public Library found the culprit recently—a tennis ball that had become lodged in the downspout of the drain.

The tennis ball, probably tossed onto the roof and forgotten during a ball game on the lawn, was partly responsible for a new $250 floor in the Quincy Room, where city history is kept.

The repairs to the water damaged floor of the Quincy

Room is only one of many patchwork jobs done on the library buildings in recent years, according to Director Warren Watson.

"We're going to have to have a major overhaul done, particularly on the Richardson Building," said Watson. The Richardson Building is the old wing of the library, built in 1883.

Watson said he plans to have a survey done of the structure and have the work, which he called "substantial," done with federal funds and hopefully, a bond issue.

"The timing is good," he said. "This is the month in which we can apply for federal funds through the Massachusetts Historical Commission for buildings on the National Historic Register."

The Richardson Building is on the register and, said Watson, the federal government will allow up to 50 per cent of the cost of such a project.

Quincy Court 'Earn It' Program Gets $428,607 Grant

The Earn-It program conducted by Quincy District Court as an alternative to commitment of juvenile offenders will benefit from a $428,607 federal grant, according to Congressman Brian Donnelly.

Donnelly said the Earn-It program gives juvenile offenders an opportunity to work off the cost of damages which they have caused, rather than go to jail.

The grant, from the U.S. Law Enforcement Assistance

Administration, will permit the Quincy court to expand the program over the next two years to serve approximately 320 young people. Total cost of the project will be approximately $450,000.

Morrissey, Lydon Opposed

Wollaston Liquor License Bill Moving Forward

By TOM HENSHAW

The Committee on Governmental Regulations is ready to report favorably on a bill that would permit the Norfolk County commissioners to grant a liquor license to their own Recreational Facility in Wollaston-North Quincy also.

But Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) indicated that all is not lost on the issue that has drawn stiff opposition from Montclair residents who live near what used to be the Wollaston Golf Club.

"There's a long way to go for the license," said Morrissey. "We still have two branches of the Legislature plus the signature of the Governor before it goes through."

Rep. Robert B. Ambler (D-Weymouth) said all that is holding back a favorable committee report is the courtesy of allowing Morrissey and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) time to discuss it with abuttors.

Morrissey said such a meeting will be held Tuesday, March 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the facility. "not only to discuss the license but to talk about the long-range future of the golf course."

The county commissioners feel that the deficit-ridden facility cannot be turned into a paying proposition without a liquor

Quincy, Braintree Differences On MBTA Access To Be Aired

Differences between Quincy and Braintree over pedestrian access to the South Quincy MBTA Station will be discussed at an informal hearing Monday, March 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln-Hancock School.

Martha Reardon of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, who will be the moderator, called it an informational meeting at which Quincy and Braintree will exchange views and the MBTA will provide information.

Residents of South Quincy apparently have blocked plans to construct a pedestrian access to the station from Independence Ave. but Braintree is still fighting to have it accepted.

The South Quincy Civic Association will sponsor the hearing.

Sheets Would Restrict Shrub Height At Intersections

City Councillor James A. Sheets has introduced an order that would restrict to not more than three feet the height of shrubbery that might impede a motorist's visibility at an intersection.

The order would apply to any bush, hedge, shrub or ornamental planting on private property.

The property owners would have 10 calendar days from the receipt of a certified letter from the Chief of Police or his designate to reduce the obstacle to three feet in height.

Harold Urges

Give Local Authorities Power To Investigate Liquor License Applicants

Senator Paul D. Harold [D-Quincy], has urged the legislative Judiciary Committee to give local licensing authorities power to investigate liquor license applicants.

Testifying on behalf of a bill he filed to allow background investigations on such applicants, Harold said local officials are hamstrung by the state's Criminal Record Offender Information law, because they cannot check whether applicants have court records.

"Prior to this law, local license authorities could check on whether applicants had criminal records, and whether they were proper people to have liquor licenses, but under present law, they face a heavy fine if they gather such information," Harold said.

Under the criminal record law, only "criminal justice agencies" and agencies required by law may have access to a person's criminal record, unless a special determination is made that other agencies can obtain it. That determination has not been made for license boards.

The Quincy License Board, which asked Harold to file the bill to allow dissemination of criminal records to such authorities, unanimously went on record yesterday as supporting the proposal.

"License Boards can tell horror stories about granting licenses, and then finding out that the license holder is an unsuitable person," Harold said. "It's time we gave licensing authorities the tools they need to do the job we expect of them."

License Board Acts Gasoline Tanks Ordered Removed From Closed Service Stations

By PETER BARNICLE

Fire Chief Edward Barry has ordered Cumberland Farms to remove gasoline storage tanks from two closed filling stations within 30 days.

The stations at 470 Adams St. and 604-614 Hancock St., were formerly operated in conjunction with Cumberland Farms stores. Bay Colony Realty Associates, the real estate division of Cumberland was called before the City Licensing Board on Tuesday for failure to take proper steps in compliance with fire prevention regulations.

Atty. Neil Kerstein, representing Cumberland, told the board his client is willing to remove the tanks as soon as permits are received from the state fire marshal.

Barry reminded him that a permit was also required by the fire department.

"I'll issue the permit today," Barry said and advised Kerstein to contact the fire marshal immediately.

Kerstein told the board that Cumberland is negotiating sale of the properties and wants to retain the gasoline license to make the property "more saleable". He said the license goes with the land for a two year period after a station is closed.

Police Chief Francis Finn, a board member, commented that if the tanks were taken out that would indicate the station had been abandoned and the license rights would terminate.

Finn said he would like a ruling from the city solicitor on the question.

Kerstein agreed to removal of the tanks and indicated he would hold the question of retaining the license in abeyance until a future date.

In a similar action the board called on Old Colony Petroleum Company to comply with fire prevention regulations and remove the tanks at a service station at 707-717 Washington

Secondary School Hot Lunch Price Increased Five Cents

The Quincy school committee at its last meeting voted to raise the price of secondary school hot lunch from 40 to 45 cents with the increase going into effect within two weeks.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon said the increase was necessary to keep the school lunch program operating in the black.

St., at the Fore River Bridge traffic circle.

Robert Quinlan, representing the company said the premises are now occupied by Nissen Bakery, which operated the station until recently. Nissen had indicated that it is willing to re-open the station.

The board informed Quinlan that under a new city ordinance gasoline stations cannot be combined with food shops. Quinlan was given two weeks to confer with Nissen Bakery and decide whether the premises would be used to sell gasoline or bakery goods.

In other action the board:

- Approved a request of Roscommon, Inc., 25-27 Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs for permission to add space to the present licensed premises. It permitted owner Peter Kelly leave to withdraw without prejudice a request for a 1 a.m. closing, changing it from the present midnight closing.

- Approved request of Tire Kingdom Center of Quincy, 618-632 Washington St., Quincy Point, for a permit to store 60 gallons of gasoline above ground for a retail tire store. The permit was granted subject to a list of restrictions agreed to by the Ward 2 Civic Association.

- Granted request of Crazy Egg Kitchen, 532 Washington St., Quincy Point, for extension of hours. The board agreed to a trial period until July 1, permitting the restaurant to open 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday and Tuesday, 24 hours Wednesday through Saturday, and 6 a.m. to noon on Sunday.

- Took under advisement request of Karl's Auto Body, 65 Holbrook Rd., Wollaston, for a Motor II license to sell used cars. Michael McGann told the board he has spent $20,000 in renovating the premises. Action was deferred until board members inspect the property.

He said inflation in the cost of food and salaries for cafeteria workers were responsible for the five cent increase.

Common Cold and Chicken Soup

If you've ever had a child with a head cold, you've probably fed the little victim chicken soup. Your doctor probably laughed up his sleeve at this cold remedy. But now, researchers have found evidence for what millions of American mothers know all along: chicken soup can help cure a cold! According to workers at Mt. Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach, the hot soup [or the vapor it exudes] speeds up the movement of mucus out of the nasal passages, carrying cold viruses along with it before they have a chance to attack more nasal cells.

Sipping hot water also speeds up mucus movement, but only about 2/3rds as fast as the soup does; while cold water slows down the movement of mucus.

What is the "extra bonus" that chicken soup provides over hot water? Perhaps something related to the taste or smell centers, the researchers speculate. However that may be, chicken soup provides still another bonus: fluids and nourishment for a child who doesn't feel like eating anything.

City Club To Hold Breakfast Meeting Sunday

The Quincy City Club will hold its first breakfast of the 1979 season Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Quincy Point.

Richard J. Koch, President of the organization, will brief the membership on the success of the charity projects for the past year. Letters of appreciation will be presented from the Medfield State Hospital, Boston State Hospital, Long Island Hospital, the Massachusetts Hospital for Crippled Children in Canton, the Faxon House Detoxification Center and the Quincy Recreation Department for the gifts for the Retarded Children's Christmas Party.

The City Club, for the past four years, has assisted in aiding hospitals and groups at Christmas with gifts including television sets, tape decks, clothing, bedding and personal gifts for individuals who are patients.

During the morning program, a film will be shown entitled "Gifts to the Nation" a color documentary of Quincy and depicting its historical background and natural beauty.

Plans will be formulated to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the organization. A dinner dance will be held in the fall with the date and committee to be chosen at Sunday's meeting.

The City Club was chartered

Services Held For Erick A. Chilstedt, 75, Violin Maker, Player

Funeral services were held Monday at Faith Lutheran Church, Quincy, for Erick A. Chilstedt, 75, of Cranch St., Quincy, noted for the violins he made as a hobby.

Mr. Chilstedt died last Thursday in Philadelphia. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A lifelong resident of Quincy he was employed by C. H. French Company of Quincy as a pattern maker until his retirement. In his spare time he handcrafted violins and was one of the few violinists who made his own instruments.

He was a 50-year member of Manet Lodge, A.F. and A.M. of Quincy. He was also a member of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and the Wollaston Glee Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Signe [Hanson] Chilstedt; a son, Eric G. Chilstedt of

ERICK A. CHILSTEDT

Braintree: two daughters, Mrs. Cornelia Flynn of Chelmsford and Mrs. Clara W. Boyd of Beverly; a sister, Mrs. Norman Hussey of Hingham, and six grandchildren.

Arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Grace M. Lucason, Owner Of Hollow Restaurant

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today [Thursday] in St. Agatha's Church, Milton, for Mrs. Grace M. [Doherty] Lucason of Quincy, owner of the Hollow Restaurant on Adams St., Quincy.

Mrs. Lucason died Monday at New England Deaconess Hospital following a long illness. Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

She was born in Worcester and was a graduate of Worcester High School of Commerce. She received her law degree from Northeastern University.

Mrs. Lucason and her husband, Adam, moved to Quincy in 1934 and purchased the Hollow, then an ice cream and sandwich shop. The couple later enlarged the property and developed their restaurant business.

In January a section of the restaurant was heavily damaged by fire. The Adams Room has been renovated and is scheduled to re-open for functions this week.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Donna Cloney of Westwood and Gracemarie Kramer of Danvers, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St., Quincy.

The restaurant will be closed today [Thursday].

Continues As Wollaston Pastor

Rev. Bauer Retires As Brigadier General, VA Chaplain

Rev. Frank J. Bauer, Pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church, Quincy, has retired as a Protestant chaplain for the Veterans Administration and as a Brigadier General in the Chaplain Corps for the U.S. Army.

Rev. Bauer was a chaplain at the VA Medical Center in Jamaica Plain for 21 years. He continued there from 1958 in support of a full time Protestant chaplain until 1974, when he became the Protestant chaplain at VA Medical Center in West Roxbury.

Still employed half-time, he had responsibility for the entire religious program of the Protestant chaplaincy.

Upon his retirement, Rev. Bauer was given a commendation by Ronald L. Nelson, Medical Center director, "for truly outstanding service... and in recognition of his dedication to the patients and staff."

Nelson said, "He has used his God-given talents exceptionally well to minister to the spiritual needs of patients and their families."

REV. FRANK J. BAUER

Rev. Bauer closes out 27 years military service in the National Guard. He was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Chaplain Corps in May, 1950 in New York.

His first assignment was with the 126th AAA Battalion, Taunton, in 1955. He was appointed chaplain of the 26th Yankee Infantry Division Artillery and promoted to Captain and Major.

In 1967 he became Division chaplain and was promoted to lieutenant colonel. He attained the rank of colonel in 1972, and his last assignment was as state chaplain on the staff of the Adjutant General.

In recognition of his long and distinguished service to the military, he has been placed on the State Retired List with the rank of Brigadier General.

Rev. Bauer will continue in duties as manager of Fenno House senior citizens complex, and as chaplain of the Massachusetts Military Academy, Massachusetts State Police and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts.

He is also executive director of the sponsoring corporation for Town Brook House, a 150 unit apartment complex for senior citizens and the handicapped planned for Brackett St., Quincy Center.

Groundbreaking is scheduled for the spring, and Pastor Bauer will serve as consultant during the building and as manager upon completion.

Sacrificial Lenten Meal At First Church Of Squantum Sunday

The two youth fellowships of the First Church of Squantum, Orange Crush and Seven-Up, will sponsor a sacrificial Lenten meal Sunday at 5:30 p.m. in the church's Fellowship Hall to help raise money to feed the hungry overseas.

The program, called "Sing for Somebody Else's Supper", will include a simple meal of rice and tea, a filmstrip showing how the money raised will be used and the singing of hymns.

The cost of food has been donated, and all proceeds will be given to "One Great Hour of Sharing" March 25. The collection, which will be made in many Protestant churches that day, will benefit the needy overseas through the relief of world hunger, disaster relief, refugee services, social services and development in underdeveloped countries.

Members of the planning committee are: Bonnie Adams, Tommy Adams, Marsha Anderson, Mark Paul, Mary Shionis, Ruth Shionis, Donna Stevens, Richie Williams, Sandra Ahearn, Holly Bumpus, Laurel Bumpus, Kathi Fluhr, Steven Fluhr, Karen Sorenson and David Stohlberg.

Tickets can be purchased at the door. The committee requests that those planning to attend call the church office to make reservations if possible.

Intimacy In Marriage Topic At St. John's

Dr. Cecil R. Paul will speak on "Exploring Communication and Intimacy in Marriage" March 14, at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Church hall as part of the monthly speaker series sponsored by the church's Adult Education Committee.

Dr. Paul is director of Continued Education for Clergy and former chairman of the psychology department of Eastern Nazarene College.

A question and answer period will follow the presentation. The public is invited.

Irish Cultural

Night At St. John's

St. John's Church, School St., Quincy Center, will hold an Irish Cultural Night in the church hall, Thursday, March 15 from 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m.

In the setting of a traditional Irish Pub, guest instrumentalists will provide the singing of Irish ballads. Irish poetry and Irish folklore will be recited. There will be a display of Irish works of arts and crafts.

Drawings will be held for a piece of Waterford Crystal and other prizes. Refreshments will include traditional Irish food and drink.

The evening is open to everyone interested in Irish Culture. Admission is free and everyone is invited to attend.

Robert Dunn Jr., is chairman. For further information call the Rectory [773-1021].

Black Africa Film At First Parish

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will present "Last Grave at Dimbaza", a film on black Africa, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

There will be an audience discussion. Babysitting is available. A donation is asked.

No One's Tossing In The Towel

You would have to be an ostrich with your head buried a foot or two in the sand not to concede that the soon departure of Sears will affect downtown Quincy.

But reaction comments from the business community appearing recently in The Sun and elsewhere are most encouraging.

No one's tossing in the towel.

The consensus is that downtown Quincy not only will survive but thrive. But, perhaps in a different role than in the past.

Frank Remick, for one, sees a bright future for Quincy if it gets more office buildings employing a lot of people and apartment buildings with occupants who become "captive consumers" walking to and through the downtown area. He also sees a need for more specialty stores to make them want to walk and shop downtown.

With or without Sears, downtown Quincy would never be the same as it was during its peak period of the 1940's and 1950's when, outside of a few banks, virtually every street level location was a retail store. That, of course, was long before suburban shopping centers had sprung up.

Maybe Sears' departure might yet prove a blessing in disguise even though right now that may be hard to believe. Hopefully, it will arouse the city to roll its sleeves up all the way and do something.

Bob Colman of Colman's sporting goods store, put it in stronger words, but study time should be over. It is time for action—time to get moving.

John R. Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank and former editor of The Ledger who knows Quincy like the back of his hand notes: "The decision of Sears to leave Quincy may at long last bring about civic and municipal action to resolve the future of downtown Quincy. The city has its greatest chance in 50 years to set directions because three critical issues are already resolved: the MBTA extension with the South Quincy station, the cloverleaf at Capen's Bridge and the extension of Burgin Parkway (Upland Rd.)."

"With all this going on, downtown Quincy can be redesigned and reoriented for a dominant role for many generations to come. Sears may regret leaving."

Sears, it should be remembered by the pessimists who think they see a big downtown funeral coming, isn't leaving Quincy because it is losing money here. It is leaving Quincy because it is making money here but wants to make more. It needs more room and Quincy doesn't have it to offer. Sears reportedly grossed $15 million here last year.

Rev. Bedros Baharian, downtown development coordinator, and former Mayor Walter Hannon, now planning director, have teamed together pretty well under Mayor Arthur Tobin in trying to bring new business to Quincy. Their efforts are largely responsible for the National Fire Prevention Association's decision to build a new multi-million dollar national headquarters in West Quincy.

Baharian and Hannon still hope to tie the ribbon on the proposed $10 million office building in the Della Chiesa parking lot. If it finally jells, it is seen as the catalyst for future downtown development including a hotel.

Certainly all of that would be a big plus. But some retailers think there should be more "retail thinking" in the planning department. That more effort should be made to bring in a good retail store to replace Milton's and—now—a good big one to fill the impending Sears' void.

Maybe we have become a city of habit and should be doing some things differently. Like parking. Maybe some of the parking meters may have to be uprooted for at least some free parking offered for two, three or four hour periods. Strict but fair enforcement might make it work. Many shoppers detest meters and stay away from Quincy because of them.

And, before anyone jumps up and says free parking would be ridiculous, they should go back 20 years ago when a parking garage was first proposed for the Ross parking area. Some people thought that was ridiculous because it would "spoil" the appearance of the rear entrances of stores on the west side of Hancock St. Those same people today are the biggest boosters of the parking garage.

One thing that is going to have to be done is to eliminate the privileged characters who seem to be able to leave their cars anywhere—under "No Parking" signs and even on sidewalks—and get away with it.

It gives Quincy the reputation of a place where only the shopper with a car at an expired meter gets zapped. But for the privileged characters, anything goes.

'They'd Laugh Us Out Of Court'

State Street South Computers Assessment Illegal, Says Tobin

"It was illegally done," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, his voice rising. "I don't know what else to say. Get the law out. It's spelled right out in the law."

Tobin spoke while dodging flak in the aftermath of a city decision not to contest an appeal by State Street South that knocked $1,080,656 off its tax bill for fiscal 1978 and 1979.

The tax was levied by the assessors during the administration of Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia for the first time on computers owned by State Street in its banking complex in North Quincy.

Tobin said that by not contesting the appeal the city was saved the expense of paying interest on money already paid by State Street and plus court costs on a case that it could not win.

"Our attorney said, 'They'll laugh us out of court,'" said the Mayor.

The decision was made on the basis of a state law that exempts from taxation the following property owned by certain Massachusetts banks, of which State Street is one:

"... all property owned by such bank ... other than ... real estate, poles, underground conduits, wires and pipes, machinery used in manufacture ..."

The city was advised by John M. Lynch, counsel to the Appellate Tax Board, that State Street South's computer were still tax exempt despite the fact that the company leased them out to other firms.

"The exemption," said Lynch, "is expressly predicated upon mere ownership by the bank or trust company and is not affected by whatever use the bank or trust company makes of the property which it owns.

"Therefore, as to the computer equipment which is owned by State Street, it is clearly exempt."

"The possibility of reassessing this equipment as real estate, which might remove it from the exemption has been discussed."

"However, after consultation with a computer science expert and extensive review of the law in Massachusetts and other jurisdictions, it is my present judgement that there is insufficient supports for this approach."

Tobin said that when he first learned that State Street was contesting the assessment "we wanted to defend the position. I wish we had something to hang our hat on but we didn't."

Home Rule Petition

Council Wants Assessors To Explain Tax Rate Before It Is Set

The City Council wants the authority to summon the Board of Assessors before it each year to explain the tax rate before it is set.

But it is doubtful if the State Legislature will go along with the Council's desires.

The Council Monday night passed a home rule petition asking the Legislature to permit an act requiring the assessors to present to the Council the recap sheet of figures that determine the tax rate.

"I'm going to sign it," said Mayor Tobin, who vetoed an earlier bill. "I don't have any qualms about the assessors going before the Council. But I don't see it getting through the legislature."

City assessors, while appointed by the Mayor, are governed by a state statute which also forbids local officials from in any way interfering with the assessors' duties.

The home rule petition was introduced by Councilor Francis X. McCauley, who also filed the earlier order that was vetoed by the Mayor. The Council upheld the veto by a 5-4 vote.

"The Mayor vetoed the ordinance because, since the Board of Assessors derives its authority from the State Legislature, he felt the Council exceeded its authority," said McCauley.

"I disagreed with that but I decided to go the way of a home rule petition. I think now that meets all the objections of the Mayor."

But Councilor James A. Sheets doubted whether it would meet the objections of the Legislature.

"I question very seriously whether the Committee on Local Affairs would report that out with an ought to pass," he said.

McCauley's original petition asked that the Mayor, the city auditor and the city treasurer, as well as the assessors, be summoned but the Mayor was dropped as probably unconstitutional.

Later, the director of the City Hospital was added, despite a word of caution from Sheets that, since the auditor, treasurer and director could be summoned any time, it was not necessary.

"Councilor Sheets is absolutely correct," said Mayor Tobin. "I've been a member of the Local Affairs Committee and I know how they operate."

"You cannot introduce local legislation affecting a state statute and it is a state statute, Chapter 59, that gives the duties, functions and authority of the assessors."

"What the councilor should have done was to have someone in the Quincy delegation file a general bill that would be effective in every community in the state."

Chairman John Comer of the assessors concurred.

"The only thing the City Council and the Mayor is responsible to the assessors for is to pay us," he said. "They can't interfere with our office at all."

Comer said he would consider being summoned before the Council as interference, adding, "that doesn't mean I wouldn't go before them but they couldn't demand it."

McCauley said he filed the petition because "it would allow members of the City Council to get a first hand report on the situation involving the tax rate."

"We didn't know what the tax rate was going to be last year until we had the television presentation by the Mayor and the Governor. The Council should get the information before the fact."

"The whole thing is political, in my opinion," said Tobin.

The Council also passed a second McCauley petition that would require the assessors to notify within 30 days the owners of residential property on which the assessment has been raised.

Tobin said he would sign that one, too, but he wasn't sure how the Legislature would react to it.

Heating Bill Help For Elderly, Low Income

Elderly and low-income people who feel they are eligible for federal funds to help pay their heating bills should contact the Quincy Community Action, 1 Cottage St., Quincy Center.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly said that more than $4.9 million will be available around the state in the next few weeks through the Crisis Intervention Program.

Those eligible include families of four with incomes under $7,750 and elderly heads of households with incomes less than $9,300. Assistance can total up to $250 per household.

Quincy Schools Setting Pace In State Basic Skills Program Anrig Tells Student Congress

By PETER BARNICLE

Quincy is a pace setter for the rest of the state in providing a strong student role in the basic skills improvement program mandated by the Commonwealth, state commissioner of education Dr. Gregory Anrig told the Quincy Student Leadership Congress at the Parker School in Wollaston on Friday.

"Certainly you are number one in this area and, I suspect, in other areas as well," Anrig said after observing workshop sessions of the congress.

More than 100 students took part in the program designed to develop student input for the basic skills improvement policy which the state has ruled must be put into operation by September, 1980.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Crendon assured the commissioner that the Quincy school system has done considerable preliminary work on the program over the past three years and will submit its findings to the department of education Feb. 1, 1980.

More than 10,000 documents from various participating groups will be ready by March 15 for examination and analysis. From this voluminous material the final report will be made for approval by state officials.

Dr. Anrig was accompanied by Dr. Les May, associate director of the bureau of research and assessment for the department of education. Principals of the city's three high schools, and the junior high schools, school administrators, social studies coordinators, and faculty members also took part. On hand as observers were school committee members, Chairwoman Patricia Toland, Mary Collins and Frank Anselmo.

Following opening remarks the students divided into workshop groups of 10 to 15 to debate what subjects should be considered basic skills. Each group prepared a list of subjects they thought should be required.

Particular emphasis was placed on "life skills," those areas in which students should have knowledge so as to function effectively after graduation. Some of the topics ranged far from classroom subjects and included, ecology, home safety and tax returns.

The lists from the seven workshops will be compiled and reduced to one major list of what the students consider basics before being submitted to the school administration within the next two weeks.

In a question and answer period following the workshop session, Dr. Anrig complimented the students on being "deeply immersed in what you were debating and the very well thought out points" that were made during the discussions.

"This is an important policy as it affects students," he said. "What we're talking about here is not something abstract. We are talking about what you need to function effectively in this increasingly complex world."

"To the extent that you define the skills accurately and come up with good standards it makes sense. If you have faith in these

Heart Fund Theatre Party Raises Over $1,000

The 10th annual Heart Fund Theatre Party held Tuesday at the Strand Theatre has realized over $1000 to benefit Heart Education and Research.

Richard J. Koch, special events chairman of the program for the past 10 years, said that the final total has not been completed pending the returns from a number of committee members.

For the past nine years, a total of $13,000.00 has been realized from the yearly endeavor for the Quincy Heart Association's February Fund Drive to aid in the many activities sponsored to provide research and education in the area of the nation's largest cause of deaths, heart disease.

Those wishing to donate special gifts in memory of family or friends should make checks payable to the Quincy Heart Fund and send them to John J. McGue, Hancock Bank, North Quincy branch, 415 Hancock Street in North Quincy.

The February Heart Month house to house canvass was eliminated this year and envelopes mailed to the homes in Quincy.

Those who have not returned their Heart Fund envelopes are requested to do so.

The John J. Daniels Memorial Night was named in memory of the late Mr. Daniels who was co-founder of the Theatre Party event for the first five years and was personally responsible for raising several thousand dollars of the total funds received to date.

MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

The House of Representatives recently voted to accept the Conference Committee Report to raise the drinking age to 20 as of April 1, 1979. I supported that measure. The bill, at this writing has two more steps to go before it reaches the Governor's desk which could be as soon as Wednesday or Thursday.

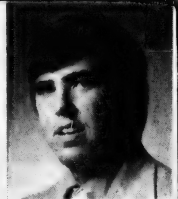

The Committee on Urban Affairs heard testimony on Monday on a piece of legislation I co-sponsored with the other Quincy officials that would prohibit the M.D.C. to build any treatment plant facility or sludge disposal facility in the city.

The Committee on Education, of which I am a member heard testimony on legislation which would modify or repeal fiscal autonomy for school committees. The Committee on Counties held a hearing Wednesday on the Norfolk County Budget. I will try to keep you posted on this important issue in the future.

The Committee on Public Safety will be holding a public hearing on March 21 on legislation to set up an Automobile Inspection and Maintenance program. The federal Clean Air act of 1977 mandates we run tests on auto emissions or face the possibility of losing Federal Highway Funds.

I am currently holding office hours by appointment only, anytime. I can be reached by calling 328-0900 or 727-7035.

"IT'S YOUR FLAG NOW" LAM TO -- A Vietnam Boat Refugee Lam To, right, is welcomed to Sterling and America by Pam Jacobs, left and Cheryl Nurni.

Lam To New Student

Vietnam Boat Refugee Welcomed At Sterling

By CHERYL NURMI
KAREN PINEL

Lam To is a new ninth grade student at Sterling, who is from Saigon which is now called Ho Chi Minh City. He sneaked over to Malaysia by boat for 10 ozs. of gold, [approximately $2,500]. He went from Vietnam to Malaysia to Singapore to Japan to California, to New York and then he arrived here. He came with his brother, leaving his 4 sisters, mother and father behind in the Orient.

Lam's two sisters, mother and father are in Saigon. His other two sisters are in Malaysia. He and his brother live here sharing their chores. Lam does all the cooking. He loves ice cream and American junk food, although he cooks Chinese specialties.

Lam enjoys the American ways. His brother is going to school to get a job. He is studying very hard to learn English. He is very lonely because he is separated from his family.

Lam enjoys Sterling very much. He thinks the students are very nice.
